Warrant in Bronx Store Theft Case to Be Signed to Remedy "Miscarriage of Justice."

CALL MAGISTRATE TODAY

Bar Investigators to Hear Him as He Ends Long Silence—Steuer Said to Be Counsel.

Whalen Asserts That Iamascia and Another Were "Favored"—Pushes Hunt for Clues on Diamond.

On the eve of the appearance of Magistrate Albert H. Vitale before a bar association committee which is investigating many phases of his activities subjected to criticism, Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo announced yesterday that he was acting to remedy a "miscarriage of justice" in a case handled by the magistrate.

The chief magistrate made known that he was issuing a new warrant for the arrest of a man accused of a store theft in the Bronx who was freed by Magistrate Vitale in August, 1928, although a witness had identified the prisoner and a patrolman had been ready to testify that the man had confessed. The patrolman was not called and, despite the acquittal, Magistrate Vitale later signed an order directing the return to the store owner of $79, alleged to have been the stolen money, found on the prisoner.

The man accused in this case is Charles Fawcett, who lived at the Hotel De France, 142 West Forty-ninth Street, at the time of his arrest, and Magistrate McAdoo said he would sign the warrant and turn it over to the police today after a new complaint had been sworn out.

The chief magistrate asserted he was taking this action as a result of a reading of the minutes of the hearing before the magistrate, which disclosed, he said, a "miscarriage of justice." Police Commissioner Whalen first brought this case to light in forwarding to the Bar Association copies of affidavits by the store owner, Joseph Harth; the identifying witness, Walter Krakaur, and the patrolman, Richard Hannigan.

Link to Bondsmen Investigated.

The records in this case comprise only a part of the evidence sent to the Bar Association committee by Mr. Whalen as a result of a survey of many cases handled by Magistrate Vitale which was conducted by the police at the request of the association. Mr. Whalen said yesterday that the Bar Association committee surveying these data were examining evidence of an alleged connection of Magistrate Vitale with bail bondsmen in the Bronx.

Magistrate Vitale will break a long silence when he appears before the examining committee at the Bar Association Building at 4 P. M. today. Seldom, in all the weeks that he has been under fire for allegedly undue intimacy with underworld figures, has he made any comment at all.

Even at this afternoon's meeting his version of his activities will be offered behind closed doors, as Kenneth M. Spence, chairman of the subcommittee on criminal courts, law and procedure, which is carrying on the inquiry, made known that the questioning of witnesses would be secret.

Magistrate Vitale, it was understood, has retained Max D. Steuer to represent him at the hearing, although Mr. Steuer, through an intermediary, declined either to affirm or deny this. The magistrate spent the day preparing for his appearance, again declining to comment on the new allegations against him.

"I'll be there," he said, referring to the Bar Association meeting. Mr. Spence said that Mr. Vitale had called him on the telephone during the day and announced his readiness to attend.

Detective to Appear Today.

Other witnesses due to appear at the committee hearing are former Magistrate Michael N. Delagi and Detective Arthur Johnson. Mr. Delagi is president of the Tepecano Club, which gave the dinner to Mr. Vitale at the Bronx Roman Gardens which was invaded by seven gunmen. It has been charged that several persons with criminal records consorted with Mr. Vitale at the dinner and that the hold-up, during which Detective Johnson's service pistol was stolen, was staged to enable Ciro Terranova, "artichoke king," to get back from a Chicago gunman a "contract" he had made for the murders of Frankie Yale and Frank Marlow, racketeers.

Previous to his announcement that he was ready to act to remedy the "miscarriage of justice" in the appearance of Fawcett before Magistrate Vitale, Magistrate McAdoo had condemned Mr. Vitale's conduct. When Magistrate McAdoo had perused the minutes of the hearing, he said they spoke for themselves "with

Blimp Helps in Rescue of Pair Adrift 30 Hours in Leaky Boat

By The Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 7.—Adrift for thirty hours in their open launch, Mr. and Mrs. John Lovett of Tampa were rescued from Tampa Bay late today by Coast Guardsmen, notified of the couple's predicament by operators of the Goodyear blimp Vigilant, which sighted the craft.

The couple set out from Tampa yesterday morning for a camping trip. About noon their motor stopped and the boat sprang aleak.

While his wife watched for a passing boat, Lovett bailed for several hours before finally succeeding in stopping the leak with rags. They drifted helplessly all last night and today.

Pilot Charles E. Brannigan of the blimp sighted them and nosed the airship down to within a few feet of the water. Lovett shouted his predicament and the pilot soared off to summon the Coast Guard.

FRANCHISE FOR TAXIS PROPOSED BY MAYOR

New System Might Yield Annual Revenue of $10,000,000 to City, He Declares.

FAVORS UNIFIED OPERATION

Mayor Walker told the Board of Estimate yesterday that the time must soon come when taxicab service in the city must be placed upon a franchise basis with a responsible business management behind it, like other transportation utilities. He branded the present taxicab system, with the individual licensing of cabs and drivers, the latter often more or less irresponsible persons, as haphazard and makeshift, wholly unsatisfactory and rapidly growing intolerable.

"I have in mind," said Mayor Walker, "a system by which taxicabs, operated under a franchise, like other public service vehicles, would have to pay some percentage of their receipts to the city for the use of the city thoroughfares. If the business were properly handled this revenue to the city might amount to as much as $10,000,000 a year. And, in addition to that, a business which has grown to gigantic proportions and has become a public necessity, could be so systematized as to render better service, to afford some measure of protection to the traveling public and to solve in great measure one of the most vexed problems this city is called upon to meet in connection with street traffic congestion.

"I have been giving some attention to this subject," the Mayor continued, "and I find that the licensed taxicabs operating in this city collect an average of daily fares aggregating from $140,000 to $150,000. That is more money than is taken in by all the other city transportation facilities combined, which, including the subway, elevated and surface lines, collect about $130,000 a day. Yet, out of this tremendous taxicab business the taxicab man is making very little money and the city none at all."

Banham Urges Traffic Action.

The Mayor's comment was elicited when W. J. L. Banham of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, appeared in behalf of the Citizens Street Traffic Relief Committee, of which he is chairman. That committee's preliminary report was made public some months ago, and Mr. Banham sought to impress upon the Board of Estimate the im-

Aristocracy Meets Princess at Final Reception—Chapel Ready for the Wedding Today.

By ARNALDO CORTESI.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 7.—Crown Prince Humbert and his fiancée, Princess Marie José of Belgium, standing, radiant with happiness, on a balcony of the Quirinal Palace, surrounded by a brilliant assemblage of kings and royal princes, received today a tribute of affection and loyalty from a vast and picturesque procession of their future subjects dressed in their old traditional folk costumes.

Thousands upon thousands of pretty peasant girls, dressed in silks and finery of every color in the rainbow, filed before the Prince and Princess, singing their harvesting songs or dancing their characteristic rustic dances to the accompaniment of guitars, mandolins and bagpipes.

They were followed by husky, deep-chested laborers from the factories of the industrial north, carrying the tools of their trades; by rumbling country carts filled with the choicest produce of the fertile fields and drawn by placid, slow-moving oxen, gayly decked with tinkling bells and many-hued trappings; by cohorts of butteri, or Italian cowboys of Maremme, wearing rough sheepskin chaps and riding half-tamed ponies; by elegant damsels from Venetia, wearing their typical black shawls; by dark-skinned Sicilians, wearing their curious red fezzes; by small, hardy Sardinians in costumes of Grecian severity; by representatives of Albanian communities in Italy, in costumes strongly reminiscent of Russia; by dusky colonials riding on camels or prancing horses and clapping their hands or throwing their weapons into the air in a frenzy of excitement.

Brilliant Serpentine Column.

They formed a brilliant and colorful column, winding like a snake endowed with all the changing colors of a chameleon through the narrow streets to the plaudits of the enthusiastic public.

They were a happy, cheerful crowd, mostly composed of smiling, pretty girls alive with laughter and song and dancing with pure lightheartedness, thoroughly attuned to the joyous, happy atmosphere which surrounds the princely couple on the eve of their wedding.

Each group carried gifts typical of its particular region to the Princess. The peasant girls carried baskets of flowers or fruit on their heads; others carried jars of the finest wines and oils; others still bore fine linens made on rustic looms or choice pieces of embroidery, lace or tastefully embossed copper jars or sheafs of the finest wheat raised in the fertile valley of the Po River.

Whole cartloads of fruit and farm produce were in the procession. Workers from the marble quarries of Carrara had with them an enormous cart drawn by four pair of oxen carrying a huge block of marble of the purest white, weighing several tons.

Others carried as gifts rough cradles made of carved wood, richly decorated wooden dowry chests or

Vermont Law Forcing Liquor Buyer to Tell Source Is Voided by State Supreme Court

Special to The New York Times.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Jan. 7.—The Vermont "disclosure law," under which hundreds of persons have been sent to jail for refusing to tell where they purchased their liquor, was held to be unconstitutional and void here today by Chief Justice George M. Powers in a lengthy decision handed down at the opening session of the Vermont Supreme Court.

The decision is one of the most important by the courts of Vermont in many years and is expected to have a far-reaching effect on the enforcement of the Vermont prohibitory law.

The decision resulted from habeas corpus proceedings brought several months ago by Attorney Gelisie Monti of Northfield in behalf of Harry D. Deway and Fred Church, both of Northfield, who had been held in contempt of court for failing to disclose to the court where they had purchased the liquor with which they became intoxicated. The habeas corpus petition was first heard before Justice Leighton P. Slack of the Supreme Court in Vermont. The case was argued by Mr. Monti at the November term of court. States Attorney C. O. Granai appeared in defense of the law at the hearing.

Chief Justice Powers held that for a person to testify or disclose where they purchased liquor with which they became intoxicated would be in violation of Article 10 of the Constitution of Vermont. This section grants a person immunity from giving evidence which would tend to incriminate himself of another crime.

To disclose where liquor was purchased a person would be forging one link in a chain of evidence that would later help convict the person of a far more serious crime, Justice Powers pointed out.

Since the enactment of the law in 1921 as an amendment to the State prohibitory law of 1917, hundreds of persons throughout the State have been sentenced to indefinite terms in jail for failing to give satisfactory disclosures to the courts.

Numerous raids on illicit liquor establishments have been executed as a result of evidence obtained on disclosures.

Pershing Declines to Oppose Norris for Seat in Senate

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—General John J. Pershing in a telegram to Mark Woods of Lincoln, Neb., today told him he would not run for Senator against Norris. Mr. Woods heads a movement to draft the General to oppose the present Senator.

General Pershing's telegram read:

"Confirming what I said in our telephone conversation yesterday, I do not desire nor have I desired at any time to seek public office. While it would be a distinct honor for any man to represent the great State of Nebraska in the United States Senate, my decision must be regarded as final. Will you please advise my good friends in Nebraska to this effect."

MACY HITS PARTY ON WATER POWER

GOVERNOR RESENTS INQUIRY

Declares Legislators' Plan to Investigate State Prison Situation Is 'Pure Politics.'

By W. A. WARN.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Water power was pushed violently into the foreground at the Capitol today when W. Kingsland Macy, Republican leader of Suffolk County, who is gunning for the political scalp of William J. Maier, chairman of the Republican state committee, told newspaper correspondents here that one reason why Mr. Maier should be retired from his present position of influence in the party councils was the popular belief throughout the State that he was "wrong" on the power issue.

It is the first open indication of a rift in the Republican ranks on this important issue, so troublesome in recent elections to the Republicans as a party. Mr. Macy suggested that the correct way of dealing with it was to "dump it in the lap" of Governor Roosevelt by giving the Governor all that he has asked the Republican Legislature to give him.

In common with some other Republican chieftains who regard the views of the Democratic Governor on the question of water power development visionary and destructive, Mr. Macy believes that this would be the best way of taking water power out of politics and eliminating this important problem confronting the States as an issue in the Governorship campaign this Autumn.

Mr. Macy in his talk with newspaper men here today did not in so many words accuse Mr. Maier of being tied up with the water-power interests, but he declared that it was the popular belief that he was, inasmuch as Mr. Maier had been the choice for the chairmanship of his predecessor in that position, former Speaker H. Edmund Machold of the Assembly, who is connected with the most important power interests in the State.

The Suffolk County Republican leader expressed his belief that this fact was bound to hurt the Republicans in the Fall campaign.

Willing to Support Snell.

Mr. Macy, himself a candidate for the State chairmanship at the time Mr. Maier was selected for his present post, said he would be willing now to support Representative Bertrand H. Snell of St. Lawrence County or anybody else free from entangling alliances with "sinister" influences, for Republican State chairman.

Representative Snell and another member of Congress, Frederick M. Davenport of Oneida, it is understood, advocated at the secret conference in New York City, when the Republican Legislative program was agreed upon, "dumping" the water power problem on Governor Roosevelt as the best way out of a situation which is regarded by many Republicans as largely responsible for the hard luck of the party in recent State elections.

"The public has the impression," Mr. Macy told correspondents at the Capitol, "that Mr. Maier is on the wrong side of the water-power question. I wouldn't make the direct charge that he is, but, I repeat, that is the general impression. What the Republican party ought to do at this session of the Legislature is to dump the water-power problem right in Roosevelt's lap and say to the Governor, 'Go ahead and solve it.'

"The voting public believes that Mr. Maier is opposed to any compromise on water power. They say he has taken his stand with Machold, and that Machold is right behind him. How can we elect a Republican Governor when the Republican State Chairman is viewed in that light by the voters?"

Governor Watches Strife.

The statement came from Mr. Macy after he had talked with Speaker McGinnies and some other Republican lawmakers, as well as

HOUSE CHEERS DRY DEMANDING SUPPORT FOR COAST GUARD

SEES 'ENFORCEMENT CRUX'

But New Yorker Calls Black Duck Case 'Murder'—Rails at Borah on Law 'Breakdown.'

BLEASE IN SENATE FLARE

Galleries Laugh as He Berates Wet Wickedness of Capital and Blames Administration.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—An overwhelmingly dry House sat in comparative silence this afternoon and heard a broadside attack by Representative La Guardia of New York on Federal prohibition, but it burst frequently into applause when Representative Beedy of Maine countered with a defense of the Coast Guard in the killing of three rum-runners off the Rhode Island coast during the holidays.

"Members of this House, sworn to uphold the Constitution and to defend it against its enemies, must make these boys know that if they do their duty a majority of the members of Congress and the people of the United States are behind them to a man," Mr. Beedy declared in summing up the Black Duck case, which was one of the objects in the attack of Mr. La Guardia.

Blease Opens Fire in Senate.

At the same time over in the Senate, disregarding the agreement of the leaders that prohibition be kept in the background pending action on the tariff bill, Senator Blease, Democrat, of South Carolina, beat the tom-toms on the wet-dry issue in an hour's speech. He charged that the prohibition law had been flagrantly violated in the national capital, and that within the shadow of the Capitol dome bootleggers were doing a thriving business.

"The newspapers are lying, the grand jury is lying and others are lying when they say there is no crime, that there is no liquor selling in the city of Washington," Senator Blease asserted.

Charging that the capital was "reeking with vice and corruption," he declared responsibility for law enforcement rested upon President Hoover and the Republican party.

La Guardia Says Thirst Will Stay.

Representative La Guardia declared at the outset of his thirty-minute attack on the dry law that it "is not being enforced for the simple reason that it cannot be enforced."

He criticized Senator Borah's stand on the enforcement fight, declaring that the Idaho Senator's analysis of the causes for the break-down had failed and that he had "arbitrarily" attributed it to the personnel in the Treasury Department.

"If prohibition is transferred to the Department of Justice, and if the drys want it transferred it will be transferred, the Attorney General of the United States will have the same 100,000,000 people in the United States to deal with as the Secretary of the Treasury now has," said Mr. La Guardia.

"The transfer will not change public opinion. The transfer will not quench the thirst of the American people.

"Granted that Congress will appropriate hundreds of millions to enforce prohibition, there will still be the same resistance to the law, the same universal desire for drink, the same wholesale importation and manufacture of liquor and the same retail sale of liquor in every nook and corner of the United States."

Still referring to Senator Borah,

New York Basking in Spring-like Warmth While Blizzards and Icy Winds Sweep Nation

While New York basked in Spring-like warmth yesterday, watching the thermometer climb to 59 degrees, blizzards and icy winds covered the wide area bounded by the Gulf of Mexico, the Pacific Coast, the Great Lakes and the Mississippi.

Yesterday's warm spell brought the day within three points of the record set on Jan. 7, 1907, when the mercury climbed to 62. Average for the day is 31, so that the thermometer yesterday climbed to twenty-five points above normal.

More mild weather was predicted for today by the Weather Bureau, with rain this afternoon or tonight, or at latest tomorrow morning, but the end of the premature visit of Spring weather is set for tomorrow, when a cold snap is due.

M. O. Bowen, air mail pilot, wrecked his plane on a power line outside of Denver early yesterday morning while trying to fight his way through a snowstorm. He escaped with minor injuries.

No part of the West, not even lower California and the region bounding the Gulf, escaped the cold wave yesterday. The western slope of the Rockies was hidden under more than a foot of snow. Missouri, Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado and Northwest Texas were deep in drifts left by a howling blizzard accompanied by zero weather.

The temperature dropped below zero in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Nebraska, the Dakotas and Illinois. Chicago, which had been enjoying a breath of Spring similar to that which is lingering here, was hit overnight by a cold snap that sent the mercury down forty degrees.

Everywhere in the West coats of sleet and ice crippled transportation, impaired wire communication and brought suffering. Fog and rain in the southerly portions of Texas delayed air service. In Glasgow, Mont., the official thermometer broke after the mercury had dropped to 40 degrees below zero, according to The Associated Press.

HOOVER SAYS ADVANCE OF WORLD PEACE RESTS ON NAVY CONFERENCE AT LONDON; TELLS HOPES AT FAREWELL TO DELEGATES

President Asks Nation to Aid Naval Conference By Patience, Encouragement, Lack of Criticism

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—In a talk with newspaper men, following the breakfast with the American naval delegates this morning, President Hoover said:

> I am sure the whole nation bids godspeed to the American delegation that leaves tomorrow for the London naval arms conference. The people and the governments of the five nations assembling at this meeting are sincerely desirous that agreement shall be brought about by which competition in construction of naval arms is brought to an end, and by which actual reduction in naval burdens of the world shall be accomplished.
> The difficulties of finding a basis that will be acceptable to five different nations are great, but they are not insuperable.
> The conclusions of the conference must be such as to give a sense of security and satisfaction to each of the nations. Permanent peace is never based on either taking advantage of or accepting a position of prejudice.
>
> The technology and the complexities of the problem are such that we need hope for no immediate and quick results. To complete the conference in three or four months would be in itself a great accomplishment, and we should not expect any hurried conclusions.
>
> It is the most important of international conferences of a great many years, and probably the most important for many years to come. The progress of peace for the world rests in a great measure upon the shoulders of the five delegations. There is good-will toward the conference on the part of every nation. The importance and the gravity of the occasion have been recognized in the dispatch to London of the leading men of every country. They have the will to succeed.
>
> I hope that the people of our country will cooperate in the progress of the conference by patience, encouragement and freedom from criticism. We go to London in a fine atmosphere of international good-will, and it is the duty of our country to preserve that atmosphere so far as lies within our power.

URGES CONCILIATORY SPIRIT

NO INSTRUCTIONS ARE GIVEN

LEADER FIRST TO DEPART

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—In a last word to members of the American delegation to the London Naval Conference and some of their technical advisers, when he said good-bye to them at breakfast in the White House today, President Hoover stressed three points for their guidance:

1. Our aim is actual reduction of naval building programs and not mere limitation which would permit nations to build up to a maximum warship tonnage greater than their present programs contemplate.
2. The American delegates should be conciliatory toward the delegates of the other powers and have due regard for their desire to make an armament agreement which will afford them a sense of security.
3. The progress of the peace of the world "rests in great measure on the shoulders of the five delegations."

Emphasizes Peace Efforts.

It was a very hopeful if cautious message which the President delivered orally and informally to his breakfast guests. That he looks to the conference to accomplish results in the way of preserving the world's peace was emphasized. Especially was he emphatic in pointing out that actual reduction in fighting fleets should be the aim of the American delegation.

What the President told the delegates and their advisers around the breakfast table in the state dining room of the White House was disclosed to newspaper men later in the day at his regular semi-weekly press conference in the temporary Executive offices in the State and War Department Building, to which the White House staff moved after the Christmas eve fire in the permanent office building across the way. To his newspaper auditors, the President made a statement which was a condensed form of what he had said to his breakfast guests.

In making the statement, the President showed considerable feeling indicative of his deep interest in the venture into the uncertain field of curtailing fighting fleets by international agreement. His voice rang out as he said to the newspaper representatives that the people and governments of the five nations which will participate in the London Conference were sincerely desirous that an agreement should be reached by which "actual reduction in naval burdens of the world shall be accomplished."

It was apparent that, in the face of some discouragements, Mr. Hoover has not abandoned his original conception that reduction of naval armaments and not alone their limitation should be the aim of the disarmament conference.

The President gave permission to his newspaper visitors to publish what he said to them.

Five Delegates at Breakfast.

Five of the seven delegates to the London conference were present at the White House breakfast. They were Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, chairman of the delegation; Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy; Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas and Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico.

The others were Joseph P. Cotton, Under-Secretary of State; Ernest L. Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, who will be heads of their departments during the absence of Secretaries Stimson and Adams in London; Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, Arthur Wilson Page, J. Theodore Marriner, George Rublee, Rear Admiral William A. Moffatt, Rear Admiral H. E. Yarnette, Rear Admiral A. J. Hepburn, Captain W. W.

CARLTON SAYS YOUNG RAISES RADIO 'BOGEY'

Western Union Head Tells Senators He Sees No Menace in the Foreign Mergers.

OPPOSES SAME MOVE HERE

Witness Says 'We Were Awake' When Proposal to Merge With Radio Failed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Taking sharp issue with the views recently expressed by Owen D. Young on behalf of the Radio Corporation of America, Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, testifying before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today, declared that, in his judgment, no menace to American interests in the field of international communications was presented by the recent British merger, which, he said, was being held up as a "fantastic bogey" by the Radio Corporation as an argument in favor of a unification, the advantages of which he denied.

Deying that the British company is in a position to dictate terms to, or even conceivably to ruin an American company, Mr. Carlton asserted that the Radio Corporation and his own company, under the existing arrangement between them, held the British merger "in the hollow of their hands."

To such a consolidation of communications as that advocated by Mr. Young, Mr. Carlton expressed the most emphatic disapproval, urging instead the superior benefits of competition.

Not Opposed to Merger Plan.

To the proposed merger of the Radio Corporation with the International Telephone and Telegraph Company Mr. Carlton said he had no ob-

NEW LOBBY LETTERS MENTION PRESIDENT

W. H. Baldwin Testifies White House Wanted Sliding Scale Sugar Tariff Devised.

SAYS PURDON GOT THE TASK

Senators Reveal Publicity Agent's Contacts With the Democratic National Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Hoover's name again figured in testimony before the Senate Lobby Committee today when W. H. Baldwin of New York, publicity agent for the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, took the stand upon resumption of the investigation and was questioned regarding "confidential" memoranda read into the record.

One document purported to be a report by R. L. Purdon, chief of the sugar section of the Foodstuff Division of the Department of Commerce, who, it was declared in letters that passed between Mr. Baldwin and his clients, had been asked by the White House and Senator Smoot to work out a practical sliding scale of sugar duties.

Reference was made to another confidential report which Mr. Baldwin, in letters to his clients, said was furnished by a Mr. Thompson, sugar expert for the United States Tariff Commission.

The publicity expert and his associate, Maurice Mermey, according to the letters introduced, not only were prolific in ideas for the fight on the sugar tariff, but claimed credit for inspiring Senator Borah to offer his sugar bounty proposal; contended that they had intimate contacts with half a dozen Senators, and that they had succeeded in influencing Charles Michelson publicity manager for the Democratic National Committee, to put out some statements on the sugar situation and interest Senators in the fight.

Tells of Fees Paid for the Work.

Mr. Baldwin had previously testified that he received $1,500 a month from Junior Owens, secretary of the bottlers' association for the first three months, and that this was increased by $1,000 a month, paid by H. H. Pike Jr., a sugar broker of New York.

In a letter to Mr. Owens on May 29, last year, Mr. Baldwin said:

"I am enclosing a highly confidential memorandum on sliding scales, which you may be interested in seeing."

The memorandum read:

"R. L. Purdon, chief of the sugar section, Foodstuff Division, Department of Commerce, has been asked by the White House and Senator Smoot to work out a practical sliding scale. His name must not be mentioned in connection with the following information which he has given:

"There are various bases that might be used in working out a sliding scale. The sliding scale idea

Smythe, Captain A. H. Van Keuren and Commander Harold C. Train. With the exception of Under-Secretary Cotton and Assistant Secretary Jahncke, all these will be advisers of our delegation at London.

Secretary Stimson, accompanied by Under-Secretary Cotton, went to New York this afternoon in preparation for sailing for England on the steamship George Washington on Thursday. Most of the American officials and newspaper contingents will leave Washington Thursday morning on a special train and will go immediately to the George Washington at Hoboken.

As disclosed at the White House, the President did not give any instructions to the delegates and their advisory associates, but merely discussed in a general way the favorable character of the evidence that participating governments desire to reach definite conclusions at London. He did not go into details of the problems with which they would be confronted, and there was no discussion of the situation.

It was apparent to those who saw President Hoover today that he feels he has reason to be encouraged over the outlook for success. The impression was conveyed that on the eve of the Americans' departure he had received information as to the attitude of other participants which gave him ground for encouragement as to the prospect of an agreement that would be an advance toward disarmament.

The President has been impressed with our delegates' knowledge of the naval disarmament problem. He has obtained a rather intimate knowledge of the general situation but is willing to concede the delegates have an understanding that has made them experts on the subject. He is pleased over this preparatory work for engaging in exchanges that will be full of intricacies. The President believes the United States never has sent a better prepared delegation to an international conference.

Secretary Stimson said that at the breakfast the President had given the delegates a "buck-up" talk. He had outlined the American position "in his inimitable way," according to Mr. Stimson, and part of his remarks were devoted to a review of the world situation which led to calling the conference. No differences of opinion developed during the breakfast, said Mr. Stimson. He expressed confidence that the delegates would "carry on" as a unit. The delegates have agreed that Mr. Stimson, as chairman, should be the only spokesman.

Stimson Farewell for Talkie.

A farewell message to the American people was given by Secretary Stimson before a talkie camera with his four fellow-delegates standing beside him. He said:

> I have pleasure in introducing the members of the American delegation to the Conference on Naval Armaments soon to be held in London: Mr. Charles Francis Adams, the Secretary of the Navy; Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, leader of the Senate; Senator David A. Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, and Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow.
>
> The two other members of the delegation will join us in London. Ambassador Charles G. Dawes is there now, and Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson will proceed from Brussels to London.
>
> Eight years ago a treaty was signed in Washington which ended the possibilities of competitive building of battleships between the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan. Since then, except for ships then being designed, not a new battleship has been built in the world. During this period of holiday from battleship building a far greater sense of security has prevailed than existed immediately before that treaty. With that sense of security there has been a marked reduction in those international irritations which inevitably accompany competitive naval building.
> We have now come to the time when, under that Washington treaty, battleship building is about to begin again—not competitive building, but mutually agreed-on building. Yet it will be expensive building, and it therefore seems a most opportune time for the United States to meet with these same powers to see if we cannot still further delay or decrease expenses of the battleship fleets.
>
> At the same time we shall endeavor to find a mutually satisfactory arrangement for limiting the building of cruisers, destroyers and submarines, and thus still further increase that sense of security essential to international good-will.
>
> These are the purposes of the American delegation as it sails for the naval conference in London, and the purposes of the delegations from the other four countries, with all of which we have had most friendly preliminary interchanges.
>
> Too little means of defense gives a nation a feeling of insecurity. Too much gives its neighbors a feeling of insecurity. Our object is to try to find a happy medium that will be mutually satisfactory.

NAVAL ANNUAL ISSUED ON EVE OF CONFERENCE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The forty-first edition of Brassey's Naval and Shipping Annual is issued most opportunely on the eve of the five-power naval conference, for it is full of facts and statistics relevant to questions which are bound to be raised at the sessions of the negotiators for armament reduction.

There are authoritative articles by French, Italian and Spanish naval officers concerning the naval policies of those countries, and as the writers are all in the service of their several governments their contributions have real significance with respect to the Mediterranean problem, which is now looming as such a big question that it may play a vital part in determining the solution of the Atlantic and Pacific problems.

There are illuminating chapters on such complicated questions as the relative strength of the existing navies with reference to tonnage, number of craft and gun calibre. Captain Alfred C. Dewar reviews the various stages of the international movements toward disarmament and touches upon cruiser parity, the proposal to abandon submarines and the status of food ships.

The writer on the subject of reducing the size of battleships goes further than the ships themselves and suggests that the size of guns of battleships may be reduced from the present sixteen-inch maximum to thirteen inches. Another writer on calibre calls attention to the fact that muzzle diameter is not the only criterion of power and shows that the recent six-inch gun has been found more effective than the 7.5-inch gun of the war period.

Archibald Colbeck, in a chapter on the American attitude on freedom of the seas and blockade, declares that the blockade of Germany was brought about by controlling allied resources rather than by any measures sanctioned by international law.

SECURITY PUT FIRST IN AIMS OF PARLEY

British First Lord of Admiralty Says Cooperative Spirit Must Precede Naval Cuts.

WARNS OF PROPAGANDISTS

But He Says Delegates Can Ignore Agitation and Begin Task as Men of Good-Will.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Three objectives of the delegates to the naval parley were enumerated by Albert V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, in a speech in South Wales tonight.

"The first and foremost," he said, "is that there must always be borne in mind the duty of any country to obtain security for its people. Secondly, we must move for a maximum amount of security, not by any blatant national effort like we have had in the past, but by the cooperation of all the powers concerned to a general end.

"Thirdly, if that cooperation can be secured and a basis of agreement formed—if we can first avoid a reopening of the competitive race in armaments by reaching a point of agreement—then there is good ground for a substantial reduction all round and relief of the burden upon the people of all the powers concerned of maintaining armaments on the past scale."

Mr. Alexander warned that as soon as the conference is open public opinion will be played upon from two extreme angles.

"You will get," he said, "probably virile propaganda for a drastic if not complete disarmament and equally virile propaganda that any move in the direction of a reduction in armaments is going completely to undermine the basis of our national and imperial security.

"Those who enter the conference have not to be moved by either of these extreme forms of propaganda. What we have to do is to go as men of good-will, with I hope, some measure of statesmanship and with the three things I enumerated in view."

Members of the Japanese naval delegation had their first meeting with a British Cabinet Minister today when they visited Foreign Secretary Henderson at the Foreign Office. The conversation was understood to have been merely of an introductory character, but Reijiro Wakatsuki, chief of the Japanese delegation, again made clear his government's attitude on the cruiser question.

Arrangements were made for an early meeting between the Japanese and Premier MacDonald, who ends his Christmas vacation at Lossiemouth, Scotland, tomorrow.

PACT BEING FRAMED ON MEDITERRANEAN

PARIS, Jan. 7 (AP).—Representatives of the interested governments were tonight engaged in drafting a Mediterranean pact of non-aggression and mutual guarantees that will be submitted to the London naval conference, and is expected to swing the conference toward the road to success.

Spain is vitally interested in the pact and will be constantly consulted about its provisions. France and Italy are the powers chiefly interested, with Britain scarcely less so because of her need for keeping open the imperial trade route to the East through the Suez Canal.

The importance that France and other powers ascribe to the Mediterranean pact may necessitate inviting Spain to the London conference, at least for the political aspects touching the agreement.

Plans at present call for a pact that will be less rigid than the Locarno accord, which guarantees peace on the Rhine and somewhat more precise and stronger than the four-power pact negotiated at the Washington Naval Conference to insure peace in the Pacific between the United States, Britain, Japan and France.

The Mediterranean pact as it is now conceived, apparently in a manner that satisfies French desires for security, omits the naming of specific guarantors, contrary to Locarno, and makes the guarantees reciprocal for all signatories.

The signers of the Pacific pact, which was created partly as a substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance, undertook to respect one another's rights on insular possessions and dominions in the Pacific. If difficulties arise, the pact provides for the calling of a conference.

It is understood in Paris that an effort will be made to make the Mediterranean pact more definite about the measures to be adopted if peace seems menaced in the Mediterranean.

The misunderstanding that hitherto existed concerning the commitments of the powers under the proposed Mediterranean treaty have apparently been largely cleared away. Britain no longer has the impression that she is called upon to guarantee peace in the Mediterranean and finds the pact merely a mutual engagement for non-aggression.

It is learned here that Italy has been favoring a Franco-Italian pact to regulate questions arising between France and Italy and that the great question remaining is whether Italy will subscribe to a general treaty.

Strong hopes are apparently entertained in a number of European chancelleries that the United States will throw its influence to the support of the pact in the interests of European peace.

CANADIAN SESSION FEB. 20.

Parliament Will Consider Many International Issues.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—The Canadian Parliament has been summoned to meet Feb. 20. The session promises to be long and contentious, with many international issues to be considered.

Among them are the liquor clearances, treaties for the preservation of hockey salmon in British Columbia and the preservation of the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls.

Consideration will also be given joint international navigation and power development of the St. Lawrence between Prescott and Montreal and the deepening and straightening of the St. Lawrence channel from Prescott to Kingston. Tariff revision will also deal with international trade, but may not be very extensive.

SEES PEACE AT STAKE IN LONDON CONFERENCE

Captain Cazalet, British M. P., on Visit Here, Voices Hope for Success of Negotiations.

Failure of Great Britain and the United States to reach an agreement at the London Naval Disarmament Conference would undoubtedly "precipitate a competitive shipbuilding race which would seriously jeopardize world peace, according to Captain Victor A. Cazalet, Conservative member of the British Parliament from Chippenham.

Captain Cazalet, who arrived in this country shortly before Christmas for a brief visit, is the guest of Harold Talbott, 450 East Fifty-second Street. He expressed his belief that it was "almost impossible for five nations to agree completely on technical points," but added that he would not think the conference a failure if America and England alone were able to reach an agreement. He advocated closer relations between the two nations and felt, he said, that the two navies should work together.

"I should like to see certain rooms set apart in the Admiralty House in London for American naval officers," he asserted, "and all records of both navies thrown open to each other."

Captain Cazalet said he had been informed that the conversations between President Hoover and Premier MacDonald had narrowed the differences between the two nations to a question of three cruisers.

"If this is true," he continued, "there is no political party in England today that would refuse to sacrifice three cruisers for the sake of peace."

He said he noted a certain apathy of both the British and American public toward the conference.

In England the people were far more interested in unemployment and in domestic questions, he declared. The only solution for such a situation was "cash and courage," the captain said, explaining that the former was flowing back to England as a result of the stock crash in America.

DR. VASQUEZ ARRIVES FOR PARLEY AT CAPITAL

Foreign Minister of Honduras Will Seek to End Boundary Dispute With Guatemala.

Dr. Mariano Vasquez, chief of the Honduran delegation which will discuss the boundary dispute between Honduras and Guatemala with State Department officials and representatives from Guatemala, arrived yesterday on the steamer Lempira accompanied by Felix Canales, chief of the Honduras Highways Commission and engineer of the delegation.

Dr. Vasquez, who is Minister of Foreign Affairs for Honduras, was met at the pier by Rafael Valle, secretary of the delegation, who arrived several days ago from Mexico City, where he is editor of the newspaper Excelsior.

Speaking for the delegation, Mr. Valle said that the dispute, concerning the western boundary of Honduras, has been a matter of contention between the two countries since 1845. The quarrel, he said, had become bitter several times, but war had been avoided thus far. The leaders of both countries now hoped to settle the question once and for all, he declared.

The Honduran delegation intends to accept whatever means of agreement is offered by the United States Government on Jan. 20 when the group will meet in Washington. The last boundary discussion was held in Central America several years ago, with the United States Minister to Costa Rica acting as intermediary, but no agreement was reached.

Two years ago Secretary of State Kellogg suggested that a tribunal of representatives of Central American nations decide the boundary questions but this offer was rejected by Honduras because it wanted the United States to arbitrate the question, Mr. Valle explained.

Dr. Vasquez and Mr. Canales were taken to the Paramount Hotel, where they will remain until Friday, when they expect to leave for Washington.

HOOVER ASKS $160,000 TO REBUILD OFFICES

Seeks $30,000 for Upkeep in $16,557,494 Measure for Executive Departments.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The sum of $160,000 for the reconstruction of the executive offices at the White House, wrecked by fire on Christmas Eve, was asked of Congress today in a supplemental estimate sent to the House by President Hoover.

Items totaling this amount were listed for reconstruction and another of $30,000 was included for upkeep. All were in an omnibus supplemental estimate for the executive departments, totaling $16,557,494.

Of the remainder, $8,000,000 was asked for the Veterans' Bureau Hospital Service and $7,250,000 for military and naval insurance. The Federal Trade Commission shared in the estimate to the amount of $240,000 and the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission to the extent of $200,000.

TO REPORT NAVAL PARLEY.

F. W. Wile Will Broadcast From London to American People.

Frederick William Wile, veteran journalist and head of the news service bearing his name, will report from London on the developments of the coming naval conference in a series of radio broadcasts every Thursday evening from 8:15 to 8:30 o'clock, beginning Jan. 23, which will be sent out to forty or fifty stations of the Columbia Broadcasting System in this country and Canada, it was announced last night.

Officials of the Columbia chain, which has assigned Mr. Wile to cover the London conference for the American people by radio, said that his weekly talks will be sent through the air to this country via a short wave station of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. On this side of the Atlantic Mr. Wile's report will be picked up by the Columbia and rebroadcast throughout this country and in Canada. It is probable also that other foreign countries will be able to listen in Mr. Wile's broadcasts from London, which will not include British stations, will be held weekly as long as the naval conference lasts.

Mr. Wile will sail for London with the American delegation tomorrow on the George Washington.

APPEAL FOR PRAYER FOR NAVAL PARLEY

Protestant Churches of This Country and Britain Set Aside Sunday, Jan. 19.

STRESS NEED OF SUCCESS

Archbishop of Canterbury and Free Church Heads in England Join With Federal Council Here.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Appeals to make Sunday, Jan. 19, a day of prayer for the success of the five-power naval conference were issued today by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the leaders of the English free churches. The day will be observed in conjunction with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, which has made a similar appeal.

"It is difficult to exaggerate the importance of the conference," wrote the Archbishop, Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang. "In some respects it will be the most important international conference since the conference of Paris in 1919, for the issues involved reach far beyond its immediate object.

"Failure to secure agreement would be a serious setback in the long and difficult road to a stable international peace. Success would lift from the nations not only a heavy burden of armaments, but the haunting fears which those armaments express, and would go far to complete the structure of security on which international peace must rest.

"On the delegates who will attend the conference great responsibility lies. It is right that they should enter on their task not only attended by the hopes of their fellow-citizens but supported by their prayers."

The call of the free churches was signed jointly by Alfred E. Garvie, Moderator of the Federal Council of Evangelical Free Churches of England, and Thomas Phillips, president of the National Council of Evangelical Free Churches of England and Wales. Declaring that the triumph of the conference would not only reduce armaments but fortify the cause of peace, it concluded:

"The success of the conference closely concerns the advancement of the kingdom of God on earth. It claims, and we are confident it will receive, the earnest and united prayers of all Christian people that by the blessings of God its deliberations may be brought to a successful issue."

The Appeal Here.

A day of prayer for the success of the London Naval Arms Conference will be observed in American and British Protestant Churches on Sunday, Jan. 19, it was announced here yesterday by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

The call to prayer in the United States, asking for "God's blessing on the Conference," is signed by the presiding officers of more than a score of churches and by the officials of the council.

The signers included:

The Rev. CHARLES S. MACFARLAND, senior general secretary.
ALANSON B. HOUGHTON, former Ambassador to Great Britain and Germany and chairman of the council's commission on international good-will and justice.
ALTON L. MILLER, president, Northern Baptist convention.
The Rev. L. K. WILLIAMS, president, National Baptist convention.
FRED B. SMITH, Moderator, National Council of Congregational Churches.
R. A. LONG, president, International Convention of the Disciples of Christ.
The Rev. J. BALTZER, president, Evangelical Synod of North America.
Bishop H. B. PARKS, African Methodist Episcopal Church.
Bishop GEORGE C. CLEMENT, African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church.
Bishop N. C. CLEAVES, Colored Methodist Church in America.
The Rev. J. C. BROOMFIELD, General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church.
The Rev. CLELAND B. McAFEE, Moderator, General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.
W. O. MENDENHALL, Society of Friends.
Bishop WILLIAM F. McDOWELL, Methodist Episcopal Church.
Bishop J. M. MOORE, Methodist Episcopal Church South.
The Rev. CHARLES E. SCHAEFFER, president, general synod of Reformed Church in the United States.
Bishop ROBERT L. RUDOLPH, president general council, Reformed Episcopal Church.
The Rev. EDGAR VAN HORN, president, General Conference of the Seventh Day Baptist Church.
Bishop A. R. CLIPPINGER, United Brethren in Christ.
The Rev. JOHN McNAUGHER, Moderator, General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church.
The Rev. F. H. KNUBEL, president, United Lutheran Church.
The Rev. WILLIAM R. ROBYNS, Moderator, General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, South.

TELLS OF TORTURES IN MEXICAN PRISON

A tale of imprisonment, torture and expulsion from Mexico was told yesterday by George Paz, young Left Wing labor leader, at the office of the International Labor Defense, 80 East Eleventh Street. Paz, who is an Argentinian and has been active in the Communist movement in Mexico for the last few years, said he was put across the border at Laredo. Before that he had been imprisoned in New Mexico for ten days, he said, without any specific charges being preferred against him.

He said he was tortured in prison by being suspended from a trapeze head down for six hours and that for forty-eight hours more he received neither food nor drink.

Paz linked his imprisonment with a general drive he said the government was making on Communist and Left Wing activities. Twenty-five other leaders were arrested with him, he declared, the non-Mexicans being put out of the country and the Mexicans exiled to an island in the Pacific.

Rina Epstein, 25 years old, a New York Left Wing dressmaker, also arrived from Mexico on Monday and told similar tales of repression. She said she had been visiting Mexican friends and was spied on during her entire stay. She fled the country fearing she would be arrested and held incommunicado, she said. Many Communist leaders have been subjected to torture in prisons, according to Miss Epstein.

Tubercular Waiting List At City Hospitals Ended

After an inspection tour of hospitals, Dr. J. G. William Greef, new Commissioner of Hospitals, announced yesterday that for the first time in years there is no list of tubercular patients waiting for treatment in the municipal hospitals. Not only is the waiting list of 169 wiped out, he said, but there is a surplus of eight beds.

Of the new beds for which room was found under his rearrangement of accommodations, twenty-four are at Riverside Hospital, seventy-eight at Metropolitan Hospital, sixty at the Otisville Sanatorium and fifteen in Seaview Hospital, Staten Island.

The sixty beds at Otisville were obtained through recent alterations in the buildings, it was said. The seventy-eight at Metropolitan Hospital were made available by Dr. Greeff's decision that a porch, not otherwise in use for housing patients, may be enclosed and heated by opening its doors to communicating wards.

M'QUADE FILES SUIT FOR BASEBALL POST

Magistrate Brings Action to Compel Reinstatement as Treasurer of Giants.

SEEKS PAY SINCE REMOVAL

Demands $10,000 Annual Salary From May 2, 1928—Bondy Calls Move "Absurd."

The number of lawsuits in the controversies between Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants baseball club, and Magistrate Francis X. McQuade and others reached a total of three yesterday when Isaac N. Jacobson, counsel for Mr. McQuade, filed a suit in the State Supreme Court to compel Mr. Stoneham and John J. McGraw, vice president of the club, to reinstate Mr. McQuade as treasurer and pay his salary of $10,000 a year since May 2, 1928.

Leo J. Bondy, who succeeded Mr. McQuade as treasurer of the company, accepted summons in the suit for Mr. Stoneham and announced that he would reply within a week that Mr. McQuade had been removed by vote of the directors after he had so conducted himself that it was impossible for the company to retain him as an officer. Mr. McGraw is in Havana.

"The suit is the most absurd thing I have ever heard of," Mr. Bondy declared. "Mr. McQuade was removed by a regular vote of the directors, and I don't see how he can expect a court to tell those directors how they have to cast their votes. I only hope that he pushes the case to an early trial so that this whole matter can be aired once and for all in open court."

In the complaint Mr. McQuade charges that he was dropped as treasurer because he insisted upon Mr. Stoneham paying interest and taking up loans from the company's funds. He demands that temporary and permanent injunctions be issued forcing Mr. Stoneham and Mr. McGraw to instruct the stockholders to vote for Mr. McQuade as a director and further, that the directors be required to hold a special meeting to elect him treasurer.

TUNNEY FACING KIDNEY OPERATION

But Is Able to Attend Walpole Lecture Here and Autograph Books in Place of Writer.

Gene Tunney, the former heavyweight champion, is suffering from a slight kidney disorder and is faced with the possibility of being operated on shortly for the removal of a stone, it was learned last night from his former manager, Billy Gibson. Mr. Tunney, however, is not confined to bed.

Mr. Gibson, when reached at the New York Athletic Club, said that X-rays would be taken in a few days. If the X-rays show a stone, an operation will be performed for its removal.

Mr. Tunney could not be reached, but his former manager declared that the doctors agreed that his ailment is not the result of body blows received in the ring.

The former fighter is able to continue his activities. Yesterday, with his wife, he attended a lecture in Town Hall where Hugh Walpole, the English author, discussed "The Art and Immorality of the Novel," before 1,500 women members of the League for Political Education.

After the lecture, a large number of women stormed the English writer for autographs in copies of his books. Mr. Tunney, an old friend of Mr. Walpole's, acted as a "second" to the writer, helping to stem the rush, with the result that some of the women left the meeting with their Walpole novels bearing on the fly leaves the inscription:

"Gene Tunney—for no reason whatever."

Mr. Tunney was introduced by Robert E. Ely, the chairman of the meeting, as "a distinguished visitor and personal friend of Mr. Walpole and of Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale and therefore a friend of ours."

GUARD UNIFORMS READY.

Distribution of New Drab Garb for State Troops Begins in a Week.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Division staff officers of the New York National Guard announced today that the new, olive drab service uniforms for the 21,000 troops of the guard, had arrived at the State arsenal at Sixty-fourth Street and Second Avenue, Brooklyn, and that the commanding officers of all units had just filed their requisitions for uniforms.

Captain Matthew Lee, the United States property and disbursing officer at the Brooklyn arsenal, is to have charge of distributing the new uniforms, which will be worn at drills, reviews and other exercises. Distribution will start within a week.

SAY ORIENTAL STATE BACKED RUBLE PLOT

Berlin Defendants Tell of Offer to Further Scheme to Finance Georgian Revolution.

IMPLICATE GEN. HOFFMANN

Witnesses Declare He Went to London to Confer With British and Italian Statesmen.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—Basilius Sadathienawile, the second defendant, and Dr. Weber, one of the German Fascists implicated here, were examined in the great ruble counterfeiting plot today. Dr. Weber startled the court room with the testimony that "a certain friendly Oriental State" had aided the counterfeiters in their scheme.

Sadathienawile, a very polished and well groomed young man, told the court he was the private secretary of Prince Awalosef-Bermont and as such acquired a deep insight into Georgian revolutionary affairs.

At the court's request, Sadathienawile outlined the events that led finally to Georgia's capture by the Soviets. Whenever the judge asked questions intended to reveal the political background of the trial, the defendant refused to answer.

He frankly admitted, as had yesterday his compatriot, Karunidze, his complicity in the counterfeiting conspiracy. They had sought a connection with such German extremists of the Right as Captain Ehrhardt Hittler, because with them revolutionary ideas seemed to find a sympathetic echo, he testified. He gave full details regarding the counterfeiting conspiracy but, like his friends, denied any other motive but his desire to serve his "suppressed country."

Sadathienawile admitted pledging 10,000 counterfeit rubles for a loan of 15,000 marks.

"Now suppose," suggested the judge, "something happened to prevent you from redeeming that loan, then you would have been guilty of ordinary fraud."

Here Major Bell, one of the accused, jumped from his seat and, gesticulating excitedly, cried, "Nothing could have happened, even if we had all been killed in a railway catastrophe, because our Paris committee would have redeemed that loan. If anything went wrong with us, it was only because of the public prosecutor's impudent interference." Even the judge could not suppress a smile.

The next defendant examined was Dr. Weber, who in 1023 played a prominent part in the Hittler-Ludendorf putsch in Munich, Dr. Weber began by making a patriotic speech denouncing the men who made the revolution in Germany and brought about Wilhelm II's deposition, until the judge reminded him all that did not justify counterfeiting rubles.

Questioned with regard to General Hoffmann's activities, Dr. Weber said the General had been negotiating in London with British and Italian statesmen. "All plans for the campaign against Russia had been agreed upon between General Hoffmann and his foreign friends when, on his return to the Continent, some unfortunate indiscretion spoiled everything," Dr. Weber declared. He refused obstinately to say what had really happened.

About this time two representatives of the Soviet Government entered the court room, their presence inciting the defendant to hysterical protests. The judge was compelled to reprimand him severely.

On further examination Dr. Weber asserted that "a certain friendly State in the Orient" had favored the plans of the accused and aided them even in the counterfeiting scheme. "That is a fair State," jibed the public prosecutor. Thereupon Major Bell jumped up to cry, "Even the German Government has sympathized with similar plans."

Court was adjourned very suddenly.

JERSEY CITY BUDGET RISES.

$1,179,972 Increase Over 1929 Is Proposed by Commissioners.

An increase of approximately $3 a thousand in the tax rate of Jersey City was indicated yesterday as the City Commission introduced the 1930 budget totaling $14,866,497.15, an increase of $1,179,972.39 over 1929. The 1929 tax rate was $34.70 a thousand. A public hearing and final consideration of the new budget are scheduled for the next meeting of the commission on Jan. 21.

Salary increases for more than 1,200 municipal employes and a school and hospital building program account for the increased budget, according to William B. Quinn, director of revenue and finance. The salary increases alone added $270,000 to the budget, he said.

The meeting was disturbed for a short time while Mayor Frank Hague and James Burkitt, self-proclaimed "Jeffersonian Democrat," were in dispute. Mr. Burkitt was present as the representative of the Non-Partisan Rent Payers and Tax Payers League. He interrupted the Mayor several times. Finally the Mayor summoned a police lieutenant and instructed him to escort Burkitt from the chamber.

WINS NAVAL TROPHY TWICE.

Sixth Battalion Praised by Rear Admiral for Efficiency.

The national naval reserve trophy was presented to the Sixth Battalion, United States Naval Reserve, by Rear Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer, commandant of the Third Naval District, representing the Secretary of the Navy, at a ceremony last night on board the U. S. S. Wheeling, foot of East Twenty-fourth Street. The Sixth Battalion, commanded by Captain Charles Boone, has won the trophy two years in succession in competition with thirty-six similar units throughout the country. Lieutenant C. C. Shears of the battalion, who was officer of the deck, was in charge of the arrangements.

The trophy is awarded annually by the Navy Department through the United States Naval Reserve Officers' Association for "highest efficiency."

In presenting the trophy Rear Admiral de Steiguer attributed the winning spirit of the corps to its participation in athletics. Major Hanson E. Ely, commander of the Second Corps Area, Governors Island, congratulated the officers and men of the battalion.

REICH GIVES PLEDGE NOT TO PAY US ALONE

Germans Promise the Allies Any Suspension of Reparations Will Apply to All.

SANCTIONS PLAN DRAFTED

French Offer Not to Use Rights Until World Court Decides Berlin Is at Fault.

MORATORIUM CAUSES SNAG

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 7.—Germany promised today never to make reparations payments to the United States under America's separate treaty with Berlin if the payments to the former Allies under the Young plan were suspended.

It had been held that because of the different modes of payment, one being directly to Washington and the other through the Bank for International Settlements, it might arise that Germany would be found making payments to America after having halted payments to the bank, or after having taken advantage of a suspension of transfers of payments of other reparations.

To remove this possibility, which Washington is not believed to desire, Germany and the former Allies adopted a resolution here today saying:

"The German Government will not take advantage of the rights of moratorium except simultaneously toward all the powers whose claims are accepted in the report of the experts."

This general expression, to cover the German-American treaty, was handed over to the jurists to frame in a binding fashion.

Gilbert Reaches The Hague.

This brings into the light the fact that the separate German-American treaty will, therefore, produce payments or not produce payments accordingly as it may be decided by the other creditors, with whom the United States is not officially associated in the matter. So the United States is neither in a worse nor a better position than if the payments had remained in the Young plan. The resolution adopted today covers the American claims because they were included in the experts' report when the Young plan was drafted.

S. Parker Gilbert, Agent General for Reparations, came to The Hague today to attend the meeting of financial experts who are considering ways and means to assure the continuation under the Young plan of Germany's payments on the Dawes loan of $200,000,000, which enjoys priority. Mr. Gilbert said he would deal only with technical questions. It may be added that he declared he was not a candidate for the position of the presidency of the Bank for International Settlements.

There is developing a good deal of the spirit of contest here between the Germans on the one hand and the French on the other, with the French enjoying the consistent support of the British and the Italians. It is evident the new German Government wishes to take back a series of victories from The Hague. The same is true of the French Government, and inasmuch as two victories cannot be manufactured from the same material, there is no small series of differences arising, and already it is being asked if the conference can finish in time to permit Premier Tardieu to meet Secretary Stimson in London on Jan. 19.

French Draft Sanctions Plan.

In addition to the Franco-German differences, Hungary and Rumania appear to be but little nearer together than they have been for the past ten years, during which they have been disputing about the liquidation of the war.

There remains the large question of the final arrangements for the Bank for International settlements, which cannot be undertaken until the financial experts who met at Baden-Baden reach here on Sunday.

As between the Germans and the French, the biggest question is that of sanctions, the Germans demanding that France shall renounce all rights under Article 430 of the Treaty of Versailles to use military sanctions should Germany not pay, and the French offering to leave the issue of German good faith to the World Court and to resume the right to use sanctions only if the World Court finds Germany at fault.

The French have now completed their proposed text which will be submitted to the Germans tomorrow morning, and which will certainly not be adopted at once. As the whole discussion of sanctions turns into a discussion of a temporary or other breakdown of the Young plan, the German insistence on that possibility naturally makes the French more than ever cautious about doing as the Americans did, and leaving it to Germany's good-will.

M. Tardieu, in a speech today, said to the Germans, "We have confidence in you men who are here, but we would be happy to feel we could always have confidence in the German Governments of the future."

M. Tardieu insisted France did not wish to retain any rights which seemed to be an imposition on Germany, but he wished to protect France against a Nationalist Government's arriving at power in Berlin and carrying out Dr. Hugenberg's threat not to pay reparations.

Postponed Dues Cause Snag.

Another first class row started this morning when the Germans took the position that, after a resumption of payments, any postponed payments should become due only at the end of the period of payments in some thirty-seven years as they said they had agreed with America. In other words, the Germans argued a two-year failure to pay would simply extend the periods of the payments for two years.

The French took the position that postponed payments would be due immediately on the resumption of payments, and as rapidly as the Commission of Inquiry thought practicable. Point is given to the French position because France must deposit 500,000,000 marks in the bank to guarantee its continuation in case of the suspension of payments by Germany, and under the German plan this sum might get beyond France's recall.

Naturally, no agreement has been reached, and the experts who took part in the Young committee's work have been summoned to The Hague to give their version of what the Young report meant on this point, regarding which it is not altogether clear.

Similar discussion took place regarding the contribution of the German railroads to the guarantee fund for the payment of reparations. Here again the Germans wished it all to be left to their good faith, and the French, though inclining to the ending of outside control of German railroads, nevertheless insisted the Germans, in case of postponement, must satisfy the allies as to what would become of the railroad guarantee, which, incidentally, just equals the unconditional sum fixed by the Young plan. On both these issues Philip Snowden agreed with M. Tardieu.

Extension of Parley Likely.

In another debate, the French took the position that under the Young plan the German payments would be due on the fifteenth day of the month, whereas the Germans said they would be due on the thirtieth. Again Mr. Snowden sided with the French, as did the Italians.

All these issues, which have been referred to committees and subcommittees, make it appear the conference will be drawn out beyond Jan. 15, the date tentatively fixed for its conclusion.

There is general agreement that if the Little Entente nations get satisfaction from Bulgaria and Hungary they will wipe the slate clean for Austria. Whereas the creditors are asking $3,000,000 yearly from Bulgaria, the latter came forward today with an offer of $2,500,000, which indicates an approximate agreement with Bulgaria.

But despite all efforts, the Rumanians and Hungarians remain at odds over the issue of the property of Hungarians in Transylvania which went to Rumania under the peace terms.

Count Bethlen's family claims $5,000,000 in a total which the Hungarians fix at around $500,000,000, a figure which the Rumanians refuse even to discuss.

And so, a decade later, the work of the Paris peace conference is not yet completed.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, Jan. 7.—Examination by a legal commission into the question of the nationality of Professor Voitetch Tuka, the Slovak leader recently sentenced to fifteen years inprisonment for espionage for Hungarian interests, has shown that it is impossible for the government to have him declared a Hungarian subject.

M. Tuka's ancestors have lived in Slovakia since the days of Maria Theresa and it is therefore impossible to carry out the plan to free the Czech Pecha, recently sentenced in Hungary to five years imprisonment for spying, by declaring M. Tuka a Hungarian subject and offering him in exchange for Pecha.

Professor Tuka is working daily on the revision of his appeal against his sentence. It must be completed within four days. A hearing for the appeal has been fixed for March.

There was a certain pathos in the pride which these humble peasants, many of whom probably were visiting Rome for the first time, bore their gifts of love, perhaps with a secret hope that the princely couple would prefer theirs above all others. They were simple gifts, simply given, whose great value lay in the love and admiration to which they bore witness.

The scene in Quirinal Square was a brilliant one. A warm, Spring-like sun bathed the whole piazza in a glowing, mellow light. Up on the balcony over the main entrance of the royal palace stood Prince Humbert and Princess Marie José, their faces alight with happiness and emotion. At their sides was a brilliant assemblage of kings and royal princes. Down in the piazza, in the middle of a deep circle of applauding people, one brilliantly dressed group after another deposited its gifts at the foot of the palace, then performed its simple dances or sang its pretty melodies and glowed with pride when Princess Marie José clapped her hands in appreciation and was followed by other members of the royal princely group.

This gorgeous spectacle was witnessed by perhaps the largest crowd ever gathered for any reason in the streets of Rome. It is calculated that at least 300,000 persons lined the route of the pageant.

Crowd in Good Spirits.

Although wedged tightly between the walls of buildings and a cordon of police and troops, it was an extremely good-natured crowd that greeted every successive group of pretty girls, in their brilliant costumes, with undiminished enthusiasm despite the hours of waiting. Their fortitude and good humor was matched by that of the participants in the pageant, who kept up their singing and dancing the whole length of the route, which stretched for several miles across the city.

Except on the arrival of Princess Marie José this was the first occasion on which she has appeared in public with Prince Humbert. The sight of them brought tremendous applause from the crowds. When they stepped on to the balcony they received an ovation which lasted several minutes before dying down. When it had subsided it was immediately taken up again and again, while the Prince and Princess smiled and waved their acknowledgement.

This morning the whole Belgian royal family, including the King and Queen of the Belgians, Princess Marie José, Princess Astrid, Prince Leopold and Prince Charles were received in private audience by Pope Pius XI with the usual splendid Vatican ceremonial. The men all wore uniforms while the ladies, clothed all in white, wore dresses with high necks, long sleeves, skirts reaching to ankles, and white Spanish mantillas. They drove from the Quirnal Palace in six closed motor cars without any particular ceremony.

At the entrance to St. Peter's Square, which marks the boundary of Vatican City, they were greeted by the band of the Swiss guard playing the Belgian national anthem, while Commendatore Camillo Serafini, the Governor of Vatican City, in diplomatic uniform, delivered a short speech of welcome. Then the motor cars proceeded into the Vatican domain to the courtyard of St. Damasus, where the Belgian sovereigns, princes and princesses were greeted by officials of the Vatican court. They then proceeded up the papal staircase to the Pope's state apartment.

The Belgian sovereigns were introduced alone into the presence of the Pope, who received them in the little throne room. After about twenty minutes the Belgian princes and princesses were admitted. Finally the suite of the Belgian sovereign was admitted into the little throne room, where the King introduced the members to the Pope. The audience ended with the Pope imparting the apostolic benediction.

Received by Cardinal Gasparri.

On leaving the Pope's apartment the whole Belgian party descended to the floor below, where they were received in audience by Cardinal Gasparri, the papal Secretary of State. Then they descended into St. Peter's Basilica, where, after being received by the archpriest of the Basilica, Cardinal Merry del Val, and its entire chapter, they worshiped a few minutes at the tomb of the apostle Peter.

A few minutes after their return to the Quirinal Palace the Belgians received Cardinal Gasparri, who made a return visit in the name of the Pope.

This evening a magnificent reception was given at the Quirinal Palace, to which, in addition to the diplomatic corps, all of the high State officials and all of those who had been presented at court were invited. It is reckoned that 7,000 or 8,000 persons crowded into the spacious halls of the royal palace.

The appearance of the Italian and Belgian sovereigns and princes, who walked through each hall, was occasion for deep bows and applause from all of the guests. The sovereigns and princes then retired to the throne room, where they remained in conversation with the most eminent persons present, who were presented to them by the royal master of ceremonies.

Two Thousand Meet Princess.

The Princess received about 2,000 guests, including high army and navy officers, government officials and the members of the Roman "white aristocracy"—those who have been signalized by their devotion to the Kingdom of Italy.

The Princess was dressed in pink and wore a beautiful pearl necklace, which was the gift of Prince Humbert.

The officers were in full dress uniform and the rest of the men in full evening dress.

The Duchess of Vendôme, Marie José's aunt, wore a gown of gold feuilles mortes lamée with a fur-trimmed train. Former Queen Amèlie of Portugal was in purple velvet with a diamond diadem on her hair.

Princess Christopher of Greece (née Françoise of France) wore a golden brown lamé with a long train. The Marquise de Brighanteau wore a white satin gown with a short diamante embroidered cape and a train of blue velvet lined with gold. Another striking costume was that of the Countess Chartier de Segouy, which was of gold lamé and had a train lined with golden velvet.

Most of the gowns, including Princess Marie José's, were made in Italy.

At the wedding ceremony tomorrow all the ladies will wear lace veils, and long sleeves and high-necked dresses will be the rule. The ladies attached to the Belgian and Italian courts will wear mantles of Savoy blue.

Prince Humbert, unlike American bridegrooms, is not giving a bachelor dinner this evening. He gave such a dinner some time ago in Turin to his brother officers of the Ninety-second Infantry, all of whom toasted the bride in sparkling Asti wine.

Chapel Ready for Wedding.

The Pauline Chapel of the Quirinal has been draped in deep red velvet for the wedding tomorrow. The velvet is fringed with gold. Workmen were busily engaged from an early hour this morning in putting the final touches to the decorations.

Twenty-five priceless tapestries, including four Gobelins, have been hung in the chapel. The altar is surmounted by a baldaquin, and on the left side thrones have been placed for the Italian sovereigns and their royal guests. The thrones are covered with red velvet and the floors are carpeted with red.

It will be the fourth time that a royal marriage has taken place in the chapel. In September, 1861, Pope Pius IX himself officiated at the wedding of Princess Marie Immacolata Clementina, eldest daughter of King Ferdinand II of Naples, to the Archduke Carlo Salvatore of Tuscany. A month later Cardinal Sforza blessed the union of Princess Maria Annunziata, sister of King Francis of Naples, with the Archduke Karl Ludwig, brother of the Austrian Emperor. This wedding was by proxy, the Archduke being unable to come to Rome.

The third royal wedding was that of Princess Yolanda, sister of Prince Humbert, on Apr. 9, 1923. She married Count Carlo Calvi di Bergolo. The chapel had previously been closed to religious exercises since the seizure of Rome by Italian troops and the ensuing strained relations between the Holy See and the House of Savoy.

The big chamber in which the wedding will take place was built by the architect Carlo Maderno on the order of Pope Paul V, who consecrated it himself on Jan. 25, 1616. Except for the 1870-1923 period, when it was under interdict, the chapel has been a Christian Church for nearly 313 years.

Chief among its many ornaments is a beautiful bas-relief in marble by the sculptor Taddeo Landini, representing Christ washing his apostles' feet. The Pauline Chapel is rich in marble throughout, and has a floor that rivals that of the Sistine Chapel in the Vatican.

During the Napoleonic occupation the Pauline Chapel was despoiled of many of its choicest altar ornaments and of its rich damask hangings, installed by Pope Clement VIII. Napoleon I, when he contemplated using the Quirinal as a residence for himself, was about to turn the chapel into a throne room and to use the big reception room leading to it, now known as the Hall of the Cuirassiers, as an antechamber for his marshals. But he never moved his court to Rome. The restoration of the interior was effected in 1818.

The Pauline Chapel has been the scene of four conclaves, those resulting in the elections of Popes Leo XII, Pius VIII, Gregory XVI and Pius IX, who was the last Pope to have his Summer residence in the Quirinal and to officiate in it.

Cardinal Maffi to Officiate.

Cardinal Maffi, Archbishop of Pisa, a noted astronomer and long-time friend of the Italian royal family, will perform the religious rite tomorrow. He will be assisted by Mgr. Beccaria, chaplain of the royal household, who baptized the bridegroom and has been his spiritual mentor through childhood and youth. Other distinguished prelates also will assist.

The guests will include three reigning Kings—Albert of the Belgians, Victor Emmanuel of Italy and Boris of Bulgaria—the Queens of Belgium and Italy and almost all members of the royal families of the two nations. Besides these there will be the Duke of York, representing King George of England; Prince Cyril and his sister, Princess Eudoxia, of Bulgaria; the Infante Don Ferdinand, representing King Alfonso of Spain; Marshal Pétain, representing France, and Prince Paul and Princess Olga of Yugoslavia.

Marshal Pétain presented his credentials to King Victor Emmanuel today as Ambassador Extraordinary of France for the wedding. The Marshal also offered to the young couple President Doumergue's personal gift of a 415-piece set of Sèvres porcelain.

John Work Garrett of Baltimore, the new American Ambassador, will represent the United States. He is charged with a special message of good-will from President Hoover to the Belgian royal family. They knew each other well in the days of and after the World War.

Marriage Apparently Love Match.

Princess Marie José is 23 years old and the third child of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth. Prince Humbert, whose title is Prince of Piedmont, is the third child but the first son of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena. He is 25 years old and has the rank of a Colonel of infantry in the Italian Army.

Theirs presumably is a love match, fostered years ago when each enjoyed Winter sports together at Milan and in Northern Italy. The liking they held for each other as children they retained during adolescence and early maturity, and, it is said, when the question of marriage came up were most happy when their separate choices were confirmed by their parents.

Announcement was made of their betrothal last November at Brussels. The young Prince journeyed there from Rome for the event and, while laying a wreath on the tomb of the Belgian Unknown Soldier, escaped assassination narrowly when an Italian expatriate fired at him.

Princess Marie José and her family came to Rome Sunday by special train and were acclaimed by the populace, who found the young Princess, their future Queen, much to their liking. She smiled her way into their hearts, one commentator said, and, although the acquaintanceship of bride and city is short, each seems to have made a definite favorable impression on the other.

Orchids From Florence.

FLORENCE, Italy, Jan. 7 (AP).—This capital of Tuscany, where Princess Marie José spent several years at school during the dark days when Belgium was overrun by invading Germans, tonight sent to her on the eve of her wedding an enormous basket of orchids bound in the colors of the commune and with the Florentine coat of arms.

ROYAL PAIR TO RIDE IN HISTORIC CARRIAGE

Humbert Chooses the Berlina, Built for Ancestor, for Second Visit to Pope.

ROME, Jan. 7 (AP).—Crown Prince Humbert plans to use one of the most historic vehicles in the world when he and Princess Marie José, whom he will marry tomorrow, visit Pope Pius XI at the Vatican a second time together, as man and wife.

The vehicle is the Maria Theresa carriage of state, or "berlina," as it is called in Italian. It is 112 years old, and has not been used for sixty-one years. But King Victor Emmanuel's coachmen say it is still a brave carriage and will carry the Prince and the Princess-bride to the Vatican softly and comfortably and swiftly.

Its motive force will be of eight horsepower: eight real horses in pairs.

The Maria Theresa berlina has been cherished carefully through five generations because it is intimately linked with the fortunes of the House of Savoy.

It was constructed in 1817 for the wedding of Prince Charles Albert, the only son of King Victor Emmanuel I. The first King Victor Emmanuel, like the present King Victor Emmanuel III, had one son and four daughters. It was very important that Prince Charles Albert should marry and have heirs, so that the House of Savoy should be perpetuated. Austria was waiting to assume the crown of Savoy for the Duke of Modena.

Charles Albert chose for himself Maria Theresa, the second daughter of the Grand Duke of Tuscany, and set out himself to win the hand of the beautiful Princess. The marriage took place on Sept. 30, 1817, and the bridal couple traveled from Florence to Turin in the Maria Theresa berlina constructed especially for them.

The state carriage's next use was in 1842, for the wedding of King Victor Emmanuel II, the first King of United Italy, with Maria Adelaide of Lorena, Archduchess of Austria. It was next used for the wedding at Florence of Prince Humbert, who as King was later assassinated, and Margherita of Savoy. Since then it has not been used.

The berlina is a beautiful piece of art. It is a triumph of wood carving, and there is scarcely a piece of wood in it that is not elaborately carved and decorated. The coachman's seat is surmounted by a basket of flowers of carved wood. The footmen's seat is formed of two baskets of flowers on heads of eagles, and over the centre of the carriage rises a lofty carved royal crown.

Inside the berlina is completely covered with silk brocade and decorated with gold ornaments. Cupid's arrows are worked out in carved wood and gold.

Crown Prince Humbert plans to use the berlina because he wishes to make his marriage and later his visit to the Pope as full of pageantry as possible. His father, King Victor Emmanuel III, would prefer him to go to the Pope more simply.

REPORTS 150 SHIPS IN RUM ROW FLEET

COURT-MARTIAL POSTPONED

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 7 (AP).—The general court-martial of Coast Guardsmen implicated in stealing and drinking liquor from a captured rum-running boat struck a snag today.

Delay in preparing charges as prescribed by government regulations prevented the court from hearing any of the twenty-nine cases still before it, and it turned its attention to consideration of a guardsman who deserted, but not in connection with the Flor-Del-Mar affair.

Hope was expressed, however, that the charges would be ready tomorrow.

Thirty-nine men were involved as a result of the hurried unloading of the Flor-Del-Mar's cargo of whisky and ten have already pleaded guilty to intoxication.

Meanwhile, patrol boats and destroyers were out in the coastal waters of New England hunting for another liquor smuggling craft which might be attempting to make shore. At least 150 rum vessels make up "rum row" off the New England coast, according to Captain H. H. Wolf, commander of the destroyer force. This number, he said, includes only those regularly engaged in the illegal traffic and not those "who take a chance now and then."

The fleet, Captain Wolf said, consists of the mother ships, which transport the contraband from foreign ports, and the smaller boats, such as speed boats and fishing sloops, which take the liquor from the mother ships and make a dash for land under cover of darkness.

The drives on smugglers, he explained, are governed by the changes in the moon. At the period of a full bright moon, the guardsmen know that there will be little likelihood of any boats trying for land. Instead, they remain under cover while the mother ships return for more supplies at Canadian ports.

But as the darker phases of the moon come, the patrol boats and destroyers keep sharp eyes out for the "rummies" as the guardsmen call them.

Although it had been announced that the CG-290, which had fired on the Black Duck Dec. 29, killing three smugglers, would remain in port here until after all investigations were completed, it was revealed today that the boat, commanded by Boatswain A. C. Cornell, had been out on patrol duty and returned yesterday.

"BOSSY" GILLIS FOR BEER.

Newburyport Mayor Approves It for Well-Behaved Clubs.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Jan. 7 (AP).—Beer for the members of clubs which keep reasonable hours and do not abuse the privilege was approved by Mayor Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis in his second inaugural address yesterday.

He stated his position during an attack on the Police Department. After calling Chief Marshal McLean a "good fellow," Mayor Gillis referred to an order to the police to start raiding places that sold liquor.

"I told McLean to go out and raid these places," he declared heatedly. "And what do you think he did? He started out by raiding the Newburyport Hotel, where I live. Even if the proprietor was selling a little beer down there he wasn't selling it at any rate to the rank and file."

Speaking of a raid at the North End Boat Club, the Mayor said:

"If the police wanted to raid a club, why didn't they raid the club which blackballed me? I believe that it is all right for clubs to have beer for their members if they keep reasonable hours and refuse it to men who abuse it. Bootleggers are carrying booze through the city all the time and the policemen stand and watch them."

ENDURANCE FLIER HELD.

L. Mendell, Former Co-Holder of Record, Accused of Having Liquor.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7 (AP).—Loren Mendell, 30, former co-holder of the world's airplane endurance refueling record, was held here today on a charge of possessing liquor. Detective Lieutenant Walter Bowen, who said he found two gallons of alcohol in Mendell's house during a raid, arrested the flier yesterday.

Mendell declared he obtained the liquor for his own use. Bowen asserted he learned that Mendell possessed the intoxicants through a woman, Blanche Kane, who "tipped him off."

Last July Mendell and Pete Reinhart set an endurance record of 236 hours at Culver City, Cal., a Los Angeles suburb. Later the mark was surpassed by two St. Louis aviators. Mendell also won first place in the 1929 Oakland-to-Cleveland air derby of the national air races.

BORDER PATROL PLAN PRESENTED TO OTTAWA

Minister Sends Preliminary Report on Washington's Proposal to Nip Liquor Smuggling.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—A preliminary report from Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister at Washington, was received here today with regard to the United States Government's proposal for a large increase in the border patrol forces.

The report is held confidential here, and may not be released to the public until tabled in Parliament, which is called to meet Feb. 20.

It is now understood that the increased border force is suggested in the light of the discussion in Canada regarding possible action to prohibit the exportation of liquor into the United States. The criticism of such a move made by William Euler, Canadian Minister of Customs in Parliament a year ago, was that it would drive the liquor traffic into every out-of-the-way cove and inlet on the border, calling for a greater border patrol.

Included in the American proposals is a suggestion on relating to border posts of entry, some reorganization being suggested with a view to closer scrutiny of persons crossing the border and the more efficient performance of immigration officers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP).—Informal negotiations went forward between American and Canadian Government officials today to strengthen the border barriers against smugglers by closing a large number of entry roads and increasing the ports from 100 to 600, with officials stationed at each.

The treasury received reports that Canadian exports of alcoholic beverages to the United States in November amounted to 295,486 gallons, as compared with 520,902 gallons for the same month in 1928.

LAW BOARD PROMISES A STATEMENT SOON

After Long Session on Prohibition, Commission Decides to Speak Out Today or Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Law Enforcement Commission expects tomorrow or Thursday to issue a statement bearing directly upon some of the controverted prohibition questions that have wracked the capital recently.

Chairman Wickersham indicated tonight at the end of a long meeting of the commission that prohibition and reports of dissension of the commission had been discussed and that the commission expected to make its first public utterance of the new year soon.

Tonight, in the face of the silence that continued to cloak the activities of the commission, there was speculation as to how far its statement would go. Since its last meeting early in December the most heated controversy yet has involved wet and dry leaders of the capital.

The commission itself has been attacked and defended in Congress for its failure to deal publicly with the prohibition enforcement question and its failure to hold open meetings.

CHEERS DRY SUPPORT FOR COAST GUARD

but not naming him, Mr. La Guardia said it was "strange how every champion of prohibition always selects a great industrial centre, frequently in the East and not infrequently my own town of New York, as a terrible example.

"I am going to take the State of Idaho as typical of conditions created by prohibition, the home of the greatest champion of prohibition, the State which has furnished the great crusader who is going to reform the present prohibition forces and who is going to dry up the United States of America.

"What is the situation in Idaho, a State with a population of 431,866, which equals the population of two Congressional districts in the city of New York? Idaho has a State prohibition law. It is homogeneous in its population.

"The entire State delegation in the House are drys and vote accordingly and I have no fault to find with that if they represent the wishes of their constituents.

"It should be real easy to enforce prohibition there. Yet there is more drinking per capita in the State of Idaho than there is in the city of New York.

"There are more saloons per capita in the State of Idaho than in the city of Philadelphia. There are more bootleggers per capita in the State of Idaho than there are in the city of Chicago. Liquor is better in the State of Idaho than in any of the large cities, and cheaper."

Denounces Coast Guard Killing.

Mr. La Guardia cited instances in an effort to substantiate his statement. Then he passed on to the Black Duck case. Calling it "another paragraph in the shameless annals of prohibition," he continued:

"I will not refer to the bloody murder of the three members of her crew lest hardened prohibitionists burst into applause and again stain the pages of the Congressional Record.

"The Treasury Department rushes into print to justify the slaying of these three men. Yet the record is bare of any facts showing that the Black Duck had refused to heave to or was in actual flight.

"The Coast Guard officials and the crew of the cutter 220 have been hailed and praised for having well performed their duty. Yes, their duty, as seen in the light of prohibition.

"Part of the liquor seized from the Black Duck was in turn sold by members of the Coast Guard. Citizens are prohibited by law to drink alcoholic beverages, and yet on the same day that the Black Duck was captured members of the Coast Guard got crazy drunk at New London. Thirty-nine members of the Coast Guard have been found purloining part of every seizure of liquor made by them."

Representative Beedy's answer to the charge that Coast Guardsmen drank some of the liquor seized from the Black Duck brought laughter from wets and drys alike. He denied the liquor was from the Black Duck and gave the following as the true version of what happened:

"That very day there was a ship at sea run down by this Coast Guard patrol, the Flor del Mar. She was laden with liquor. The Coast Guard sent for men in New London to remove the liquor, because the boat was sinking, or about to sink, as she had been set afire. They did rescue the ship and towed her into the harbor, and later sent for a hundred or more men at the base in New London to remove that liquor from the ship.

"I understand the fact is that these men—gobs as we call them—ordinary seamen, yet red-blooded American boys, stood in water for hours on that cold December night unloading this liquor.

"In the explosions which had occurred on board the ship, some of the boxes had been broken open, and some of the gobs, to relieve themselves from the cold and suffering, opened a bottle and drank something out of it. [Laughter.] You never will get together men in the Coast Guard who under those circumstances will not take a drink of liquor when it is opened before them.

"Two of the men, as I understand it, took a bottle of that liquor and went ashore and got into trouble and boasted that they had stolen the liquor from this seized liquor on the Flor del Mar, and not from the Black Duck."

Mr. Beedy contended that the Coast Guard was doing its duty when the Black Duck incident occurred, with the same fearlessness and courage which has always characterized the service. Asserting that Coast Guardsmen were not particularly interested in the cause of prohibition, he continued:

"We may waive the question as to whether in their sight there are merits to prohibition or demerits. But they are facing this almost superhuman task because it is their tradition that when they have a task to perform and an order is given them by the men higher up, they go forward to that task fearlessly and conscientiously."

Charges Attempts to Hurt Morale.

Mr. Beedy charged that attempts were being made to undermine the morale of the Coast Guard and remarked that doubtless the rum smugglers were hopeful that the men will become "sick of being accused as murderers and suspend vigilance." Then, evoking applause from both Republicans and Democrats, he asked:

"What will you do? Admiral Billard, commandant of the Coast Guard, says, 'I can send a telegram to those boys tomorrow telling them not to fire on a motor boat under any circumstances.' That is the crux of the enforcement problem. What would you have them do?

"I believe the prohibition officials and the Coast Guard will be permitted to make an honest and conscientious attempt to enforce prohibition."

Warning That "We Mean Business."

Narrating the encounter with the Black Duck, whose defiance of the government and manoeuvring he blamed for the killing of three men, he continued:

"Now, we ought not to shoot them down recklessly and regardless of the circumstances, but we have either got to enforce this law or we might as well throw up our hands. The only way to do is to make these people understand that we mean business, and in a law passed since I have been a member of this House a method was provided for enforcing the provisions of the prohibition law.

"If a rum boat defies the command of a Coast Guard officer to stop and permit a search and starts to escape, then it is time for the officer in charge of that boat to command that they fire on that boat and attempt to disable her, without, if possible, injuring anybody.

"But if she attempts to escape or manoeuvre herself into such a position—knowing this is a United States Government boat—that she is within range of their guns, then the members of this House, sworn to uphold the Constitution and to defend it against its enemies, must make these boys know that if they do their duty a majority of the members of Congress and the people of the United States are behind them to a man."

The House again burst into applause.

Replies to La Guardia on "Force."

Mr. La Guardia interjected that there yas "no difference of opinion as to enforcing the existing law," and asked:

"How long are we going to continue the use of force to enforce a law which the majority of the people do not want?"

"I would say that we go far enough to let these flagrant violators of the law and defiers of constitutional provisions and an arm of this government know that we mean business," Mr. Beedy replied, amid applause.

A colloquy ensued in which Mr. La Guardia brought in not only the rum-runner and the bootlegger but also their customers.

"I am talking about ships on the sea which refuse to obey commands to stop," Mr. Beedy responded, "and then when fired upon, partially or altogether through their own fault, bring about their own deaths in some instances.

"I am saying we might as well let them know that they cannot keep on openly defying the law and refusing to obey the commands of legally constituted authority." [Applause.]

Senator Blease's attack on the administration of the liquor laws in Washington amused occupants of the Senate gallery, who were repeatedly admonished by Senator Moses of New Hampshire, President Pro Tem.

Charging that there was only limited prohibition in Washington, the Senator said:

"There is prohibition for the poor devil who is not able to buy, but no prohibition to the wealthy man, no prohibition to the commissioners, no prohibition to the embassies, no prohibition to the Cabinet, no prohibition to Mr. Hoover if he wants to have it—he can have it if he wants to—no prohibition to a Senator, no prohibition to a Congressman, no prohibition to any man who has money to buy liquor in Washington.

"Yet a grand jury comes out and says the people who say liquor is sold in Washington, or talk about Washington reeking in crime, do not know what they are talking about. If they do not, these young men in our press galleries ought to report that their papers are publishing most outrageous falsehoods about Washington, the blind tigers, gambling dens, race-horse gamblers and bad women and charge those of us who attempt to help out the situation with falsifying. They must be the falsifiers, because here are their reports."

In conclusion the Senator said:

"Yet Washington is a clean, model city! No young ladies drink in Washington! No young ladies play cards in Washington! No young ladies smoke cigarettes in Washington! No young ladies have babies in Washington! Oh, it is the city of all cities!

"We might think it was the New Jerusalem if we listened to the grand jury and certain newspaper reporters and certain officials who are lying in order to hurt those of us who have endeavored to help clean up this city."

House wets intend to continue their attacks on the dry law. A meeting of the "beer bloc," headed by Representative Linthicum, Democrat, of Maryland, has been called for Thursday to formulate plans for keeping the issue as near the point of white heat as possible during the session.

Representative Schafer, Republican, of Wisconsin, a militant wet, today introduced a bill to amend a section of the code so as to outlaw taking human life by an officer except in self defense.

VOTE NEW DUTCHESS JAIL.

Supervisors Also Decide to Put New Story on Court House.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Jan. 7 (AP).—The supervisors of Dutchess County today voted to build a new county jail, probably in Poughkeepsie, at an estimated cost of $350,000, and to add one story to the county courthouse here at an estimated cost of $250,000.

The old county jail, which occupied the top floor of the courthouse, was declared inadequate by the State Department of Correction.

William J. Beardsley of Poughkeepsie drafted plans for remodeling the court house and enlarging the cell capacity, but the department declined to approve the plans, necessitating the erection of an entirely new jail structure.

Hamill's Condition Satisfactory.

Assemblyman Peter J. Hamill, Democratic minority leader, spent a restful night in Polyclinic Hospital, following an operation Monday for appendicitis, and his condition was reported last night as satisfactory, although still dangerous, by Dr. Frederick G. Keller of 510 Madison Avenue who performed the operation. Mayor Walker, former Governor Smith and John F. Curry were among those inquiring at the hospital about Mr. Hamill's condition.

ASKS UNITED FIGHT TO END SPEAKEASIES

FAVORS STATE LIQUOR ACT

Talking Films Have Reduced Need for Censorship, Warner Executive Says at Meeting Here.

Elimination of the speakeasy is a cause on which it is possible to unite wets and drys, District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards of Nassau County said yesterday at the annual conference of the department of municipal public welfare of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs at the Hotel Astor. He asserted that the last election had shown that 90 per cent of the people in Nassau County, regardless of their stand on prohibition, were behind his drive against bootlegging.

"Remove the subject from the theory of a great moral question that makes people see red and merely talk of conditions, and consider it as a question of enforcing the law in all respects," he said. "This is not propaganda for prohibition, but for law and order."

One speakeasy, which he recently closed on the outskirts of Hempstead, he said, had in four months been responsible for a murder, three assaults, two cases of extortion and a number of minor crimes, and had been patronized by thirty-seven men and women with criminal records.

While holding that the public-nuisance act covers speakeasies, and that there ought to be a State prohibition enforcement act, and that the women of the State should support posecutions under the nuisance law, every intoxicated driver, regardless of his position in society and whether or not he is a first offender, ought to go to jail, Mr. Edwards declared.

Motion picture censorship has become less rigid with the advent of the talking picture, Albert S. Howson, scenario editor of Warner Brothers, said, because the greater expressiveness of the talkie makes necessary more careful supervision by the producers and precludes the innuendo possible in silent films.

Clarence E. Spayd, secretary of the Brooklyn Safety Council, said that in 1923 when the council was organized there were 308 street fatalities in Brooklyn, and that in 1929 these had been reduced to 173 in spite of an increase of 200,000 in population and 100,000 automobiles.

Governor Roosevelt's plan to cut in half the proposed size of the new State prison at Attica, which is planned to house 2,000 prisoners and cost $12,000,000, was endorsed by Miss Julia Jaffray, secretary of the national committee on prisons and prison labor. She asserted that it is impossible for one warden properly to handle more than 1,000 men. She assailed the number of steel cell prisons in the United States. Not more than 15 per cent of prisoners need steel cells, she said, another 20 per cent need walls with fireproof rooms, while the remainder could be better cared for in camps and farms.

It was announced that the civics committee was sending a letter to the city authorities urging that the old Brooklyn Y. W. C. A. at Schermerhorn Street and Flatbush Avenue be used for the new women's court and house of detention in that borough. Mrs. Richard M. Chapman, chairman of the department of municipal public welfare, presided.

Night Fire Destroys Rutgers Gymnasium; Explosions of Ammunition Add to Danger

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 7.—Amid explosions of infantry ammunition and trench mortar shells the Robert F. Ballantine Gymnasium of Rutgers University was destroyed by fire early today. Only the brick walls of the one-story structure, erected in 1893, remained at dawn. The fire started at 3 A. M. and burned three hours. The loss was placed at $360,000.

The fire was not discovered until the entire building was in flames and the New Brunswick firemen had to content themselves with preventing its spread to the college library, a fraternity house and a drug store, all located within twenty yards of the gymnasium. The 1,000 members of the student body witnessed the blaze.

The greatest single loss was that of the Reserve Officers Training Corp, which had its headquarters in the building. Its equipment was valued at $72,000 and included 700 Springfield rifles, half a dozen machine guns, several trench mortars, mortar shells and several hundred rounds of infantry ammunition.

Other losses included class reunion uniforms, students' lockers and athletic uniforms valued at $15,000; the office equipment and medical supplies of the university medical department, temporary wooden bleachers used on Neilson Field for football and baseball games; the equipment of the council on athletics, and all equipment and supplies of the department of physical education. Many athletic trophies were also destroyed.

Professor James H. Reilly, a former national swimming champion, head of the physical education department and coach of the swimming team, lost many of his trophies. The fate of the university athletic records for the past fifty years remained unknown today. It was hoped that the records, encased in steel cabinets, were intact.

The gymnasium was presented to the university in 1892 by Robert F. Ballantine of Newark and completed the following year. In 1914 an extension, including a swimming pool, was given by Mrs. Ballantine.

The origin of the fire was undetermined. The last persons to leave the building were members of two basketball teams who had engaged in an intramural contest. The building was insured for $155,000.

PROHIBITION SCORED AS THREAT TO PEACE

SEES ONLY FAILURE FOR IT

G. G. Battle Declares Amendment Permits Crime to Endanger Nation—State Act Protested.

Peace along the 3,000-mile border between the United States and Canada is endangerd by prohibition agents, Courtlandt Nicoll declared at a meeting of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform in the Hotel Plaza yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Nicoll in his address denied the wisdom of any government in creating any law for the improvement of personal morals. Efforts to enforce standards of individual conduct by statutes have failed in the past and such efforts were marked by the cross, the stake, the thumbscrew, the rack and other outrages, he said. Such efforts, he declared, usually were accompanied by acts far more reprehensible than those they sought to correct.

Mr. Nicoll referred to a "piece of dirty business" in Newport several days ago, when three men were killed and one wounded by Coast Guards on suspicion, adding that even though evidence substantiated this suspicion it did not ameliorate the act. Thousands of others, he continued, were blinded and killed by the illicit liquor traffic through ignorance.

Temperance can be achieved only by education and voluntary decision to abstain, George Gordon Battle maintained, saying that while he is a "teetotaler" he is convinced that prohibition is wrong in theory because it is not the proper business of a government to rule the life and the conduct of its citizens. In practice this "noble experiment" has proved a failure, he said, despite the fair trial it has received. The ineffectiveness of this act, he continued, did not make it a dead log in the Constitution, but permitted organized crimes which were threatening the foundation of the nation.

A resolution was adopted by 300 members of the organization to protest against a State enforcement act and to demand that the will of the people of this State be respected. Copies of the resolution will be sent to every member of the Legislature.

Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt, chairman of the meetings committee, presided.

REVERSES LIQUOR TAX CASE

Federal Court of Appeals at New Orleans Frees Seller From Levy.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today reversed a decision of the lower court awarding the Federal Government $2,002 in retail liquor taxes from Anthony La Franca, restaurant operator.

La Franca was said to have sold liquor to dry agents and suit was filed in the Federal court Nov. 3, 1927, to collect the taxes. The case was argued before Judge Ben C. Dawkins and a decision was handed down favoring the government.

La Franca was fined $300 and received a year's suspended sentence on his plea of guilty to violating the prohibition law. His counsel argued that the liquor tax decision, in view of the sentence for sale, subjected his client to double jeopardy.

OPPOSES DRY CASE REVIEW.

Department of Justice Asks That Verdict Here Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The Department of Justice took steps today before the Supreme Court to prevent a review of decisions of lower courts in the action by the prohibition administrator for the Southern District of New York forbidding the use of alcohol instead of whisky in medicinal preparations.

The case was brought by Clemente Liscio, a New York druggist, in October, 1926, and the Federal district court held that the administrator acted within his discretion under the dry law. The Circuit Court of Appeals confirmed the lower court's decision.

BIG WET PARADES PLANNED IN SPRING

A. F. Anderson of New York Tells Bostonians of Project to Marshal 30,000,000 Marchers.

GEN. EDWARDS FOR IDEA

He Also Speaks Out for the Repeal of the Bay State Enforcement Act.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Many cities of the country, including Boston, will witness simultaneous parades in protest against the Eighteenth Amendment some time in the Spring if plans of A. Fitz Roy Anderson of New York, executive secretary of the Associated Organizations, are carried through as outlined today in the Boston office of Major Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, wartime commander of the Yankee Division.

Mr. Anderson outlined the proposals for parades, which would take place particularly in cities which he described as noted for their "defense of liberty," such as Boston, Trenton and Philadelphia.

"We will have 30,000,000 persons parading simultaneously in the United States in parades of protest to awaken the need of liberty," said Mr. Anderson.

"Youth has no ideals today; we have forgotten what the word liberty means."

Conrad W. Crooker, general councilor of the Liberal Civic League, interrupted his investigation of the Coast Guard killings at New London to attend the conference with Mr. Anderson and General Edwards. Afterward he said his organization would schedule a luncheon meeting in Boston, Jan. 15, at which further plans for the parades would be discussed. General Edwards will speak at the luncheon in favor of the demonstrations.

"It is every man's duty to take off his coat and get at this thing," Major Gen. Edwards said today. "I have no use for those Americans who are moral because a restricting law makes them so.

"The boys in the war had plenty of reason to get drunk when they were called upon to stomach the horrors of that mess every day. But strangely, none of them did get drunk. They drank beer and wines, and they knew how to drink them.

"The whole situation in the United States today is a cancerous growth on our youth. The 'vin du pays' of America is whisky and gin, and all because a stupid law has made it so.

"It costs the country $60,000,000 a year to enforce this national error, and if the government is forced to use the army and navy for enforcement it will ruin them morally so that every gentleman will resign. What a shame that the Coast Guard was required to balance a gallon of rum against a life."

SUBSTITUTE IN JAIL FOR LIQUOR SMUGGLER

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 7.—The Pittsburgh Press today stated that a Lake Erie rum runner, who gave the name of Joseph Jarvis when captured and who is supposed to be serving a term in the Erie County jail, is at large and that a relative, the real Joseph Jarvis, is serving the sentence for him.

On the night of Sept. 29 two rum smugglers, the other calling himself Fred Black, were captured by a Coast Guard cutter near Erie. At a hearing before Federal Commissioner Filer, they pleaded not guilty and gave bail in the sum of $4,000. Soon afterward, two men, presumed to be the same, appeared in Federal court here, pleaded guilty and on Dec. 31 were sentencd to jail.

Now an investigation has revealed that the prisoner Jarvis is not the man who was taken by the Coast Guard and posted the $4,000 cash bail.

Coast guardsmen and the investigators say the man who gave the name of Jarvis the night of the capture and at the hearing before Commissioner Filer is actually a wealthy Canadian rum runner. He is said to have fled to Canada when the deception was discovered two days ago.

The rum runner is said to have been so sure of the success of the ruse that he sat in the rear of the courtroom while his counterpart, whose name he had appropriated and whom he had persuaded to "take the rap," was receiving the sentence he was supposed to serve.

The prisoner Jarvis has refused to give any information to Department of Justice agents, who are pressing the case with a view to conspiracy charges.

Three to Make Medicinal Whisky.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Three Western Pennsylvania distilleries have been granted permission to manufacture rye whisky for medicinal purposes. Dr. James M. Doran, Prohibition Commissioner, today instructed John D. Pennington, district administrator at Pittsburgh, to issue permits to the Large Distillery and the Schenley Distilling Company, both near Pittsburgh, and to the Overholt Distilling Company, at Broadford, Va.

ROTHERMERE GIVES LONDON A PUZZLE

EMPIRE TRADE PLAN HAILED

Rothermere Expects to Include the Scheme in His Protection Campaign—Labor Press Scornful.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—If it were not for the fact that since Lord Salisbury held the office in 1895 no Peer, debarred by rank from attending the debates in the House of Commons, has held the post of Prime Minister, probably greater attention would be paid in political clubs and elsewhere to the repeated lauding of Lord Beaverbrook's political virtues by his great newspaper competitor, Viscount Rothermere. All Parliamentary sentiment is against a Prime Minister dictating the country's policy from the House of Lords and having no seat in the Commons, where he could be questioned by the representatives of the electorate.

It may be said the prospect of a financial alliance, rather than a political alliance, between these two newspaper proprietors has attracted more comment.

The nearest Lord Rothermere has actually got to advancing Lord Beaverbrook's candidacy for the Premiership is to say "there would be a wonderful transformation here if by any turn of the wheel of fortune Lord Beaverbrook should enter within the next year or so 10 Downing Street as its master."

Lord Rothermere foresees no difficulty in dovetailing Lord Beaverbrook's program of free trade within the empire into his own scheme of straight protection. "When I return from the United States at the end of the month," says Lord Rothermere, "I am hopeful Lord Beaverbrook will be in a position to reinforce powerfully the practical measures that I shall decide upon to give success to the movement I am inaugurating."

On this The Daily Herald—one of the organs of the MacDonald Government—says:

"Nothing quite so funny has been witnessed for a long time as the spectacle of the Napoleons of Fleet Street, Rothermere and Beaverbrook, patting each other on the back, crowning one another's lofty heads with laurels and proclaiming to a wondering world the glad tidings that they together will save Britain."

Lord Rothermere has a big job on hand before the great crusade can begin in earnest, adds the Herald, continuing:

"First, he has to get rid of the 'Socialist' leaders of the Conservative party and then, when the purge is completed, those who are left will find that, as Lord Rothermere says, 'I shall be with them in their political struggles of the future.'"

On the whole, political opinion here inclines to the belief that Britain, since the days of Joseph Chamberlain, has made little or no progress toward protection, as Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, found to his cost at the general election of 1923. Furthermore, it is generally held that the self-governing dominions, despite all Lord Beaverbrook's assurances to the contrary, will look askance on his scheme for empire free trade.

FLAW FOUND IN WILL OF LORD REVELSTOKE

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The late Lord Revelstoke, the financier who headed the great firm of Baring Brothers and helped frame the Dawes and Young plans, committed a flaw in his own will which is temporarily defeating some of his intentions. The mistake was discovered today by the Hon. Maurice Baring, the financier's half brother, who is a novelist and the only one of the Baring brothers who never had a thorough business training.

Most of the Revelstoke fortune of $12,793,895 was willed to relatives, but in attempting to establish a trust which would protect the capital of his bequest, Lord Revelstoke violated a British rule against perpetuities. The error is all the more curious because he handled billions of dollars in his lifetime and settled the financial affairs of nations and continents but was precise in all his multifarious dealings.

The matter will be rectified by a deed of family arrangement now being drafted.

BRITON SCORES OUR VIEW.

Liverpudlian Says We See England as Impoverished and Inefficient.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The United States view of Britain is that she is a down-at-heel nation, impoverished and inefficient, declares Matthew Anderson, in his report to a Liverpool organization after a two months' tour of America.

"Even British residents in official positions," says Mr. Anderson, "are victims of this prevailing impression. They inquire about England in the tone usually adopted in discussing a dear, sick friend, and it is probably futile to hope that we shall throw off our national habit of self-depreciation."

Mr. Anderson adds that one realized that the attitude of America did not favor the transaction of business. He suggests the establishment of an official press organization for the dissemination of authentic information regarding the empire, backed by a scientifically planned campaign to promote the sale of British goods overseas.

PARIS THEATRES MAY SHUT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—Paris is threatened with a shutdown of theatres, voted last night by the French Association of Theatrical Managers as a protest against government taxation.

Declaring the present taxes abusive and unfair, a resolution empowers the president of the association, Max Mourey, to fix a date for closing the theatres if the government fails to make the tax reduction demanded.

"Unless we obtain relief," said M. Mourey last night, "Paris theatres cannot continue to remain open. Increased taxi fares now are cutting down attendance further, and many of the best houses are operating at a loss."

John Coolidge Picked Name for New Train; "Yankee Clipper" Begins Service April 1

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 7.—John Coolidge's title, "The Yankee Clipper," has been given to the fastest trains in the United States, the most luxurious in the world, according to an announcement made tonight at the general offices of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

The railroad did not order a formal competition of names for the trains, but invited suggestions in the railroad magazine, Along the Line, which is published for the benefit of train employes.

Mr. Coolidge, who is a junior clerk in the operating department, submitted fourteen names. Among them were "The Silver Shaft," "The Twilighter," "The Evening Star" and "The Dusky Flyer."

A total of more than 1,100 were received, but several hundred were made by persons not connected with the railroad. One man in Pittsburgh suggested twenty-five. Another man wrote seven letters from New York, each containing some thirty-five names.

The equipment for the two trains is being constructed on special designs by the railroad and is unmatched by that of any railroad in existence, it is said here.

It was said tonight that every car on the two trains will be named after a famous clipper ship which ran either from Boston or its coastwise trade, or from New York, perhaps to China or Europe. Each car will be decorated with a handsome painting of the ship whose name it bears.

The trains will begin running between New York and Boston on April 1. Starting at each terminal at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, they will make the distance in exactly four hours forty-five minutes, cutting fifteen minutes from the scheduled time for the fastest trains now running on the railroad.

RIO DE JANEIRO GASPS WITH MERCURY AT 92

Beaches Are Thronged as Heat Wave Continues—Water Shortage Felt—Cold Spell Hits Hankow.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 7 (AP).—The heat wave which descended in the middle of December is still holding this city breathless day after day, with the temperature between 92 and 97 degrees in the shade.

In the evenings every one sits on the sidewalks in front of the houses to get a breath of air and during the day the beaches are thronged. Some suburbs were short of water for several hours today. At Nictheroy, across the bay, householders were wholly without water all day yesterday and people brought sea water from the harbor for their household tasks.

The nights have brought no relief and sleep has been almost impossible.

Local weather observers say that such a long heat spell at this season, unbroken by rain, has never been recorded.

HANKOW, China, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Yangtse River Valley today was gripped in the teeth of the most severe cold weather in many years.

The temperature here stood at 5 degrees below zero at 6 P. M. Many destitute persons have been found in the streets frozen to death.

GUELPH TREASURE SOLD TO FRANKFORT DEALERS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—The former Duke of Brunswick has definitely sold the famous Guelph treasure to a syndicate of Frankfort art dealers, who intend to prepare a special illustrated publication and to exhibit the treasure at various German cities with the idea of stimulating public interest in this unique and historical collection of German art of the medieval period which has been in Germany's possession for the past 700 years.

The foundation for the treasure was laid by Emperor Henry the Lion as a gift to his son, Emperor Otto IV. The treasure, which was deposited at a Swiss bank two years ago, will be shown first at one of Berlin's museums and later will be shown abroad.

Parkman to Head St. Mark's School.

BOSTON, Jan. 7 (AP).—Francis Parkman, instructor in history and a tutor in history, government and economics at Harvard, this afternoon was elected by the trustees of St. Mark's School, South Borough, as head master. Mr. Parkman succeeds the Rev. Dr. William Greenough Thayer, who resigned last November after thirty-six years at the head of the academy.

17 MEXICAN LEADERS EXPELLED BY PARTY

OLD QUARREL AT BOTTOM

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 7 (AP).—Nine Senators and eight Deputies, members of the Permanent Congressional Commission, which acts in the place of Congress during its recess, were expelled today from the National Revolutionary Party by action of the executive committee.

Charges of disloyalty and breach of discipline were made against the seventeen men, who were all members of the so-called "White" group of the commission.

The charges grew out of a surprise meeting of the commission yesterday afternoon at which the "White" group managed to assemble a quorum, and constituting a majority thereof proceeded to make several important changes in congressional posts.

The Acting Treasurer and several members of the Administrative Committee of the Chamber of Deputies were ousted and substitutes appointed from among "White" adherents.

This action was taken in the absence of the president of the commission, Deputy Gonzalo Santos, a member of the "Red" or opposing group, who was en route to the United States to join President-elect Ortiz Rubio.

The "White" group has been dissatisfied with the congressional alignment since before Congress went into recess. Just prior to the formation of the permanent commission, they were involved in serious differences with the "Red" group, which Señor Ortiz Rubio was thought to have settled by telephonic intervention from New York.

Both "Red" and "White" groups belong to the Obregonista or majority bloc of Congress, which has controlled that body since the Obregon administration.

Bulgaria Decorates Mussolini.

ROME, Jan. 7 (AP).—Premier Mussolini was invested with the insignia of the Bulgarian Order of Saints Cyril and Methodius by the Grand Marshal of King Boris's court today. The Italian Premier asked him to present devoted thanks to the Bulgarian monarch.

PROTESTS EMPLOYING WIFE.

Nelson Morris, Sued for Divorce, Moves Against Paris Theatre.

PARIS, Jan. 7 (AP).—The matrimonial affairs of Nelson Morris of Chicago took a new turn today when Mr. Morris, who is being sued for divorce by the noted French actress Jane Aubert, brought suit against the Palace Theatre for contracting her appearance there without his authorization.

He placed the cash value of the "moral prejudice" caused him at 25,000 francs (about $1,000) and demanded that the contract be canceled immediately.

Mrs. Morris, who brought suit for divorce on the grounds of abandonment, won an award of 25,000 francs monthly alimony last November pending trial of her suit. Mr. Morris has appealed the court's decision that it was competent, as well as the alimony order. Both appeals will be decided by the Paris tribunal some time in February.

PANAMA CONCESSION SAVED

President Announces New Yorkers' Deposit for Gambling Casino.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA CITY, Jan. 7.—President Arosemena announced today that Ben Gray, representing New York capitalists, had deposited $50,000 to the credit of the Government of Panama in New York this morning, saving his option on the concession to operate a gambling casino here, which would have expired at midnight.

The actual cash will be in the government treasury in ten days, according to the President's statement in the newspaper Tiempo, when, according to the provisions of the concession, a formal contract will be drawn.

The Constitution of Panama was amended in order to make possible this concession, which is expected to stimulate greatly the tourist trade, one of the most important sources of income for Panama.

PANAMA BANK LIQUIDATING.

First National Will Pay Full Value for Its Shares.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA CITY, Jan. 7.—The full amount of their stock subscriptions will be paid to shareholders of the First National Bank and Trust Company, a Panaman concern, according to plans for liquidation announced by the local press today.

The former President of Panama, Belisario Porras, who is president of the bank, and Otto Reil, representing Frederick Deitrich, New York financier, made the announcement of liquidation at a meeting of the local shareholders.

According to the Panama American, Mr. Deitrich holds a majority of the shares. The bank was open for business today and ready to pay the full amount for all shares presented for cancellation.

MORDEN IN MOSCOW ON WAY TO TIGER HUNT

Leaves Today to Rejoin Party in Eastern Siberia After Stay in Paris Because of Illness.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Jan. 7.—William J. Morden of Chicago arrived here today on his way to Habarovsk, in Eastern Siberia, to join George G. Goodwin and George C. Graves in the hunt of the North Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History for the long-haired Siberian tiger.

After a successful expedition for saiga antelopes in Central Asia last Fall, Mr. Morden was compelled to go to Paris for medical treatment owing to an attack of dysentery and blood poisoning, and hardly expected to be able to make the Siberian trip. He is now restored to health and will leave tomorrow to join his companions, who, with hunters, already have entered the forests 100 miles north of Habarovsk.

Mr. Morden hopes to obtain the tigers before the end of March and then to go to the Altai Mountains, in the region of Bessk, for two or three weeks in search of specimens of the rare ibex. He will then return to New York by way of Japan and may stay for a time on one of the Japanese islands in search of other specimens.

BOYCOTT IN INDIA FAILING.

Wholesale Resignations From the Legislatures Not Forthcoming.

BOMBAY, Jan. 7 (Canadian Press).—Several prominent Swarajist leaders have resigned from the legislative assemblies of which they were members, but so far there is no indication of the wholesale resignations which were decided upon by the Indian National Congress as part of the program leading to independence for India.

Several Legislators, who are members of the Indian National Congress, have issued a statement reminding their constituents that they did not stand for election on a Congress ticket.

EIELSON SEARCHERS HELD IN GRIP OF FOG

GALE RACES AT NORTH CAPE

By ALFRED J. LOMEN.
Director of Aviation Corporation's Eielson Relief Expedition.

Special to The New York Times.

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 7.—A heavy Arctic fog, the dreaded, silent barrier of the North, today kept unsolved the mystery of the fate of Pilot T. M. Reid and Mechanics William Hughes and James Hutchinson, missing since Saturday on their way here to join the search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland.

The fog stood like a wall between us and our efforts to find the three lost Canadian fliers who disappeared in a blinding snowstorm after Reid's plane and one piloted by Matt Niemenen had covered the most perilous part of the 550-mile flight from Fairbanks. Niemenen is still at Nulato, the half-way mark, whither he returned after losing touch with Reid en route.

In Niemenen's party is Major H. C. Deckard, Aviation Corporation representative, and Sam Macauley, Canadian mechanic. They made a desperate effort yesterday to fly from Nulato to the coast and resume the search for Reid, but they could get nowhere on account of the fog.

Major Deckard sent me a message last night saying they were forced to return to Nulato again after making an attempt to reach the mouth of the Ungalik River, where they believe Reid may be down.

The same bad weather, I am informed, is preventing Captain H. C. Oakes and Pilot Gifford Swartman from taking off at Fairbanks in an open cockpit plane in an effort to locate the Reid party.

The Nanuk Reports Worse Storm.

Meanwhile, word from the motorship Nanuk, ice-locked at North Cape, Siberia, the destination of Eielson and Borland when they disappeared on a flight from Teller, Alaska, Nov. 9, told of the severest storm of the season, holding Pilots Joe Crosson and Harold Gillam to the ground. They have been waiting for favorable weather to continue their search flights.

Dog teams sent out from North Cape to search the reindeer camps in the district where Eielson's plane was last heard had not returned. The assumption was that they were held by the storm, which turned to the northwest yesterday afternoon and is now blowing a gale.

Natives from a district fifty miles southwest of North Cape had visited the Nanuk, Crosson said, but reported having heard nothing of Eielson's plane in that section. The same was true of reports from the west.

The Russian steamship Stavropol is equipping a dog team expedition to search the country adjacent to the coast between North Cape and Cape Serdze. Crosson said the storm was so bad it would be impossible even to go the three-mile distance to the Stavropol to get weather reports from Wrangel Island, south of which is an area where Eielson and Borland may have landed.

Nobile Rescuer Held Up by Motors.

KRASNOYARSK, Siberia, Jan. 7 (AP).—Forced to remain on the ground while motors are being installed in his airplane, Valerian Chukhnovsky, the Soviet aviator who rescued members of the Nobile crew, has been prevented from undertaking either of two relief expeditions.

He came here from Moscow some days ago en route to join in the search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, American aviators missing off the Siberian coast. Today he received an urgent appeal from the medical authorities at Yakutsk to bring desperately needed vaccine for treatment of three Russian physicians who were suffering from hydrophobia as the results of bites by a mad dog.

The aviator replied that he would gladly undertake the mission as soon as installation of his motors was completed and requested information as to the last possible time the vaccine could be received in order to save the lives of the unfortunate physicians. Such a trip, of course, would delay by several days his search for Eielson.

Makes Vain Effort to Join Search.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 7.—B. W. Broatch, Winnipeg aviator who volunteered to aid in the search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, only to be relieved after the Aviation Corporation's expedition reached Fairbanks, made a vain attempt here today to obtain backing for an independent flight into the north.

Broatch, arriving from Alaska in an effort to obtain a plane, laid his plans before William E. Boening, Seattle airplane manufacturer. Mr. Boening told him that "the Aviation Corporation and the Soviet Government are doing everything possible," and that no planes were available. Broatch left tonight for Vancouver, B. C.

DESCENDANT OF CORTES EXPELLED BY MEXICO

Prince Pignatelli Is Accused of Selling Documents About Conqueror in This Country.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 7 (AP).—The government ordered tonight that Antonio Aragon Cortes, Prince Pignatelli, whom it described as a direct descendant of the Spanish conqueror, Hernán Cortes, be expelled from Mexico as a pernicious foreigner.

On Dec. 31 the government announced that the century-old mystery of the resting place of the ashes of the conqueror had been solved by ancient documents presented by Prince Pignatelli, which the family was said to have kept in secret from generation to generation.

In explaining its order tonight the government said that the only documents received, as it learned by a study of them, were bills and other administrative records of the Hospital of Jesus, founded by Cortes in 1526. The really valuable arcives, according to information which the government stated it had received, were sold by Prince Pignatelli in the United States.

In its previous announcement the government had said that it had been learned the ashes of Cortes had been hidden in the Church of Jesus Nazareño to protect them from Indian vengeance and that the burial place would now become a national shrine.

The government held that the valuable documents concerning the man who established Spanish dominion over the Indian tribes of what is now Mexico were the property of the nation and that Prince Pignatelli had no right to dispose of them. It is understood that the deportation order would be carried out tomorrow.

The Italian noble house of Pignatelli traces itself back to the early twelfth century. Two princes of the family bear the name Antonio and are son and nephew of the head of the first branch of the family.

CRUICKSHANK QUITS CANAL.

General Sails to Take Up Command of Fort Sill Artillery School.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, Jan. 7.—Brig. Gen. William M. Cruickshank, relinquishing the command of the Coast Artillery District of the Panama Canal Department, sailed for New York today on the transport San Mihiel in compliance with the orders of the War Department assigning to him the command of the Field Artillery School at Fort Sill, Okla.

Brig. Gen. Andrew Moses who has been assigned to the command relinquished here by General Cruickshank, is now at the Coast Artillery School at Fort Monroe. Brig. Gen. Moses was recently promoted from the rank of Colonel of the Field Artillery. He was on duty at the War College, Washington, before going to Fort Monroe.

French Pilot Unhurt in Upset.

ISTRES, France, Jan. 7 (AP).—A seaplane piloted by M. Delaunay, a French aviator, who has been planning a flight to South America in the near future, overturned while landing. The plane was damaged but M. Delaunay escaped injury.

HITS HOOVER PLAN TO STABILIZE TRADE

HIS VIEWS ARE ATTACKED

George F. Milton, Chattanooga Editor, Declares Public Preferences Control Newspaper Making.

Special to The New York Times.

WINTER PARK, Fla., Jan. 7.—At the Institute of Statesmanship of Rollins College today Norman Lombard of New York City, executive vice president of the Stable Money Association, opened the first general morning conference with a discussion which aroused much controversy.

His views on stabilization of the purchasing power of the dollar were challenged by economists and editors in the audience.

The "Hoover plan" of reviving business by persuasion and psychological treatment was criticized by Mr. Lombard, who declared that it failed to provide scientific treatment of the all-important money factor. The plan was bureaucratic in tendency and motivated by a conservative desire to retain the status quo, as well as smacking of politics and emotionalism in its approach to the problems of business stability, Mr. Lombard said.

"We must discover what are the causes of fluctuations in the purchasing power of money as a preliminary to considering what can be done about preventing fluctuations in the general level of prices, he said.

"What is needed is open-minded research in this matter and wide diffusion of the facts discovered. We cannot blame public officials for failure to use their powers to promote sound and stable conditions unless an informed public opinion, whose leaders understand the subject, decrees stability."

Holds Money Affects Price Levels.

"Scientists have come to believe," Mr. Lombard said, "that fluctuations of price levels are a monetary phenomenon. When price levels rise, the purchasing power of money falls. When general price levels fall, money rises in purchasing power. While the causes of price fluctuations in the purchasing power of money are numerous, one factor is frequently overlooked and that is, the changes in the demand for and the supply of money."

"Economists are almost totally agreed that a reduction in the quantity of money will cause a reduction in the price level, and similarly that the price level may be made to pursue the even tenor of its way by increasing or decreasing the volume of money and credit in circulation."

"Prosperity," he added, "which is that condition under which there is the maximum average of economic well being, that is, the largest average per capita production and consumption of goods and services, can only come when the level of prices is stable."

Miss Florence Kelly of the National Consumers' League refused to accept Mr. Lombard's definition of prosperity, which she said "you could no more define, than you could infinity."

Accused of Suppressing Facts.

Dean Walter Shephard of Ohio State University accused Mr. Lombard of "cleverly suppressing all the facts except those he wished to use to prove his point."

Victor Rosewater of Philadelphia declared that stabilization of money was impossible as money depended upon distribution, which was essentially unstable.

Chester K. Pugsley of Peekskill, N. Y., spoke briefly to the conference on the importance of psychological factors in shaping business feeling. He insisted that economic laws are paramount.

"The Republican party claims to be the party of prosperity," he said, "but the recent stock market crash proved, I think, how much influence Republicans have on economic laws."

Others who led discussions were Professor Clyde L. King of the University of Pennsylvania, who spoke on "efforts to control public opinion by propaganda." He tilted with Dr. Ernest H. Gruening of Portland, Me., on the question of education and propaganda.

Victor Rosewater led a discussion on "current developments in the press," in which the growth of afternoon newspapers at the expense of morning papers was brought up by delegates.

Dr. Harold R. Bruce of Dartmouth, discussed "How Public Opinion is Made."

Dr. and Mrs. Holt entertained several hundred speakers, students and visiting members of the instiute at a tea this afternoon.

Splices Cable in Deep Water.

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 7 (AP).—The cable steamer Cambria arrived here today after repairing the Halifax-Harbor Grace cable, which was parted by the earthquake of Nov. 18. The Halifax end of the cable was located in 4,800 feet of water, buried so deep in mud that it broke several times while being raised. About fifty miles of new cable was laid before the Harbor Grace end could be raised and spliced.

SPANISH GUARD SAVES TRAIN DURING FLOOD

GERONA, Spain, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Ter and Onar Rivers, swollen by the heavy rains of the past few days, have carried away trees and farm buildings from their banks. A thirty-ton rock was dislodged and flung against the columns of a railway bridge at Pileres, breaking the structure in two.

A switch guard who ran up the track was able to flag the express from France and stop it just this side of the break. A reward has been requested for the guard because of his alertness and prompt action.

Temperatures in Spain have been subnormal since the first of the year. Storms have been raging in the northern section. Snow has been falling since Sunday in the Guadarrama district and the mountains are covered with drifts.

ASKS TIGHTER LAW ON STATE UTILITIES

Mayors' Conference Proposes Drastic Changes to Governor and Legislature.

NEW BUS RULES SOUGHT

Better Food Distribution and Traffic Regulation Revision Are Also Recommended.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—Drastic changes in the public service law to make more effective the regulations of utilities were recommended to Governor Roosevelt and the Legislature today by the State Conference of Mayors, headed by its president, Mayor Frederick C. McLaughlin of White Plains.

Utility holding companies would be subjected to the Public Service Commission and municipalities would have a legal right to be party to all proceedings before the commission in rate-making cases, if the proposals of the Mayors are carried out.

Provision would also be made for the establishment of a bureau in the commission to appraise the property of utilities for rate-making purposes.

As one effective means of eliminating "watered" values the Mayors further suggest that property values reported by public utilities for tax purposes be presumptive evidence of the value of the same property for rate-making purposes.

Would Amend Bus Laws.

Presentation of these recommendations precedes the report of the legislative commission on revision of the public service law, which has been investigating the whole subject of utility regulation. It has not yet formulated its legislative program.

Other proposals offered by the Mayors' conference in regard to utility regulations are:

That provision be made by statute so that a time limitation can be fixed by municipalities in consents for operation of buses within the municipality.

That the Public Service Commission have power to change existing bus routes within a city upon the city's application.

That the Public Service Commission be given power to impose conditions in permitting abandonment of a franchise.

That reports by public utilities to the commission show separately receipts of the utility in each community.

That the commission be empowered to fix rates for water distributed by private water companies except where the municipalities now have regulatory authority.

The Mayors' conference also urged study of a more efficient food distribution system between producers and consumers, a revision of traffic regulations and legislative consideration of permanent registration of voters.

To cut down overinsurance against fire, with resulting incendiarism, another recommendation calls for a law requiring agents and owners to give to fire or police chiefs any requested information on insurance.

On the score of aviation the program recommends that private aviation schools be placed under the supervision of the State Department of Education.

10-YEAR-OLD PLANE IN USE.

German Junkers Has Outlived Six Motors and Still Flies.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Several veteran planes which have seen long and varied service are still being used in Germany, according to a report today from Assistant Trade Commissioner Cooke at Berlin to the Department of Commerce.

The Junkers "F-13," originally named "The Nightingale" and still carrying the first German identification marks "D-1," has completed ten years of flying service, during which time it has outlived six motors. It has made 2,543 flights, has been in the air for 2,403 hours and has covered approximately 350,000 kilometers all over Europe.

Another German plane has more than 3,140 hours to its credit and there are nine other planes which have been more than 2,600 hours in the air.

MACY HITS PARTY ON WATER POWER

By W. A. WARN.

From all that can be learned, Mr. Macy received little encouragement in his attempt to bring about the ousting of Chairman Maier of the Republican State Committee. He admitted himself that some of his friends viewed his fight on the State chairman of his party as "ill-timed" that was the view of Speaker McGinnies who, in addition, is inclined to regard the water-power controversy, which has been in progress at the Capitol for years, as little more than academic where the consumer is concerned.

Governor Roosevelt is watching with interest the indications of Republican strife over the issue that came to him as a legacy from Governor Smith. He would not be at all averse to having the problem "dumped in his lap," as Mr. Macy suggested, but has little hope that the Republicans will go to that length in making concessions. He is getting ready to make the Republican attitude on water power the dominant issue in his campaign this Autumn.

The Governor today was still waiting for a response from the Republican leaders of the Legislature to the friendly invitation in a special message he sent to the Legislature last night for a conference on the proposal contained in it for a new State prison policy. He had not heard from them at the time the Executive offices closed tonight.

In the meantime, the Legislature tomorrow will adopt a concurrent resolution providing for a recess until Monday. John Knight, Senate leader, has already left for New York, and Joseph A. McGinnies, Speaker of the Assembly, will leave for his Chautauqua County home some time tomorrow.

The Governor stated today that he would "cooperate 100 per cent" in the proposed investigation by the two fiscal committees of the Legislature of the prison department and the delay in carrying out construction at the prisons until two or three years after the appropriations had been made by the Legislature.

"But they could have saved the $2,000 set aside for inquiry by walking down a flight of steps to my office, where they could get all the information they legitimately require," the Governor said. "This investigation is pure, unadulterated politics."

Another Special Message.

The Governor sent to the Legislature today another special message calling for a new bond issue for construction purposes related to the State hospitals, in addition to an immediate appropriation of $18,000,000, to relieve present overcrowding that was embodied in a bill sponsored by the Governor and accompanying the message.

In his message, Governor Roosevelt said that in the course of his tour of inspection last Summer he had witnessed shocking conditions of overcrowding at the State hospitals. He urged upon the Legislature his firm conviction that public approval would follow if the lawmakers let "their hearts speak louder than their purse-strings."

The Governor points out that immediate appropriation virtually agreed to by the Republican Legislative leaders will provide for 6,000 new beds, the present extent of overcrowding. He has in mind further provision for 12,000 beds at an approximate cost of $38,500,000 to become available by 1935, which would bring hospital facilities up to the 1935 requirement, leaving the State as its only problem in the future to keep up with the normal increase in the number of mental defectives.

The Governor said in his message:

"My tour of the State and inspection of its institutions during the past year presented to me in a most vivid visual manner the shocking overcrowding in our institutions for the insane which is borne out by the figures of the Department of Mental Hygiene.

"Many of these unfortunate wards of the State, guilty of no crime but mental illness, are compelled to live in quarters which are even more congested than those furnished to prisoners. Many have to climb over the foot of their beds to get into bed. Numbers sleep in the hallways and corridors.

Notes Serious Fire Hazard.

"Meals are served in some places in three shifts. The fire hazard in many places is serious. The people of the State would be literally ashamed if they could see some of the physical plants and equipment which the State has provided for its insane. Many more millions of dollars are required.

"The cost of hospital construction is $3,500 to $4,000 for each bed provided. Not only are the buildings and equipment depreciating from day to day, but the number of inmates is increasing at an even greater rate.

"The Commissioner of Mental Hygiene has most clearly pointed out that the present high percentage of overcrowding is annually rising.

"It is true that these poor inmates are not productive citizens. It is true that the percentage of cures which can be effected for them is low. They are just sick and helpless. But they are human beings; and their families and friends who visit them are human beings.

"To herd these mentally afflicted together without proper sanitary and physical equipment to meet even the most necessary demands of human existence is brutal. To allow these conditions to continue without the most strenuous efforts to remedy them would be criminal. Our more modern social consciousness will not tolerate these barbaric heritages of the past.

"This situation does not permit of piecemeal handling. It must be met fearlessly in a big way. No false sense of economy should prevail here. I, for one, shall never urge the saving of dollars where human lives are involved. It was the shortsightedness of years past which caused the emergencies of the present.

Plans Five-Year Program.

"The sum I am asking this year is only the first step in a definite program. I have taken the year 1935 as a fixed point to aim at, and in that year the normal increase in the hospital population plus the present overcrowding will, it is estimated, call for 18,000 more beds than we have up to now provided for.

"This year I ask for appropriations for 6,000 beds. Next year the Legislature should provide for another 6,000, and in 1932 for the balance of 6,000. This will mean that all of the buildings to take care of these 18,000 patient beds will be completed and occupied by 1936.

"When that date arrives the State will have adequate housing for its mentally defective wards, and after that date all we shall have to do is to keep up year by year with the normal increase in the number of inmates.

"I have been and still am of the opinion, however, that the burden of this necessary building program should not fall on the citizens of the State in any one or two or three years.

"The buildings we erect now should in justice be paid for gradually during many future years of their existence. This can be done only by a bond issue. I requested last year's Legislature to submit such a bond issue to the voters last Fall. This they did not do.

"Last Summer, at a conference called by me to discuss the calling of a special session of the Legislature to consider such a bond issue, the leaders of the Legislature agreed to recommend making available the necessary funds to provide 6,000 additional beds out of current revenues this year if I did not call the special session. In order not to delay, I consented. I, of course, appreciate that this huge sum of $18,800,000 out of current revenue will swell this year's budget. The people of the State, whose money is being spent, will approve your action and mine in letting our hearts speak more loudly than our pursestrings. The cost of the remaining 12,000 beds can, I hope, be paid from a bond issue.

"I am ready to submit to you the plans and specifications for this proposed construction, already prepared by the Department of Public Works. I therefore strongly urge you to pass this legislation without delay."

Practically all the new construction work provided for by the $18,000,000 appropriation would be in the metropolitan district, according to Dr. Frederick Parsons, head of the Department of Mental Hygiene. The largest share would go to the new Pilgrim Hospital at Brentwood, L. I., where provision for 3,000 beds at a cost of $8,928,000 is projected. An addition of 1,500 beds at Creedmoor, L. I., will consume $4,500,000. There will be added 1,200 beds at Central Islip, L. I., at a cost of $3,900,000 and 200 at Kings Park, L. I., which will require $900,000, while $575,000 will pay for 100 added beds at the Harlem Valley Hospital in Dutchess County.

Discussing plans in connection with the prospective bond issue, Dr. Parsons said the department had in mind demolishing the old State Hospital on Wards Island and turning the island back to the city of New York. Part of it is wanted for a sewage disposal plant and part as a resting place for the piers of the Triborough Bridge now in course of construction.

Carrying out of this policy will necessitate provision elsewhere for the 6,833 patients now housed on Wards Island.

Governor Roosevelt expressed regret today that the Republican leaders of the Legislature had eliminated from his emergency appropriation bill before passing it, items of $145,000 for additional bank examiners, urgently needed, and $178,000 for maintenance and personal service in the new State office building at the Capitol.

Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, State Superintendent of Public Works, in a letter to the Governor declared that the office building appropriation was as much of an emergency as any item in the bill, inasmuch as new employes had to be carefully trained for some time before they could be competent for their work in the State's new structure.

Senate Leader John Knight on the floor of the Senate today gave the State Architect's Bureau a clean bill of health, declaring that the present State Architect had brought all the work of his department up to date. The Governor said, that if sincere, the Republican leaders would soon be compelled, in the interest of truth, to make other concessions.

In the meantime the fiscal leaders of the Legislature, Senator Hewitt and Assemblyman Hutchinson, were preparing for the inquiry. Among other things to be investigated is the luxury contemplated in the plans for the new State prison at Attica, now under construction.

Senator Hewitt said today that by doing away with tiled fancy bathrooms, radio installation in all the cells and other non-essential fixtures, $2,000,000, according to experts consulted, could be saved in the building of this prison alone.

Sues for $413,053 Tax Refunds.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—The Paterson Parchment Paper Company, through it Treasurer, Charles H. Cashmore, today filed suit in the Federal court here to recover $413,053.03 in income tax refunds. The company holds that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue from 1917 to 1925 erroneously computed net incomes, cost of overhead, depreciation, &c., in making out the income taxes for the organization.

BILL WOULD AUTHORIZE ALTERNATE JURORS

Measure Outgrowth of McManus Trial, Where Illness of Juryman Delayed Case.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 7.—One or two alternate jurors to be selected in addition to the regular jury panel of twelve men would be authorized by the criminal code if a bill introduced in the Legislature today by Assemblyman Alexander A. Falk, Democrat, of New York City, were enacted. The additional jurors who might be substituted in case of the unavoidable absence of regular jurymen, would be chosen in cases where a protracted trial was indicated.

The bill, said to have the support of several District Attorneys, grows out of the situation recently created at the trial of George A. McManus for the murder of Arnold Rothstein. The illness and withdrawal of one of the jurors caused a delay of several days in the midst of the trial.

Compulsory automobile insurance was proposed in a bill sponsored today by Senator James J. Crawford, Democrat, of Brooklyn. He would require the posting of indemnity bonds or insurance policies to the amount of $10,000 on every commercial vehicle and $5,000 on other cars. At present only autos carrying passengers for hire must take out insurance.

A bill of Senator George L. Thompson, Republican, of Nassau, would bring all water supply companies except those municipally owned and operated under the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission for rate and service regulations.

Mrs. Rhoda Fox Graves, Republican, of St. Lawrence, the only woman in the Assembly, and Senator Seabury C. Mastick, Republican, of Westchester, each offered a bill making father and mother joint natural guardians of minor children to be entitled equally to a child's earnings and services.

CITY TRANSIT BILLS ARRIVE IN ALBANY

One Would Indelibly Write the 5-Cent Fare Into All Future Franchises.

SECOND RULES BUS LINES

Building of Interborough Vehicular Tunnels Is Provided For in Another Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—The first series of New York City bills, all dealing with transit or construction of transportation routes, reached the Capitol tonight and will be introduced in the Legislature tomorrow by the Democratic minority leaders or their representatives.

One of the three measures would permit the city to write the five-cent fare so securely into any future transit franchise that a mere petition for a modification of the rate would bring about a forfeiture of the lease.

Of the other bills, one would allow New York to adopt its own laws as to municipal bus lines, and the second would authorize the Board of Transportation to build interborough vehicular tunnels.

The bills were brought to Albany by Walter B. Caughlin, Assistant Corporation Counsel, as representative of Mayor Walker and the city administration.

Absent in the first batch of city legislation is the bill establishing a board of transit control to unify and direct the operation of the subway lines. It is expected next week along with other city bills.

Would Apply to All Cities.

The new five-cent fare measure is applicable to any city, although sponsored by New York. It confers upon a municipality the authority to provide specifically in any franchise dealing with transportation of persons or property a clause that the franchise will be canceled or forfeited if the lessee or operator petitions for or accepts the benefit of a modification of the rate of fare fixed in the franchise. The bill is not retroactive and can have no effect upon pending litigation with the city by the Interborough Company.

"In many instances," Mr. Caughlin said, "applications for an increase over the rate specified have been made by grantees and the municipalities have been forced to accept the increased rate. It is to prevent such modifications as to rates of fare specified in such contracts without the consent of the municipalities that this bill is introduced."

The bus bill is also general in nature, affecting all cities. It gives sweeping authority to the municipality to adopt local laws with respect to "ownership, establishment, construction, acquisition and operation of municipal bus lines."

Bill Extends Bus Control.

Mr. Caughlan explained that a considerable part of the proposed grant of power in the bill is already vested in city officials by the 1928 terminal permit bill, the additional authority now embracing the right of the city to legislate itself with regard to municipal bus lines.

The proposed extension of power to the Board of Transportation has as its object the utilization of the engineering and other forces of the board in the construction of the Thirty-eighth Street Tunnel between Manhattan and Queens, and The Narrows Tunnel between Brooklyn and Staten Island. Both projects have been approved by the city administration.

"The enactment of the bill is essential," Mr. Caughlan said, "as the Greater New York charter now provides that such work be performed by the Department of Plant and Structures."

A subdivision of the act authorizes the Board of Transportation to conduct hearings regarding the transfer of persons and property within the city limits as may be referred to it by the Board of Estimate. The Board of Transportation has been conducting such hearings but specific powers are desired so that its jurisdiction may not be challenged.

EDUCATORS DEPLORE OUR LEAGUE POLICY

This country's failure to join the League of Nations was deplored by Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve of Barnard College and Professor James T. Shotwell of Columbia University yesterday before 600 women students of Barnard in speeches celebrating the League's tenth year of existence.

"The relations of our country with the League of Nations are distressing and tragic," Dean Gildersleeve asserted. "The United States can no longer stand aloof, wrapping her oceans about her. She is almost certain to be drawn into any major calamity affecting any other nation."

Miss Gildersleeve said there were only two ways of affecting a permanent world peace: First, by developing the "right sort of public opinion which will regard the peaceful order of events as the natural way of settling disputes"; and, second, by "setting up political machinery for the use of nations in place of war."

Professor Shotwell said:

"Our absence from the conference tables of Geneva is blocking the peace of the world. If the United States is to create a page in history of which our children will not be ashamed, we must hurriedly readjust our attitude toward Geneva. There is no escape from the responsibilities of power.

"We talk about peace being created by public opinion, but this is utterly vain unless public opinion is directed by some sort of machinery. The League of Nations has created something indispensable in the growth of internationalism. There is no more superficial judgment than that the League is a temporary device that will soon pass away."

BILL WOULD STOP FLYING PLANES LOW

Albany Measure for State Regulation of Air Traffic Will Be Introduced Today.

BASED ON FEDERAL RULES

Senator Webb Declares Law Will Lessen Accidents Due to Recklessness in the Air.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—Strict regulation of aviation in the State by adopting the air traffic regulations of the Department of Commerce in the State law is proposed in a bill to be introduced in the Legislature tomorrow by Senator J. Griswold Webb of Dutchess and Assemblyman Herbert B. Shonk of Westchester, chairman and vice chairman of the State Aviation Commission.

Under the proposal, if approved by the lawmakers and Governor Roosevelt, stunt-flying will be strictly regulated and low flying over cities and large gatherings would be prohibited.

The regulations, Senator Webb said, would govern all aircraft, whether commercial or non-commercial, within the State, and their violation would be a misdemeanor.

"We have decided upon this step as the simplest and most effective method of meeting a situation existing in this State and which has given rise to numerous complaints to our commission," Senator Webb said. "While the bill contains what we believe to be ample provision for thorough regulation of the increasing air traffic, there is nothing contemplated which will interfere with legitimate flying or obstruct the progress of aviation in the State in the slightest degree."

"The measure is one for safety of pilots, passengers and citizens generally, in the air or on the ground," Senator Webb stated. "We believe it will supplement existing aviation statutes and further help to stamp out accidents due to reckless flying or lack of proper precautions."

One of the situations designed to be corrected is that existing in the vicinity of the Long Island flying fields. Nassau County citizens proposed a new State aviation law to the commission in an effort to guard against stunt fliers from crashing into their homes. The commission believes that the proposed law will more effectively accomplish all of the purposes of the law suggested by the Nassau County citizens. Senator Webb said the measure has been approved by the president of Roosevelt Flying Field.

The measure defines aircraft as "any contrivance now known or hereafter invented, used or designed for navigation of or flight in the air, except a parachute or other contrivance designed for such navigation but used primarily as safety equipment."

Aircraft used exclusively in the government or State service would be exempted from the provisions of the proposed law.

ASKS AID FOR PORTO RICA.

Bishop Willinger Urges Catholic Women Leaders Here to Act.

The need for a public hospital to care for the sick and dying inhabitants of Porto Rico was emphasized by the Right Rev. Bishop Aloysius Willinger, speaking at a special meeting of Catholic women leaders, in the home of Miss Georgine Iselin, a Countess of the Papal Court, at 536 Park Avenue, yesterday afternoon.

Bishop Willinger told how he had washed dying children, whose parents, ignorant of the everyday rules of health, failed to do so. He declared that because the natives were uneducated in the prevention of disease, tuberculosis was spreading rapidly. "In my diocese of Ponce, which extends over an area of 1,800 square miles, the death rate is increasing, and will continue to increase all over the island unless Catholics throughout America join us in our attempts to reorganize health conditions down there," he said.

He paid tribute to Governor Theodore Roosevelt Jr. for his efforts to check the spread of disease. Lady Armstrong presided at the meeting.

ASKS HOUSE TO ORDER RAIL HOLDING INQUIRY

Parker Offers Resolution as Prerequisite to Consolidation and Speed Is Expected.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—A measure designed to have Congress informed on the operation of railway holding companies as a prerequisite to consolidation legislation was introduced in the House today by Representative Parker of New York, chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, which would handle any such legislation.

It was in the form of a resolution proposing that the commerce committee of a subcommittee be authorized to investigate and report upon the ownership or control, directly or indirectly (through stock ownership or otherwise), of stock, securities or capital interests in any common carrier engaged in the transportation of persons or property in interstate commerce, by holding companies, investment trusts, individuals, partnerships, corporations, associations and trusts, and the organization, financing, development, management, operation and control of such holding companies."

The resolution further would authorize like investigations of carriers so engaged. The report would recommend legislation deemed advisable.

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Rules and the belief in administration circles is that it will be reported immediately to the House for consideration under a special ruling so that hearings can be started soon.

Hearings on Mr. Parker's bus bill providing for recognition of bus companies in interstate commerce will be held tomorrow by the Commerce Committee.

SENATE GROUPS TIED IN COMMITTEE FIGHT

SMOOT MAY EVEN RESIGN

Would Quit Chair on Loss of Administration Control—Borah Sees Issue Taken to Floor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The conflict among Republican factions in the Senate over the seating of new members of the Finance Committee, and which is involved with the tariff bill fight, came sharply to the surface today.

The quarrel centres around a demand by the progressive group that Senator La Follette of Wisconsin be appointed on the committee to fill one of the vacancies created by the retirement of Senators Edge of New Jersey and Sackett of Kentucky to become, respectively, Ambassadors to France and Germany.

The regular Republicans, opposed to giving a place to Mr. La Follette, deadlocked the Committee on Committees, which will meet again tomorrow in an effort to settle the issue.

At the height of the discussion Senator Smoot of Utah uttered a threat that if Mr. La Follette were placed on the Finance Committee he might resign the chairmanship.

The insurgents met during the afternoon in the office of Senator Borah of Idaho and agreed to stand pat for Mr. La Follette and to enter into no compromise by which the Wisconsin Senator would accept membership on the Interstate Commerce Committee instead of on the Finance Committee. The insurgents clearly indicated that if Mr. La Follette were turned down by the Committee on Committees and by a Republican caucus they would carry the fight to the floor, where it was indicated they would find support among Democratic members of the tariff coalition.

Progressives Stand on "Principle."

The progressives assert that Mr. La Follette is entitled to the Finance Committee assignment and that the Committee on Committees can refuse to name him "only by juggling." They declare the issue is one of principle, that Mr. La Follette's brand of Republicanism is being made the test, and that without doubt if he were voting with the regulars he would get the committee place with no questions asked.

The regulars have two applications for Finance Committee membership by Republicans senior to Mr. La Follette as possible means of blocking the selection of the Wisconsin insurgent. They are apprehensive that assignment of Mr. La Follette to the committee might mean loss of control by the Republicans, and even a reorganization which would give Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the ranking Democrat, the chairmanship.

The Finance Committee is composed of eleven Republicans and eight Democrats. One of the Republicans is Senator Couzens of Michigan, who is not strictly regular. It is pointed out that if Mr. La Follette were seated there would be Democratic control any time that Messrs. La Follette and Couzens chose to vote with the Democrats, or ten coalition votes against nine Republicans. The Finance Committee handles tariff bills and other measures affecting the revenues.

"I haven't said I would resign as chairman if Senator La Follette is named to the committee," said Senator Smoot, "but I feel that I should if the committee falls into the hands of those opposed to the administration. This is one committee which ought to be in full accord with the administration. We want some one who at least has the desire to accept the recommendations of the administration.

Committee on Committees in Tie.

Mr. Smoot, because of his Finance Committee chairmanship, withheld his vote in the Committee on Committees when it was tied, 4 to 4, on the selection of successors to Messrs. Edge and Sackett. The members of the Committee on Committees are Senators McNary of Oregon, chairman; Reed of Pennsylvania, Moses of New Hampshire, Bingham of Connecticut, Oddie of Nevada, Capper of Kansas, Nye of North Dakota, Smoot and Deneen of Illinois.

Senator Reed moved that Senators Goff of West Virginia and Thomas of Idaho, both stanch regulars, be named to the two vacancies. But Mr. Thomas had not even applied for the place and sent word that he would not stand against Mr. La Follette.

On Mr. Reed's motion, Reed, Moses, Deneen and Bingham, all opposed to Mr. La Follette, voted in the affirmative, and Oddie, Capper, Nye and McNary in the negative.

Some of the regulars, anticipating such a development, had filed an application for Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island, who also outranks Mr. La Follette in length of service. Objection has been made to Mr. Metcalf on the ground that New England already holds three places on committees, and with him out of the picture there remain Messrs. Goff and La Follette.

The Progressives to the end of the day blocked all efforts at compromise.

"We regard the fight now as symbolical of the fight we are making on the floor on the tariff bill," said Senator Borah.

When advised that Senators Metcalf and Goff might be chosen, Mr. Borah said:

"I don't know how they'll juggle it, but they'll have to do it. Of course, if they can find two bona fide seniority members, they have a technical advantage. Everybody will know, however, why they did it."

Asked if the issue would be carried eventually to the floor, Mr. Borah said it was "entirely conceivable."

This drew a reply from Senator Moses, who said:

"I agree with Senator Borah that it is conceivable that this controversy, whatever it may ultimately be, can be brought to the floor of the Senate. In my opinion, however, the proper place for settling a question of this character is within the Republican conference, which Senator Borah honors by his absence. Nor have I ever seen Senator La Follette in a Republican conference."

FIVE OF FAMILY KILLED IN INDIANAPOLIS FIRE

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 7 (AP).—An explosion caused by an attempt to kindle a fire with kerosene caused the death of five persons in one family today.

Donald Klusner, aged 31, who poured the kerosene on the fire; his wife, Hattie, 25 years old, and three of their children, aged 3, 5 and 6 years, were victims of the fire. The only survivors are 6-month-old twins.

The mother died a heroine, carrying three of the children to a window and dropping them to the ground. Then she collapsed and died several hours later in a hospital.

Yale Dean Says All Young Students Are Not Superior.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 7.—That an inferior class of students must be considered among the younger men held by President Lowell of Harvard as superior to older men entering college, was asserted today by Dean Mendell of Yale. This class, he said, includes students who go to college for family reasons, or because it is the thing to do.

"These are in our universities only to acquire some vague thing known as en education," he said. "Among these a later age for starting their college course seems preferable. Such students, who are very lange numerically, come here at an early age are apt to be mentally immature and find themselves ill-suited to adapt themselves to the company of older men. Not having any definite concept of what they want, they are apt to lose themselves completely and become snowed under."

COALITION DEFEATS SILK TARIFF RISE

Insurgent Democratic Group Again Rules Senate Action With 40-to-32 Vote.

RAYON YARN RATES LIFTED

Western Republicans Line Up to Back Committee Increase on Sugar if Bounty Plan Is Lost.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The Senate coalition of Western Republicans and the Democratic minority got back into its winning stride today and resumed control of the tariff situation, after having been beaten when its ranks were split by the force of State interests during consideration of the wool schedule. The coalition defeated, by a vote of 40 to 32, a Finance Committee amendment to the tariff bill increasing the duty on woven silk fabrics.

Consideration of the silk schedule was concluded with the one principal vote and the Senate took up the rayon schedule. Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee was hopeful that action on the rayon duties would be finished tomorrow, and he will then ask the Senate to take up the controversial sugar schedule.

The fight over sugar duties is expected to prove one of the most stubborn waged in the Senate since the tariff bill was reported on Aug. 19. Nevertheless, coalition and regular leaders are of opinion it will be prolonged.

Senator Grundy of Pennsylvania, who yesterday withheld his vote on committee amendments increasing the duty on woolen yarns because of his own interest in the woolen industry, voted for the amendment to increase the duty on silk fabrics.

Vote Retains House Rate.

The amendment would have a duty of 60 per cent on woven silk fabrics or broad silks used in the manufacture of all classes of silk goods. The House voted to retain the 55 per cent o fthe present law, and the Senate's rejection of the committee motion meant approval of the House rate.

Senator Blaine of Wisconsin led the attack on the proposed increase. He contended that the Cheney Company, Connecticut silk manufacturers, made handsome profits and was not in need of greater protection and assailed the plea for a rise made by Horen B. Cheney in tariff hearings. Mr. Blaine insisted that other silk manufacturers admitted that the increase was unnecessary. Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee defended the amendment.

The vote was:

FOR THE AMENDMENT—32.

Republicans—31.

Slight Increase on Rayon Yarns.

The Senate agreed to a committee amendment slightly increasing the duty on rayon yarns, but deferred until tomorrow action on other amendments to the rayon schedule.

Senator Copeland, Democrat, of New York, one of the few to debate the rayon duties, opposed the increase. He criticized President Hoover for allowing his party in Congress to enter upon "a general revision of the tariff, for that is what it amounts to."

In the fight over the sugar duties the Senators from Western sugar-beet-growing States have agreed to support the Finance Committee amendment, which represents an increase over present rates but a decrease from the rates in the House bill.

The progressive group is inclined to support a bounty plan for the benefit of domestic producers, as proposed by Senator Borah, but it has not yet been decided whether a vote will be demanded on the matter. If the bounty plan comes to a vote, and is beaten, as now seems probable, most of the progressives will stand by the Finance Committee rates.

BORDER INSPECTOR KILLED.

Slain by Mexican Who Is Shot by Officer's Companion.

ALICE, Texas, Jan. 7 (AP).—William McCaleb, border patrol inspector at Laredo, was shot and killed here today by Pedro Rabonda, a Mexican who escaped from the Texas Penitentiary in 1927.

Habonda, who had been arrested by the officer, later was shot three times and captured by Buck West, another border patrol officer.

McCaleb was slain by the prisoner while West was in a house searching for a suspect wanted by the border patrol. The officers had been assigned to special work here.

Garment Workers Hold Elections.

Garment workers voted in a referendum yesterday to elect officials of the International Garment Workers' Union. Elections were held at many polling places in the city, as well as in several other garment centres in this country and in Canada. The results will be announced in a few days.

HOOVER GROUP READY FOR SOCIAL SURVEY

The Research Committee on Social Trends, recently appointed by President Hoover to direct an extensive survey into the every-day life of Americans, was incorporated yesterday under the laws of Delaware, it was announced by Gilbert Montague, 67 Wall Street, counsel for the committee. The incorporated name of the organization is Research Committee on Social Trends, Inc. Its president is Professor Wesley C. Mitchell of Columbia University.

The charter empowers the corporation "to direct surveys and to study subjects in compliance with the request addressed by the President of the United States to Wesley C. Mitchell, Charles E. Merriam, William F. Ogburn, Howard W. Odum and Shelby M. Harrison, as outlined in the official White House statement released on behalf of President Hoover on Dec. 19, 1929."

The five experts, it was previously announced, will use funds provided by the Rockefeller Foundation for research work into a wide field of activities which were summed up in an official White House statement. They include the improvement of national health, changes in the maladjusted, the effect of urban life upon mental and physical health and many other problems.

SMITH SKYSCRAPER HAS A NOVEL DESIGN

Setbacks of the Empire State Building Will Begin With the Sixth Story.

LIFTS IN CENTRE CYLINDER

Plan Will Save Space and Assure Light and Air to Neighbors—Mooring Mast Offers Problems.

Details of architects' plans for the Empire State Building, which will occupy the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria, and modern ideas in office construction intended to make economically feasible the carry of the structure, with its dirigible mooring mast, to a height of about 1,300 feet were explained yesterday by former Governor Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob following a meeting of the directors of Empire State, Inc.

Although the skyscraper will be eighty-five stories high, light and air protection will be afforded to neighboring buildings as well as to tenants through a setback and floor arrangement designed by Shreve, Lamb & Harmon, the architects, and known as the "Empire State formula," Mr. Smith announced. Only five floors will be constructed over the entire ground area, setbacks starting with the sixth floor, although the law would allow twelve or thirteen stories on the Fifth Avenue frontage and about seventeen on Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Streets before setbacks start, he said.

"Elevators, cable shafts and other utilities will be grouped in a central cylindrical 'well' which will conserve space," he asserted. "Although our building will contain some 3,000,000 square feet of rental space, we are taking about 300,000 square feet less than the amount permitted under the zoning laws for a building plot of such tremendous size. We believe we have solved the problem of light and air in congested districts and feel that if our formula is followed such buildings can go up without endanegring the health of tenants or neighbors. In our plan we recognize that the maximum floor space is not always the most desirable space and we substitute for great unbroken floor areas in the lower floors smaller but better lighted space on the upper floors. Instead of being distributed throughout the wings of the building, the sixty-four elevators, together with mail chutes, staircases and other such equipment will be centred in space tapering upward to a cone. Because of this new grouping the structure could easily have been carried to a greater height than is now proposed, but we are measuring its rise by principles of economic investment rather than by spectacular standards."

The dirigible mooring mast, due to rise more than 200 feet above the roof, is presenting technical problems, but these are no greater than might be expected under such a novel plan, and authorization already has been given for steel specifications sufficient to bear the added burden of the mast, Mr. Smith said. The chief problem now confronting the engineers is that of anchoring the tail of the ship. At most fields the ships are held at the rear by a cable attached to a revolving disk, he explained.

"We are assured of cooperation of the Navy Department in our plan to provide a convenient landing spot in the city for airships of future passenger lines and will be able to make use of the Los Angeles in testing the mast," Mr. Smith added.

There will be five entrances to the building, the architects explained. The tower proper will rise fifty-six stories, starting from the twenty-ninth floor. Space will be sufficient to care for 20,000 to 25,000 tenants, and observation space will be provided on the roof. Demolition of the old Waldorf is nearing completion and the new building, to be the highest in the world, is scheduled to be finished in May, 1931.

Mr. Smith received a belated Christmas present from the Board of Taxes and Assessments yesterday when the board granted his request that taxes on the buildings occupying the site west of Fifth Avenue, from Thirty-third to Thirty-fourth Street, be remitted on the ground that the buildings are being demolished and are of no actual value. This is the site for the Empire State Building.

As the assessed value of the buildings is more than $2,000,000, the board's action yesterday means a saving to the former Governor's corporation of between $55,000 and $60,000. The land on which the buildings stand is valued at $13,000,000 and full taxes must be paid on this, the board told Mr. Smith.

ATEN PORTRAIT TRIAL ENDS.

The third trial of an action by George De Forest Brush, portrait painter, of Dublin, N. H., against Mrs. Florence Brooks Aten of Stoddard, N. H., founder of the Brooks-Bright Foundation, ended yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Walsh and a jury. The court directed the jury to return a sealed verdict which will be opened this morning.

The artist alleged that Mrs. Aten paid him $10,000 in July, 1927, for a portrait of herself in medieval costume and, deciding that she did not like the picture, subsequently asked him to repaint it. Mr. Brush said he spent four months in the Alps and four months here completing the portrait and that when he presented a bill for $7,000 Mrs. Aten refused to pay it because she still disliked the portrait.

Files Judgment Against Church.

Judson Hyatt, an assistant corporation counsel, who resigned some months ago as a trustee of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, filed a judgment in the Supreme Court yesterday against the church for $10,067 in a suit for $10,000 for legal services between May and December last in connection with the proposed lease by the church of its property at Madison Avenue and Thirty-first Street for the erection of a modern business building. The papers were served on Herbert Currier, treasurer, on Dec. 11 last, but no answer was filed by the church.

JEALOUS MAN KILLS WOMAN, ENDS LIFE

GUESTS FIND THE BODIES

Hostess Had Left Them a Few Minutes Before to Prepare Meal in the Kitchen.

Special to The New York Times.

RUMSON, N. J., Jan. 7.—Harry Johnson, 38 years old, unmarried, of Fair Haven, killed Mrs. Phoebe Geiger, 32, wife of William Geiger, a plumber, of Bruce Place, Rumson, in the cellar of the Geiger home, and then committed suicide with a second pistol shot.

"If you don't break with your husband and come with me, I'll kill you,' is the threat Johnson made to the woman, whom he met a few months ago at a dance, according to the police.

About 2 o'clock, Mrs. Thomas Wilson of Lenox Avenue, Rumson; Mrs. Louise McCormack of Branch Avenue, Red Bank, and Emil Nasusch, father of Mrs. Geiger, heard a report like two muffled shots. The two women were dinner guests of Mrs. Geiger, who while working in the kitchen, answered a knock on the back door ten minutes before the shooting. Mr. Nasusch thought the sound might be from the furnace, and as he descended the cellar steps he saw the two bodies. The police and Recorder J. Carew learned that after Geiger had found out that his wife was going out with Johnson, he had obtained her promise that she would never go out with Johnson again.

Walter Rankin of Fair Haven reported to the Rumon police that he had taken Johnson, a painter, to Rumson and let him out near Bruce Place. He said Johnson told him to go to the corner of Forrest and Lakeside Avenues and wait about ten minutes until he returned. Recorder Carew said he had been told that Mrs. Geiger had been threatened by Johnson recently and that she was in constant fear of her life.

BRITISH 'WHO'S WHO' ERRS ON LINDBERGH

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is listed in the British "Who's Who" for 1930 as the husband of "Elizabeth, daughter of Dwight Davis, U. S. Ambassador to Mexico." This incorrect listing was disclosed yesterday when the first copies of this famous and usually accurate biographical index were distributed in New York.

As almost everybody in the United States knows, and it was presumed that the rest of the world knew, Colonel Lindbergh married Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico. Mr. Morrow, however, has a daughter, Miss Elisabeth R. Morrow.

Macmillan Company, publishers, of 60 Fifth Avenue, are agents for the British "Who's Who" in this country. It was said at their office that the error had been called to their attention a week ago, and that they had communicated with the publishers in London, where all the editorial work in connection with the index is done.

Many of the first copies had already been distributed, it was said, but belief was expressed by the New York publishers that correction would be made in London in later bindings of the index. The incorrect listing was described as a typographical error made by the English editor.

The issue of the British "Who's Who" for 1930 is the first in which Colonel Lindbergh has appeared. There are many other Americans of world-wide reputation among the 35,000 names listed, including President Hoover, former President Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith, J. P. Morgan, the Rockefellers, Professor John Dewey of Columbia University and Senator Borah. But the British biographers have not listed leading American stars of sport, such as James Joseph Tunney, Helen Wills Moody, William Tilden and Bobby Jones, although Mary Pickford and Charlie Chaplin are listed.

Dwight F. Davis is correctly listed in the "Who's Who." He is a former Secretary of War and is now Governor General of the Philippine Islands.

FERRYBOATS TO GET COMMUNITY NAMES

MOVE STARTED BY WALKER

President Roosevelt, Rodman Wanamaker and Mayor Gaynor Will Not Be Changed.

Albert Goldman, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, said yesterday that acting on the suggestion of Mayor Walker he had applied to the Department of Commerce for permission to change the names of sixteen municipal ferryboats, substituting the names of communities for those of private individuals. The list of ferryboats follows, giving present names and proposed names:

Joseph J. O'Donohue to Greenpoint, Bird S. Coler to Fordham, William Randolph Hearst to Whitehall, George W. Loft to West Brighton, Murray Hulbert to Rockaway, Edward Riegelmann to Bushwick, Julius Miller to Stuyvesant, John A. Lynch to Harlem, Maurice E. Connolly to Elmhurst, Henry Bruckner to Tremont, John H. McCooey to Seagate, William T. Collins to Astoria, Henry A. Meyer to Williamsburg, Frank A. Cunningham to Flatbush, Joseph A. Guider to Flushing and Joseph K. O'Brien to Jamaica.

Police Commissioner Whalen began naming ferryboats after prominent men while he was Commissioner of Plant and Structures under former Mayor John F. Hylan. Six boats built by the present administration have been named the American Legion, Greenwich Village, Mott Haven, Dongan Hills, Yorkville and Melrose. The newest vessel, for the institutional service on the East River, will be called the Chelsea. The names of the President Roosevelt, Rodman Wanamaker and Mayor Gaynor will not be changed because of the outstanding personalities of those men, who have died, Commissioner Goldman said.

FOURTH WIFE GETS SAVIN'S $10,000,000

THEY GOT SHARE EARLIER

$1,000,000 Said to Have Been Paid to Each During His Life—Other Wills Filed.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Jan. 7.—The will of Frank W. Savin, who died at his home, Winchester Hall, Port Chester, on Dec. 31, and was the oldest member of the New York Stock Exchange when he retired in 1927, leaves almost the entire estate, estimated at $10,000,000, to Anna Mary Schleis Savin, who became his fourth wife in 1927. At that time she was employed in his household as a maid and Mr. Savin was 76 years old.

The document, filed for probate by William M. Sullivan, attorney, cuts off Mr. Savin's children, Frank W. Savin Jr. and Mrs. Josephine W. Sargent "because I have made a cash settlement with them during my lifetime and have obtained from each a general release of any and all claims they have against my estate." It is understood that each received $1,000,000 from their father, and that in the event of a contest the estate will contend that these payments were sufficient considerations for the release of their claims.

Mr. Savin, who made his will on Nov. 16, 1928, gave $3,000 each to Nicholas J. Crean and Charles N. Murphy, employes, and named Mr. Murphy, the New York Trust Company and William M. Sullivan as executors. His adopted daughter, Murial Elizabeth Savin, who received $2,400 a year, was the only member of the family to be named by the will with the exception of his wife, who will receive the principal of the fund for the adopted daughter on the latter's death.

The will also gives to Mrs. Savin "the entire household furniture, useful and ornamental, and all other goods contained in the premises together with my automobiles and accessories thereto." The will also says:

"If any person named in this my last will and testament shall directly or indirectly institute or become an acting party to set aside, interfere with or make null any provision of this will, or to offer any objections to the probate thereof, or shall in any manner directly or indirectly contest the probate thereof, then and in that event I revoke the provisions of this my last will in his or her or their favor."

Relatives Share Hammond Estate.

The will of Caleb S. Hammond, president of C. S. Hammond & Co., publishers of maps and geographies, was filed in the Surrogate's Court in Brooklyn yesterday, disposing of the bulk of his estate to his wife and children.

Mr. Hammond, who lived at 445 Washington Avenue, Brooklyn, died on Dec. 14. In 1900 he founded the firm which bore his name. The value of his estate was given as "more than $50,000."

The will bequeaths to Mrs. Grace Sims Hammond, the widow, all personal effects and a life interest in the residuary estate. Trust funds of $10,000 each are set up for the benefit of a sister, Mrs. Susan H. Stillwell of Palo Alto, Cal., and a brother-in-law, William M. Stillwell of Oswego, N. Y. The document provides that stock in the firm of C. S. Hammond & Co., as contained in a trust fund created by the will of Mr. Hammond's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Bird, is to be divided equally among his three children. They also inherit the principal of the trust funds created by his will on the death of the life beneficiaries.

The children are Caleb Dean Hammond of Maplewood, N. J.; Robert Sims Hammond of Westbury, L. I., and Mrs. Helen H. Faber of 47 Cambridge Place, Brooklyn.

Housekeeper Gets White Property.

The will of George White, educator and the oldest living alumnus of the New York University Law School until his death on Dec. 21, was filed for probate yesterday, disposing of an estate valued formally at "less than $10,000." After directing specific bequests totaling $3,000, he left his residuary estate to his "faithful housekeeper," Margaret Ahern of 202 East Ninetieth Street.

The specific bequests were $1,000 to a grandson, Harry Kreuter of Pelham, N. Y., and $500 each to his friend and physician, Dr. Henry L. Purdy, and to Mr. White's three children. The children are George White Jr., Forest Hills, L. I.; Mrs. Mary C. Kreuter, Hotel White, Lexington Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, and Mrs. Lillian C. Burbank, 175 West Seventy-sixth Street.

Mr. White was principal of Public School No. 70 in East Seventy-fifth Street for more than twenty-five years before his death. His home was at 104 East Eighty-first Street.

Two sisters and a sister-in-law share equally the residuary estate of Alexander Gilbert, a former vice chairman of the board of directors of the Irving Trust Company of New York City who died Dec. 20 at Plainfield, N. J. The will was probated there in Surrogate's Court. The estate is valued at $1,000,000. The Plainfield Trust Company of Plainfield is named executor.

Those who share the residuary estate are Mrs. Jean Gilbert Hees of South Orange and Mrs. Emma Gilbert Hager of Chevy Chase, Maryland, sisters, and Mrs. Ella May Gilbert, a sister-in-law.

OPENS TELEPHOTO SERVICE.

LONDON, Jan. 7 (AP).—Telegraphic transmission of photographs between England and the Continent was inaugurated today by Postmaster-General H. B. Lees-Smith.

The British Postmaster sent a picture of himself by wire to the German Minister of Posts, accompanying it with greetings and the expression of the hope that the new service would strengthen friendly relations between Britain and Germany.

The service will be available soon to the public over the counter of any postoffice in England for transmitting photographs, pictures, drawings, typewritten documents or manuscripts to and from Germany.

STONEHAM'S PAYMENT OF $50,000 EXPLAINED

Was Intended to Pacify Losers in E. D. Dier & Co. Crash, Leo J. Bondy Says.

The purpose for which Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants Baseball Club, says he gave $50,000 to Harold Norris, a lawyer and bail bondsman, in January, February and March, 1925, was revealed for the first time yesterday by Leo J. Bondy, counsel for Mr. Stoneham. At the time Mr. Stoneham was on trial before Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow, charged with using the mails to defraud customers of the bucketing firm of E. D. Dier & Co., and he subsequently brought suit against Mr. Norris to recover the money.

This suit, brought in the Supreme Court in 1925, and Mr. Norris's counterclaim for $50,000 for alleged services in obtaining a license for the Dempsey-Firpo fight in 1923, both went unnoticed for more than four years until they were brought to light by the present litigation between Mr. Stoneham and Magistrate Francis X. McQuade over the latter's removal as treasurer of the baseball club.

"Despite the fact that Mr. Stoneham was subsequently acquitted of the charge brought against him at the time of the failure of E. D. Dier & Co., he realized that there might be some feeling against him among the customers of that house," Mr. Bondy explained. "Mr. Norris informed Mr. Stoneham of several instances of such ill feeling and suggested that he give him a sum of money to meet some of these claims. In order to re-establish a feeling of good-will Mr. Stoneham agreed to the plan and gave Mr. Norris $50,000. This was done with the understanding that Mr. Norris was to keep an accounting of the money spent and report to Mr. Stoneham later. This he failed to do and Mr. Stoneham brought suit."

In the papers filed with the suit no mention is made of the purpose for which the money was turned over to Mr. Norris, other than that he was to expend it "for Mr. Stoneham's use" as his agent. Mr. Norris in turn denied that he had ever received the money and brought his counterclaim for a like amount. Since the filing of the suit and the counterclaim no effort has been made by either party to obtain action and the case has remained untried on the Supreme Court calendar.

PRIMO DEMANDS FOES SUBMIT OR GET OUT

Recalcitrant Assemblymen Expected to Refuse Either to Occupy Seats or Resign.

MADRID, Jan. 7 (AP).—General Primo de Rivera, Premier-Dictator, through a royal decree published in the Official Gazette today, told his political adversaries either to get into the fold or to get out for good.

He gave the former Presidents of the Senate, the House of Deputies and the Council of Ministers ten days in which to take the Assembly seats, theirs by right. He allowed an equal period to the various Assemblymen who had been elected by the academies, universities, law colleges and other groups.

The decree was intended to clear up the status of those Assemblymen and to determine whether they are attempting to revive the old political party system which the present government abolished.

Count de Bugallal and Melquiades Alvarez, former Presidents of the lower chamber, and Joaquin Sanchez Toca, former President of the Senate, have announced they will refuse to accept their seats. A similar attitude was taken by former Premiers Jose Sanchez Guerra and Marquis de Albucemas.

Those elected by the Madrid Law College were Sanchez Guerra, Santiago Alba, former Foreign Minister, and Eduardo Ortega Gasset. None of these will accept a seat in the Assembly. The latter has been a fugitive from justice since he led the protest of newspapers against the government. Señor Alba has been out of Spain since the dictatorship began.

WILL VOID MARRIAGE IF IT IS CHILDLESS

Poet and Woman Writer Sign Unique Nuptial Compact in Pennsylvania.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUDERTON, Pa., Jan. 7.—Entering upon what they described as an "experimental marriage," William K. Moyer, a Chicago poet, and Miss Ethel Olyette Amelia Oen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Oen of Sun Prairie, Wis., signed an agreement here stipulating that either might seek an absolute divorce at the end of two years if no child was born of the union in that time.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Magistrate Stoudt on Thursday, but did not become known until last night. Prior to the marriage the couple drew up a legal-looking document expressing the terms of the contract and stating that parenthood was the prime object of the marriage.

While in Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Moyer met Josephine Haldeman-Julius and her "companionate" husband, Aubrey Roselle, and the four discussed the marriage relationship.

"Their idea of marriage," said Mrs. Moyer, "is to live apart as much as possible. Each works his or her own way and their prime object is to avoid children as long as possible. Ours is the exact opposite. We want a child."

The bride, a former student at the University of Chicago School of Journalism, is 25 years old. Her husband is 37. He is a member of the International Rebel Poets Society and similar organizations.

NEWARK BUDGET INCREASED

$21,407,675 Tentatively Set as 1930 Total Without Pay Rises.

The budget of the city of Newark for 1930 was tentatively placed at $21,407,675 at the City Commission conference yesterday. This figure, which is about $500,000 more than last year's budget, does not provide for pay increases to policemen and firemen.

The estimate for the Department of Public Safety was left open to allow a welfare committee to be heard on the question before a final decision is made, but the commission is generally opposed to any increase.

R. T. WILSON LEFT $10,000,000 ESTATE

Two Daughters Are to Receive Fortune After Death of His Widow.

SECRETARY GETS $7,500

Will of Capitalist and Turf Patron Provides for Eventual Setting Up of Trusteeship.

The will of Richard T. Wilson, capitalist, turf patron and president of the Saratoga Racing Association, filed yesterday for probate, leaves the entire estate, estimated at $10,000,000, to his widow and two daughters, except for a bequest of $7,500 to his secretary, Harlem G. Rubert, together with the cancellation of any unpaid note of which Mr. Wilson was an endorser "in recognition of his faithful services to me."

The will, made on Dec. 22, 1928, in the presence of Florence Stillman of 156 East Fifty-second Street and William M. Sullivan of 520 Park Avenue, who is attorney for the estate, names the widow, Marion Steedman Wilson, Robert Goelet and Mr. Rubert as executors and trustees without bond. It provides that in the event of Mr. Goelet's death or failure to qualify, Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, his brother-in-law, is to act. Upon the death of Mrs. Wilson the duties of the executors and trustees will cease and the entire estate will be put in charge of the Central Union Trust Company as trustee.

Mr. Wilson gave to his widow all household effects, including furniture, books, silver and works of art, together with the life use of his Newport residence. She also receives the entire income of the residuary estate. Upon her death half the estate goes for life to their daughter, Louisa Steedman Turnure, and the other to the second daughter, Marion Mason Wilson. If either daughter dies without issue the share left to that daughter becomes the property of the survivor. The will also makes this provision:

"I direct that the income herein bequeathed shall not be assignable by any beneficiary, either by assignment or by any other method, and the same shall not be subject to be taken by his or her creditors or by any legal process whatsoever."

Mr. Wilson also made the following provision concerning the disposition of his property:

"I hereby authorize and empower my said trustees and executors to sell all or any part of my property, real or personal, at public or at private sale, at such times and on such terms and conditions, and for such consideration as to them may seem meet, without obligation upon any purchaser to see the application of the proceeds of any sale, and thereupon to make, execute, acknowledge and deliver good and sufficient deed or deeds of conveyance, or instruments of transfer, thereof. I except, however, from the authority and power given herein by me to my said executors and trustees, the right to sell any real estate at Newport, R. I., which I have herein bequeathed to my wife, Marion Steedman Wilson, for and during the term of her natural life, except with the consent of my aforesaid wife."

The will concluded with the following paragraph:

"I have made no other bequests to my children for the reason that adequate provision has already been made to them."

Mr. Wilson died at his home, 300 Park Avenue, on Dec. 29 of bronchopneumonia. His daughter Louisa, who is Mrs. David A. Turnure, lives at 37 East Fifty-third Street. His racing and breeding properties, his Newport estate and realty and securities, make up the bulk of his property.

TAFT ENTERS HOSPITAL WITHOUT LAW BOOKS

Will Read Detective Stories a While and Then Continue Recuperation in South.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Chief Justice Taft entered Garfield Hospital today for a brief rest. In about a week, if he feels equal to it—and he thinks he will—the Chief Justice will go to Asheville, N. C., for a prolonged stay in the mountain air.

Mr. Taft has been suffering from insomnia and nervousness which has brought on a recurrence of an old bladder trouble. His physician told him that if he would go to the hospital, without taking his law books along with him, and would relax by reading detective stories and other light literature that he would soon be on his feet.

The Chief Justice sent word to court attachés tonight that he is already feeling better and looked with pleasure to his approaching holiday in North Carolina.

FAY IS HELD IN CONTEMPT.

Larry Fay, reputed milk racketeer, was adjudged in contempt of court yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Levy for failing to obey a court order directing him to appear for an examination regarding his financial assets. The order was obtained by Abraham Berson, who alleged he was unable to collect a $12,000 judgment against Fay because he did not know how much property Fay owned or where it was located.

Justice Levy directed Fay to pay a $250 fine unless he appears in court for the examination on Jan. 20. Berson's complaint discloses that the action involves notes given by Fay to a third person and assigned to Berson for purposes of the suit.

Paducah (Ky.) Banker a Suicide.

PADUCAH, Ky., Jan. 7 (AP).—W. S. Bradshaw, 54 years old, lawyer and president of two local banks, died today from self-inflicted knife wounds. He was discovered in his office last night with cuts from a pocket knife on his throat, wrists and chest. Officials of the two banks said his affairs with these institutions were in perfect order and could assign no motive for his act save that he had been suffering from melancholia for some weeks. He is survived by a widow and a daughter.

TEACHERS' RETIREMENT NEARER SETTLEMENT

Board Meets With Berry and Ryan—Post of Assistant Secretary Proposed.

The Teachers' Retirement Board, which for two and one-half years has been without an elected secretary because of conflict between its city and teachers' members, went into executive session yesterday with Controller Berry and George J. Ryan, President of the Board of Education, both of whom are members of the board by virtue of their official positions, in attendance. The board then conducted an unusually quiet business session. It was tacitly admitted that Controller Berry and Mr. Ryan had endeavored to "pour oil on troubled waters."

Although the election of a secretary was discussed at the executive session, no vote was taken. That some sort of understanding was reached became apparent, however, when Frederick Z. Lewis, a teachers' member of the board, offered a motion that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment be requested to create a position of assistant secretary to the board at a salary of not less than $3,500 a year. The motion was unanimously adopted.

During the business session a number of teachers' prior service claims were passed upon. These claims precede the issuance by the board of prior service certificates, which affect teachers' pensions. In the past the board has been split over the matter of investigating the accuracy of the claims made by the teachers.

Mr. Ryan suggested yesterday that "the work of checking certificates already issued should stop, but current prior service claims of teachers should be carefully investigated."

"It is my opinion," Mr. Ryan continued, "that unless the board has evidence of fraud or illegality prior service certificates, if issued, should stand." His statement met with no objection, and Controller Berry suggested that at the next meeting "this entire matter be thoroughly and finally discussed and a definite agreement reached." His suggestion was adopted.

RUDICH WILL APPEAR AT BAR INQUIRY FRIDAY

Magistrate Willing to Answer All Questions—Shoplifter He Freed Is Convicted.

Magistrate Mark Rudich announced yesterday that he had accepted the invitation of the grievance committee of the Brooklyn Bar Association to appear before it on Friday in its investigation into his eligibility for reappointment.

The magstrate, who was publicly charged with inefficiency by Chief Magistrate McAdoo in his freeing of two women shoplifters, said he was ready to answer any questions about the administration of his office or about anything else in his career.

Magistrate McAdoo said yesterday that he had delivered all the papers in the Rudich case to the committee at its request.

One of the shoplifters was found guilty yesterday in Special Sessions, Brooklyn, on a charge of petty larceny and was sentenced to five months in the workhouse. She is Mary Fox, 26 years old. She declined to give her address. She was accused by Viola Baker, a saleswoman in the Gloria Dress Shop, 1,069 Flatbush Avenue, and Howard Moyer, manager of the shop, of attempting to take a dress out of the store under her skirt.

V. H. MULLER LEFT $391,942.

Brother, Former Wife and Friend to Share Importer's Estate.

An appraisal of the estate of Valentine H. Muller, importer of oriental goods and a large stockholder in Muller-Phipps, Ltd., who died May 10, 1928, and left $391,942 net, shows that he divided the bulk of his estate among his brother, George Muller Jr.; his former wife, Mrs. Lillian Seaton Carley of Grand Haven, Mich., and his friend, Mrs. Grace Conklin of 64 Kensington Road, Bronxville. Each residuary legatee receives $126,751 for life with the exception that Bronxville realty, worth $6,300, goes to Mrs. Conklin. A gift of $5,000 was left to W. H. S. Fernald, a friend.

The gross estate amounted to $431,497, of which $394,492 was in securities, including 322 shares of Muller-Phipps, Ltd., for which $135,000 was paid by his associates, Louis E. Phipps, H. H. Hertz and J. Fred Gale, who under the will had the right to buy the stock. The appraisal did not include the value of a villa at Cap D'Ail, France. Mr. Muller died at Beirut, Syria, of injuries sustained in a motor car accident while crossing the Arabian desert.

MAN FREED BY VITALE FACING NEW ARREST

These minutes the chief magistrate forwarded to the Bar Association for its inquiry, where they joined affidavits obtained by Mr. Whalen.

Mr. McAdoo said that he would receive an entirely new complaint against Fawcett today on the same charge and issue the new warrant.

Mr. Whalen received news of the Chief Magistrate's course at Police Headquarters late in the day and at the same time disclosed that the Bar Association committee was inquiring into evidence which might connect Magistrate Vitale with bail bondsmen in the Bronx. It has been charged that a few bondsmen had a monopoly on the trade there, and Mr. Whalen was asked if the data before the Bar Association contained references to Daniel J. Iamascia, a guest at the hold-up dinner in the Bronx.

"Iamascia is one of the men," said the commissioner. "But he is not the main one. There was another man favored even more."

Iamascia was one of three men charged by Mr. Whalen with having aided in restoring Detective Johnson's pistol and jewelry and money taken from guests in the allegedly staged robbery at the dinner. He was freed of the charge on Monday in the West Farms court.

Mr. Spence disclosed that the Bar Association inquiry would cover a wide range in taking in the case of Fawcett and several other aspects of Mr. Vitale's conduct as a magistrate. The committee is pressing the investigation with the approval of Victor J. Dowling, presiding justice of the Appellate Division. Charges against magistrates must go before the Appellate Division, which alone has power to remove.

Mr. Spence will preside at the hearing, and George Z. Medalie, former Special Assistant Attorney General, who successfully prosecuted charges against former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp, will question the witnesses. The other members of the committee are Earl S. Barnes, former United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner, Harold Harper, John E. Joyce, Newman Levy, John B. Lindsay, former Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb, Robert E. Manley, chief assistant to United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle; Benjamin A. Matthews, John M. Minton, John Caldwell Myers and Raymond L. Wise.

A mass of data about Mr. Vitale has already been assembled by the committee, according to Mr. Spence. First there is the charge of Mr. Whalen that the magistrate consorted with men with criminal records at the dinner at the Bronx Romand Gardens on Dec. 8.

Then there is the charge of Mr. Whalen that the hold-up was staged to permit Terranova to get back the "murder contract." The return of Detective Johnson's stolen pistol by the magistrate also comes in the scope of the inquiry.

In addition, according to Mr. Spence, the committee will inquire into evidence linking Mr. Vitale with Rothstein. United States Attorney Tuttle has turned over to the committee evidence on two phases of this reputed connection. One part of this evidence comes from a folder in the files of the slain gambler and concerns a $19,940 loan obtained from Rothstein by the magistrate. Mr. Vitale has said that a friend borrowed the money without his knowledge.

Drug Ring Data on Hand.

Mr. Tuttle has also sent to the Bar Association evidence gathered in the arrest of alleged leaders of a narcotic distributing band, including a list of "numbers frequently called" found on one prisoner which contained the name and telephone number of Magistrate Vitale.

Mr. Whalen's investigation of information that Magistrate Vitale conferred with Terranova and Jack (Legs) Diamond, one-time Rothstein bodyguard, at a Harlem night club while Diamond was a fugitive under indictment for the Hotsy-Totsy Club murders, may also be included in the scope of the questioning of Mr. Vitale, it was said.

Mr. Whalen said last night that while his detectives had been unable to confirm this meeting they had obtained from witnesses testimony that both the magistrate and Diamond had been visitors at the club, although they had not been seen together since Diamond fled. Mr. Whalen said his investigation was continuing.

He also said that detectives were searching for Terranova in various parts of the country. They are anxious to question him about the Roman Gardens hold-up and the "murder contract." At Terranova's home in Pelham Manor it was said that it was not known when he would return.

CRAIN VIEWS LOCALE OF ROTHSTEIN CASE

PROMISES REPORT JAN. 15

District Attorney Crain made a personal visit yesterday to the Park Central Hotel in connection with his revived investigation of the murder of Arnold Rothstein, the gambler. The visit, he said later, mainly was "to weigh the probabilities of the conflicting theories" in the shooting, as revealed by his reading of the minutes of the Rothstein grand jury investigation of more than a year ago.

He was accompanied by Assistant District Attorney Brothers, who had charge, under former District Attorney Banton, of the prosecution in the recent trial which resulted in the acquittal of George A. McManus as one of the slayers, and Deputy Assistant District Attorney Marro, the first official of the Banton staff to begin an investigation on the night of Nov. 4, 1928, when Rothstein was found dying in the service entrance to the hotel.

Mr. Crain and his two aides were escorted by one of the hotel managers to the room on the third floor which had been occupied by McManus on the night of the shooting under an assumed name. The officials then traversed the corridor and stairway from the room to the service entrance at Fifty-sixth Street and Seventh Avenue, the route which it was contended at the McManus trial Rothstein took after he was shot.

The prosecutor then walked around the Seventh Avenue side of the building to Fifty-fifth Street, observing the spot where the pistol, believed to have been used in the shooting, was found in the middle of the surface car tracks near the Fifty-sixth Street corner, and then returned to his office.

He announced that it was his intention in a few days to visit Lindy's Restaurant in Broadway, near Forty-ninth Street, whence Rothstein was called to McManus's room twenty-five minutes before the shooting.

"I have formulated no conclusion on the Rothstein murder," he announced. "The entire matter still is open in my mind. I shall begin tonight the reading of the voluminous testimony at the McManus trial, but I shall be ready to make an announcement on my probable action in the Rothstein murder on the date I promised during my campaign for election, Jan. 15. My study of the grand jury minutes led to my visit to the hotel today. What other moves I may make before Jan. 15 will depend on my reading of the McManus trial record."

EXPOSER OF FRAUD SLAIN IN CHICAGO

Victim of 'Money Machine' Game Had Aided in Trapping Police Sergeant in Swindle.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Jean B. Hassewer, a cabinetmaker, who was a victim in a "money machine" fraud two months ago, was found shot to death on the steps of his apartment here tonight.

Mr. Hassewer had complained of the fraud to the State's Attorney's office and alleged principals, including a police sergeant, had been trapped. Coroner Bundesen said there was little question but that Mr. Hassewer paid with his life for exposing the swindle.

Mr. Hassewer in November reported that last July J. E. Dewey had persuaded him to invest $1,000 in a box-like machine which in demonstration turned out new $100 bills. When it failed to work for him he complained, and Dewey, he said, told him the inventors had fallen foul of Federal agents. A certain police sergeant, Mr. Hassewer said Dewey informed him, could "fix the case."

Persuaded that he, as an investor in the machine, would be involved by the Federal agents, Hassewer said he paid $1,500 more.

Police Sergeant William Begley, a member of the force for twenty years, was caught with Dewey in a trap laid by the State's Attorney. Bogley was discharged from the department and indicted for operating a confidence game and for extortion. Dewey was indicted on similar charges.

Reports Count de Janze Will Wed

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—It is reported tonight that Count de Janze, young French sportsman, is to be married to a Mrs. Ryan of New York in Paris on Wednesday. Count de Janze was divorced from his first wife following the shooting incident in which she wounded Vincent de Trafford of London, and then shot herself.

M'ANDREWS TO TAKE NEW MAGISTRATE POST

Named by Walker for Washington Heights Traffic Court—McLoughlin Succeeds Him.

Mayor Walker appointed City Magistrate Thomas F. McAndrews, close personal friend of John F. Curry, leader of Tammany, to a full term of ten years yesterday. The appointment was for a newly created magistrate's position, and Magistrate McAndrews, who lives at 131 West Sixty-first Street, will preside in the new traffic court to be established on Washington Heights.

Magistrate McAndrews resigned his former place on the bench to accept the full term appointment. The Mayor appointed Lamont McLoughline of 804 West 180th Street for the unexpired part of that term, which will expire on Dec. 31, 1931. Mr. McLoughlin is president of the Minqua Club and chairman of the Democratic County Committee of the Twenty-third Assembly District. He has been a practicing lawyer for forty years and was formerly an Assistant Corporation Counsel.

The Mayor also appointed Thomas J. Dolen Bronx Park Commissioner to succeed Joseph P. Hennessy, who was recently retired by the Board of Estimate as over the age limit. Mr. Dolen, who is Democratic leader of the Fourth Bronx Assembly District, has served in the office of the Borough President of the Bronx since 1894 and until his appointment as Bronx Park Commissioner was the Bronx Borough Secretary.

The failure of Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn, Bronx Democratic leader, to appoint a State Athletic Commissioner in place of District Attorney George E. Brower of Kings County on Monday at the time he announced the reappointment of James A. Farley and William Muldoon as members of the commission caused no uneasiness in Tammany. It was said that Mr. Flynn and Tammany were in complete accord on appointments, and that there was no reason to believe that he would not appoint Brig. Gen. John J. Phelan, choice of Mayor Walker and Mr. Curry, instead of David F. Soden, the candidate of John H. McCooey, Brooklyn leader.

1929 LEGISLATURE IN TRENTON ADJOURNS

Gives Up Hope of Getting Court Decision on Hague Contempt Appeal Before Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—One day less than a year after its organization, the 1929 Legislature adjourned sine die today. The 1930 session will convene on Tuesday of next week.

Ever since finishing its routine business early last Spring, the Legislature has been meeting at intervals to be in position to take any action necessary on the effort to hold Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City in contempt for refusing to answer questions as to his wealth. As the litigation is still before the Court of Errors and Appeal, the Legislature today gave up hope of a decision before next week. A new question is expected to be raised by Mayor Hague if the incoming Legislature attempts to hold him for the alleged contempt of the 1929 session.

Senators Simpson and Richards clashed over a demand by Mr. Simpson that the Legislative Election Law Revision Committee give attention to alleged ballot frauds in Atlantic County.

Mr. Simpson pointed out that the committee had spent three days in Hudson County without finding any fraud and declared that it should not quit work before inquiring into election conditions in Atlantic County.

Senator Richards said that he had talked with Senator Wolber, the committee chairman, of violations in Atlantic, which he laid at the door of the Democrats, and declared that he would welcome an investigation.

Senator Wolber said that he, too, would be glad to go to Atlantic County, but said that he had been informed by the Democratic chairman there that such a visit would be fruitless.

Laredo Consulate Kept Closed.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 7 (AP).—Acting Foreign Secretary Jenaro Estrada today said that the Foreign Office had taken no step to reopen the consulate at Laredo, Texas, closed on Dec. 18 in protest against the attempted arrest of former President Plutarco Elias Calles. He also stated that the Washington State Department had not taken up the matter with his office.

Prof Bliss Perry to Retire.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 7.—Professor Bliss Perry of the English department of Harvard College and Professor Leo Wiener of the department of Slavic languages and literatures will become professors emereti at the close of the current college year. Both have been connected with the university for almost thirty years.

HOOVER TO KEEP OUT OF PARTY ROW HERE

Considers Controversy Over Chairman Maier to Be a Purely State Matter.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Hoover will decline to interfere in New York State politics and will not participate in the controversy over William J. Maier, Republican State chairman, it was said at the White House this afternoon. The President regards the factional differences as purely a State matter, and will therefore observe a "hands off" attitude.

Although it has been said that attempts would be made to enlist the President's aid and that his political advisers would be consulted by New York State politicians, the White House had heard nothing of this up to tonight. It was said that even if Claudius H. Huston, Republican National Committee chairman, was approached on the subject, he would not be able to persuade Mr. Hoover to intervene.

Ogden L. Mills, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, said this afternoon that he was "mixing very little" in the factional fight.

"I see that some of them object to my being a 'dicator'; well, I'm against that, too," he said.

F. H. SMITH BOARD ABSENT AT HEARING

Directors of Banking Concern Indicted in Washington Disregard Grand Jury Here.

COMPANY'S BOOKS SOUGHT.

Many Victims of Alleged Mail Fraud in Sale of Securities Said to Live in This City.

The Federal grand jury and Nugent Dodds, special assistant to the United States Attorney General, waited in vain yesterday for the appearance of some of the seven directors of the F. H. Smith Company, investment bankers, who were indicted by the Disrtrict of Columbia grand jury on Dec. 10 last, on charges of using the mails to defraud. Mr. Dodds expected to obtain the books of the company and also to begin presenting evidence with a view to obtaining indictments here similar to those returned in Washington.

The indicted directors, against whom evidence is to be presented to the grand jury in this Federal district, are Daniel R. Crissinger of Marion, Ohio, Controller of the Currency in the Harding Administration and former Governor of the Federal Reserve Board; Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, Republican, of Maryland; B. Bryan Pitts, chairman of the board of directors of the company; Samuel J. Henry, president of the company; C. Elbert Anadale, vice president; John H. Edwards Jr., secretary, and Major Henry C. Maddux, proprietor of a chain of hotels in Washington.

Investigation of the activities of the Smith Company had been under way for months in Washington by the Department of Justice before the indictments were returned there.

The company's headquarters, originally in Washington, were moved to 285 Madison Avenue because, Mr. Dodds said, of publicity from the Senate and by the newspapers. Indictments are being sought here, he declared, because many of the company's alleged victims live in New York. According to Mr. Dodds the Smith Company sold $30,000,000 worth of securities, some of which were valueless, others of doubtful value and few of real value.

Pitts, Edwards and Gerald Trimble, a member of the company against whom no indictment is to be sought, were under subpoena to appear at the Federal Building yesterday. Nothing was said about what steps would be taken to compel the men under subpoena to put in an appearance, but it was understood that judicial action would be taken on the subject today. Mr. Dodds alleged that the Smith Company had an added incentive to move to New York in that, by so doing, it hoped to save its books from the District of Columbia grand jury.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The move against the F. H. Smith Company in New York City came as something of a surprise here. It was intimated, however, that the plan was instituted because, it is alleged, Smith Company officials said they were unable to produce important books and documents here because they were essential to the conduct of their New York office. It was said here that the subpoenas issued for the books in New York included also records of the Union Trustee Company and the Columbia Trustee and Registrar Corporations, both described as subsidiaries.

SAYS COUNTRY CHURCH IS DYING IN AMERICA

Dr. W. R. King Urges Home Missions Conference to Meet Needs of Revolution in Thought.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 7.—Dr. William R. King of New York, executive secretary of the Home Missions Council, speaking before the members of the three commissions to which mission work programs are committed at the First Presbyterian Church here this afternoon, declared that the country church was waning and dying, and the it would be necessary to revise the whole home mission program.

"There has been a tremendous revolution in the history of the Church," said Dr. King. "We must determine in the face of it where the home missions are today.

"I think the feeling is growing on all administrators that pure home mission work must be done in the future more and more in a cooperative way. We have to rediscover America, and we are finding some very disturbing things. The country church is waning and dying. Small communities are over-churched. The proportion is amazing. The revolution under our eyes is found in the mode of thinking of the whole country. Radio, the auto and good roads have made us absolutely a new nation."

Dr. Warner H. Wilson of New York, secretary of the church department of the Country Life National Board of the Presbyterian Church, and Dr. John Moore of New York, representing the Federal Council of Churches, and also the Baptist Board of Home Missions, also spoke.

ANNE MORGAN TESTIFIES.

Testimony of Miss Anne Morgan and several other witnesses before the grand jury yesterday resulted in the ordering of an indictment against Irene Thompson, 27 years old, of 37-39 Forty-eighth Street, Astoria, Queens, for the alleged theft of Miss Morgan's lambskin coat from a room in the American Women's Association Club at 353 West Fifty-seventh Street last Dec. 20.

The coat was stolen from a chair while Miss Morgan, an officer of the club, was attending a meeting in the executive offices near by. Detective Devery of the Astoria station arrested the accused woman on Jan. 2 at her home, and alleged that he had found her wearing the garment, which she had had altered. The defendant will be arraigned for pleading in General Sessions tomorrow.

KILLS HIS BROTHER IN ROW OVER ESTATE

CONFESSES AFTER ARREST

Admits He Planned Slaying After Dispute Concerning $25,000 Property, Police Say.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Jan. 7.—John Miller, 43 years old, a farmer living near here, shot and killed his brother Everett, 47, this morning and then tried to shoot the wife of a neighbor. He was disarmed and captured and confessed, according to the police, that he had planned to kill his brother after a dispute over a $25,000 estate.

Miller arrived at the home of John Van Blarcom, a neighbor, this morning, with a shotgun over his shoulder, and remarked, "Well, I done it." Van Blarcom, puzzled, asked him what he was talking about.

"I just shot Everett dead, and to prove it go to the barn and see if he isn't there under a blanket," replied Miller, at the same time pointing his shotgun at Mrs. Van Blarcom. Her husband lunged at Miller and wrested the gun from his grasp. Then he called Corporal Kubler of the Allendale police, who arrested Miller.

Everett Miller's body was found in the barn. He had been shot in the back. Lieutenant Detective Larry Dawson of the prosecutor's office soon had what he said was a complete confession from the prisoner. Miller was locked up in the Bergen County jaid to await the action of the grand jury.

TWO DIE IN HOTEL FIRE.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Jan. 7 (AP).—Two guests of the Wick Hotel here were burned to death and five slightly injured early today by fire which forced seventy-four scantily clad persons to flee from the hotel and seriously damaged the three-story hostelry.

Authorities were investigating reports of incendiarism. The damage was estimated at about $75,000.

Flames blocked the front stairway and entrance of the hotel and guests leaped from windows and slid down ropes to safety. Few had time to dress and many braved blizzard conditions in night clothing. The building had no fire escapes, police said.

Aeolian Progress

For nearly half a century The Aeolian Company has been serving the public of New York and its environs.

All during that time Aeolian history has been characterized by unvarying adherence to its original standards, by its many creative achievements, and by its progressive and pioneering spirit.

These are reflected in the steady growth of the Company—a growth which has necessitated the four changes in the location of Aeolian Hall itself, and eight large Branch Stores in the Metropolitan District.

Choosing a Piano

Most of the well-known pianos of the world may be inspected and heard within a short distance of Aeolian Hall. And, while comparison of all the leading makes is desirable, the advantage of making your final selection at Aeolian Hall is two fold. For here, if your interest is in a Reproducing Piano, you will find the Duo-Art in all three of the international pianos—Steinway, Weber and George Steck. Or, if your need is for a fine Grand Piano, there is the world-famous Weber, the historic George Steck, the Stroud and the Wheelock—all instruments of tradition and long standing.

And whether your instrument is to be a magnificent Steinway Duo-Art or a dainty Small Grand or Upright, you will find in each piano from Aeolian Hall that inbuilt integrity, that intrinsic value which is the truest economy.

SCOTT'S FINAL TEXT OF HIS NOVELS HERE

VALUE PUT AT $150,000

Some Additions, Written In by Author More Than 100 Years Ago, Said to Be Still Unprinted.

After lying in the strong rooms of publishers in Edinburgh, Scotland, for a century, the original text which Sir Walter Scott prepared for the definitive edition of his novels has come to this country.

The forty-one old leather bound volumes, over which the Scotch novelist labored during his declining years as a means of freeing himself from oppressive debt, are valued at $150,000 by Temple Scott, adviser to book collectors, 269 West Seventy-second Street, who obtained them recently.

Sir Walter himself referred humorously in his journal to this definitive edition as his "magnum opus"—shortening the term occasionally to "magnum." These volumes constitute a complete set of printed sheets of his novels, with thousands of alterations and corrections, more than 1,100 pages of additional matter in the handwriting of Sir Walter or his amanuensis, and the holograph manuscripts of the introductions to the romances and tales.

Two Fragments Included.

There are also original manuscript fragments of two uncompleted romances, one of which was to have been called "Thomas the Rhymer," and the other "The Lord of Ennerdale." The volumes also contain the holograph manuscript of the dedication of the definitive edition "To the King's Most Excellent Majesty," and the manuscript of Scott's prospectus to the public for this final edition of his works.

For the preparation of this edition Scott's publisher, Robert Cadell, made a special impression of the first collected edition of Scott's works, bound loosely with many blank pages inserted for such corrections as the author might care to make. These blank leaves, however, did not suffice Scott, and for each novel he prepared corrections which covered many extra pages of various sizes. Subsequently the publisher bound in these sheets with the original printed ones.

After Scott's death the forty-one volumes remained in the possession of Cadell. In 1861 they were acquired by Adam and Charles Black, who purchased the Waverly Novels copyrights from Cadell for £27,000. The volumes remained in the possession of the publishers until the present owner bought them.

Not all of the material Scott set down in these volumes has been used by the various editors of his works, according to the new owner. Much of the matter remains unpublished still.

It was from the profits of the publication of this definitive edition of his works that Scott hoped to free himself from the debt he had incurred because of the failure of Ballantyne, the printer, and Constable, the publisher, in whose business he had become involved as a partner. Scott recorded in his journal that in the Spring of 1829 he had finished the first volume and had also written the text of his prospectus for the new edition. On March 4 of that year he made this entry:

"At 4 o'clock arrives Mr. Cadell with his horn charged with good news. The prospectus of the Magnum Opus already issued only a week, has produced such a demand among the trade, that he thinks he must add a large number of copies, that the present edition of 7,000 may be increased to the demand; he talks of raising it to 10,000 or 12,000. If so I shall have a constant income to bear on my unfortunate debts."

Again in his journal he notes on March 6 of the same year that he "made considerable additions to the appendix to general prefaces."

On the following day he notes: "Sent my proofs. This extrication of my affairs, though only a Pisgah prospect, occupies my mind more than is fitting."

On May 12 Scott notes that "The Magnum has taken extremely in Ireland, which was little counted on, and elsewhere."

just transfers the argument over the tariff rate from what will be the tariff rate to what will be the base line for measuring the tariff on the sliding scale.

"The sliding scale would be price-fixing if the changes in duty were exactly corresponding with the change in price; but if a change in duty does not correspond to the change in price, it would not be price fixing but merely a tendency to stabilize prices.

Sees Protection for Consumer.

"He personally believes that a sliding scale would be practicable and that it represents a scientific effort to protect the consumer and at the same time the domestic industry. However, he says it must be administered by somebody who knows the sugar business.

"The Garner plan will not work. The first thing to do in attempting to work out a sliding scale is to get an honest price on sugar. It can be done; it is just a matter of administration by some one who knows the sugar business.

"The important factors are the price where the sliding scale begins; also the price at whatever base line may be determined upon and the method of administration. All plans mentioned publicly today, so far as he knows, would give the edge to some factor or other in the industry."

A letter written by Maurice Mermey, associated with Baldwin, to H. H. Pike Jr., dealing with the sliding scale, said:

"The authority for the information enclosed, entitled 'Report on Sliding Scale,' is Mr. Thompson, sugar expert, United States Tariff Commission."

At anothe point the letter said:

"There has been no request directly from the White House for a sliding scale; Mr. Hoover would like a plan worked out if possible so that if the C. and F. price in New York got too high the duty would not raise it. A request for a so-called workable sliding scale has been made by Senator Smoot. Mr. Hoover has worked out no sliding scale, nor has Representative Fort."

Denies Knowledge of Letter.

"Do you know Mr. Thompson?" Senator Walsh of Montana asked Mr. Baldwin.

The witness replied that he did not, and that he knew nothing about the letter which Mr. Mermey had written.

"Well, you appreciate that puts both you and Mr. Thompson in an embarrassing situation?"

"It does; I did not know anything about the thing at all," was the reply.

In a letter [illegible] 31, to Mr. Pike, who is a New York sugar broker, Mr. Baldwin, labeling it "confidential" said, among the important things which have been done," Mr. Mermey had "established a friendly basis with the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee and with the offices of a number of Senators against the time when sugar gets back into the news and we want to work fast and easily."

The letter said in part:

"One of the first moves was to follow through steps already started to interest Senator Borah in the bounty scheme. The purpose here is to bring out in a striking way the cost to the American consumer in subdizing the sugar beet farmer indirectly through a tariff increase. This matter is cooking along; whether it eventually will prove completely successful we cannot say yet.

Tells of Approaches Made.

"Contact was made with Mrs. Norton, Representative from New Jersey, and permission was obtained to inspect the protests she has received against a higher duty. This data may prove useful at the proper time.

"Michelson, publicity director of the Democratic National Committee, at our suggestion, will try to get a Senator to write all deans of agricultural schools for their opinion as to whether a tariff increase would really help American beet sugar farmers.

"Mr. Memery has had several talks with William Hard, who is one of Hoover's 'medicine ball cabinet.' Hard is both a correspondent and a broadcaster on politics. Hard now knows the bottlers' position and the background on the refined differential. He is ready to spring a good story at the proper time.

"In listing the above items as indicative of our activity during the last two weeks I have purposely refrained from too specific mention of contacts made and maintained with a number of Senators, including Republicans, Progressives and Democrats. These relations have been in every instance absolutely straight and above board, and extremely useful to us in following intelligently the 'fever chart' of interest in sugar."

Offered Ideas to Democrats.

Senator Robinson of Indiana read another letter, from Mr. Mermey to Mr. Baldwin, under date of Sept. 17, said:

"I saw Charles Michelson, publicity director of the Democratic National Committee, and laid three propositions before him:

"1. Get a Senator, or Mrs. Norton, to ascertain women's opinion on sugar tariff.

"2. Make a survey of the daily newspapers of the country to find out how many are for and against the sugar raise.

"3. Write to all agricultural deans in the country as a matter of seeking information, to determine how many believe or disbelieve that a raise in the sugar tariff will be beneficial to the continental industry.

"He ruled out 1 and 2. He said women's clubs were controlled by cliques, composed largely of wealthy women, and therefore Republican women. It would be most difficult, anyway, to get any organization to come out definitely, he said.

"Number 2. He said: Republican newspapers outnumbered Democratic newspapers five to one, and therefore we would start under a handicap.

"He thought 3 was a good idea, and said he would try to get a Senator to write such letters. If the response is favorable, it will be made public; otherwise, not public.

"I am sending Michaelson all our releases. Naturally, the Democratic committee provides a splendid springboard for our stuff."

The witness admitted that, while he had suggested that President Machado of Cuba make an "unsolicited subscription to the Leonard Wood Memorial," the idea came to naught.

"This inspiration came to you because of your interest in General Wood?" he was asked.

"No, because I was interested in promoting good relations between Cuba and the United States."

"But your interest was sugar-coated, and with $2,500 a month pay," Senator Robinson added.

Sought Aid of Ex-Gov. Smith.

A letter by Mr. Baldwin addressed to Mrs. Henry Moskowitz of New York, under date of May 24, said in part:

"If sugar has become the symbol of the present tariff raid, Governor Smith is the man to bring its implications to the people of the country. I do hope that you share my enthusiasm for this opportunity to do something really big and terribly needed, and that you will pass that enthusiasm on to him."

"Has he made any speech or given any statement?" Senator Caraway asked.

"Not yet."

"That implies that he has promised to do so," Senator Caraway said.

"That was not my implication; he has not promised to do so, so far as I know," was the reply.

In a letter to Baldwin on Sept. 10, Mermey said he found at the Navy Department that it would be impossible to hold the Philippines in the event of war with Japan, and that this government would make no effort to do so.

Planned a "Burkian Speech."

"Here's my thought," the letter continued. "I think I can write out a Burkian speech against a sugar increase, pointing out the possibility of breaking of the Washington Arms Conference provisions, and also the possibility of seeing a situation develop which would be inimical to the cause of naval reduction—all because the hot-housing of sugar in the Philippines at the expense of the United States and Cuba may force us to defend those islands by greatly increasing the size of our navy adequately to police the Pacific and by transforming Guam into a Pacific Heligoland.

"I'll write the speech (which will be buttressed with strong quotes), send it to New York for criticism, and if it's OK, try to sell it to a Senator for use on the floor."

The witness was of the opinion that the speech was never written and said he did not know the Senator for whom it was intended.

On Oct. 22 Mermey wrote Baldwin:

"Pike may be interested to known that effort will be made to keep Smoot from voting on sugar. You know the couple hundred shares he has."

Referring to a letter which declared that he and Mermey had influenced Senator Borah to favor the sugar bounty, the witness said he thought that that activity alone was worth $2,500. Mr. Baldwin added, however, that he had never talked to Senator Borah.

Mermey wrote that he was in direct touch with Senators Borah, Capper, Harrison, Walcott, Hawes and Brock.

Senator Caraway asked if the witness did not think he and Mermey were "playing the sugar people for suckers."

"No," Mr. Baldwin replied.

CONVICT INDICTED IN AUBURN KILLING

Max Becker, Brooklyn Bandit, Is Named as Slayer of Keeper Durnford.

JUDGE REFUSES TRIAL STAY

Orders Case to Be Heard Jan. 15 Over the Protest of Becker's Lawyer, Who Seeks Delay.

Special to The New York Times.

AUBURN, Jan. 7.—Max Becker, Auburn convict serving thirty years for a robbery committed in Brooklyn, was indicted for murder in the first degree by the Cayuga County grand jury late today as the slayer of George A. Durnford, principal keeper, during the prison riot of Dec. 11. A second count charged that the slaying was in the act of committing a felony, namely, attempting escape from the prison.

Becker, through his attorney, Samuel Liebowitz of Brooklyn, pleaded not guilty. Supreme Court Justice Benjamin B. Cunningham of Rochester fixed Jan. 15 as the date of the trial and ordered the summoning of an extra panel of 100 jurors to report on that date.

Looking frail and delicate after twenty-seven days in the prison hospital with gunshot wounds through the chest and lung, Becker stood at attention for thirty minutes while the indictment was read and his attorney made a plea for one month in which to prepare for trial. The convict's attitude showed no trace of bravado, only an acute interest in the discussion between Mr. Liebowity, the court and District Attorney James J. Hosmer.

Mr. Liebowitz announced at the end of the argument for an extension of time that he would appeal to an Appellate Division court for a stay.

The defendant's attorney sought time to interview prisoners who have been transferred to Dannemora since the Auburn riot and who may have been eyewitnesses to the slaying of Durnford, to obtain a carte blanche order to interview prisoners in Auburn prison and time to consult experts in firearms and gunshot wounds, to obtain photographs of the interior of Auburn prison and other steps in a complete investigation.

Mr. Liebowitz further stated that he would ask to have a change of venue on account of the "prevailing hysteria" in Auburn over the riot and try to have the case heard in some town "where there would be a more impartial atmosphere." He pointed out that his client is confined in the prison hospital with a ball and chain attached to his cot and unable to help much in the preparation of his defense.

Justice Cunningham declined to change the date. He remanded Becker to Auburn prison, with orders to the warden that he be produced in court on Jan. 15.

Jewish Congress Made Protest.

The protest recently made through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency against the assertion of Judge Nathan Clayton of the District of Columbia Municipal Court that there is a "Jewish crime wave" originated with the American Jewish Congress and not with the American Jewish Committee, as previously incorrectly announced, according to a statement issued by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency yesterday. A report of this protest was printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Jan. 5.

KAROLYI SEES PEACE PERILED BY FASCISM

In First Lecture Here, He Says Democracy Must Return in Hungary and Italy.

SOCIALISTS BOYCOTT HIM

Count, Upset by Row Over Sponsors of Meeting, Believes He Was Victim of Red Intrigue.

Count Michael Karolyi, who has been admitted into this country after a five-year battle against the ban of the State Department, made his first public appearance at a mass meeting in Carnegie Hall last night. Count Karolyi spoke on "Fascismo: Its Danger to World Peace."

He dealt at length with the situation in Hungary and Italy, where Fascist dictatorships are in power, and charged that the governments of both countries, working together along the same lines of domestic and foreign policy, were endangering the peace of Europe. Only the restoration of democratic régimes in these countries, he said, can remove the war danger. Proclaiming himself a Socialist, Count Karolyi declared that only a Socialist readjustment in Europe could assure permanent peace. He expressed his firm belief in the eventual triumph of socialism both in Europe and in America.

Count Karolyi expressed the hope that the restoration of Europe to normal conditions would enable the bigger nations, those governed democratically, to exert sufficient pressure on Hungary and Italy to compel modification of their political régimes in the direction of more democratic governmental principles and practices.

The Count appeared to be much upset yesterday over the boycott against him by Socialists and Liberals, who resent his refusal to speak under their auspices and accept their sponsorship of last night's meeting. The Count took his stand before embarking for America from Paris and after receiving cabled suggestions from the Anti-Horthy League in New York, a pro-Communist organization headed by Hugo Gellert, which gave him the idea that the Socialists and Liberals who sought to help the Count on his American tour were "social fascists."

Yesterday the Count was inclined to believe he was the victim of Communist intrigue.

"I did not know until my arrival here that the Anti-Horthy League, in so far as it may be said to exist, is a Communist organization," the Count said, pleading that it was all a "misunderstanding."

As a result of this "misunderstanding" Norman Thomas failed to preside at last night's meeting, and the Socialists kept away from Carnegie Hall. Robert Ely of the League for Political Education, was chairman. Another speaker was Morris Ernst, counsel for Count Karolyi.

Says Whole Classes Fight Him.

In his lecture Count Karolyi said:

"While other people may have enemies, I have the distinction of having whole classes fighting against me. It is a distinction because the more fiercely a man or a cause is attacked the more certain it is that they will be victorious.

"The campaign against my ideas dates from before the war. Even then I fought for the establishment of a democracy in Hungary, in place of the semi-feudal conditions which prevail to this day, and I fought also against the alliance of Hungary with Germany. The German alliance was entered into for the purpose of fighting the Hungarian peasantry more effectually. Hungary as a nation had nothing to gain and everything to lose.

"In many respects the dangers that face Europe today are more serious than they were in 1914, and certainly Europe is not a scrap better off.

"The League of Nations and other official and semi-official pacifist organizations may be discounted as so much paper and do not help to make the outlook any more optimistic. There is real danger of a new war, and it lies in the warlike spirit which has been kept up by artificial means. Fascismo has not spread through a large portion of Europe just by chance.

"The charges against me were that I overthrew the Hapsburg monarchy in Hungary, that I signed the armistice and that I introduced a radical land reform. The first may be dismissed. The second is not true and the third stands for what it may be worth.

Opposed to Fascismo.

"I am absolutely opposed to Fascismo. Fascismo maintains a constant war danger and a political status quo of conditions through which Europe as a whole will inevitably sink lower and lower.

"The excuse given by supporters of the present Hungarian régime for the fact that economic and political conditions have grown steadily worse under Admiral Horthy and Count Bethlen is always the Trianon Treaty.

"But the Horthy régime itself signed the Trianon Treaty. They pretend that I did so but the records show differently. This treaty is more than criminal; it is stupid. But even then it is not wholly responsible. Austria was just as badly hit by the peace treaty as Hungary. But the present Hungarian régime pretends the only way out is through a war of revenge. It also plays a double game with its people by pretending to be the most pacifistic government in Europe. That is Fascismo. To what criminal lengths this game has already been carried was revealed two years ago by the great forgery scandal when it was discovered that forged French notes were being passed under the protection and encouragement of the Hungarian Government for 'patriotic motives.'

"Fascismo is a desperate policy of the middle class, which feels that it cannot save its social and economic position by normal methods. Its aim is to maintain the status quo of petty bourgeois capitalism, and to prevent by any means whatsoever any evolution toward socialism.

Calls Wars Inevitable.

"Now, if we imagine Europe composed of a multitude of countries, all leading an egotistical Fascistic life, then the continent becomes a place from which all altruism is excluded, and in which neo-cannibalistic methods are applied, each country trying to eat up its neighbor. A series of wars would be inevitable—and perhaps is inevitable under present conditions. Sometimes one will win and sometimes another, but as a whole Europe will merely sink lower and lower economically, politically and physically.

Dr. William E. Bohn, educational director of the Rand School, which took the initiative in organizing the Socialist-Liberal reception committee, disbanded after Count Karolyi's refusal to accept its assistance, said last night that "the Socialists still wish Count Karolyi well, but they cannot very well cooperate with him after being told they were not wanted."

Dr. Bohn waited in vain all day yesterday for an apology from Count Karolyi. The nearest the Count came to an apology was in a statement, in which he again repeated his severely critical views of the Hungarian Socialists, whom he charged with conspiring with Admiral Horthy, head of the Hungarian Government, to maintain the present dictatorship in Hungary.

"I have been misunderstood," the Count declared. "I merely said that I did not want to speak under any party auspices. I am only too willing to talk to anybody but not under any party label. I am afraid I did not word my cable to William B. Feakins, my manager, clearly enough when I turned down the sponsorship of the committee organized by the Rand School. I had no idea that the committee was really non-partisan in character."

"However," he added, "I am a fatalist and believe it will all yet turn out all right."

At the meeting in Carnegie Hall Count Karolyi repeated that he was a victim of misunderstanding when, after the Count's speech, Sinclair Lewis walked down the aisle and asked him whether he was speaking under Communist auspices in this country. Count Karolyi replied he was lecturing solely under private management. Mr. Lewis, it was learned, had reference to reported engagements by Count Karolyi to speak for the Anti-Horthy League, engagements which, it is understood, he has canceled. Count Karolyi said he had no intention to slight the Rand School or any of the American Socialists and liberals and that he would gladly speak for the Rand School.

"I would rather speak for the Rand School than for a bankers' club," he said, "although I would go to the bankers' club, too, if I were invited."

Lutheran Synod Heads Meet.

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 7.—Twenty-five presidents of the district synods of the United Lutheran Church in America convened here today for a two-day consideration of questions relating to the present state of the Church and its future development. The conference was called by the Rev. Dr. Frederick H. Knubel of New York, president of the United Lutheran Church. Resolutions promulgated will be presented to the executive board for further consideration and for ultimate submission to the biennial convention.

RETIRED MILL MAN A SUICIDE IN HOTEL

FIRST SUMMONS RELATIVES

Telephones Family From Room in Which Body Is Found When Son-in-Law Responds.

Jacob Reich, 62 years old, a retired clothing manufacturer living with his wife and family at Deal Beach, N. J., committed suicide yesterday afternoon in a bathroom in the Hotel New Yorker, at Eighth Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street, by firing a bullet through his brain.

Mr. Reich went to the New Yorker about 4 P. M. and registered, giving his address as New York. He asked the clerk to be assigned to a room high up, receiving one on the twenty-fifth floor. About an hour later he telephoned his son-in-law, Irving Freedman, an importer of 1,136 Fifth Avenue, and asked Freedman to come to him at the hotel and to bring Sidney Reich, his brother-in-law and Mr. Reich's son, with him. Sidney Reich lives at the Hotel Marguery, 270 Park Avenue.

Freedman wanted to know what Mr. Reich was doing at the New Yorker, but the latter declined to explain and only reiterated his request. Being unable to locate Sidney Reich at that time, Freedman went to the hotel alone.

Mr. Reich had asked Freedman to come directly to his room. When continued knocking on the door brought no response Freedman descended to the ground floor and notified the room clerk, who sent house detectives to Mr. Reich's room with a pass key. On the bathroom floor they found Mr. Reich's body, a bullet wound in the left temple. A .32-calibre revolver lay beside him.

The house detectives telephoned immediately for an ambulance, but when Dr. Davis arrived from New York Hospital he said that death had been instantaneous. No one could give any reason for the suicide.

INDICTED DETECTIVE BACK.

Gambling Charge in West New York Belittled by Chief.

Harry Gleitsman, a lieutenant of detectives of the West New York Police Department who was suspended following his arrest and indictment on a charge of operating a race track gambling house, was restored to duty yesterday by Police Chief Charles Hangley.

Although Lieutenant Gleitsman has not yet been tried on the indictment, Chief Hangley said that the suspension was canceled "because Gleitsman will probably be found innocent and will collect his back pay." The police chief also said the complaints of robbery were increasing and that additional police protection was needed.

Gleitsman will be placed on trial in a few weeks, according to Prosecutor John Drewen. His arrest followed a two-months' investigation by two private detectives.

SELF STYLES FIXER JAILED.

Court House Loiterer Convicted on Disorderly Conduct Charge.

One of the group of loiterers who until lately have been interfering with visitors to the Criminal Court Building and pretending to have influence with court officials to "fix" cases was found guilty on a disorderly conduct charge by Magistrate Simpson in the Tombs Court yesterday.

He is Herman Kasen, 26 years old, of 279 Hancock Street, Brooklyn, who was accused of posing as a friend of General Sessions Judge Rosalsky at the close of the McManus trial last month. He was remanded to the Tombs for sentence Friday.

INCOME TAX FORMS COMING.

Will Be Available at All Revenue Offices Here on Saturday.

The forms for declaring Federal income taxes will be ready at all offices in the city on Saturday, Frank K. Bowers, Collector of Internal Revenues for the Second District of New York, announced yesterday.

The blanks were printed prior to the reduction of 1 per cent on all divisions of incomes, he said, but "riders" showing the revised rates will be attached to the blanks and taxpayers will be expected to use these in computing amounts due. The same system will be used on corporation and life insurance company forms.

BRIDE'S MOTHER SAVES DAY

She Becomes Guardian of Fiance and Consents to Wedding.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Jan. 7.—When Robert W. Muller, 19 years old, and Miss Helen T. Post, 17, applied for a marriage license today they found an obstacle in the fact that the young man was under age and had no kin here to give consent.

The bride's mother solved the problem. She not only agreed to the marriage of her daughter, but consented to being named the young man's guardian. Thus, until he becomes 21, Mullers' mother-in-law is his legal boss.

4 WITNESSES HEARD IN DRUG INQUIRY

WILL AID GOVERNMENT

Startling Revelations Are Promised —Indictments Are Expected Before End of Week.

The January Federal grand jury, which was sworn in yesterday, heard four witnesses in the investigation of the activities of three alleged drug rings over which Arnold Rothstein, murdered gambler, is said to have exercised control. Federal officials said recently that this inquiry would involve attorneys and well-known politicians. The files of Rothstein which are to be presented as evidence to this grand jury are expected to furnish some of the promised sensations.

Assistant United States Attorney John M. Blake, who is presenting the evidence to the grand jury, refused to name the persons who had been witnesses earlier in the day.

Mr. Blake said that Marion Scott, 26 years, formerly associated on the stage with Raymond Hitchcock, who died recently, had been arrested by Federal agents on a charge of possessing narcotics. According to Mr. Blake, the young woman will be of material service to the government in its narcotic investigation.

He declined to tell where she had been arrested, other than to say she had been found in a New York hotel and was being held as a material witness in the drug rings inquiry, as well as on the charge of possessing narcotics.

The grand jury will resume its investigation this morning and indictments are expected before the end of the week. Persons in close touch with the investigation said there was every reason to believe that future developments would make what has already been disclosed seem small in comparison.

Federal officials have said that when the whole truth is out the "sinister influence" of Rothstein will be shown to have been more baleful than has been imagined. Although they said attorneys would be involved, they did not say that they were New York attorneys.

United States Attorney Tuttle has instructed Assistant United States Attorneys Blake and Alvin McK. Sylvester to devote all their time to the investigation and to push it vigorously, no matter how prominent the person or persons who may become involved through the evidence to be placed before the grand jury.

THE NEW OAKLAND 8

GENERAL MOTORS'
Lowest-Priced Eight - $1045 and up

OAKLAND
PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

To the public the New Oakland Eight is only a few weeks old. Certainly it is new in what it offers—eight-cylinder smoothness, superior performance, Fisher body style and luxury combined at a moderate price. Yet, as a matter of fact, this new Oakland has been 16 years in the making. For it was designed by engineers who participated in creating General Motors' first eight-cylinder car sixteen years ago.

Eight-Cylinder Smoothness

Due to their wide experience with eights, these engineers have been able to intensify eight-cylinder smoothness. In the New Oakland Eight, they employed several exclusive features for this purpose. Examples are a novel type of cylinder head assuring uniform combustion, patented laminated spring and rubber mountings and a complete down-draft fuel system.

Superior Performance

In making the New Oakland remarkably smooth, its designers never lost sight of the fact that most people buy eights for their exceptional performance. They gave it an engine which develops 85 horsepower, the highest power to be found in any car of Oakland's weight, only racing cars excepted.

Fisher Body Luxury

For this highly-developed chassis, Fisher body designers created a series of smart new body styles. Lower by two inches than past Oakland bodies, these new types nevertheless provide the interior roominess and comfort characteristic of bodies by Fisher.

All in all, the New Oakland Eight is an unusual car for one so moderate in price. We believe you will agree with this opinion, once you have inspected it, driven it and learned how many advantages it provides.

The New Oakland Eight, $1045 and up, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list prices. Bumpers, rear fender guards and spring covers extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

NEW SERIES PONTIAC BIG 6

A FAMOUS NAME
A Finer Car - $745 and up

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

During recent years, the name Pontiac has acquired a special meaning for many thousands of motorists.

And now, since the introduction of the New Series Pontiac Big Six, the famous Pontiac name has become more significant than ever. For the New Series Six retains all of Pontiac's time-tried characteristics and adds several important qualities of its own.

Smarter, Smoother, Safer

The New Series Pontiac Big Six is a smarter car because its new bodies by Fisher emphasize its length and lowness and give new dash and rakishness to its style. It is smoother in performance because improved-type rubber mountings support its big, powerful engine. It is safer because it incorporates a sloping non-glare windshield and because its already unusually large and efficient non-squeak four-wheel brakes have been still further improved.

Big Car Performance

At the same time, it has the impressive big car speed, power and pick-up provided by a 60-horsepower engine of advanced design. And its reliability and long life will continue to be the pride of every owner.

Small Car Economy

Yet with all its big car qualities and important Improvements, the New Series Pontiac Big Six remains remarkably easy to buy and own. Come in to see it and drive it. Let it be your basis of comparison when you are looking at any low-priced automobile.

The New Series Pontiac Big Six, $745 and up, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Shock absorbers standard equipment. Bumpers and spring covers at slight extra cost. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

VILLAGE TAX LAW UPHELD ON APPEAL

County Treasurers Must Make Up Unpaid Levies, Court of Appeals at Albany Rules.

ERIE OFFICIAL RESISTED

Lower Court Supported Him, Holding the Amendments Were Unconstitutional.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Villages of the State are to be paid by county treasurers the amount of their unpaid village taxes, the Court of Appeals ruled today in upholding the constitutionality of the village law amendments.

The County Treasurer of Erie County resisted paying $233,308.02 to the village of Kenmore on the ground that the law was unconstitutional. Erie Special Term dismissed the complaint on constitutional grounds and the higher court today affirmed.

Judge Irving Lehman in his opinion said in part:

"Certainty that the village treasurer will receive the full amount of all village taxes levied is desirable for the villages. To achieve that result the Legislature has commanded that the county shall obtain, either through taxes or loans, moneys sufficient to pay to the villages, within its boundaries, the amount of the village taxes before the taxes are fully collected."

Judge Lehman pointed out that Section 128-D of the education law provides that the amount of taxes returned unpaid by a village shall be paid out of any moneys in the county treasury, and it also provides that such amount must be paid in any event even if there are no moneys in the treasury applicable to the purpose.

"Obviously," said Judge Lehman, "if there are no moneys in the treasury applicable to such purpose, the county can make the payment only by incurring an indebtedness in the form of a loan, and there can be no doubt that the Legislature intended as a necessary part of this procedure for carrying out the provisions of the statute that such indebtedness should be incurred."

GANGSTER FREED IN BAIL.

$1,000 Bond Set for Man Wanted for Questioning in Slaying.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—Anthony (Musky) Zanghi, an alleged Philadelphia gang leader wanted there for questioning in connection with a fatal gunfight in 1928, was arrested near here today and released soon afterward in bail of $1,000 on a charge of carrying concealed deadly weapons.

Zanghi, who figured in several police episodes in Philadelphia before his disappearance, was seized when State Trooper Joseph J. Orbechowski stopped an automobile which had no license plates.

When Zanghi produced his driver's license, bearing his name, Orbechowski remembered having read the same name on police circulars and searched the car. In it he found a loaded revolver of the standard type used by the police. He brought Zanghi before Justice of the Peace James E. Myers here after positive identification of Zanghi, alias William Martino, had been made.

Justice Myers fixed bail for Zanghi, who said he lived in Atlantic City, at $2,500, but later reduced it to $1,000. The bond was supplied by Louis Penza of this city, and Zanghi left immediately. The prisoner told the police that he was in constant fear for his life.

PRINCE STOPS AT FUNCHAL.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FUNCHAL, Madeira, Jan. 7.—In brilliant weather the liner Kenilworth Castle, with the Prince of Wales aboard, called here today en route to South Africa.

The ship remained just four hours, long enough for the Prince to visit the British Consulate and be acclaimed by crowds of Portuguese and British lining the streets.

A superb specimen of Madeira embroidery was presented to the Prince by the Chamber of Commerce, as well as a dozen bottles of the rarest Madeira wine from a group of British wine exporters.

REPORTS TANG ROUTED.

Nanking Says Honan Rebel Is Fleeing—10,000 Captured.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 7 (AP).—Nationalist Government military headquarters at Nanking announced today that Nationalist troops in Honan province had scored a crushing victory over the rebel forces under General Tang Sheng-chi.

General Tang was associated in his rebellion with General Shih Yu-san, who led the Pukow division. The Nanking Government recently announced that a series of "rewards" had been offered for soldiers and officers of Tang's forces joining the Nationalist armies.

The announcement today said 10,000 of the rebel forces had been captured by the Nationalist fighters, while General Tang, under disguise, was seeking to flee to Japan for safety.

ROW IN BERLIN COUNCIL.

BERLIN, Jan. 7 (AP).—As a sequel to the clashes between police and Communists on the streets here today, the first meeting of the City Council this year was brought to an abrupt close tonight by a row started by Communists, which precluded the transaction of further business. The departing Bourgeois Councilors were threatened by the Communist members.

The clash with the police earlier came during extensive funeral processions for two well-known Communists. Two officers were injured, and the crowd was finally dispersed by the police firing pistol shots into the air. Of fifty-two persons taken to police headquarters, only ten were arrested.

GIFT BOMB MURDER TO BE CHARGED TODAY

Formal Accusation Promised in Killing of Maryland Bride and Relatives.

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Jan. 7 (AP).—Formal charges of murder will be placed tomorrow against one of the two men under a two-day grilling in connection with the New Year's Day bombing at Seat Pleasant, in which Mrs. Naomi Hall Brady, 18-year-old bride of a few weeks, and her infant brother and sister were killed, Lieutenant Joseph Itzel of the Baltimore Detective Bureau, investigating the case, said tonight.

Herman Brady, the girl's 22-year-old husband, and his brother, Leroy, a Washington automobile mechanic, are the two men in jail here, and Itzel said tonight that Herman had made a signed statement in which he implicated his brother. The detectives, however, refused to reveal anything contained in that document and went to Baltimore to confer with officials there.

Mrs. Brady, an expectant mother, was killed instantly, her 19-months-old brother and 4-year-old sister fatally injured, and five other members of the Hall family where she lived, were seriously hurt, when she opened the gayly bedecked package, which was believed to have been a belated Christmas gift, on New Year's day.

To Mark 63d Wedding Anniversary.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Jan. 7.—Charles F. Hopkins of Boonton, one of Morris County's oldest and most distinguished citizens, will tomorrow celebrate with Mrs. Hopkins the sixty-third anniversary of their marriage. Although both are well along in their eighties, they are in excellent health and Mrs. Hopkins is still a member of the Morris County Board of Elections. Mr. Hopkins is the only surviving Civil War veteran in Morris County to boast the possession of the Congressional Medal of Honor.

PARSONS RENAMED BY COLUMBIA BOARD

$102,927 GIFTS ANNOUNCED

Dr. Baron Appointed Professor of Jewish History, and Sten Liljegren of Comparative Literature.

General William Barclay Parsons, eighteenth chairman of the board of trustees of Columbia University, has been re-elected for the fourteenth time, it was announced yesterday. Marcellus Hartley Dodge, twelfth clerk of the board, has been re-elected for the eighth time.

The appointment of two new professors and new members of standing committees was also announced, together with a list of thirty-three recent money gifts totaling $102,927. The largest of these was $15,000, donated by George Elwood Murray to purchase books and manuscripts for the law library.

Dr. Salo Baron, 35 years old, well known in European and American educational circles, who now is Professor of History at the Jewish Institute of Religion here, will occupy the newly established chair of Jewish history, literature and institutions, it was announced. This chair was founded by Mrs. Nathan J. Miller in memory of her husband. Dr. Baron will enter the university at the beginning of the Spring session.

The appointment of Professor Sten Bodvar Liljegren, Professor of English Philology at the University of Greifswald, to be Visiting Professor of Comparative Literature for the academic year 1930-1931, also was made known.

STEPHEN G. WILLIAMS, succeeding H. Hobart Porter on the committee on buildings and grounds.

JACKSON E. REYNOLDS, succeeding Mr. Porter on the committee on finance.

ALBERT W. PUTNAM, committee on legal affairs.

Stephen G. Williams, class of '81, whose term as trustee expired last September, was chosen a life trustee in succession to the late Newbold Morris.

WILL VISIT FORMER KAISER.

Poultney Bigelow Plans Trip to Doorn in Spring.

Poultney Bigelow, writer on history and international affairs, plans to visit the ex-Kaiser at Doorn, Holland, in the Spring, it was learned yesterday. His friendship with the ex-Kaiser started when he was a boy at school in Germany.

Accompanied by his wife, Mr. Bigelow will sail March 8 on the Vulcania for Naples and will return next June.

At his home at Malden-on-Hudson, N. Y., Mr. Bigelow described his contemplated trip abroad as merely a journey of sentiment.

Admits Father's Regime Has So Far Failed to Cut Unemployment—Greeted by Karl Heserly.

Alister G. MacDonald, elder son of the British Premier, Ramsay MacDonald, arrived yesterday on the Cunarder Andania to spend five weeks in the United States studying architecture. He was met at Quarantine by Karl Heslery of the Henry Street Settlement, representing Miss Lillian D. Waldo, who was the hostess of his father while the latter was in New York. The son will be her guest during his stay here. Mr. MacDonald will visit Washington, Boston, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago before returning to England, he said.

Mr. MacDonald is an architect and has had an office in London for the past three years. He is 31 years old and a pacifist. During the war he served in a Quaker regiment doing hospital duty.

The Premier's son is more than six feet tall and has dark hair and a small mustache and imperial beard.

Mr. MacDonald admitted that unemployment had not improved under Labor rule.

Asked if he though England would ever go in for skyscrapers like New York, Mr. MacDonald replied that he did not think so and said he had come to find out what America was doing in modernistic architecture. England had done a little, he added.

He said he did not believe there would be another general election in Great Britain for some time. The people in England, he added, were pleased with the reception accorded to the Premier during his visit to this country last October.

We too, have a BIG SHOW of our 1930 Line

Sweeping refinements and simplifications of erection mark the 1930 line of Hauserman Steel Partitions now on display at the New York Exhibition Rooms. Here you will discover style trends in beautiful new two-tone finishes just as impressive as the advanced motor cars now at the show.

The most beautiful, substantial and easily moved sectional walls ever produced greet 1930 to glorify the use of steel for all interior division of space—whether in factory, showroom, office or executive sanctum.

New structural details; new flexibility of use; new perfection of wood graining—reproduced photographically from real wood panels; new refinement of mouldings; new two toned finishes in unlimited color combinations, baked on for permanence.

Before you decide any partitioning problem, see this wonderful, modern office exhibit, or send for a Hauserman service man—skilled in office layout planning.

Hauserman Partitions are NEVER Obsolete

Although constantly improved, any Hauserman partition can always be matched. Additional sections are constantly being supplied for addition to installations made as far back as 1915. Your investment in Hauserman partitions is always a permanent asset of your business.

40 EMPLOYERS SUMMONED

Three Warrants for Arrests Follow Hearing on Alleged Violations of Compensation Law.

Formal complaints were drawn against four employers, three of whom were named in warrants issued at the continuation yesterday of hearings on alleged violations of the workmen's compensation law by more than 250 city employers before Chief Magistrate McAdoo. More than forty employers had been summoned, but only seven cases were considered. Two were ordered to take out policies covering their employes within twenty-four hours and the seventh case was adjourned to the next hearing date.

The two cases in which the twenty-four-hour period of grace was allowed were those of taxicab owners who had insured the men employed in their garages but not the taxicab chauffeurs. Their cases gave rise to a discussion of whether tabicab owners who rent cabs on a commission basis, with a written lease, should be regarded, as employers of the chauffeurs.

It was brought out that a test case now before the courts was decided last month by the Appellate Division requiring taxicab owners to insure their chauffeurs and that appeal to the Court of Appeals was being sought.

Magistrate McAdoo indicated that he would issue formal complaints unless the insurance policies were produced today. The defendants were Herscowitz & Adler of 381 Cherry Street, employing more than 50 men, and the L. K. Taxi Corporation of 1,634 Pacific Street, Brooklyn, with 48 employes.

Evidence against the employers was presented by Jerome T. Farrell, Arthur Maron, and Edward F. Wunder, investigators of the State Labor Department.

Warrants were issued against Daniel Greganowski, who conducts a carpentry shop at 227 Mercer Street; John Cantino, manufacturer of men's coats at 88 East Tenth Street, and K. Hayasaki, proprietor of the Agatha Lamp Shade Corporation of 9 East Twentieth Street. A formal complaint also was drawn against Robert Lease, who conducts an auto repair business at 1,589 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, but the warrant was held until today.

The case of Barnet Stein, clothing manufacturer, of 5 Boerum Street, Brooklyn, was adjourned to the next hearing date because he had taken out a policy in the meantime. The next hearing was set for a week from tomorrow at 3:30 P. M.

Contino and Griganowski were arraigned later in the day before Magistrate Edward Weil in Essex Market Court. Contino pleaded not guilty and was held in $500 bail for examination Friday. Griganowski waived xamination and was held in $500 bail for Special Sessions.

STONE TELLS FARMERS TO PLANT BY DEMAND

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 7 (AP).—Regulation of farm production to buying demand was named today as an essential part of the Federal Farm Board's program by James C. Stone, vice chairman, in an address prepared for a general meeting of Nebraska farm organizations.

"The farmer wants equality with industry, and he is entitled to it," Mr. Stone said. "The agricultural marketing act was passed by Congress for the purpose of giving it to him, but economic laws cannot be done away with in the process; and one of the things which cannot be done is to put 100 bushels of wheat in a 75-bushel hole."

Business, he said, regulates production to meet the buying demand, selling to the demand as the demand will take it at a profitable price, and at the same time tries to stimulate and enlarge the demand. If the American farmer wants to derive the fullest benefit from this legislation, Mr. Stone added, "It is going to be up to him to operate his farm in the most up-to-date and efficient manner."

Fluctuations of price levels from year to year, Mr. Stone said, are the farmers' greatest trouble. He added that one of the main objects of cooperative marketing is to take out the peaks and valleys in a large measure in the prices of farm products over a period of years, thereby placing the farmer who is a member of the association in a position to regulate production demand.

portance of taking immediate steps, by means of local legislation, to realize some of the major recommendations made.

Mayor Walker said he agreed with the chairman that the traffic congestion situation had been discussed long enough and that the time for action had come.

Mr. Banham stressed three imperative reforms, on each of which he urged early legislation. The first was a revision of the building code to compel future business buildings to devote an adequate percentage of their ground-floor space to loading and unloading purposes, so that the streets need not be cumbered by standing trucks, greatly congesting traffic facilities between the curb lines, as well as on the sidewalks.

His second demand was that adequate provision be made for the erection of automobile "hotels," or public garages, in which cars might be stored during the day or night, instead of being parked on the streets. Mr. Banham declared that the clearing of the "Loop" in Chicago was a striking illustration of what can be accomplished in this respect. New York, he complained, is far behind other and much smaller municipalities in the provision of housing accommodations for cars.

Mr. Banham emphasized, as his third necessity for immediate reformatory legislation, the placing of the taxicab service under a board of taxicab control, for systematizing and regulating its operation.

It was at this point that Mayor Walker interposed his comparative receipts figures, which were a startling surprise to many of his hearers. The Mayor was not enthusiastic over the suggestion of a Board of Taxicab Control. He pointed out that the police now have ample control over the situation, in so far as that is possible to them, but that conditions still remain deplorable.

"There are too many taxicabs always on our streets on fair days," said the Mayor, "and too few on rainy days. The hundreds of cruising taxicabs, rushing empty through our most congested sections, looking for a fare, are a nuisance. Furthermore, a woman comes out of a hotel, hails a taxicab, and trusts a man, about whom she knows nothing, to take her to her destination. If she is so unfortunate as to leave her pocketbook or other valuables in the taxi, she may or may not recover it.

"We are simply dodging the inevitable if we fail to realize that some day this taxicab business must be stabilized, with somebody responsible for its personnel and its operation. There is no question that at present it is chaotic."

It was agreed that Mr. Banham and his committee should draft proposed bills to effect the reforms especially stressed in the report. Mayor Walker assured him that in doing so he could have the active cooperation of Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly and William J. Cahill, Bill Drafting Commissioner.

DE FOREST RETIRES AS WELFARE LEADER

HE RETAINS HONORARY POST

Lehman and Pratt Become Vice Presidents, Smith a Director—$156,000 Research Program.

The request of Robert W. de Forest that he should not be renamed as active president of the Welfare Council of New York City was heeded yesterday at the annual meeting of the directors of the council at the Russell Sage Foundation building, when he was retired from active service and elected honorary president. Mr. de Forest, who is in his eighty-second year and has been president of the council since its foundation in 1925, said he was forced to retire on account of his health.

No one was named to succeed him immediately, and Mr. de Forest will continue his activities until a successor is elected. Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and Frederic B. Pratt, president of the Brooklyn Tuberculosis and Health Association, were elected vice presidents of the council. Nicholas F. Brady, Dwight W. Morrow, James H. Post and Felix M. Warburg were re-elected vice presidents.

More than one hundred persons prominent in welfare and health agencies in this city were at the meeting and heard reports from the standing and special committees on their work during the past year. Resolutions were read in memory of Chellis A. Austin, former director and treasurer of the council, and Dr. C. Floyd Haviland, both of whom died since the last meeting of the board, of which they were members.

In a report of the finance committee, James H. Post read the budget for the fiscal year beginning Sept. 30, 1929, which included the following items: General administration, $89,000; research work in various departments, $156,000; social service exchange, $34,000; for the study of a State employment service, $8,000. A contribution of $90,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation and of $40,000 from the Commonwealth Fund toward the research item were also announced.

Personal donations of $10,000 each to the Utopia Neighborhood House and the Columbus Hill Neighborhood House by John D. Rockefeller Jr., through the welfare council, were also announced.

A central financing plan to embrace practically all local charities was discussed by Homer Folks, chairman of a special committee to investigate the possibility of such a scheme. A complete report on the plan is expected soon. The committee meets again today for final action.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, who succeeded the late Mr. Austin as president of the Equitable Trust Company, was also chosen to succeed him as treasurer of the Welfare Council. George J. Hecht was re-elected secretary and John D. Ryan and Robert L. Hoguet were added to the finance committee.

The following directors whose terms expired were re-elected:

W. W. Aldrich

DR. OLAYA WILL SAIL FOR COLOMBIA FRIDAY

Minister at Washington Will Study Situation as Prospective Presidential Candidate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Dr. Enrique Olaya, who has been Colombian Minister here since 1922, will sail from New York Friday for Bogota as the prospective candidate for President of a national party committed to a program of financial and economic reform. The elections will be held Feb. 9.

Dr. Olaya is due at Colon on Jan. 16 and will fly from there to Bogota in a seaplane. Because of the shortage of time he will probably conduct much of his campaign by airplane and will be accompanied on his trips by his 16-year-old daughter Maria.

He considers the finances of Colombia sound, but is desirous of closer cooperation between his country and foreign capital. He also stands for a policy of friendship with the United States and the rest of the world.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOGOTA, Jan. 7.—The return of the Colombian Minister at Washington, Enrique Olaya Herrera, to Colombia is for the purpose of studying at first hand the political situation, to determine his course regarding acceptance of the nomination by the Liberal party for the Presidential election on Feb. 15, according to cables received by local Liberal newspapers and leaders from him today.

Señor Olaya Herrera stated his decision was the result of messages from former President Restrepo and other friends here, who wish to form a national patriotic party capable of assuring the republic the government it needs in the present difficult situation.

A POLICY PLEDGED TO PROGRESS
OLDSMOBILE

"DEEP-ROOTED in the mind of every man who plans or builds or tests is the unwavering determination that his knowledge and skill and resources shall render constant service . . .

". . . that the American family may have, at a moderate investment, a car that gratifies their finer tastes as well as satisfies their every need . . . that this car shall not be wanting in a single essential factor that contributes to performance, comfort, beauty, or long life . . . that in the design, material, and manufacture of every detail, the strictest standards shall be rigidly maintained . . . that their boundless resources and matchless facilities shall be utilized to the utmost to provide these qualities at the lowest possible cost . . ."

More than three years ago, Olds Motor Works published this declaration of purpose, and publicly pledged itself to this policy of progress.

And the promise has been fulfilled.

The Oldsmobile Six reflects this purpose in the improvements which have been made.

Meanwhile, the Viking Eight was introduced, applying the same principles to a 90-degree V-type eight in the great medium-price field.

Olds Motor Works recognizes four responsibilities in its policy pledged to progress . . . first, to engineer progressively . . . second, to manufacture faithfully . . . third, to sell honestly . . . and fourth, to support its dealers and join with them in the most equitable service policy in existence. Olds Motor Works' interest in every sale goes far beyond the time of purchase.

And now, at the beginning of this new year, Olds Motor Works renews its pledge and reaffirms its responsibilities in order that in 1930, as in years past, it shall retain the sincere friendship of every owner . . . and that every motorist may consider the purchase of either Oldsmobile or Viking with absolute confidence.

AUTO SHOW IS HOST TO CITY OFFICIALS

Today Is Army and Navy Day at Grand Central Palace and High Officers Will Attend.

TRADE DISPLAYS CROWDED

Jobbers and Dealers in Record Numbers Throng Accessories and Equipment Exhibits.

J. D. Biggers Says Efforts to Shut American Vehicles Out of Europe Will Not Succeed.

Many city officials were guests yesterday, Municipal Day, at the thirtieth annual National Automobile Show in Grand Central Palace. More than 100 delegates from thirty-five foreign countries also attended in a body, escorted by officials of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices the show is being held.

Today has been designated as Army and Navy Day. Commanding officers stationed in and around New York City are expected to attend. Among those who have signified their intention to be present are Brig. Gen. Hugh A. Drum of Fort Hamilton, Brig. Gen. Andrew Moses of Fort Totten, Brig. Gen. Otho B. Rosenbaum of Fort Wadsworth and Colonel E. A. Greene, commanding the Marine Barracks at the Navy Yard.

As part of the program of Municipal Day various automobile companies held luncheons in the hotels. Among these were those of the De Soto, Hupp and Auburn-Cord organizations at the Commodore.

Accessories Displays Popular.

One of the high spots of the show was the interest evinced by dealers in parts, accessories and shop equipment in the sections devoted to the trade. J. M. McComb, president of the Motor and Equipment Association, declared that attendance in the first three days of the show had broken all previous records. About 3,000 jobbers, dealers and trade representatives visited yesterday these exhibits, which are open to the trade only until 5 P. M. daily with admission by special ticket. From 5 P. M. until closing time the public is admitted free.

On the fourth floor of the Palace large crowds inspected the display of trailers of all types. These bodies, presented in a variety of sizes and equipment, are attached to cars for greater convenience and added roominess in long distance travel.

Visitors held impromptu picnics inside some of the "split coaches," regular houses on wheels, with tables, beds, running water, refrigerator and electric lights. These trailers are the products of the Split Coach Motor Corporation of York, Pa. In each, the inside height when the roof has been elevated is 7½ feet. When the half-body is "split" the expansion is said to be the greatest ever given to a vehicle. When closed, it is the same width as a motor car; when open, it is wider than a railway coach.

All models are equipped with tail and stop lights and two safety side lights. So that the persons who travel in the "split coach" may not be isolated from those in the motor car ahead, electrical communication has been installed between the vehicles.

"Electric Eye" Controls Car.

An "electric eye" which controls an automobile's movements was demonstrated by R. H. Maxwell, research engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, at the Westinghouse Lighting Institute's exhibit on the seventh floor of Grand Central Palace.

A car was made to go, stop and back up at the command of the human voice. A telephone or microphone was wired to a light source. When the proper words were spoken the sound impulses were transferred into waves, which were picked up by the light-sensitive cell or "electric eye" placed on the rear of the car. The "eye" in turn operated certain relays to make the car move as directed.

The light-sensitive cell is similar to the one used in the Holland Tunnell to count automobiles. The device may also be used for turning lights on or off and sounding the horn.

Predicts Gains in Exports.

John D. Biggers, vice president of the Graham-Paige International Corporation, on his return from Europe, declared that American manufacturers had little to fear from reported attempts to restrict the importation of American automobiles into European countries.

"In nearly every country in Europe," he said, "there is some talk of an organized effort to combat the increasing importation of American cars, but so far very little success has marked the endeavors of any organization backing these movements.

"I doubt the possibility of their ever inducing the peoples of their countries to discontinue the buying of our cars.

"The 1930 outlook is promising, not only for Europe, but throughout the world. Manufacturers will export a larger percentage of their production than ever before. Figures for 1929 show that 11 per cent of passenger cars built in this country have been exported. Although I expect no substantial gain in the number of units shipped overseas during 1930, because of the slow start at the first of the year, I do believe that their valuation will be greater."

The show continues today, opening at 10 A. M. and closing at 10:30 P. M. The program for the day includes a convention of the Automotive Electric Association at the Astor, a meeting of the directors of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce at the chamber's headquarters, luncheons of the Marmon, Roosevelt, Chrysler, Hupp and Jordan companies at the Commodore, and of the Nash company at the Pennsylvania; a Chevrolet dealer meeting at Mecca Temple, followed by dinner at the Commodore, and a dinner of the Motor and Equipment Association at the Astor.

1,400 AUTO EXECUTIVES AT ANNUAL DINNER

G. M. Graham Urges That Production Be Kept Down to Actual Demands.

Presidents of the leading automobile companies and 1,400 motor executives from all parts of the world gathered last night at the annual dinner of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in the Hotel Commodore. Mayor Walker was present.

Henry Ford and his son Edsel, whose company is the only automobile concern not affiliated with the chamber, were present. Alvan Macauley, president of the chamber and of the Packard Motor Car Company, acted as toastmaster.

Referring to the "record-breaking" number of visitors at the national show in Grand Central Palace, Mr. Macauley saw a "good omen" for the prosperity of the industry this year.

George M. Graham, vice president of the Willys-Overland Company, delivering the keynote address, urged the manufacturers to reduce their production quotas to actual demand and to return to "sound management" as the means of counteracting the conditions responsible for the late recession in the industry.

"I believe that there is more courage and confidence in facing the facts and seeking practical remedies," he said, "than in insisting that everything is perfect and hiding behind a barrage of exaggerated and often unconvincing optimism.

"Our fundamental assurance of good business in 1930 is the fact that our people are not going to abandon the automobile. They have built their entire lives around it."

Mayor Walker spoke of the city's program involving the expenditure of more than $500,000,000 for street, traffic and kindred improvements.

"If there has been any recession in your business," he said, "it has not been noticed on our streets."

The dinner committee included Roy D. Chapin, chairman; A. J. Brosseau, E. L. Cord, H. H. Franklin, Robert P. Page Jr., Alfred P. Sloan Jr. and George M. Williams.

At the president's table were, besides those mentioned:

De Soto Dealers at Luncheon.

Approximately 600 dealers attended the De Soto Motor Corporation's luncheon yesterday at the Commodore. J. E. Fields, president, and L. G. Peed, general sales manager, spoke. The Chrysler Motors Corporation, of which De Soto is a unit, is conducting a special exhibit during show week on the fourth floor of the Chrysler Building. Virtually all models of the Chrysler, Dodge Brothers, De Soto and Plymouth passenger car lines are included, together with stripped chassis and parts.

FORD OUTPUT GAINS 138%.

The special exhibits of the newly redesigned Ford cars continued yesterday to draw large numbers of visitors at the Ford Motor Company's headquarters, Broadway and Fifty-fourth Street, as well as in dealers' showrooms throughout the city.

It was announced that world production of Ford cars and trucks for 1929 had been 1,951,092, an increase of 1,132,358, or 138 per cent, over 1928.

The 1928 production of the Model A car, which was announced in December, 1927, did not get into full swing until late in the year. On the other hand, production was curtailed in November and December, 1929, to permit changes in plant equipment for the manufacture of the new Ford body types.

Of the 1929 production, 1,709,945 cars and trucks were produced in the United States, 87,796 by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., and 153,351 in other foreign plants.

Packard to Increase Prices.

The Packard Motor Car Company announced yesterday that effective midnight Saturday prices of the Packard Standard eight five-passenger sedan, seven-passenger sedan and seven-passenger sedan-limousine would be increased by $110. The present prices will prevail on all cars ordered this week and delivered prior to March 1. The company is conducting a special showing of its cars in the Hotel Roosevelt.

BADLY HURT IN AIR CRASH.

Polish Manager for General Motors in Upset—Mechanic Killed.

LUBLIN, Poland, Jan. 7 (AP).—John Pawlowski, general manager for General Motors in Poland, was seriously injured today in an airplane accident at the airdrome here. He had flown from Warsaw in his own Avionette and was starting the return journey when the little plane overturned.

M. Pawlowski was taken to the Lublin Hospital with a broken hip and cuts and bruises. His mechanic, M. Laudanski, died at the hospital.

600 at Graham-Paige Luncheon.

Six hundred executives and dealers of the Graham-Paige Motors Corporation met yesterday at a luncheon and conference in the Hotel Biltmore. The three Graham brothers, Joseph B., Robert C. and Ray A., respectively president, vice president and secretary-treasurer of the company, outlined its policies for this year. Theodore F. MacManus, recently appointed advertising counsel, also spoke. F. R. Valpey, general sales manager, was chairman.

Navy Aircraft Reach Miami.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7 (AP).—Three squadrons of torpedo and bombing planes, a Sikorsky amphibian and a large seaplane made up a group of naval craft that arrived in Miami harbor today. The planes and the U. S. naval aircraft tender Teal are en route to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, for Winter manoeuvres. The aircraft left Charleston shortly after 8 o'clock this morning.

. . . if the constant effort of putting on the brakes were not so tiring.

There is now a simple way to banish all effort of braking—B-K Vacuum Brakes. You ought to have them on your car!

B-K Vacuum Brakes are a compact, sturdy addition to the brake mechanism of your car. They are easily fitted to any car . . . and once installed, you need only a light, effortless touch on the brake pedal to bring your car to a smooth, quick, certain stop.

If you are to have a new car this year, by all means inquire whether it has B-K Brakes. Stutz and Duesenberg give you this new ease of certain braking, with B-K. Other makers will soon follow. And if you are going to keep the car you now have . . . bring it up to date, get rid of all the physical effort of braking, by having B-K Vacuum Brakes installed.

Come to Booth D-16-17-18 at the Auto Show and see how amazingly easy B-K Vacuum Brakes operate.

COLDER WEATHER COMING!

Here's complete protection for your car in only 2 minutes

No Special overhauling or service charges!
Just SURE protection with Denatured Alcohol

THE weather man's warning you, car owners! Colder weather's on the way, he says . . . and you know what a freeze-up does to a motor.

You're going to guard against it, of course . . . but how? Here's the simplest way . . . the surest . . . the safest . . . and by far the cheapest!

Just take two minutes between now and the time you put your car away. Drive to the nearest garage or filling station that displays the orange and green sign. Tell the man you want Denatured Alcohol. Watch him consult a chart, put in the exact amount your car needs, and test the solution for you . . .

Then . . . 96 seconds after you drive in . . . away you go . . . fully protected.

No special overhauling is necessary when you rely on this trustworthy anti-freeze! It can't seep through tiny holes or hose connections. It won't rot hose, clog radiators, or corrode metal parts.

Besides, Denatured Alcohol is by far the most economical anti-freeze. Even in the severest climate, you usually won't spend more than one-half as much for a whole season's supply as you would for one filling of substitutes.

Denatured Alcohol is backed by more than 20 years of successful and satisfactory use. It is approved by all car manufacturers and universally endorsed by all makers of automobile radiators.

Yes, winter's coming! Protect your car . . . but with safety for that costly motor! Rely on Denatured Alcohol, the dependable anti-freeze.

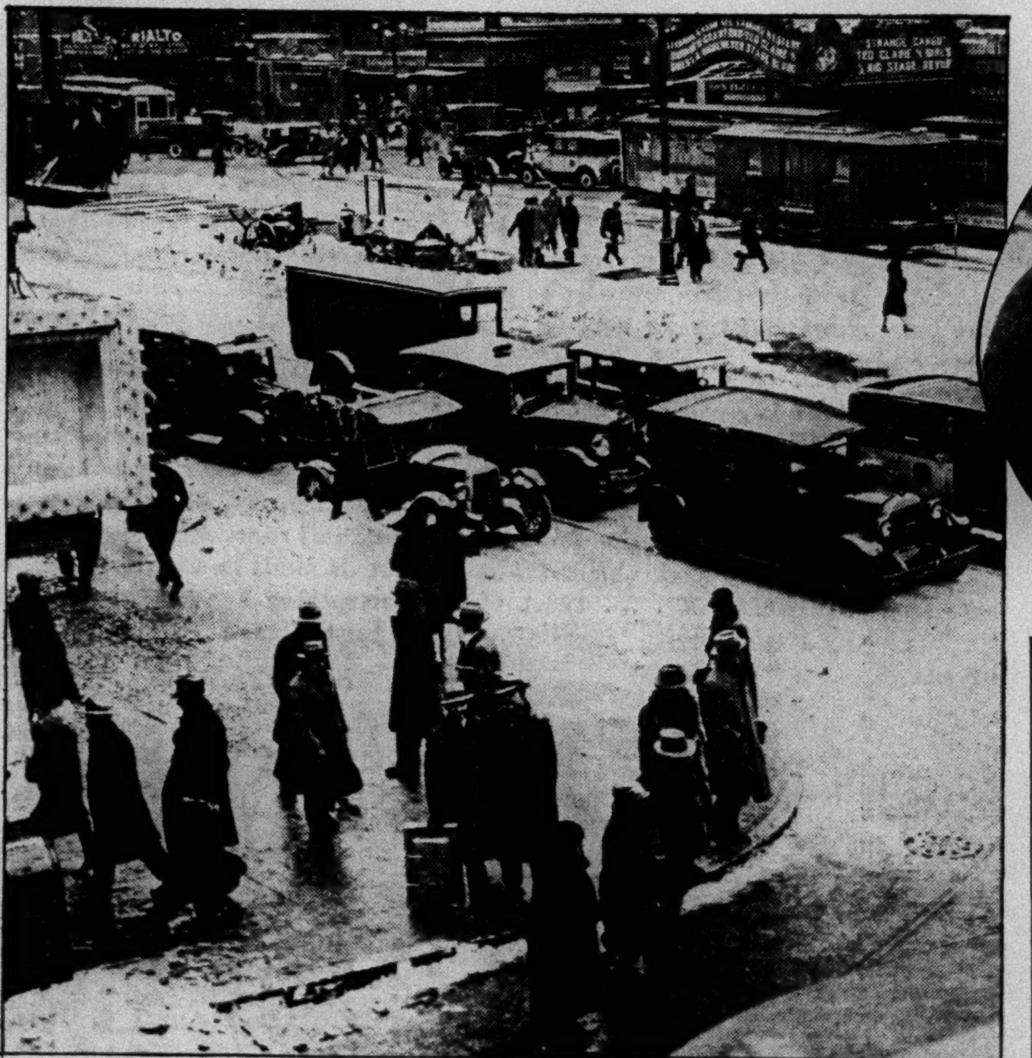
Service

O. K. SAY GARAGE MEN! Here's how the Alco-Tester works. Just squeeze the bulb and it tells you instantly if there's enough Denatured Alcohol in your radiator. Have it done if there's a doubt in your mind. Any garage man will gladly do it without charge. It's the one safe way to banish costly repair bills and it means complete protection. Look for the orange and green sign at the first warning of winter.



JUST A SAMPLE OF WHAT'S COMING! This interesting picture was snapped on the corner of Broadway and 44th Street, New York City, during a heavy snow storm and it gives you a pretty good idea of the weather that's due soon. No wonder the weather man has issued a warning . . . better get that radiator filled up with some Denatured Alcohol and play safe. Denatured Alcohol, you know, is the only anti-freeze that both automobile and radiator manufacturers universally approve. It can't affect either rubber or metal. Can't lead to "gummy", sluggish motors . . . or expensive springtime motor troubles. Have some put in today at the nearest garage or filling station. There you can get complete protection in less than 2 minutes. It's mighty cheap insurance.

THE WAY OF WISE MEN. He knows how to be sure his car is protected! He has stopped for a minute or so at the place he usually buys gas. The attendant is simply pouring Denatured Alcohol into his radiator. No superfluous service is necessary . . . no special tightening up. Just add Denatured Alcohol, check with the Alco Tester . . . and there you are.

SIX INDISPUTABLE FACTS

You've heard a lot about anti-freezes. Here are the real facts in the case . . . the indisputable reasons why more motorists use Denatured Alcohol than all other anti-freezes combined.

1 An entire season's supply of Denatured Alcohol usually costs less than half as much as one filling of some preparations.

2 Denatured Alcohol is harmless to radiators, engines and electrical systems. It will not corrode metal parts or attack rubber hose and does not cause leaks.

3 No special service is required to make your car ready for winter. Just put Denatured Alcohol in your radiator as it is.

4 Every car manufacturer approves Denatured Alcohol, and the firm that made your radiator is also emphatic in its endorsement.

5 If your protective solution is lost through accident or carelessness, the cost of replacement with Denatured Alcohol is usually one-sixth that of replacement with some preparations.

6 You can get Denatured Alcohol anywhere, anytime. Service when you need it, wherever you are.

2,000 AT CLEVELAND IN GARMENT STRIKE

Workers on Women's Attire Start Fight for 40-Hour Week and New Rules.

CLOSED SHOP AIM CHARGED

CLEVELAND, Jan. 7 (AP).—More than 2,000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union went on strike here today, and their officials announced tonight that 90 per cent of the city's cloak and suit production was at a standstill.

Police arrested three men at a minor disturbance, but otherwise the strike generally was quiet.

Benjamin Schlesinger, international president of the union, took personal charge of the strike a few hours after it started.

The strikers seek a forty-hour week instead of forty-four; elimination of alleged sweat-shop conditions, guarantee of workers' wages in contracting shops, and preference for skilled Cleveland cloak and dress makers in the distribution of work before it is sent outside the city.

Two groups of employers are affected. The "American plan" manufacturers say the strike is to enforce "closed-shop" requirements. They refuse to recognize the union. The Garment Manufacturers Association holds that a forty-hour week is equivalent to a 10 per cent wage increase and that they cannot meet this demand while competing with the "American plan" group if the latter works on a forty-four-hour basis

The walkout of women garment workers in Cleveland yesterday is the third of thirteen general strikes authorized recently by the general executive board of the union.

The first of the strikes were called in New York City among the needle workers and the hemstitchers, pleaters and tuckers unions, and ended in a victory for the workers, according to union officials.

WILLIAM J. CURTIS JR. TO BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral for Yachtsman Killed in Auto Crash to Be Held From Christ Church, Rye.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Funeral services for William John Curtis Jr., amateur yachtsmen who was killed here Sunday night in an automobile accident with his Princeton classmate and former room-mate, John M Heffron of Greenwich, Conn., will be held from Christ Church here at 11:30 tomorrow morning.

The Rev. J. Townsend Henshaw, rector of Christ Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Greenwood Union Cemetery.

Mr. Curtis was graduated from Princeton University in the class of 1914. He was a member of the Ivy Club. He rowed on the Princeton crew for three years. In the World War he served overseas as a Lieutenant in the United States Navy.

Mr. Curtis won second place in the transatlantic race for the Queen of Spain's Cup in 1928. He commanded the yacht Pinta. Mr. Heffron was a member of the Pinta's crew.

Mr. Curtis leaves his wife, Mrs. Caroline Porter Curtis, daughter of Nathan Todd Porter, president of the Montclair Trust Company, and three small children, Thomas Knickerbocker, Todd Porter and Caroline Chester Curtis.

He was a member of the University Club of New York, the Princeton Club, the American Yacht Club, the Cruising Club of America, the Appawamis Club of Rye, and the Westchester Country Club.

EXHORTS RETAILERS TO ELIMINATE WASTE

Dr. Klein Tells Shoe Convention Efficiency Is Imperative—$2,500 Pair of Shoes Shown.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan 7.—Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, told delegates to the National Shoe Retailers' Association today that the business stabilization program outlined by President Hoover obligated each business establishment in the country to analyze its affairs and ferret out every item of preventable waste.

The convention previously had adopted resolutions pledging its support to the President's stabilization policy and promising to place early orders to maintain the industry's payroll.

Dr. Klein pointed out that the President's business plans for 1930 involved not simply the launching of great construction projects by public utilities and governmental agencies, but a "commanding obligation" on the part of even the smallest businesses to keep accurate records and avoid waste.

"The big noise in business is the still, small voice of the cash register bell," Dr. Klein said.

Frank C. Rand, president of the International Shoe Company, in a luncheon address, commended Dr. Klein's talk and said that President Hoover's industrial conference assured the industrial leaders of "a sympathetic rather than an antagonistic administration."

The convention will close with a banquet tomorrow night.

About 400 shoe exhibits are displayed at downtown hotels. The largest and the smallest shoes in the world are on display and so is the most expensive shoe, set with amethyst buckles. It sells for $2,500.

Cullen Picked for House Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Representative Thomas H. Cullen emerged as the most formidable candidate for the leadership of the New York Democratic delegation in the House today when it was learned that his name would be presented to the party caucus tomorrow to fill the vacancy on the Ways and Means Committee created by the resignation of Representative Carew, who has ascended the bench in New York. Selection for important committee assignment is practically tantamount to election to leadership.

jection and could have none, since his own company had for nearly three years conducted negotiations with the Radio Corporation, which failed only because he and Mr. Young had been unable to agree on terms.

But he suggested that, if the present law is amended to permit the proposed combination, the Radio Corporation at the same time be required to divest itself of its exclusive contracts with foreign companies. Expressing the fear that repeal of the prohibitory provision in the present radio act might open the way to the creation of monopolies, Mr. Carlton suggested as preferable the passage of a specific enabling act to permit this proposed merger of the Radio Corporation with the I. T. T. Repeal of the present provision, he thought, might "encourage a drift toward monopoly."

In that connection, Mr. Carlton expressed the opinion that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company was the only corporation which could properly exercise control of a monopoly, should one be permitted to develop.

The witness said he felt no alarm concerning the future, with unified companies operating in every foreign country as against three operating independently in this country, nor did he attach any great importance to the apprehension on that score expressed by Mr. Young when he appeared before the committee last month.

Says His Company Was "Awake."

"You know, it's the fashion with us, when a man returns from service abroad, to ask his opinion on all sorts of subjects, from finance to the kind and amount of milk it is best to feed the babies," Mr. Carlton said. "And, in the matter of Mr. Young's views on international communications, with all respect, of course, I put them in the class with any advice he might feel moved to give to nursing mothers."

Referring to Mr. Young's revelation of the prolonged negotiations which have taken place between them in the effort to effect an agreement which since has been reached between the Radio Corporation and the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, Mr. Carlton said:

"It was a great plan, and at no time and in no way has the genius of Owen D. Young found more eloquent expression than in the framing of the terms he wanted us to agree to. The only trouble was, we were awake."

The effect of the agreement proposed by Mr. Young, Mr Carlton said, would have been to put the Radio Corporation with the relatively-small amount of business it was doing, "virtually in control of the Western Union."

He did not think that the combination with International Telephone and Telegraph, if permitted to become effective, would "make much difference to the Western Union."

"But you would have made it, if you could?" Senator Wagner suggested.

On Friends and Horse Traders.

"Oh, yes," Mr. Carlton replied. "We would. If we could have agreed on terms."

"The price was too high?" Senator Dill suggested.

"Oh, I wouldn't say that," Mr. Carlton replied. "They are all friends of mine. If a friend of mine is making a horse trade, I don't want to queer his sale."

"But he wanted too much for his horse!" said Senator Dill.

"I wouldn't even put it that way," Mr. Carlton drawled. "Lets say he saw more legs on that horse than I could count."

The last "expiring spasm" of the effort to reach an agreement, Mr. Carlton said, had taken place on shipboard when he crossed to Europe on the same steamer with Mr. Young and David Sarnoff about a year ago.

With the appearance of Mr. Carlton, the committee today resumed the hearings, which began with the testimony given by Mr. Young on Nov. 9 and 10, and which were adjourned Dec. 17 for the period of the holiday recess.

Mr. Carlton was the first witness to appear following the testimony previously given by representatives of the Radio Corporation of America, and he was given an all-day hearing, in which the liveliest interest was manifested by all Senators present. The afternoon session was held at the request of Senators Brookhart and Wheeler, who desired to ask questions for which there had been no time this morning.

Gives Views on Regulation.

As to the creation of a single commission to regulate and control communications, indifference was expressed by Mr. Carlton, although, he added, so far as the Western Union was concerned, he saw no reason not to continue the present system of regulation by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"We are indifferent as to what commission regulates us," he said, "but I am bound to say that, in our opinion, the Interstate Commerce Commission has done a good job."

He thought that a different situation was presented, however, in radio, and that a separate commission, preferably of specialists, might be desirable in dealing with its problems.

The matter of rates, he added, would take care of itself, since "what one company does, all must do."

Senator Wagner suggested that a different problem was presented by communications than that represented by the railroads, with which the Interstate Commerce Commission was devised especially to deal; but the witness remarked that the latter commission seemed to be "highly intelligent," and he could see no reason to change, though repeating that he spoke only for his own company.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission has been too busy with other matters to concern itself with your company. It hasn't had time to function," said Senator Wheeler. "I don't blame you for wanting to be regulated by a commission that hasn't time to regulate you."

"I can't agree with that wholly, Senator," Mr. Carlton said, "as to their not having done anything about regulating us. But I'll admit I would be glad to be let alone."

Sees No Reason for Change

Mr. Carlton reiterated that he did not oppose any form of regulation that Congress might prefer, but as between a new commission and the power that now exists, he saw no reason to make a change, as far as the Western Union is concerned.

No complaint, he said, had ever been made against the Western Union rates.

"The extent and completeness of the Western Union connections in the United States," said Mr. Carlton, "seem to us to place upon us all an obligation almost that of a monopoly. It has been, and is, our policy to do what we can within the scope of good business to encourage radio.

"Radio should be encouraged. It has been to our interest to encourage it. Our policy in opening our offices to it was good business, because the establishment of every new office meant that new business was being solicited. The competition of RCA has been a valuable factor in creating new business."

Agrees Rate Cut Was Forced.

"They stated in testimony before us that they had had the effect of reducing your rates," Senator Dill suggested.

"I think that's true," said Mr. Carlton.

At first, "while getting a foothold," the Radio Corporation charged a rate of 18 cents, as against the cable rate of 25 cents. In 1911 the cable companies established the half rate on plain messages, deferred, and, coincident with that action, the Western Union inaugurated the night-letter and week-end message, which Mr. Carlton said was their first cheap service, and credit for which belonged to "the great inventive mind of Theodore Vail," then president of the Western Union, who retired in 1914.

"In those three years," Mr. Carlton said, "Mr. Vail, who had the greatest mind in the business world, gave a stimulus to the company it will take it twenty years to develop and work out."

The witness traced the growth of cable communications from 1911, "when the companies did a comparatively small business," to the point now reached, where, he said, the average exchange between Europe and America was 51,000 messages a day.

"During that time," he continued, "I observed, because it was my business to know, that the R. C. A., in 1923, raised their rate from 18 to 20 cents. We reduced ours from 25 to 20, and that is the situation today"

It was a natural consequence, he insisted, of the growth and development of both means of communications.

"Radio," Mr. Carlton said, "has been of inestimable value."

Says Competition Is Healthy.

Senator Fess asked if the witness thought radio ultimately might displace cables.

"Who can say?" Mr. Carlton replied. "My business is to try and build up the best system, the best medium of communication. If radio proves to be better than cable, let's have it. It is what we all want. We are not fighting each other, we are all fighting for business, more business for all of us, and that's a healthy situation."

There was no secrecy about what was being done he told the committee.

"Take the wireless between South America and Europe," he continued. "We get every week a complete description of the volume R. C. A. handled. It's no secret. They know we know. There's no secret about who has the business and who hasn't."

The idea of secrecy in business, Mr. Carlton added, was "a lot of hokum." Code these days, he said, was increasingly unnecessary.

As to the amount of business done by the Western Union, Mr. Carlton said, it had grown from $30,000,000, land and cable, in 1910 to $150,000,000 in 1929.

"Of that increase," he explained, "20 per cent is due to the increase in rates made by the Postmaster General when he had our lines in 1918."

"Our entire cable business, and we do 50 per cent of the total, amounts this year to $12,000,000," this sum being, he added, included in the $150,000,000.

Says There Is No Menace.

Referring to the daily transatlantic average of 51,000 messages, Mr. Carlton said the Western Union had 44 per cent, the Commercial 29½ per cent, the French Cables 7 per cent, the Merger Cables between Great Britain and North America, including Canada, 2 9-10 per cent; the Radio Beam, between Great Britain and Canada, 1 8-10 per cent, and the Radio Corporation of America and merger, 3 5-10 per cent.

Senator Dill commented that "the British merger would not seem to be much of a menace to American communications."

"Menace? There is no menace," Mr. Carlton exclaimed.

He characterized as "one of the most fantastic bogies ever dressed up in my experience" the presentation of the British communications merger in the light of a menacing development possessing potential power to control or destroy American interests in the international communications field.

As to the system by which the British companies are controlled, Mr. Carlton said that "no more creaking, awkward, ponderous business set-up" existed anywhere than in London.

"I could wish a business competitor no worse luck than to be hooked up in such a system," he declared.

"The British merger doesn't present the slightest menace to any one. Right now the Western Union and the R. C. A. hold the British merger in the hollow of their hand."

The Radio Corporation, the witness continued, is a "growing factor in the Far Eastern business," and far from the British being able to dictate rates, the corporation, with the arrangements existing under its present contracts, is in a position where it "can dictate a rate which will place the British merger at their mercy."

He had no objection, the witness explained, to the proposed combination between the Radio Corporation and International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"But we want to be left free to compete with it if it takes place," he said.

Brookhart Asks Some Questions.

In reply to Senator Brookhart, Mr. Carlton said that the Western Union's capitalization was $102,000,000, and that it was earning about $15,000,000 a year.

"About 15 per cent on the capitalization," said Senator Brookhart, adding that it seemed a "pretty thick dilution."

Subject to correction by the Interstate Commerce Commission, Mr. Carlton said he placed at $250,000,000 the total valuation of the Western Union as it is today, representing a consolidation of 537 companies sold or leased to it. In 1911, he said, the company paid a dividend of 3 per cent, in 1913 about 4 per cent, in 1915 about 5 per cent, in 1917 about 5 per cent and in 1926 and ever since, about 8 per cent.

Senator Brookhart asked him if he thought a public utility was entitled to a greater return on money invested than the earning power of the whole people, which, he said, had been placed at less than 6 per cent.

"You'll have to ask some wild economist about that," Mr. Carlton replied.

"You don't think a tame one could tell me?" Senator Brookhart inquired.

"I don't think there is any such thing as an average return for the whole people such as you are talking about," Mr. Carlton said. "I believe in a rate as low as is consistent with a fair return on the capital investment and justice to the large body of employes we have to consider."

"That's pretty much the position Mr. Young took," commented Senator Brookhart. "You remember his answer to my question on that subject?"

"And it was a dashed good answer," Mr. Carlton replied.

"You agree with him on that, anyhow," Senator Brookhart said.

In a discussion with Senator Wheeler as to telegraph rates, Mr. Carlton said he was not satisfied with some of the present rates, and thought it was a question whether any rate of more than a dollar for ten words was not too high.

He indicated that reductions on some of the present rates was under consideration and might shortly take effect.

PLAN TO ELIMINATE HUDSON SPAN PLAZA

Engineers Propose to Extend Bridge Approach 2,000 Feet in Jersey to Speed Traffic.

TO BAN LEFT-HAND TURNS

Distributing Basis to Be Set Up 4,000 Feet From River to Serve Arterial Highways.

Engineers of the Port of New York Authority have revised their plans for the Fort Lee approach to the Hudson River bridge and submitted yesterday to official bodies in New Jersey a proposal to eliminate left-hand turns, grade crossings and traffic lights.

The original plan called for a circular plaza at Lemoine Avenue, Fort Lee, about 2,100 feet inland from the New Jersey shore, at which point the bridge approach structure was to end. Under the new plans submitted by the Port Authority to the New Jersey State Highway Commission the approach would be extended about 2,000 feet further west to Fletcher Avenue, where it would merge with several arterial highways. The approach would pass over Hudson Terrace, the first cross street, and then would provide underpasses at Lemoine, Centre, Inwood and Fletcher Avenues.

The Port Authority made an offer to the New Jersey Highway Commission yesterday to pay $2,500,000 toward the cost of extending the approach 2,000 feet from Lemoine to Fletcher Avenue, the money to be payable when the bridge traffic reaches 10,000,000 vehicles a year and moneys become available from the bridge revenues for this purpose.

Plan Four Lanes of Traffic.

An engineer's plan of the proposed approach shows that vehicles at all times could use the right-hand turn, reaching Hudson Terrace from the bridge by returning a short distance at the point where the approach and the terrain reach a common level. Four lanes of traffic would be established, with a distributing basin at Fletcher Avenue for State highway routes 1, 4 and 6 and the Bergen Boulevard and County Road.

The entire bridge approach from Hudson Terrace to Fletcher Avenue would be flanked by marginal streets to accommodate local traffic without interference with bridge and through-route traffic. The maximum grade would not exceed 4 per cent except on certain secondary connections.

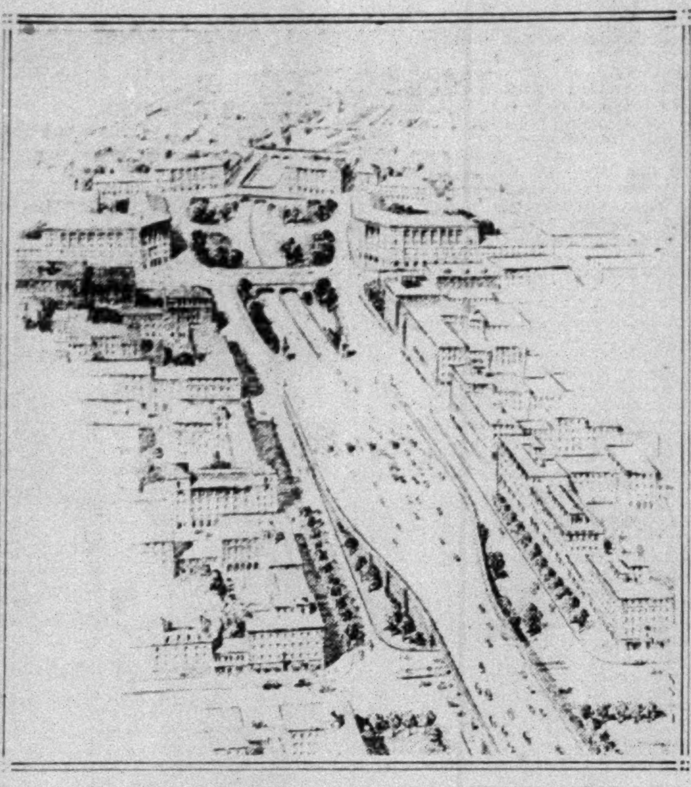
The law under which the Port Authority is building and financing the bridge provides that the New Jersey approach must be approved in its entirety by the Governor of New Jersey and the Borough of Fort Lee. A similar provision is included in reference to the Manhattan approach and the city and State of New York. The Port Authority recently proposed a change at the Manhattan approach to extend the structure to Amsterdam Avenue.

Calls Circular Plaza Obsolete.

Frank C. Ferguson, vice chairman of the Port Authority and a resident of New Jersey, explained the reasons for discarding the plaza plan. A minimum of traffic policemen can handle the bridge traffic, he said, if the Fort Lee approach is built on the new plan and the principle of right-hand turns is maintained throughout.

"The Port Authority," he said, "has discarded the old circular plaza idea, which lent itself to civic planning but throttled motor vehicle performance. Such plazas, which then adequately served their purpose, are now a relic of the horse-drawn days with speeds of ten miles an hour. American cities having circles or circular plazas today are either confronted by a traffic tangle such as exists at Dupont Circle, Washington, or are discarding the circular movement of traffic, as has been done at Columbus Circle, New York. Berlin has a similar problem at Belle Alliance Place.

"Traffic distribution today must be as definite as the routing of railroad trains, with definite paths of travel in both directions without conflict. The most modern methods, material and workmanship have been used in building the Hudson River Bridge. The most modern traffic methods will be applied as a means of reaching it. Motors today are being designed for increasingly greater horse power and higher speeds. It is to accommodate such a trend in motors that the Port Authority is providing these facilities."



NEW PLAN FOR JERSEY APPROACH TO BRIDGE.

Engineers Suggest the Elimination of the Proposed Circular Plaza and the Extension of the Approach to a Point 4,000 Feet From the Hudson River.

DEDICATE EMANU-EL IN CEREMONY FRIDAY

ARK WILL BE SANCTIFIED

Service to Follow Procession With Scrolls—Five Children Will Take Part in Key Presentation.

The new temple Emanu-El at Fifth Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street will be dedicated on Friday evening at elaborate services, formally opening the house of worship which has been built since the consolidation of Emanu-El Congregation and Temple Beth-El.

Foremost among the ceremonies will be the procession with the scrolls, the sanctification of the Ark and the presentation of the key. Sacred music and prayers will complete the exercises, to which hundreds have been invited.

An organ prelude, played by Gottfried H. Federlein, will be followed by the prelude for the dedication by Ernest Bloch, played by orchestra and organ. Lazare Saminsky will conduct "Ma Tovu," written by him for the dedication, Moses Rudinov and the Emanu-El choir taking part.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel Schulman and Cantor Simon Schlager will conduct the opening prayer and short religious service. Saint-Saen's "Praise Ye the Lord of Hosts" with solo trumpet, choir and orchestra, will follow. Then the trustees and others will participate in the solemn procession with the scrolls, followed by the sanctification of the Ark by the Rev. Dr. H. G. Enelow and the Emanu-El Choir.

"Adonoy, Adonoy" will be given by solo trumpet, Moses Rudinov and the choir. Five children, Marian Effie Sulzberger, Benjamin Mordecai Cardozo, William Spiegelberg Frank, George Edward Herman and Jerome Nathan Straus, will walk in procession to hand the key to Benjamin Mordecai, chairman of the building committee, who will turn it over to Judge Irving Lehman, the president of the congregation. Judge Lehman will deliver an address.

Following two musical selections, a Hebrew melody by Joseph Achron and Handel's "A Lovely Peace," sung by Ruth Rodgers and Mildred Kreuder, accompanied by the orchestra, presentations of resolutions will be made by the president to the following: Benjamin Mordecai, chairman of the building committee; Robert D. Kohn, Charles Butler and Clarence S. Stein, associate architects; Francis L. Mayers, O. H. Murray and Hardie Phillip, consulting architects, and Myron S. Falk, consulting engineer.

Other musical selections will follow, and the ceremonies will close with a final prayer and adoration by the Rev. Dr. Nathan Krass, the singing of the "Hallelujah" (Psalm 150, Franck) and "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." The Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman will pronounce the benediction.

The board of trustees of the congregation for 1930 is composed of Judge Lehman, president; Sydney H. Herman and William I. Spiegelberg, vice presidents; Henry M. Toch, treasurer, and the following:

COOLIDGE IN FLORIDA TODAY

He Is Attending Life Insurance Convention at St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 7 (AP).—Accompanied by his wife and by field directors and executives of the New York Life Insurance Company, former President Coolidge, who became a director of the company soon after his retirement from public life, will arrive here early tomorrow to attend the second annual convention of the company.

Reaching here about 6:45 A. M. aboard a special train from New York, the delgation, numbering more than 100, will be taken to a hotel and after breakfast and a short rest will convene in executive session. The conference is to last until Sunday.

An address by the former President will be broadcast through Station WJZ at New York over a nation-wide hook-up at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night. He has chosen for his subject "The Economics of Life Insurance."

After the close of the convention Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will go to Mount Dora in the lakes region of Central Florida to fish and rest for several weeks.

Nomination as Register Withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP).—The nomination of Alfred M. Bergere to be Register of the Land Office at Santa Fé, N. M., made yesterday by President Hoover, was withdrawn today, but no reason was given at the White House.

MILLIONS SAID TO HINGE ON DOHERTY DECISION

Test Suit on Settlement Price in Case of Default by Buyer of Stock Will Be Tried Soon.

Herman L. Mehr, attorney, said yesterday that if success attends the test suit that his brother, Joseph L. Mehr, had brought against Henry L. Doherty & Co., stock brokers, for recovery of alleged profits in stock of the Cities Service Company, it would be followed by other actions against Doherty & Co., running into "several million dollars."

The suit, which is expected to go to trial early next week, in the municipal court at 642 Madison Avenue, is based on a contract signed Aug. 20, last, under which Joseph Mehr agreed to buy twenty-five shares of Cities Service common stock at the prevailing market price of 48¾. Mehr paid $103.13 down and agreed to pay the remainder on the first of each month, beginning on Oct. 1, it was said.

The contract stipulated that it was to be canceled if the payments were not made on or before the first of the following month. Should that happen, the company was to refund the amount paid, plus or less the difference between the contract price and the market price of the 15th of the preceding month.

Herman Mehr said he and his brother maintained that the word "preceding" in the contract, referred to the month previous to that in which the defaulted payment was due. Doherty & Co., in their answer filed by Frueauff, Robinson & Sloan, attorneys, denied allegations made in the complaint and made a counterclaim against Joseph Mehr. The firm contends that the "preceding" month means the month in which payment is due.

Joseph Mehr paid the October instalment, but when the stock had dropped to 68 in the latter part of that month he decided to forfeit the remaining payments rather than take a heavier loss. The sock dropped to 28 on Nov. 15. The Mehrs demand a profit of $20 a share, the difference between the purchase price and the high price. Doherty & Co. hold that they should refund the purchase price less the difference between that and the low mark of 28.

A GOOD CAR

Central Railroad of New Jersey,
143 Liberty Street,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

During the past year it has been my pleasure to have made several trips to Philadelphia by way of the Jersey Central, and I could not let the year go by without taking this opportunity of congratulating you on your most efficient service.

You have a most direct route which is easily accessible from my down town office. Your slogan "Courteous Service...Good Food... Dependable Transportation" is without doubt an actuality, and I want you to know that I will be most pleased to recommend your service to my friends.

Very truly yours,

THE THINKING EXECUTIVE INVARIABLY CHOOSES THIS SERVICE

IT'S rightly called the business man's service. Straight from your downtown office, across the Hudson in quick time to the waiting train for Philadelphia, accompanied by courtesy, service and really excellent food.

The efficient executive never fails to exercise his privilege of choice. When he travels from New York to Philadelphia he chooses the New Jersey Central for good reasons, not from unthinking habit. These reasons include speed, reliability, convenience and courtesy, plus a dining car service that makes the trip to Philadelphia a real pleasure.

Try New Jersey Central service once and you'll know why it is the choice of the thinking executive.

COURTEOUS SERVICE . . . GOOD FOOD . . . DEPENDABLE TRANSPORTATION

TODAY in New York you take it for granted that your apartment will have to-day's necessities of life such as electric refrigeration, modern elevators and the ordinary conveniences. But apartments which carry with them such extra luxuries as a maid and valet service, two restaurants and a Coffee House, Miss Travers' Tudor City School, and indoor and outdoor playgrounds for the children, and a miniature 18-hole golf course, are rare. In fact we know no place where they can be obtained except at that sylvan spot at the East end of 42nd Street. Or, if you follow us, Tudor City. There are a lot of other features there, too. Private policemen, a garage, a nursing bureau, a community store and so forth. Below are the solid facts, put down with all the fervor of a blue print, about some apartments in Windsor Tower that still lack a lucky tenant. Here perfect hotel service is available. Most apartments have a river view.

MISS HEATHER WEDS HENRY D. ROULSTON

FATHER ESCORTS THE BRIDE

Miss Marjorie Heather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cornelius Heather, was married to Henry Davies Roulston, son of Thomas H. Roulston of Brooklyn, and the late Mrs. Roulston, last night in St. Bartholomew's Church. The Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood, the rector, assisted by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman of Brooklyn, performed the ceremony. Cybotium ferns, palms, lilies and white heather decorated the church.

The bride was escorted by her father who gave her in marriage. Her gown of ivory colored satin was made with a fitted bodice and a full flare skirt, which ended in a long peacock train. The train was bordered with a wide band of old rose point lace which had been worn by the bride's paternal grandmother at her wedding, and the bodice was embellished with old rose point lace which belonged to her maternal grandmother. She wore a voluminous veil of tulle which fell from a close fitting cap of lace, fastened on each side of the head with a cluster of orange blossoms. The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Charles Moeser Jr. of this city, and Miss Dorothy Yerkes of Philadelphia, were matron and maid of honor. The other attendants were Mrs. Grant Caldwell, Mrs. J. Truman Bidwell, the Misses Margaret Dittmar, Gladys Mars, Francesca Carey, Martha Wolfelt, and Ada Grace Barker of New York; Mrs. Russell Wirth and Miss Roma Wirth of Milwaukee. All wore princess gowns of satin, quite long with demi-trains. That of the matron of honor was of orchid color, and that of the maid of honor of deep purple. Those of the other attendants were of French blue. All wore tulle hats to match the frocks, trimmed with ermine tails, and carried muffs with sprays of orchids and lilies of the valley fastened to them.

L. Goffe Briggs Jr. of Norwich, Conn., was best man for Mr. Roulston. The ushers were Richard Raymond of Cincinnati; John Webb of Montclair, N. J.; John Barber of Springfield, Ill.; Grant Caldwell, Harrison Smith, John Ingersoll, Thomas F. Scholl, William Arnold, Charles Moeser Jr. and Burroughs and Cornelius McGuire of New York. Following the ceremony there was a large reception in the ballroom of the Park Lane. There the decorations were similar to those at the church.

Mr. Roulston and his bride, after a wedding trip in Europe, will live at 35 Prospect Park West, Brooklyn. He is in business with his father in the firm of Thomas Roulston, Inc., and is also vice president of the Gowanus Realty Company. The bride is a descendant of William Heather, founder of the musical professorship at Oxford University, who is buried in Westminster Abbey.

Van Nostrand—Hofer.

Mrs. Helene M. Hofer of 130 East Seventy-fifth Street, and Howell Van Nostrand of the Hotel Winthrop, yesterday obtained a marriage license at the bureau in the Municipal Building and were married at noon in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue and Ninetieth Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Henry Darlington.

Mrs. Van Nostrand is the former Miss Helene Moffat, daughter of Mrs. Aileen G. Moffat and Edwin C. Moffat of this city. Her former marriage to Martin Hofer was ended by divorce in 1927. Mr. Van Nostrand is a son of Charles B. Van Nostrand of this city. He was graduated from Yale University in 1918 and is a member of the Sons of the Revolution.

Keschner—Steiner.

The marriage of Miss Minette Steiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Steiner, to Myron Keschner, son of Dr. and Mrs. Moses Keschner of this city, took place yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, 175 Riverside Drive. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Jonah B. Wise.

Miss Hortense Keschner, a sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and Frances Rukeyser was flower girl. Sidney Robert Keschner was best man for his brother. A dinner followed at the Ambassador.

After a trip to Havana and Palm Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Keschner will live in this city.

CURTIS GIVES DINNER FOR THE PRESIDENT

HOOVER RECEPTION GUEST

Entertained by Congressional Club—Takes Mrs. Hurley to Curtis Dinner, Mrs. Hoover Being Ill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Hoover was entertained at dinner tonight by Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, his sister and official hostess, in Mr. Curtis's apartment at the Mayflower Hotel, and later was the guest of honor at a reception held by the Congressional Club, but Mrs. Hoover, who has been suffering from a heavy cold, was unable to attend either function.

The place of the First Lady was filled at the Vice President's dinner by Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War, who, because Mrs. Henry L. Stimson had gone to New York yesterday, was invited as the next ranking lady of the Cabinet circle.

Mrs. Hurley arrived at the Mayflower with the President, having been escorted from her home to the White House by Lieut. Col. Campbell Hodges, chief military aide, who called for her in a White House carriage.

Mrs. Gann was taken in to dinner by the President, and Mrs. Hurley by the Vice President.

The other guests at the Vice President's dinner were the newly appointed Ambassador to Germany and Mrs. Frederick M. Sackett, Senator and Mrs. Watson of Indiana, Senator and Mrs. McNary of Oregon, Senator and Mrs. Couzens of Michigan, Senator and Mrs. Deneen of Illinois, Senator Hastings of Delaware, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong and Mr. Gann, husband of the hostess.

This dinner, which would have been the first of those given for the President and Mrs. Hoover by the members of his official family, was postponed first because of the death of Secretary of War Good and again to give precedence to the Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson in view of their early departure for London, where the Secretary will attend the naval conference.

The Vice President's guests were seated at the oblong table made for the occasion to conform exactly to the size and shape of a pale pink tablecloth of linen recently given Mrs. Gann by a friend in Czechoslovakia. Pink roses and other flowers and rose-colored candles were used to carry out the color scheme.

At the Congressional Club, the membership of which is made up of the wives and daughters of Senators and members of the House, President Hoover was received by Mrs. Porter H. Dale, wife of Senator Dale of Vermont, president of the club, and stood at her right in the receiving line, made up of officers of the club. These included the honorary vice president, Mrs. John B. Henderson; the five vice presidents, Mrs. C. William Ramseyer of Iowa, Mrs. Clarence F. Lea of California, Mrs. S. Wallace Dempsey of New York, Mrs. Louis T. MacFadden of Pennsylvania and Mrs. Tom Connally of Texas, and the secretaries and treasurer, Mrs. Daniel T. Reed of New York, Mrs. Joe Crail of California and Mrs. Clay Stone Briggs of Texas.

Mr. Hoover remained little more than half an hour. The illness of Mrs. Hoover was the subject of much anxious inquiry and of deep regret.

T. R. YBARRA, WRITER, IS MARRIED HERE

Son of Former Venezuelan War Minister Weds Miss Penelope O'Leary.

AMERICAN COMPANY SINGS 'BUTTERFLY'

HARRIET EELLS AS SUZUKI

Newcomer Has Resonant Tone—New York to Hear 'Yolanda' for First Time Tonight.

MADAME BUTTERFLY, lyric drama in two acts. English text by R. H. Elkin, from the Italian of Illica and Giacosa, after the book of Belasco and Long. Music by Giacomo Puccini. At the Casino Theatre.

Cho-Cho-San	Cecile Sherman
Suzuki	Harriet Eells
Kate Pinkerton	Edith Piper
Sharpless	Mark Daniels
Pinkerton	Charles Hedley
Bonze	Tom Williams
Yamadori	Howard Laramy
Commissioner	George Gove
Registrar	Walter Burke
Goro	Raymond O'Brien
Conductor	Isaac Van Grove

The American Opera Company offered last night as its second bill at the Casino Theatre a performance of "Madame Butterfly" that enlisted the services of several of the young singers who appeared in the opera two seasons ago at the Gallo Theatre. Cecile Sherman repeated her interesting and vocally excellent impersonation of the heroine, and a newcomer in the rôle of Suzuki was Harriet Eells, who sang with clear and resonant tone.

Charles Hedley was a mellow-voiced Pinkerton; Mark Daniels, the consul, Sharpless; Edith Piper the Kate Pinkerton, while Tom Williams, Howard Laramy, George Gove, Walter Burke and Raymond O'Brien appeared in the minor rôles. Isaac Van Grove conducted a performance that was notable for its smoothness and dramatic effectiveness.

Clarence Loomis bowed with Vladimir Rosing and the singers of the company on the Casino's stage yesterday afternoon, after a rehearsal for tonight's New York première of the Chicago composer's "Yolanda of Cyprus." In a houseful of local musicians were guests also from out of town, including Nikolai Sokoloff, conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra.

Four composers of the Metropolitan's occasional operas in English were present, Walter Damrosch, Charles Cadman, Henry Hadley and Deems Taylor, together with the returning Metropolitan tenor, Edward Johnson, and others associated with opera on and off Broadway.

"Yolanda," based on a poetic drama by Cale Young Rice, is the American company's annually promised production of a native work. It had its first hearing last October in Chicago. Tonight's public performance will be followed by two repetitions, just announced.

Next week's extension of the engagement will comprise "Yolanda of Cyprus" on Monday and Friday nights, "Carmen" on Tuesday, "Faust" Wednesday, "Marriage of Figaro" Thursday, "Butterfly" at Saturday matinee and a gala "Faust" on Saturday night, when theatrical Broadway is expected to bid farewell to the Casino.

KEITH FALKNER MAKES HIS AMERICAN DEBUT

Young 'Bass-Baritone' From England Displays Voice of Great Natural Beauty in Town Hall.

Keith Falkner, a young "bass-baritone" from England, made his American début yesterday afternoon at the Town Hall. The event was one of the most interesting of the current season, for Mr. Falkner is not only the possessor of a voice of great natural beauty but is also a musician and interpreter of a high order. His program, made up of English and German songs, included the Schumann "Dichterliebe" cycle, with Harold Samuel providing masterly piano accompaniments.

Mr. Falkner's voice is a high basso cantante, mellow and fine in texture, produced with ease, and responsive to the moderate demands exacted of it by the singer as a vehicle of expression. For Mr. Falkner stressed the musical line and content of the song rather than the dramatic significance of the texts. The deeper emotional values of "Ich grolle nicht," for example, escaped him, though the lyric charm and lightness of some of the other songs on the program were delightfully conveyed.

The list included an opening group of English songs by Handel, John Blow, Robert Jones and Bach, all sung with clean-cut diction and easy mastery of their essential style. Songs by Stanford, Parry, Martin Shaw and Maude Valerie White, folk-songs of the Appalachian Mountains arranged by Cecil Sharp, and English ballads in the versions of Vaughan Williams and others completed the list. Edwin McArthur was the accompanist except for the Schumann cycle. The audience received the newcomer with the enthusiasm he deserved.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Church and Drama League is announced among the special groups of patrons attending tonight's production of a native opera, "Yolanda of Cyprus," by the American Opera Company at the Casino.

The Barbizon "Intimate Recitals" will be resumed this evening, following a holiday intermission, with a recital by Mina Hager and Catherine Wade Smith.

English and Slovak folksongs and a student song of Finland are on the season's first program of the Banks Glee Club, conducted by Bruno Huhn, at Carnegie Hall this evening.

The Resnikoff quartet will give the first of a series of chamber music recitals this evening in the auditorium of Contemporary Arts, 12 East Tenth Street, at 8:45 o'clock.

TAMIRIS MAKES HIT IN DANCE NOVELTIES

The third evening of the Dance Repertory Theatre season at the Maxine Elliott last night was given over to Tamiris for a program of dances performed alone with one exception. This exception, the final number of the evening, served to introduce the nucleus of a new dance group, for three young dancers assisted in the first presentation of a composition entitled "Triangle Dance." With all the various methods of employing ensembles, Tamiris has succeeded in discovering a characteristically different approach. If the dance itself is a bit thin, its design is crisp, clear and decorative and makes delightful and provocative use of the tiny resonance of four triangles differently tuned, to point the dimensional range of the dancers' movements.

There were five other new compositions, all taking excellent advantage of the beautiful fluency of the dancer's particular technique. In the buoyancy of her frank and hearty personal presence, the graciousness of her attitude to her audience, the clean directness of her movement, which has something of the lilt of a song about it even when she walks, one finds a peculiar contradiction to the thoughtfulness and the subtlety of her compositions. To carp at them is frequently to prepare the way for the eating of one's words at second seeing.

A striking case in point is to be found in the "Revolutionary March," which at its first appearance last season seemed anything but significant. Last night, though there apparently had been no serious alteration in its form, it was a stirring and well wrought dance. This, to be sure, is to be attributed in part to the growth of the artist, which is attested markedly in the performance of her older dances, as well as in the composition of the more transparent of her new ones. "Hypocrisy," for one, has deepened greatly since its first presentation; its edge is sharper, its transitions more richly defined. The group of "Negro Spirituals" has likewise added substance, and in its performance last night touched perhaps the highest peak of the program.

Of the new dances, "Play Dance" and "Romantic" in the Stravinsky suite and "Sentimental Dance" to music by Aaron Copland were completely clear and outspoken; "Lull" and "Dirge," especially the former, were not so much so. The latter required an accompaniment played by seven pianists, which proved far less formidable than might be supposed. The dance itself has a beautiful and satisfying emotional line, beginning in heavy and stolid grief and ending in a beatific peace expressed in phrases of enchanting movement. Undoubtedly the novelty of the accompaniment took valuable attention away from the dance itself where it needed it most, namely in the early sections.

"Sentimental Dance," employing extraordinary movement, is a keen and satiric bit, decorative in spite of itself. "Play Dance" and "Romantic" achieve their ends by charming if economic methods, and make a nicely contrasted group with the older "Peasant Rhythms."

Tamiris is still in a transitional stage of development as an artist, but her rate of progress is phenomenal, and her gifts are unquestionably large and full. The audience expressed its approval in unmistakable terms, and there were flowers for the dancer and many curtain calls in which Louis Horst, the accompanist, shared.

Tonight's program will be given by Martha Graham and her group.

FRITZI SCHEFF COLLAPSES.

Returns to "Mlle. Modiste" in Boston After 15 Minutes Delay.

BOSTON, Jan. 7 (AP).—Fritzi Scheff, veteran stage star, collapsed off stage near the end of the second act of "Mlle. Modiste" at a theatre here tonight.

An acute attack of indigestion was held responsible.

She was treated by a doctor and returned to finish the show, which had been delayed fifteen minutes.

PONSELLE TO SING "NORMA" ON FRIDAY

Her Only Performance of Bellini's Heroine at Special Matinee—Next Week's Opera Bills.

Rosa Ponselle's admirers are to have "probably but one chance this year" to hear her performance of "Norma," according to General Manager Gatti-Cazazza of the Metropolitan, when she sings the special matinee of Bellini's classic work on Friday of this week. Mr. Gatti said yesterday that Miss Ponselle's two new rôles in "Luisa Miller" and "Don Giovanna" will occupy most of her few remaining weeks at the Metropolitan this season, and it has been found impossible to postpone existing contracts for her concert tour.

Elizabeth Ohms, the new German prima donna, will make her début in the Metropolitan's twelfth week, just posted. She will sing the Brünnhilde of "Götterdämmerung" one week from Friday. Mme. Galli-Curci will sing at next Sunday's concert for the company's emergency fund, with Mmes. Matzenauer, Attwood, Moore, Peralta and Swarthout and Messrs. Tokatyan and Tibbett.

Operas of the twelfth week include "Die Walküre" next Monday, with Kappel, Kirchhoff and Schorr; Wednesday "Rosenkavalier," Jeritza and Bohnen; Thursday "Luisa Miller," Ponselle and Lauri-Volpi; Friday "Götterdämmerung," Ohms, Laubenthal and Bohnen; Saturday matinee "Roméo et Juliette," Galli-Curci and Edward Johnson, and Saturday night, Jan. 18, "Carmen," with Jeritza, Martinelli and Pinza, for the annual benefit of the French Hospital.

Jose Iturbi Heard at Hamilton.

Special to The New York Times.

CLINTON, N. Y., Jan. 7.—José Iturbi, the Spanish pianist, played here before the Hamilton College Musical Art Society this evening. La Campanilla by Franz Liszt was one of the encores which followed tremendous applause.

RECITAL ON HARPSICHORD.

Frances Pelton-Jones Gives "Salon Intime"—George Morgan Assists.

Frances Pelton-Jones, whose annual harpsichord recitals revive in intimate settings the artistry of other centuries, gave the first of two Tuesday "salons intimes" before a social audience in the Hotel Plaza ballroom yesterday. Besides Bach's B flat Partita and sonatas of Scarlatti and Dr. Arne, there were the aptly chosen "Harmonious Blacksmith" and Handel's march from "Saul," as well as "The King's Hunting Jig," by Dr. John Bull, admirably suited to the archaic instrument of the composers' time.

George Morgan, baritone, was applauded in two groups of songs with harpsichord, ranging from fourteenth century Italian and other classic airs down to the aristocratic French court composers and jovial old English and Scottish highland melodies. A second recital, on Jan. 21, will have as added artists Alice Paton and the Barbizon Quartet.

Two INVESTMENT FUNDS . . .

ONE FOR INCOME
ONE FOR ACCUMULATION

INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT, as offered by the Irving Trust Company through two Investment Trust Funds, has the following aims:

1. Protection at all times against permanent loss of capital values.
2. The highest return in income and appreciation that may be obtained without hazarding safety of principal.

Your entrance into either Fund is on the basis of actual market value of security and cash holdings of the Fund at the time when your participation is accepted. You are granted by contract the right to withdraw on a similar basis. The two Funds meet the differing needs of two classes of investors.

FUND A—FOR INCOME

Investment Trust Fund A provides for quarterly distributions at the rate of 5% per annum on the amount subscribed by each investor, plus an annual distribution of 12½% of his proportionate part of the net income earned in excess of such 5%. The balance of income is reinvested, thus tending over a period of years to increase the value of his participation.

FUND B—FOR ACCUMULATION

Investment Trust Fund B provides that all income and profits are compounded through reinvestment, thus permitting a more rapid increase in the value of the investor's participation.

The holdings of these Funds are of four classes: (1) Common Stocks, (2) Preferred Stocks, (3) Bonds and other maturing obligations, and (4) Cash and call loans. The proportion of investment in each of these four classes, and the specific securities within classes, are varied from time to time to conform with the results of continuous economic research and industrial analysis.

Full details of the earning history of each Fund since its inception, and of the safeguards offered to investors under the terms of the respective Trusts, may be obtained at any Banking Office of the Irving Trust Company.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Writ Out of Malice.

CHILDREN OF DARKNESS, a play "in the picaresque manner" in three acts, by Edwin Justus Mayer. Staged under direction of the author; settings and costumes by Robert Edmond Jones; produced by Kenneth Macgowan and Joseph Verner Reed. At the Biltmore Theatre.

Mr. Snap	Walter Kingsford
First Bailiff	Albert Bees
Mr. Cartwright	J. Kerby Hawkes
Mr. Fierce	Richard Menefee
Jonathan Wild	Charles Dalton
Count La Ruse	Basil Sydney
Laetitia	Mary Ellis
Lord Wainwright	Eugene Powers
Bailiffs	Joseph Sainner, William Plunkett

Although Edwin Justus Mayer's second play, "Children of Darkness," which was splendidly acted at the Biltmore last evening, lacks the qualities most essential to fee-first drama, it is beautifully written with a consistent malice. Succès d'estime is the coinage usually flung at these loquacious though honorable plays in which all the action lies in attitudes. And this second play by the author of "The Firebrand" makes those patent and fatal errors of resolving all the drama into festoons of phrases and mental gestures. Despite the excellent production, the pulsatile acting of Mary Ellis and Basil Sydney, and a brilliant characterization by Walter Kingsford, those who want their drama served hot off the griddle are well advised in staying away, as they will.

But for those who have the will to listen to sentences well turned and who can relish the malicious humor wrapped up in them, "Children of Darkness" (or "The Jailer's Daughter" or "The Lady of Newgate") is one of those oddments that turn up now and then in the theatre and warm the hearts of the few knaves who are left. Mr. Mayer is back in the stout days of Jonathan Wild, king of the eighteenth century gangsters, and he sets his play in the barricaded house of the under-sheriff of Newgate prison. His characters, all of whom he has described at full length, include as pretty a parcel of rogues and cut-throats as ever stamped their heels on a stage—two murderers who came of the gentry, the great Wild himself, a sheriff who is Beelzebub in miniature, and his daughter, who is as shameless a trollop as "The Beggar's Opera" affords. Only one clean spirit lives among then—a tender young poet who believes in beauty alone. These are the "Children of Darkness."

Saving the poet, who is untutored in the ways of misanthropy, they deal in malice alone. They filch from each other. They humbug the great Wild into believing that for £300 they can buy him a pardon on the day before he swings, and as soon as he is dragged off to the hangman's noose, they appropriate his money as a heaven-born legacy. With a flourish of laced cuffs worthy of the king's levy, one of them boasts that he has poisoned his wife and a few of her intimates.

Even the love between the jailer's daughter, Laetitia, and Count La Ruse is drenched in malice and exists by the contempt and distrust each has for the other. What conflict there is comes by way of the intruding poet. Laetitia uses him merely to strengthen her hold on the Count. She gains her point and forces a turn of events she had not foreseen. For when the Count realizes how vilely she is serving the poet, and how fatal her duplicity is to an unworldly talent that may bloom into something fragrant, he purchases the poet's freedom with the money he had embezzled from Jonathan Wild. And to achieve his own freedom he stabs himself through the heart.

For the most part the malice is amusing, and the knavery is sublime. Mr. Mayer tells his story in a prolonged series of duel-logues; it is verbal fencing in purple patches. There is a sting loose amid the traceries of the phrase-making. Frequently, as through the second act, he talks the point to death and taxes the attention. Lest you condemn it as a pose in a young man who was once rash enough to write his autobiography in his delicate twenties, he shows that he can compose also in the rhapsodic strain of the poetic idealist. In spite of its incontinence it is the freest meaningful writing that has been spoken in the theatre this season, and it comes from conviction. If it lacks maturity—well, let it be so. Maturity has not done much for us in the theatre this season.

The acting is rich in pattern and shading. Miss Ellis, who left us all a little breathless as Becky Sharp last June, gives another performance that is memorable not only for her shining beauty, but for her subtlety of touch. This jailer's daughter is done in a myriad of colorings—sly, bold, cruel, frightened and impudently magnificant. Basil Sydney as the Count La Ruse plays with authority and intelligence of meaning. Charles Dalton is a rogue of awful mien and whiskey voice as Jonathan Wild, and Eugene Powers is sardonically amusing as the cant-hating scoundrel who murdered his spouse. Walter Kingsford, who has been playing minor parts hereabouts for several years, achieves something of first importance in his acting of the sheriff. His Mr. Snap is a fawning, cringing, leering mongrel who does great honor to Mr. Kingsford's versatility and imagination.

Robert Edward Jones has turned out animated costume designs and a setting that lifts the production into proper light. Let this much be said in favor of a play that, by all the laws of the pedagogues and public favor, is no play at all. Salute and gramercy!

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"So Was Napoleon," the comedy formerly called "The Sap From Syracuse," will open tonight at the Sam H. Harris Theatre. At the American Laboratory Theatre Tchekhov's "The Three Sisters" will be presented. In it Maria Germanova, the group's new director, will make her American stage debut.

Mrs. Fiske's new comedy, tentatively called "Family Blues," will open in Newark on Jan. 27, play the following week in Baltimore and come to Broadway about Feb. 10. Cyril Scott will be in the cast, as will several players from "Ladies of the Jury." The play is the work of Hatcher Hughes and Alan Williams.

"Those We Love," the play by George Abbott and S. K. Lauren, will go in rehearsal next week and open in Jackson Heights on Feb. 3. Philip Dunning has become associated with E. A. Blatt in the production.

Charles Trowbridge and John T. Doyle have been engaged for "The Boundary Line," which Jones and Green will put in rehearsal the latter part of the week. Francis Lister, Paul Harvey, Fortunio Bonanova and Harvey Stevens have been added to the cast of Katharine Cornell's play, "Dishonored Lady," now in rehearsal.

Lester Vail will tonight succeed Robert Lynn in "Nancy's Private Affair," which is at the Boulevard Theatre, Jackson Heights, this week, preparatory to opening at the Vanderbilt next Monday night.

The Ziegfeld show for Ed Wynn, "Simple Simon," is now announced to open in Boston on Jan. 20.

A special matinee of "It's a Wise Child" will be played at the Belasco Theatre next Tuesday afternoon for the Actors' Fund.

Walter N. Greaza, last seen in "Remote Control," will appear in support of Lynne Overman in "She's No Lady," the farce which H. H. Frazee Jr. is producing. The play will open in Erie, Pa., on Jan. 17 and will subsequently be seen in Detroit, Toronto, Cleveland and Chicago.

COHAN FARCE REVIVED AT THE GANSEVOORT

'Seven Keys to Baldpate,' After 16 Years, Still Remains an Ingenious Mystery Play.

SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE, a mystery farce in two acts, by George M. Cohan, adapted from a story by Earl Derr Biggers. Staged by Parker Wilson; settings by William E. Dagnell and Valeria Yochem, revived by Randolph Somerville. At the Gansevoort Theatre.

Elijah Quimby	Leonard Smissaert
Mrs. Quimby	Lillian Gibson
John Bland	Albert Perry
Mary Norton	Ann Thweatt
Mrs. Rhodes	Doris Drake
Peter the Hermit	Richard Ceough

Thomas Hayden	John Keehan
Chief Kennedy	Harry Hallahan
Policeman	Harold Daedecker
Owner of Baldpate	Parker Wilson

The group of amateur-professionals which Randolph Somerville is presenting at the Gansevoort Theatre last night turned its attention to the ingenious and tricky mystery farce which, under the name of "Seven Keys to Baldpate," George M. Cohan coaxed forth from the pages of Earl Derr Biggers's story and on to the stage of the Astor Theatre more than sixteen years ago. Although in the ensuing years other plays have appropriated the manner and some of the devices of the original, and although part of the snappy 1913 dialogue has lost its tang, "Seven Keys" remains pretty much what it was in the beginning—a theatrically expert blending of its elements that achieves exactly what it goes after, entertainment from first curtain to last.

In the current Grove Street production the play does not quite get its just due. The acting is about what you might expect from a group that devotes only its spare time to the theatre, but the performance as a whole might have been a little speedier and of a firmer texture. The setting employed does away with the balcony, where a portion of the second act fun used to take place, and that means a slight shifting of the action, which some of the old "Seven Keys" devotées were quick to notice last night.

Of the cast, John Koch, as a supposed crook, James Kelly, as the pseudo-mayor, and Judith Knight as the make-believe blackmailer, stood out. One member of the audience, who seemed to know whereof he spoke, was heard to murmur that the Chief Kennedy of Harry Hallahan was also adequate or better.

All in all, it is a pleasant evening, with Mr. Cohan's justly celebrated bag of theatrical tricks and surprises proving again that practically anything can take place in a deserted Summer hotel in the wintertime. If, after sixteen years, some of the hocus-pocus has become transparently clear, it is not entirely the author's fault.

And, for those who go in for such things, it affords the opportunity of comparing a well-known play of former days with its talking picture resuscitation. In that new-fangled form "Seven Keys" may even now be found some forty blocks further uptown.

Lou Tellegen Recuperating.

Lou Tellegen, who was severely injured by fire on Christmas morning in an Atlantic City hotel, was reported yesterday by his physician, Dr. Anna K. Daniels, to be recuperating in the Park West Hospital. He will probably be able to leave the hospital at the end of a week, Dr. Daniels said. Mr. Tellegen at the time of his injury was about to open in "Escapade," in which he played for several days in Atlantic City and Newark. The play is now in Philadelphia, with Erik Barbour in Mr. Tellegen's rôle.

ALL Wanamaker Furniture

nothing reserved, with the single exception of ANTIQUES, which increase with the years in value

At Discounts of 20, 33 1/3 and 50 per cent.

even better furniture opportunities than in the famous Wanamaker 20 per cent. deduction sale

IN THE JANUARY—FEBRUARY SALE NOW OPEN

FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

Buy Fair
Sell Fair, and Take Care

He that grasps too much holds nothing fast.

Many of the foxes grow gray, but few ever grow good.

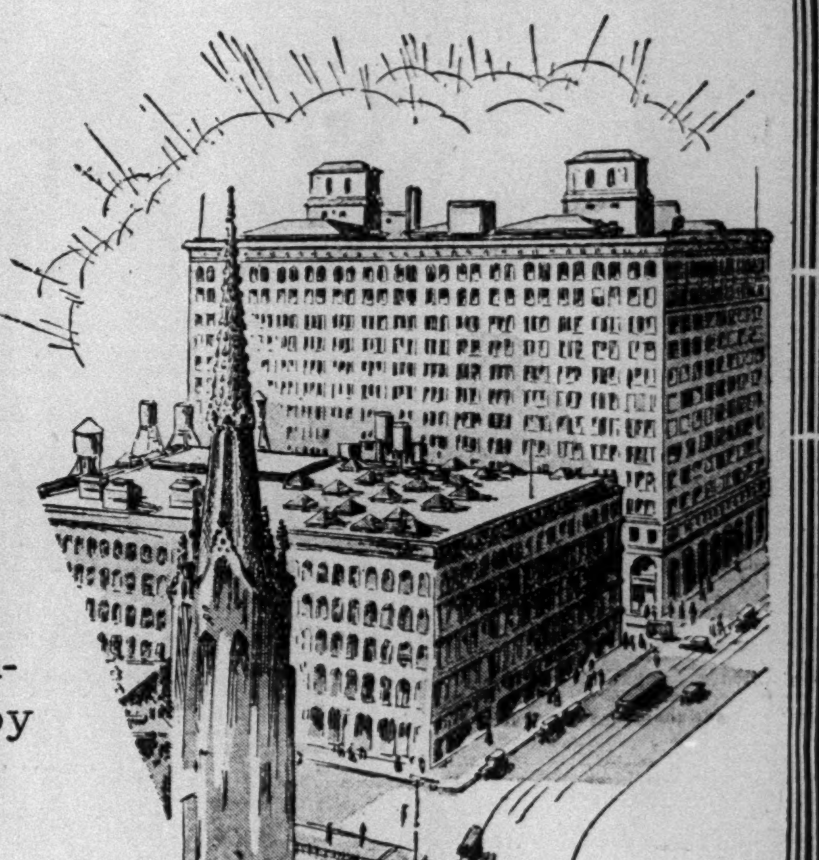
Better small profits and large sales.

When you are good to others you are best to yourself.

"Keep conscience clear, then never fear," said Benjamin Franklin.

John Wanamaker

THE SALE OF PROGRESS . . .



A new step ahead this year, with greater economies than we have ever offered—Three 1930 Furniture Sale Discounts:

20 per cent. 33⅓ per cent. 50 per cent.

And this is almost as revolutionary as when John Wanamaker originated the February Sale in 1891, upsetting the whole furniture world, showing the way to mass production which brought to America:

better furniture better designs lower prices

Leading this new movement for better home furnishings in the new century the Wanamaker furniture business doubled its volume in ten years and quadrupled in twenty years. Now we lead in the country-wide campaign to keep workers in employment, factories going at capacity, and money and merchandise in motion by offering these unexampled discounts on Wanamaker furniture.

THE SALE OF INDIVIDUALITY . . .

Even the fine, individual Belmaison reproduction furniture (almost like antiques) comes under the new ruling that every piece of furniture must show at least 20 per cent. reduction, and this includes mattresses (except one trademarked line) and office furniture, as well.

Individual in its furniture, the sale is also individual in its service: the ideas freely disclosed in the settings in Belmaison, a 22-room house; in The Little Home that Budget Built, with its moderate prices and budget credits that permit buying out of income over several months; in the newly-installed American section of the furniture galleries reproducing six famous and historic rooms of early America, from originals in museums.

THE SALE OF ECONOMIES . . .

Discounts of 20 per cent.—GRAY Tag.

Discounts of 33⅓ per cent.—ORANGE Tag.

Discounts of 50 per cent.—GREEN Tag.

The entire stock of Wanamaker furniture in the new building subject to these discounts—shown on five galleries, the fourth to the eighth—reaching two million dollars and more. Economies of Budget Planning ... furnishing a home, or a room, as a unit ... working to a plan ... and making the plan work ... then buying with a Budget Credit Account . . . paying out of income ... with no disturbance of capital investments . . planning expenditures as city, state, and federal government plans are made . . . saving by wise spending.

SCHROEDER ORDERS CLEAN STREET DRIVE

WON'T ACCEPT EXCUSES

Will Solve This Problem if He Is Able to Do Nothing Else in Sanitation Office, He Says.

PROMISES NEW EQUIPMENT

Added Personnel Will Also Be Provided if Necessary, He Tells Brooklyn Official.

William Schroeder Jr., Sanitation Commissioner, began a vigorous campaign to clean up the streets of New York yesterday, declaring that the division of street cleaning of the commission would be reinforced with whatever additional equipment and men it needed to make the streets really clean. He described the present condition of city streets as "dirty and filthy."

As the first step in his campaign Dr. Schroeder summoned Michael Laura, Deputy Commissioner of Street Cleaning, to his office and demanded an explanation of the condition of Brooklyn streets. He said he had driven through South Brooklyn, the Red Hook section and parts of Flatbush and had found the condition of the streets ranging "from dirty to filthy." He told Mr. Laura that it was his job to keep the streets of Brooklyn clean, adding that he intended to have clean streets if he did nothing else as Sanitation Commissioner.

Mr. Laura explained that he had insufficient men and equipment for the borough. He said he had only 1,100 regular sweepers and 600 extras. The 600 extras were loading trucks instead of sweeping the streets, he declared. Dr. Schroeder retorted that the sweepers were supposed to sweep and ordered then assigned to that work immediately.

Ready to Increase Force.

If extra loaders were required, he told Mr. Laura to apply for an increase in the number of men in his division and to make similar application for more equipment if it was needed. Dr. Schroeder assured Mr. Laura that there was nothing personal in summoning him for an interview and said he intended to interview the heads of street cleaning in the other boroughs as well.

Tomorrow he expects to hold a similar conference with Deputy Commissioner Michael J. Fornaro of Queens, and he said the street cleaning authorities in the Bronx, Manhattan and Richmond would be called before him in the next week. Edward F. Cadley, Deputy Hospital Commissioner, represented the Hospital Department at the conference with Deputy Commissioner Laura.

Since the first of the year Dr. Schroeder has driven through the five boroughs himself to obtain first-hand impressions of conditions. As soon as the needs of the street cleaning division of his commission are definitely established he will ask the Board of Estimate to appropriate funds for additional men and equipment. It is possible that he will seek to increase the pay of street cleaners to draw a better grade of labor into that work. He has already made surveys of the personnel and equipment of the street cleaning forces in Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond.

Laura Pleased at Interview.

Following his conference with Dr. Schroeder on Monday, Mr. Laura said:

"I agreed with Commissioner Schroeder that the streets in Brooklyn were dirty. I pointed out to him, however, that there was a shortage of sweepers and trucks. I told him I needed 1,000 more sweepers, drivers and loaders and at least 300 more trucks.

"Commissioner Schroeder and I are old friends. He promised to carry my appeal to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for extra funds so that we might get the required personnel to keep the Brooklyn streets clean."

HITS TWO GIRLS, DRIVES ON.

Motorist Is Pursued by Taxi Driver Who Causes Arrest.

Two young girls were probably fatally injured in upper Broadway last evening by an automobile driver who continued on his way after striking them. A taxicab driver gave chase, overtook a car which he said was the one in the accident and caused the arrest of its driver.

The girls were Selma Kirschberg, 16 years old, of 549 West 163d Street, and Jeannette Geisenheimer, 18, of 555 West 177th Street. They were struck in Broadway between 163d and 164th Streets by a roadster which continued south in Broadway. The girls were taken to Columbus Hospital, where it was said both had fractured skulls and would probably die.

Cornelius Cleeson, the taxi driver, of 446 East 146th Street, went in pursuit and at Riverside Drive and Dyckman Street called Patrolman William Kirschner to make the arrest. The prisoner, who said he was Thomas Mahon, 35, of 2,010 Lexington Avenue, denied all knowledge of an accident. He was locked up in the West 152d Street police station, charged with assault and leaving the scene of an accident.

DIVORCES G. W. BLABON 2D.

Former Mary S. Stout, Married at 20, Charges Cruelty.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—Mrs. Mary S. Blabon, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Clymer Stout, of Berwyn, obtained a divorce from George W. Blabon 2d of Wynnewood, at West Chester today. She charged her husband with cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities.

Mrs. Blabon was 20 years old at the time of her marriage in February, 1925, to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Blabon of Littlefield Farm, Bryn Mawr.

Her husband's use of firearms led to their separation in March of last year, Mrs. Blabon testified. She said at a master's hearing that he placed a glass of water on a window sill and fired his revolver at the target all night long, and that she lay in bed in constant terror of being hit by a bullet.

Garfield to Buy Up Tokens To Offset Trolley Fare Rise

Special to The New York Times.

GARFIELD, N. J., Jan. 7.—In order to circumvent the requirement of the Public Service Coordinated Transport Company that patrons of its trolley lines purchase ten tokens at a time for 50 cents or pay a cash fare of 10 cents, the city of Garfield will buy several thousand of the tokens and put them on sale at 5 cents each, Mayor Anthony Perrapato announced today.

The Mayor's decision was reached after a conference with the city's Corporation Counsel. The city will sell the tokens through local department stores in any quantity.

WALKER TO WEIGH TRANSIT BILL DRAFT

Confers Today on Exact Form of Measure to Be Offered fered in Legislature.

ACTION ON PLAN PUT OFF

Board of Estimate Not to Decide on Approval of Untermyer Program for Two Weeks.

An attempt to fix the exact form in which the city's rapid transit unification bill will be submitted to the Legislature will be made this afternoon at a conference at City Hall. Mayor Walker, Controller Berry and Aldermanic President McKee, comprising the special committee of the Board of Estimate in charge of the unification program, will discuss the measure with John H. Delaney, chairman of the Board of Transportation, and Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the Transit Commission. Chairman Fullen of the State board is expected to attend.

Mr. Untermyer will explain several amendments which he deems essential to clarify the bill as it was placed before the 1929 Legislature. Mayor Walker has informed his transit advisers that he would like to have the measure introduced at Albany next week, if possible.

Action Is Deferred.

The committee of the whole of the Board of Estimate yesterday deferred action for two weeks on the calendar item relating to the Untermyer plan and its approval. It was explained, however, that the matter could be taken up on Tuesday if necessary, and that in any event a delay of two weeks would not matter. The board's action is expected to take the form of a resolution endorsing the Untermyer plan and urging the 1930 Legislature to pass the enabling law. The resolution will be sent to Albany after the bill has been introduced in the Assembly and the Senate.

The question of borough-wide franchises for bus operation in boroughs not already provided for came up at the committee of the whole meeting yesterday when Mayor Walker was asked bluntly by Edward Powers, a representative of the Rockaway Chamber of Commerce, what action he expected to take to provide facilities in Queens.

"Four years have passed since we were told that we would have a comprehensive bus system," Mr. Powers said. "What do you intend to do about it?"

"We intend to see that there is a comprehensive borough-wide system instead of the chaos which some civic associations seem to prefer," Mayor Walker replied. "You can't expect us to give the good routes to individual operators and then hope to have a responsible operator or company provide a system comprising only the poor routes."

Puts Off Franchise Plea.

The Committee of the Whole postponed for one month action on a petition by the Merchants' Association asking the adoption of a general policy of substituting terminable permit franchises for trolley franchises in Manhattan. The Board of Transportation is now negotiating with several of the surface car lines for such substitutions and still other surface car lines have petitioned the Board of Estimate for such action.

Mayor Walker declined to comment on the plan of Mayor Hague of Jersey City for a new rapid transit link from Staten Island to the Bergen County line, including a tunnel under the Kill van Kull and a connection with the McAdoo tubes of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad at Journal Square in Jersey City. The proposal is being studied by Charles F. Kerrigan, Assistant to the Mayor, who will submit a report upon which Mayor Walker will act after consultation with Mr. Delaney and other city officials.

Although no official comment was forthcoming yesterday, it was said unofficially by some of the Mayor's transit advisers, that the Hague plan should be studied thoroughly and sanctioned, if at all, only after serious consideration of the advisability of linking Staten Island with Manhattan by way of another State instead of by a link through Brooklyn and the Narrows.

Mayor Hague anounced yesterday that he would discuss the project with the officials of other Hudson County municipalities as soon as preliminary plans were drawn. It was said that the project had met with favorable comment from Hudson County cities and towns along the proposed Hudson Boulevard route and that there was much sentiment in favor of extending the plan to a conection with the new Fort Lee Bridge.

SEEKS SWINDLER A WEEK.

Jobless Man Who Was Defrauded of $10 Causes Arrest of Suspect.

John O'Loughlin, a negro, of 172 West 141st Street, who had waited in front of an employment agency in Sixth Avenue, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth Streets, for a week to find a man who had swindled him of $10, caused the arrest yesterday of Tod Dorsey, a negro, 28 years old, of 118 West 137th Street.

Dorsey was held in bail of $500 for Special Sessions by Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud, in Jefferson Market Court, after O'Loughlin had charged that Dorsey approached him on the sidewalk and took the money as a "deposit" for finding him a job as elevator operator. The police said that many complaints of "sidewalk racketeers" preying on job-seekers had been received.

$839 IN GIFTS SENT FOR NEEDIEST CASES

FOURTH DONATION RECEIVED

It Comes From "L. S. H."—Hall Adams and "Old Friends" Give $100 Each.

Funds for the relief of the last Neediest Cases were received yesterday from seventy-one contributors, adding $839 to the total and bringing it within $18,651 of the relief extended last year.

Most of the contributors gave for the general fund with the expressed hope that it would eventually equal last year's. Some designated their contributions for one or another of the nine published cases to which the fund extended only in part last Sunday.

Hall Adams sent $100 to be applied to the relief of Case 457. "Old Friend" also sent $100. The employes of the Lax & Burgheimer Corporation and the B. V. D. Sales Corporation sent a group contribution of $58. Some of the typical letters received yesterday were:

L. S. H.—This $10 is for any of the leftovers. It is the fourth contribution.

E. J. A. (a clergyman)—My absence from the city caused me to neglect sending you this $10 before the holidays. I am genuinely glad that I can help keep the ball rolling even if it is with such a small contribution. I think your effort is one of the finest attempts to secure an expression of the real Christmas spirit that ought to prevail, but is more often swallowed up in the more selfish giving and receiving.

In Memory of Earl and Walter—In reading today's TIMES I find that the Neediest Fund is short of the necessary amount and I hereby send a further check of $50. It is a privilege to contribute even in a small way to such a worthy cause.

E. E. S.—Please apply to the case that you think advisable. I am adding this little extra so that you may be able to catch up to last year's amount.

S. D.—Have just seen that your fund is still short of last year, so I am enclosing another check for $10, this time to help make up the deficit, as with my previous contribution.

Mary Van Dyke—I am sending you a little additional contribution with the hope that the fund will yet go over the top.

The full list of contributions received yesterday follows:

Head of State Commission Says He Is Uncertain Whether to Take County Post.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Jan. 7.—Dr. Matthias Nicoll Jr., State Commissioner of Health, was selected as County Health Officer for the newly created Westchester centre at a meeting of the County Board of Health.

He will receive a salary of $12,000 a year if he accepts the county job, the same pay which he has been receiving from the State.

The announcement that Dr. Nicoll had been invited to take the post was made by Commissioner of Public Welfare George J. Werner after he had been named chairman of the County Health Bureau.

Among the members of the new health centre are Mrs. Caroline O'Day, of Rye, vice chairman of the Democratic State Committee, and Mrs. T. Channing Moore, wife of former Assemblyman Moore of Bronxville.

"Frankly, I do not yet know what I shall do about the offer made to me by Westchester County," said Dr. Nicoll when told of the report in White Plains that he had resigned to become head of the New Westchester County health organization. "The offer is most attractive, but there are many State matters which have engaged me and which need attention. I cannot say today what my answer will be."

Law Clerk Held for $1,300 Theft.

Seymour Kaiser, 23-year-old law clerk, of 1,515 East Thirty-third Street, Brooklyn, was in the line-up in police headquarters yesterday morning charged with stealing $1,300 from Robert E. Samuels, attorney, of 61 Broadway, by whom he was employed for eight years. He was arrested on a bench warrant and brought from Boston. Kaiser disappeared on Oct. 31. The police said he admitted the charge and said he lost most of the money playing dice.

Neediest Cases Studied by High School Pupils; Their Essays Seek to Solve Social Problems

THE NEW YORK TIMES'S Hundred Neediest Cases are being used in some of the English courses at the Port Richmond High School on Staten Island as a basis for both oral and written composition and to inspire a desire to help the needy.

Miss Helen I. Davis, a teacher at the school, told of the work in an article on "The Newspaper in the Classroom" in the current issue of the Board of Education's "Bulletin of High Points." In it she said:

"One assignment proved so interesting that we mean to make it an institution. THE TIMES'S Hundred Neediest Cases, cut out, mounted, and passed out to each student for suggested solution, required logical treatment in composition and personal resourcefulness, with a desire, very often expressed, to help the needy."

Miss Davis explained yesterday that her system was to cut out each case, place it on a piece of cardboard and then give a single case to each of the children. In the first—or oral—exercise, the student stands before the class and recites the facts of the case under his particular care."

The second part is also an exercise in oral composition. The student, with the facts of the case in mind, tells "What I Can Do to Help My Case." The third part involves reducing the second to paper. The student must place a title on the story. Miss Davis cited as a typical example the following, written by a 13-year-old pupil.

Can you picture a drabby, rundown, old house, owned by an old mother and her daughter, both of whom are sick with incurable diseases, with hardly any income to help them? This is the case of a mother 60 years old and her daughter, 35, of this city. Any income that they had was stopped when the father, 75, died of heart failure. Mary, the daughter, has tried to help by making rugs, but because she has a very weak heart cannot do much.

In order to send them to a home where they can be properly taken care of, $700 is needed. It seems to me that if I introduce this case to my fellow scouts of our troop and ask them to give donations I ought at least to get a little bit toward the amount needed. This contribution can be sent to the newspaper and they could forward it to the authorities in charge of the case.

The newspapers have brought to the attention of the public many cases of distress which would not have been known otherwise. Sometimes they have given personal contributions to a very needy case. They also spend money by sending special men to look up any case reported.

WASHBURN TO QUIT WESTCHESTER POST

Jury to Try Chairman of the Supervisors for Land Deals Will Be Drawn Today.

TOMPKINS TO DROP OUT

Reported That Justice A. J. Levy Will Preside at Prosecution of Five Under Indictment.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 7.—The jury for the trial of Howard R. Washburn, chairman of the Westchester County Board of Supervisors, and his four business associates, against whom indictments were returned yesterday by the extraordinary grand jury investigating land transactions in this county, will be drawn tomorrow morning.

Mr. Washburn declared he would resign as chairman of the board and it is expected that his resignation will be presented on Thursday. He conferred today with former District Attorney Lee Parsons Davis, counsel for both Washburn and Frank T. Bailey, one of those indicted on the charge of aiding and abetting the Newcastle supervisor in the commission of the misdemeanors with which he is charged.

Not Guilty Plea Expected.

L. Ward Prince, Charles Fenno and Alvah H. Atwood, the others indicted, are represented by former Supreme Court Justice Humphrey J. Lynch. Although the attorneys would not reveal what their course would be, it is expected that their pleadings will be "not guilty." If such pleadings are made the cases will come to trial here on Jan. 27.

As Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, who presides over the extraordinary term, goes to the Appellate Division next week, another justice will be named to take his place. It was reported that his successor would be Justice Aaron J. Levy of New York. It has been rumored here for some time that Justice Tompkins's successor would be from New York City. One report was that it would be Justice Irwin Untermyer, son of Samuel Untermyer, who requested that Governor Roosevelt call the extraordinary grand jury.

Consider Park Deals.

The grand jury was not in session today. It will meet again tomorrow and on Friday. Those to be called tomorrow include Chief Engineer Jay Downer of the Westchester Park Commission, John G. Agar, a park commissioner, and David S. Murden of Peekskill. The identity of the witnesses indicates that the jury is considering park commission land deals and that a report on those deals may be included when the grand jury reports its findings next week on the White Plains land transactions.

Justice Tompkins set Monday morning for the hearing of pleas. It is expected that the grand jury will report further findings at that time.

It became known today that Henry A. Wise, Special Deputy Attorney General in charge of the investigation, with Sydney A. Syme, has conducted an inquiry into complaints against the Water Commissioners of the village of Valhalla. Mr. Wise said he had examined several witnesses and had discovered no evidence of crime. He advised that the taxpayers of Valhalla resort to a taxpayers' action if they objected to certain purchases of land by the commissioners.

LONG BEACH MAYOR CHARGES CITY WASTE

Frankel Says Former Regime There Exceeded the Debt Limit by $576,836.

LARGE BILLS STILL UNPAID

Message to Council Recommends New Assessment Basis and Merging of Bureaus.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, N. Y., Jan. 7.—After a week's survey of the fiscal condition of Long Beach Mayor Frankel delivered a message to the city council at its meeting tonight in which he stated that "the financial affairs of the city are in a deplorable state." The debt limit, said the Mayor, has been exceeded by $576,836.

According to the Mayor's message the exceeding of the debt limit by the former administration means that the present city government will start its activities without any borrowing capacity for capital expenditures or improvements, nor is it possible, the report continues, to borrow money by the issuance of bonds to pay any of the city's present or past due obligations.

The immediate problem confronting the city, the Mayor said, is to finance obligations totaling $1,183,565. Included in this total is an unpaid electric light bill of $118,000, a telephone bill of $20,000 and back taxes owed Nassau County in the amount of $276,000. The report says that the money for the county taxes had been collected by the former administration under Mayor Dalton but that it had been appropriated for other purposes.

It was expected, the report further says, that at least enough revenue had been provided in the 1930 budget by the outgoing administration to cover the administrative expenses for the year 1930.

"Here again a rude awakening was in store for this council," continues the message. "After you shall have paid the county and State taxes in 1930, the funded debt amortization and the interest thereon, and some of the deficits incorporated in the 1930 budget, there will be available only the sum of $19,451 to pay for the running of the city for the current year. This sum of $19,451 may be entirely wiped out by the failure to receive revenue in the amount estimated by the outgoing council. In addition to the foregoing, we have inherited certain lawsuits and claims totaling $257,000, instituted against the city by various contractors and others, without any provision having been made for the payment or the settlement thereof by the outgoing administration."

In an effort to rehabilitate the city's finances, the Mayor recommends measures for immediate relief. This can be accomplished, he says, only by the strictest economy in the form of consolidation of departments and the abolition of useless jobs.

Another economy recommended was the reassessment of property.

"Our present basis of assessment is antiquated" the report says, "and is detrimental to the interests of property owners. No lending institution feels secure in making a loan of $5,000 on a house assessed at $3,000. When, in fact, the fair value of the property is $10,000. The property owners interests will be best secured by an assessed valuation more nearly approaching the actual value. An increase in the assessed valuation of property does not necessarily mean an increase in the amount of taxes paid by each property owner." The Mayor specifically says in his report that the taxes for city purposes for next year will not be increased above the amount that is being paid this year.

AERIAL WARFARE GREAT DANGER TO CIVILIZATION

GENERAL JAN C. SMUTS, speaking of the forthcoming naval conference, said that if a serious reduction of navies were thus brought about "the way will be open for an attack on the more difficult subject of military and aerial disarmament. Of these, aerial disarmament is the more urgent and important, as aerial warfare constitutes by far the more serious danger to civilization."

Lieutenant Commander J. M. Kenworthy, M. P., formerly attached to the war staff of the British Admiralty, contributes a gripping picture of the air warfare of the future. Three striking illustrations next Sunday in

CITY CLUB OPPOSES AMBULANCE PLAN

FEARS LACK OF DISCIPLINE

R. S. Childs's Letter Suggests City Increase Grant to Hospitals to Improve Service.

The proposed reorganization of the emergency ambulance service of sixteen private hospitals in Brooklyn by the Department of Hospitals is criticized by the City Club of New York in a letter written by its president, Richard S. Childs, to Dr. J. G. William Greeff, the new Commissioner of Hospitals. The letter, dated Jan. 7 and made public yesterday, suggests that ambulance drivers "cannot be made amenable to discipline by the superintendents of the hospitals while the drivers are on the city payroll."

The City Club suggests that before any reorganization is undertaken the present system of ambulance administration be studied carefully from the standpoint of increasing its efficiency. It also suggests that the Department of Hospitals, before reaching any final determination, hold a public hearing in order to get the views of representatives of welfare, medical and civic organizations interested in the emergency ambulance service.

Text of Child's Letter.

Mr. Childs's letter follows:

Jan. 7, 1930.

Honorable J. G. William Greeff,
Commissioner of Hospitals,
Municipal Building,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

In connection with the proposed reorganization of the ambulance service in the Borough of Brooklyn, notice of which is contained in a statement issued by you to the press on Friday, Jan. 3, it is our understanding that the "tacit agreement" which was reached by you with the representatives of the various hospitals concerned involves a purchase of some thirty new ambulances by the city to be located in the hospitals, and an appropriation for the Department of Hospitals for the operation of those ambulances at the rate of approximately $4,500 for each ambulance. We understand that this further involves the employment of about seventy ambulance drivers to be assigned to the various hospitals named in your statement, two drivers for each ambulance, so as to insure twenty-four hour service.

We further understand that in order to insure so far as possible that discipline may be enforced in the operation of the ambulances, the immediate supervision of the drivers will be placed in the hands of the superintendents of the various hospitals, although, inasmuch as the drivers are municipal employees, any action with respect to their employment will depend upon a report made to the Department of Hospitals by the superintendents of hospitals. We understand that it is the intention of the department in this whole matter to provide for a higher degree of efficiency in the operation of the ambulance service, and that it is thought that by this method the centralization of control will be made more explicit.

Inasmuch as we are informed that the whole plan is still in a tentative stage, and that further conferences are to be held with respect to the subject, we venture at this time to offer certain criticisms of the plan as a whole, and also certain constructive suggestions for your consideration.

Objects to Experiment.

We recognized at the outset that the present operation of the ambulance service is far from satisfactory. We are aware of the constant complaints that reach your department with respect to the conditions of operation, and we recognize the necessity for some action to remedy the existing conditions. The plan as tentatively announced in connection with the proposed reorganization in Brooklyn, however, would place the operation of the ambulances in an anomalous situation. The drivers cannot be made amenable to discipline by the superintendents of the hospitals while employed on the city payroll. At the same time, the Department of Hospitals is not in a position adequately to supervise this work. We cannot but feel that this administrative defect will lay the whole plan open to incorrigible abuse and cause its ultimate failure. This being the case, we believe it would be an unfortunate waste of effort and money for the city to engage in this scheme even as an experiment in Brooklyn, involving as it does an appropriation of some $96,000 for the purchase of new ambulances. We believe a much more appropriate way to use this money would be to increase the allowances now made in the budget to the hospitals for ambulance operation.

Finally, our suggestion is that before any attempt at this type of reorganization is made, a definite and studied effort be made to increase the efficiency of the present system of administration. This should be accompanied by an increased allowance by the city for the operation of each ambulance in a hospital.

May we further suggest that before any final determination is reached by your department, you arrange a public hearing or conference on the subject, at which representatives of welfare, medical and civic organizations interested may express their views.

Respectfully yours,
RICHARD S. CHILDS,
President.

No Change in Manhattan Planned.

When Dr. Greeff was asked whether he would grant the request for a public hearing on ambulance service reorganization, he said:

"I cannot make any comment on that phase of the letter until after I have had time to consider the request. Furthermore, I don't care to make any comment on the ambulance situation until I have received the report of the commission of Brooklyn hospital superintendents and officers, who will meet again on Jan. 13, and at that time submit recommendations. We are only interested in doing what the Brooklyn commission considers to be necessary to improve the ambulance service in Brooklyn.

"The ambulance service in Manhattan is so satisfactory that I can think of no way of improving it. At present we have no plans for reorganizing the emergency ambulance service in Manhattan."

Will Rogers Withholds His Applause for Grandy

To the Editor of The New York Times:

WINSLOW, Ariz., Jan. 7.—Senator Grundy is receiving Republican praise for not voting yesterday on a tariff measure that he himself was interested in. His side was already nine ahead. I will withhold my applause till I see what he does when a tie comes up.

Mr. Hoover is sending a Democratic and a Republican Senator to the London show. Would have sent a Progressive, but it's a peace conference.

The Hearst papers are against prohibition but in favor of enforcement, while Senator Borah is for prohibition, but against enforcement.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—Say, did you know it rained in Los Angeles? The floods is what drove me over here.

O'CONNELL GIVES UP; BAIL SET AT $30,000

TO FIGHT REMOVAL HERE

Refuses to Tell Where he Has Been Since Indictment Was Filed—Contempt Appeal Argued.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Daniel P. O'Connell, Albany Democratic leader, who was indicted recently for perjury, gave himself up this afternoon to United States Commissioner Lester T. Hubbard and tonight is free on $30,000 bail. O'Connell said he would fight proceedings for his removal to New York to answer the indictment.

The surrender was directed by Judge Martin T. Manton of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals. The court said it would not give a decision on O'Connell's contempt appeal until he was in custody. Thomas T. Cooke, Assistant United States District Attorney, was on hand to take O'Conell back to New York and opposed vigorously an attempt to lower the amount of bail.

Shortly before 5 P. M. Joseph L. Delaney and Joseph A. Murphy, counsel for O'Connell, went to Mr. Hubbard's office and a few minutes later O'Connell, who entered the building through a rear doorway, went to Commissioner Hubbard's office on the fourth floor. He faced a battery of cameras and when requests for more shots were made he said:

"Take your time, boys. You will have plenty of chances to make pictures."

Cooke Asks $50,000 Bail.

The preliminaries in the commissioner's office were brief. Mr. Cooke suggested to Mr. Hubbard that $50,000 would be a fair bail, but O'Connell's attorneys objected strenuously. Mr. Cooke pointed out that O'Connell already had forfeited a $10,000 bail bond in New York, but this was denied by O'Connell's counsel.

Finally Mr. Hubbard fixed the bail at $30,000, with the attorneys still pleading for $25,000. O'Connell, who had sat in front of the commissioner during the proceeding, then went out into the hallway to greet friends who had gathered there.

He was asked where he had been since the indictment was returned, but to this and all other questions he smiled and said: "You'll have to ask Mr. Delaney or Mr. Murphy about that."

O'Connell had been served with the warrant as he was about to enter Commissioner Hubbard's office. He took the paper and passed it over to his counsel.

To Resist Removal.

O'Connell said his counsel proposes to resist his appearance in New York. "We propose to contest his removal," said Mr. Murphy, "and will appear before Commissioner Hubbard at a time that is agreeable to him."

The surrender of O'Connell was brought about through an appeal by his attorneys from a three months' sentence for contempt of court. United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle had declared that O'Connell was a fugitive from justice and his assistant, Mr. Cooke, also made this accusation this afternoon. Counsel insisted that O'Connell was not a fugitive, but was remaining in Albany to protect his constitutional rights.

Appeal Argument Finished.

When argument was resumed yesterday before the Federal court on the appeal of Daniel P. O'Connell, Albany Democratic leader, from a three-month's sentence for contempt of court, his counsel, James I. Cuff, announced that O'Connell would surrender at once to the Federal authorities in Albany. Mr. Cuff repeated his denial that O'Connell was a fugitive from justice. Judge Manton made it known that until the surrender of O'Connell there would be no decision on the appeal.

Mr. Cuff's promise of the surrender of O'Connell was followed by the departure for Albany of Thomas T. Cooke, assistant to United States Attorney Tuttle. After word came that O'Connell had given himself up, Mr. Tuttle said:

"I am glad to learn that the pressure from this office has at last induced Mr. O'Connell to recognize the existence of the Federal court and the indictment filed against him on a charge of perjury."

Besides the perjury indictment, to which he has not yet pleaded, O'Connell was held in $10,000 bail as a material witness in the inquiry before the Federal grand jury into the Albany baseball pool. This bail was declared forfeited. O'Connell is wanted also as a witness in the second perjury trial of James J. Otto, one of three owners of the now defunct pool. Otto has served a prison term for mail fraud and is under sentence of a year and a day for perjury.

The argument on the contempt appeal was closed yesterday. Decision was reserved.

EQUITY TO BOYCOTT TICKET PLAN REBELS

URGES A THEATRE BOARD

Wants Present Cooperation Made Permanent With All Groups Represented.

WOULD WIDEN 'POLICE' BODY

Obtaining Backing of Noted Persons Also Suggested—Managers Seek Broadway Association Aid.

Drastic action to close down productions in those theatres which support the ticket scalpers was forecast last night in the decision made yesterday at a meeting of the council of the Actors' Equity Association.

While Equity's exact plan of campaign was not disclosed, it was learned that the actors will do their utmost to stand by the managers who are seeking to abolish the agencies' practice of buying blocks of seats months in advance. The support, it was understood, will go to the extent of boycotting productions by withdrawing players whenever managers fail to support the plan to eliminate the ticket speculation evil.

The idea of placing the recalcitrant managers on the unfair list is said to be parallel to that of labor unions which declare from time to time that designated firms are "unfair to organized labor." This practice is said to have been upheld by the courts.

Declare "Gyp" Must Go.

"As a labor body there are certain restrictions imposed upon our activities. But we believe that it is to the best interests of our people that the 'gyp' should go and that the theatre which supports the 'gyp' should be closed. Our position is that unless we are prevented we will act accordingly.

"If the Dramatists' Guild would take similar action we believe that the immediate success of the plan would be assured."

Broadway was stirred by the pronouncement of the council and predictions were rife that no opposition could withstand the refusal of Equity to furnish players to recalcitrant managers and the withholding by the dramatists of plays from these managers.

In the council's letter forwarded by President Frank Gillmore to the managers' committee, consisting of Arthur Hopkins, Brock Pemberton and Gilbert Miller, hope was expressed that the present movement would lead to some form of permanent cooperation, such as the American Theatre Board idea," which will extend its activities to other matters relating to the theatre, which are of equal, perhaps even more vital, importance than this."

Board a Cherished Project.

The American Theatre Board is one of Equity's most cherished ideas. It would deal with those non-controversial subjects that the component parts of the board would allow it to handle. These subjects would include censorship, recovery of the road and repeal of unfair or discriminatory legislation. The plan is to have the board consist of representatives of every element in the theatre.

At the suggestion of the council Mr. Gillmore also informed the managers' committee that it would be desirable to obtain support for the plan to curb ticket speculation from prominent persons, including Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise and Miss Anne Morgan, as well as the chief executives of the Church and Drama League of America and the Federation of Women's Clubs.

It was also suggested that the board of control to police the plan whereby agents would be pledged to charge premiums of no more than 75 cents for tickets should be representative of all the cooperating groups, including Equity, the Dramatists' Guild and the friendly ticket brokers.

The managers' committee wrote yesterday to Dr. John A. Harriss, president of the Broadway Association, asking for the support of that body in the effort to bring down the price of theatre tickets. In the letter it was said that managers were convinced that "the atrocious and uneconomic system of selling tickets" was largely responsible for the "evil days" that have fallen on the theatre.

"The theatre's prosperity is Broadway's," the letter continued. "When the new system is inaugurated about March 1 all those forces which will be benefited most must be marshaled to strengthen it and defend it from those who will be inconvenienced through the elimination of the graft under the present system."

TWO NAVY FLIERS DIE IN 1,500-FOOT PLUNGE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 7 (AP).—Two navy aviators were killed late today when their amphibian plane fell 1,500 feet into San Diego Bay. The victims were Lieutenant Eugene Field Burkett and Ensign John B. Clark.

The plane was making a flight over the lower bay near National City when it suddenly crashed into the shallow water.

Neither flier, witnesses said, had attempted to use his parachute, and each was killed instantly as the plane was demolished.

Crain Accepts Levy Resignation.

District Attorney Crain announced yesterday his acceptance of the resignation of Deputy Assistant District Attorney John H. Levy as a member of his staff. Mr. Levy was reappointed by the new District Attorney last New Year's Day with an increase of $500 in salary. Mr. Crain expressed regret that Mr. Levy had decided to quit his staff, saying "he was a prosecutor of more than ordinary ability."

OFF FOR HARD WORK.

President Hoover is well advised in warning his fellow-countrymen not to expect an instantaneous and sweeping success at the London naval conference. His words of measured caution as he bade our delegates good-bye are sufficient proof of what was otherwise well known, that he has been impressed with the magnitude and complexity of the undertaking at London, the more he has studied it, and the fuller the information about it which has come to him from diplomatic sources. He is wise today as well as helpful in letting the nation know what to look for when he virtually takes as his motto the saying about not boasting while you are putting on the harness.

It is certain that upon Prime Minister MacDonald also has been impressed, as time has gone on, the exceedingly difficult nature of arriving at a naval agreement of the kind hoped for. Last September, when Mr. MacDonald addressed the League of Nations at Geneva, he spoke as if a complete arrangement between Great Britain and the United States was already nearly perfected. He said that if the factors which he had been discussing with President Hoover amounted to about twenty, they were both of one mind on all except three. And he added, optimistically, that he hoped an announcement would be made to the Assembly of the League that an entire accord had been reached on every point. But we have not had it to this day. If there was at the beginning too great confidence that everything would move smoothly and swiftly, that mistake has been corrected by coming to grips with hard facts. Only a beginning has been made. Long and close discussion will be required at London. This was all along inevitable, but it is well for the President to remind us that no naval millennium is going to come overnight.

It is, in a way, an implied compliment to our delegates going to London that they are bidden a cheerful godspeed at the very moment when the arduous nature of their labors is emphasized. Hard work is cut out for them, but they are felt to be equal to it. They may be assured that their doings will be followed with eager interest by Americans, and that they will bear with them the hopes and prayers of all who believe with President Hoover that mighty issues of peace and security for the whole world hang on the outcome at London.

MR. GRUNDY ABSTAINS.

From first to last the wool schedule, completed Monday, was chiefly a defeat for the Senate coalitionists. The sheep ranchmen had to be appeased by a higher duty on wool. When they were, the duties on wool manufactures had to be tuned up so as to provide compensation for the manufacturers. The usual trading process of protective tariff-making was followed. It is sad that not all the coalitionists were able to cling to the breathless heights of virtue. It is sadder still if, as Senator Blaine has darkly prophesied, "the plain people" must go without "woolen raiment." Let us hope that these troubles will be adjusted as the rates were.

Meanwhile, "Old Joe" Grundy, divested of the diabolic horns and tail of legend and the Caraway committee, appears as a model of Senatorial self-abnegation. He makes woolen yarn. While he has done all he can for the woolen interests, he wouldn't vote on the amendment increasing the duty on yarn because of his personal interest. Such delicacy of feeling has not always been manifested by all Senators. But if a Senator's interest is that of his State, his region or, as Mr. Grundy believes, the whole country, why should he be deprived by personal considerations of the privilege of promoting the general welfare?

Senator Walsh of Montana had opposed an increased duty on virgin wool on the ground that the sheep-raiser would never know that he had got the additional three cents. Overruled, he had to adapt himself to the new situation. In asking higher protection for woolen rags he laid down a test that should rule Congressmen in these little matters of give-and-take:

> Those who are engaged in a particular industry are the best judges of what is for their own interest; and all those engaged in the sheep and wool industry are here asking that this duty be imposed at a very substantial rate.

If the persons in an industry are the best judges of what protection it should have, and their judgment should be accepted by the Senate, is a Senator justified in a particular instance in rejecting that judgment, which includes his own? Aren't Senator Grundy's constituents entitled to his best judgment? But it will not do to go too far into this jungle of quiddities. Let us turn back to admire Mr. Grundy anew. His standard of Senatorial propriety is of the highest. Nor should it be forgotten that, in refraining from even a single vote for protection, he fails to perform what is to him almost a religious act.

THE FALL IN SILVER.

It often happens, after a world-wide financial shock, that attention is suddenly diverted to a market which few had been watching. Business communities which had centred interest on the vagaries of the Stock Exchange have this time discovered all at once that the fall in the price of silver bullion since last October has in some respects been the most striking of all. Until nearly the end of December, silver had not gone so low at London as in several other older periods of decline—in 1903 or 1915, for instance. But the market's downward course has brought this week's price, as measured by the Pixley & Abell tables, well below any touched in the silver market's history for a century past. Within two months it has fallen 1⅝ pence per pound, or nearly 7 per cent; in the past twelve months it has declined 5⅞ pence, or 22 per cent.

Four or five decades ago a rapid fall in silver used to be discussed for its bearing on the question of the "money supply" in relation to ordinary prices; particularly on the "gold-appreciation" theory, which was alleged to be established by the depreciation of silver bullion in terms of gold. In the days of free silver coinage agitation, during and before 1896, these were cardinal principles of American party platforms, which usually urged legislative measures designed to restore the price of silver. That was partly because of the "money-supply" contention, partly to help the American mining industry. Those days are gone, however. During more than a quarter of a century markets and legislators alike have recognized that silver must be now regarded as one of the commodities, even though continued use of it for subsidiary currency in gold-standard countries and as the standard of value in a few backward communities imparts peculiar opportunities to its consuming market.

The idea that silver's price moves up or down solely according as the world's gold production increases or decreases is not often set forth nowadays. The world's output of gold decreased progressively and rather rapidly during the three years after the war. Yet silver, instead of falling in gold value, rose from 47¾ pence in March of 1919 to 89½ in February of 1920, then broke to 30⅝ in March of 1921. In other words, its price moved exactly in line with that period's movement of average prices for other commodities. Like them, its market value was governed by inflation and deflation of credit and paper currencies.

Prices of commodities in general have declined since September. But their decline has been marked by no such rapidity as that of silver, and certainly by no such breaking of previous "low records"; therefore the present fall in silver must apparently have had peculiar causes of its own. They are not difficult to discover; indeed, there is some reason for surprise that they did not operate earlier. Increased production may have had a hand in it; for, although silver mines in the United States have decreased their output during recent years, the world's annual output as estimated by our Mint has been the largest in history—nearly 50 per cent greater in 1928 than in 1920. That increase in annual supply has occurred in the face of a decrease in normal annual demand. India, where the experiment of a note-issuing central bank is being tried, has greatly reduced her purchases of silver. China's almost complete political and industrial disintegration, the paralysis of Chinese trade and the forcing into the Chinese people's hands of a huge mass of paper, have necessarily arrested absorption of silver among the Chinese people. Shipments to China from London have fallen from $16,547,000 in 1922 to $694,000 in 1927. Yet exports of silver to the Far East from the United States have actually increased.

STREET RAILWAY FARES.

In the Baltimore street railway case the United States Supreme Court applies once more principles of valuation which have for some years sharply divided it. Again the decision is by a majority vote, with dissenting opinions from Justices Brandeis, Holmes and Stone. The experience of the United Railways Company is a familiar one. In the old days it was prosperous, but since the war operating expenses have doubled and the automobile has cut into its patronage. The company had already raised the fare six times in ten years; when it sought a still further increase the State Public Service Commission fought its application all the way up to the Supreme Court, claiming that a return of 6.26 per cent was ample. From that view the majority of the court dissents, on the ground that such a return is confiscatory and offers insufficient inducement to capital under present conditions in the street railway industry. As a result Baltimore will soon find itself on the list of ten-cent-fare cities and will have to make the best of a theory of valuation which in a sense subsidizes, within economic limits, a needed agency of transportation which happens to be declining in popular esteem and therefore involves a somewhat greater investment risk.

It would be hazardous to generalize too confidently from this decision, since the court is careful to review every case on its own merits, "in the exercise of a fair, enlightened and independent judgment as to both law and facts." The argument is not necessarily applicable to the rapid transit lines, or even the street railways, in New York, for example, because of the special contractual or franchise conditions under which they operate. Nevertheless, the Supreme Court's conclusions are certain to be hailed with joy by the street railway industry throughout the country, which has long been in difficulty. Lucian C. Storrs, formerly managing director of the Street Railway Association and now an executive of the Baltimore company, promises to translate increased revenues into new and up-to-date equipment and better service in order that the street railways may regain some of their lost patronage. He even holds out the hope that if they do so the company may some day be able to reduce the fare. If the Baltimore experiment should have such a happy outcome, Public Service Commissions may be less unwilling to follow the Supreme Court's lead.

A PHILIPPINE COMMISSION.

If the commission proposed by Senator Bingham's resolution, to meet next September in order to make a thorough investigation of the future status of the Philippine Islands, should help to focus reasoned attention on that problem it would serve a useful purpose. Thus far the question has been regarded with impatience, and without willingness to face its many complexities. In the Philippines there has been little thought of the consequences of independence. In the United States it has been generally ignored. To be sure, two missions—one headed by former Governor General Forbes and the late Major General Leonard Wood, and one under Colonel Carmi Thompson—have investigated and reported. But in those days Congress was not so anxious to be rid of the Philippines as it appears to be today.

In adopting the Hoover remedy of a commission Senator Bingham outlines its composition. It is to be half Filipino, half American, with three members from each of the legislative houses of the two governments, along with four civilians. Presumably, members would not only travel about the Philippines to collect the views of the people, but would discuss a definite new relationship between the two governments. Valuable information could no doubt be obtained, though unless it is made clear to the Filipinos just what independence would mean, their real and sober view might not be expressed.

Few of the Filipino leaders have been willing to face the economic consequences of independence. Thanks to the speeches of Colonel Stimson as Governor General, and to those of the Vice Governor, Mr. E. A. Gilmore, as well as to the many writings of Filipinos like General Aguinaldo and Mr. Vicente Villamin, a new understanding of the economic problems of the islands has been forming. Yet even today the average Filipino thinks that independence means freedom from taxes and a great increase in the good things of this world, while the more thoughtful simply think of some form of autonomy, with the United States protecting them in time of trouble.

On one point Filipinos of all shades of opinion and many Americans are in accord—that uncertainty as to the ultimate relationship between the Philippines and the United States has for years hampered the proper development of the islands. If the Bingham commission could put an end to this, it would render a great service to the Filipinos. They were resigning themselves to the present connection with the United States, when suddenly selfish interests in America prepared to give them freedom merely to prevent Filipino competition with American products. Is it to be wondered that thinking Filipinos say, "Anything is better than this prolonged uncertainty"?

COLLEGE SPORTS.

Another influential voice, this time that of Harvard's President, calls for a resurvey and reform of college athletics. The other day, speaking before the National Collegiate Athletic Association, President Day of Union College compared the growth of football to that of a sapling into a spreading tree which cuts off light and air from the edifice of education and health. President Lowell, generally agreeing with this criticism, offers suggestions for relief of present ills. He would have the alumni return to the Greek idea of athletics for its own sake and that of the participants, forsaking the Roman plan of athletic contests chiefly for the entertainment of spectators. From the latter theory have grown the huge stadia, the number of "big games" in each season and the evils of competition and commercialism. Dr. Lowell proposes one "big game" a year in each sport, the rest of the season taken up with intramural contests.

It is not probable that the President of Harvard will gain full support from the majority of the undergraduates and alumni, while outside spectators and coaches will stoutly oppose his plan. Yet he is moving in the directon of sanity. President Angell of Yale has long advocated restoring college games to the players. Of Princeton this year it was said that while the alumni drew long faces over the poor record of the football team, the campus did not take the season as a tragedy. Recent discussion of the overemphasis of college sports in college life was brought to the boiling-point by the Carnegie Foundation's bulletin on professionalism. This was unanimously endorsed by the N. C. A. A. on the occasion when Dr. Day made his arboreal comparison. The seed is working in the ground of academe, and it is to be hoped that in time the present overgrown oak of athletics will be uprooted by a saner and more graceful growth. Intramural games can be encouraged at the large universities where there are enough students for many teams in each major sport. At the small colleges shorter seasons and fewer "big games" will be possible if these teams are not so steadily used to give the squads of the universities practice for late-season contests.

We are still a long way from acceptance of the Lowell plan. But he and his fellow-presidents, by sticking to it, can influence their alumni in helping to bring back college sports to a rational basis. Because two or three highly keyed games with traditional rivals offer pleasing social occasions for alumni reunions is not a sufficient reason to retain the present top-heavy system.

STALIN'S LAND PROGRAM.

Speed and still more speed is the keynote of the bulletins from Moscow describing the Stalin campaign for "building" socialism in town and country. For the moment the big Soviet push is on the agricultural front. In the Five-Year Plan for the economic reconstruction of the country it was contemplated that in 1933 about 70,000,000 acres, or one-fifth of the total arable area of the country, would be included in the State and collective farms. It is now decreed by the Central Committee of the Communist party that total collectivization of agriculture shall be accomplished in the North Caucasus and on the Volga by the Spring of 1931, and in all the grain-growing areas by the following year.

There is a distinction between the State farms or "grain factories" and the collective farms. The former are outright State enterprises, operated in mammoth units of scores of thousands of acres and on the factory principle. The workers on these farms are strictly wage earners. The collective farms consist of individual peasant holdings, cooperating under government leadership and making use of common facilities, notably tractors and other agricultural machinery. The collective is the half-way house between unrestricted individual land ownership and the Communist ideal of the State farm. It can be made more than half way toward socialization whenever the Soviet Government, as in its present temper and confidence, dictates all the conditions under which the peasant shall cultivate his land, without actually divesting him of possession.

Such considerations hold only for the so-called lower and middle peasants. The rich peasant—the Kulak—after being subjected to increasing rigors of taxation and legal disabilities, is now slated for extermination. In numbers the Kulaks may have hitherto constituted 5 per cent of the peasant population, a million families or more. His identification has varied with government policy. At different times the peasant was "rich" if he owned more than two horses, or hired outside labor, or showed an annual income of $400. In general, he was the peasant who produced a grain surplus above his personal needs. In practice, any peasant was a Kulak who showed opposition to the Soviet régime. In the recent grain-collecting campaign peasant resistance was frequently punished by confiscation of the land. It was the Kulak who until recently produced almost half of the grain for the market. For the last harvest the collectives and the State farms are reported to have yielded a larger surplus than the Kulak in previous years, and he is no longer an economic necessity. The statement that the Kulak is prohibited from joining the collective farms probably means joining in his capacity as a Kulak—that is to say, as the owner of a large farm. Presumably he may qualify for membership by being deprived of enough of his land to become a "lower" peasant.

STEP BY STEP.

It is nearly fifty years since the first step was taken toward coordinating the charitable agencies of this city. Charity organization societies in Manhattan and in Brooklyn now find themselves members of a more widely comprehensive body than could have been thought possible when it was feared that inquiry and registration and cooperation would destroy the spirit of charity. It has been demonstrated that the ministrations of such societies are more truly charitable both in spirit and in substance because their work is informed. There is now not a community of any considerable size in America that has not taken steps to organize its charities so as to insure that the needy are reached by one agency or another according to the nature of their need.

In some of the larger cities coordination has become so nearly complete that nearly all that is given is put into a "community chest." In New York we have not gone so far in merging appeals and budgets, but we are coming into such a degree of group cooperation that most, if not all, of the advantages of financial unity are had. The action through the Welfare Council in consolidating the social service exchanges of Manhattan and the Bronx and Brooklyn provides a clearing house. On an average 24,000 New Yorkers make a first application to some social agency each week. Some ask for help in health matters; others need financial assistance, or aid in the care of children, in finding work, in adjusting family difficulties—shelter, naturalization, legal aid, compensation for injuries, finding missing relatives. Some one has said that if a two-thirds orphan could be evolved and were in need, a two-thirds-orphan society would be organized to care for it. It often happens that many have had to go to several agencies before they found one that could give them the needed assistance, with resultant delay and sometimes serious consequences.

There is emerging a charity which is not only long-suffering and kind but one that knows how to be most helpful. A vital condition is promptness of response. To this the merging of the exchanges will in some measure contribute, as those to whom application is made turn to central files to discover what if anything has been done in the past. Beyond this immediately practical value it shows the direction in which charity is moving.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

From Early Exploration's Base.

There will be general gratification in this country over the action of the National Geographical Society of Cuba in awarding its 1929 grand medal to Admiral Byrd. Students of history will be impressed with the fitness of the national source of this honor to an explorer. No country has been more closely and dramatically linked with exploration. Here Columbus made his headquarters and here he stood at the verge of the mainland which he never trod but which was made accessible as a result of his voyage. In Cuba for over a century were the bases of New World exploration.

To North and South America constantly went argosies from Havana. It was known to Balboa, Cortez and Pizarro. It was the refitting point for Vespucci and Da Gama. The feet of great explorers have trodden its soil, and here Coronado saw the last vestige of European civilization before he departed for Mexico and that penetration into Rice County, Kan., which occurred long before the settlements at Jamestown and Plymouth. This tale has newly been told by Paul Jones of Lyons, Kan., in his account of the lost cities of Quivira which were the goal of Coronado.

So it is from New World great headquarters of exploration that Admiral Byrd has received his latest medal. Last year it was awarded to Sir Hubert Wilkins, the year before to Colonel Lindbergh.

Traffic and the Ark.

Statistics on Christmas shopping in New York have not yet revealed what toy was most generally bought this year. They are ahead of us in London on this important matter, and the news is out that Noah's Arks were the most popular gift for children. They were not prominent in New York's toy displays, and it seems unlikely that they have returned to the position of favorite here. Many Americans, being mechanical-minded, buy engines, trains and various other kinds of toy machinery for children more with the idea of playing with them themselves than with a notion of amusing or instructing the younger generation.

There are those in London who think that the growing pressure of traffic difficulties caused the ark to stage a come-back. The orderly procession of the animals, marching in two by two, is supposed to give young England an ideal of traffic management. Parents sick of being stopped and started at inconvenient times and places "see in the ark a new symbolism." They want their little boys to observe how Noah managed these things.

If in due course the tangle of London traffic is straightened out by Noah's example, Mr. Whalen should profit by the lesson. He could hardly be expected to buy toys for a million little New Yorkers, but he might assign a part of the Police Department's budget to the purchase of Noah's Arks for the traffic officers.

Furs for a Princess.

There is something peculiarly appropriate about the wedding present of President and Mrs. Hoover to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium, who is about to be married to Crown Prince Humbert of Italy. The gift consisted of ten Alaska sealskins. They are now a government monopoly. For many years the fur-seal herds of the Pribilof Islands have been under the protection of the Federal Government. The seals have increased rapidly—there were 871,513 of them when last counted—and as a result more skins have been taken. The Bureau of Fisheries sells them at public auction every year at St. Louis.

The popular shade last year was "logwood brown," although a few buyers preferred "golden chestnut," and there is a steady demand for the black-dyed skins. Those sent to the Belgian Princess are said to be of a "new shade of brown, and very rare." They were forwarded without having been made up, so that the bride could do what she wished with them.

Queer Queries Put to Librarians.

The position of librarian clothes its incumbent with no little authority. Every sort of information from the details of famous murders to the deciding word in the endless arguments between A and B is demanded. The Public Library has a staff of men and women who daily hand out data on what to name the baby, what to wear in Argentina and what not.

It might be supposed that a more specialized library, such as that maintained in connection with the Port Authority, would be free from such inquiries. But its librarian, M. E. Pellett, is besieged not only by questions on all phases of transportation but by queries on such abstruse points as how to write and pronounce "75" in Gaelic.

Eager citizens have asked him, "What is the Hungarian for 'skin soap'?" and "Did New York Harbor freeze over in 1844?" One writer stated: "A Brooklyn booster tells me that the tonnage of Newtown Creek exceeds that of the Mississippi River. How much of a liar is he?"

To all questions the librarian attempts to dig out an answer with the aid of reference books, records and periodicals. It is to be hoped that he will never be confronted with such a question as that posed by one small boy, as recorded in a recent book on anagrams. More devoted to the game than to the study of history, when he was told that Grant took Richmond after a long campaign, he immediately asked, "What did he take it with?"

WHAT IS TIME?

(New Year: 1930.)

We lay our little measure upon time
And call this "day," this "week," this "month," that "year,"
And mark with careful rule of line and dot
Their every passing;
So many stars have circled in the sky,
So many nights the moon has lanterned it;
Upon its axis so many times has turned
The unwearlable earth;
But of that calendar by which the soul
Keeps careful count we breathe no syllable.
What shall we say? And with what symbol mark?
Could we inscribe, might not the pages run:
"At this point time was lost and in its place
Were only the flashing wings of ecstasy.
Awhile I seemed to melt into the sun,
A little while my home was all of skies,
And time was but the curve of a sea-bird's wing,
And space was lost in billowing endlessness.
Forgotten was the small clay house of birth.
The ceaseless drip of days and nights. Unfettered, free,
I was aware only of kindling presences
That lightened on my path and whispered me.
And I had memory of what I may not speak,
And long I looked on things I may not tell.
Retrieved were 'other lives in other worlds'—
What went between, a rust of nothingness"?

"Time? . . . What is Time? . . .
What is this sophistry of hours and days?
Love is my name; an old, old star my home;
I am the 'Dweller of Eternity'!"

ENFORCEMENT GONE WRONG

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It has been asserted by a certain high official of the Federal Government that the "Coast Guard could not do less than it did" in killing three members of the crew on the Black Duck, a rum-runner, off Newport on Dec. 29. The same high official has also declared that "everything was regular" and that the Coast Guard "was acting within its instructions and observing its duty."

This official, it is submitted, misses the issues in this case. The issue here is not whether force was justified, but whether the particular kind of force employed was justified. The traditions of the sea from time immemorial have required first a shot across the bow, then a shot through the rigging, and then, if the vessel pursued maintained her course, a shot into her with the object of sinking her. As she sinks, custom, law, and humanity require every effort to be made by the government vessel to rescue the crew of the sinking ship.

In other words, the proper objective of a revenue vessel is the offending ship itself. If force has to be used against a smuggling vessel, every end is gained by sinking her and then doing everything possible to save her crew. Smugglers are men, even though violating the statutes.

It has never been the law of the sea that a revenue vessel, before attempting to sink a smuggling vessel, is justified in raking the decks with machine-gun fire. This is not disabling the vessel with the minimum danger to human life, but an effort to stop the vessel by killing her crew as they stand on her deck. If it be said that the revenue boat in question did not mount a gun of sufficient size to sink the rum-runner, it should be answered that such a gun should be mounted.

Even in battle opposing men-of-war seek primarily to sink each other, and it is the honorable tradition of the sea, founded on elementary rules of humanity, that the members of the enemy crew shall be rescued if at all possible. It cannot be argued that the reason for rescuing the enemy crew is because they have only done their patriotic duty and have not violated a statute. The basis of the said tradition is common humanity; once the vessel is disabled the men are to be saved.

Finally, the action of the Coast Guard on the occasion in question violates a fundamental rule of the common law, namely, that only such amount of force is to be used as is absolutely necessary to enforce the law. Even in apprehending a murderer an officer is never justified in killing him when some obvious method of arrest is at hand.

Some Points Need Explaining.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Assuming the circumstances of the recent killings at Buffalo and off Newport to have been as stated by the Coast Guard, there are certain points which should have been investigated and explained before the superiors of the men involved joined in a chorus of approval.

In the Buffalo case where a man was shot through the leg, the Coast Guard are said to have made no effort to stop the bleeding or to call an ambulance or a doctor. Nothing was done for the wounded man until the police took charge. The man bled to death. The regulations may authorize firing on a ship which fails to stop, but do they justify employes in standing around while their victims die, without an effort to save them?

In the Newport case the guardsmen state that they first hailed the rum-runners' boat, which was unarmed, and when it did not stop fired a burst from their machine gun. They had a small cannon on board but did not use it. The usual way for an armed vessel to halt a merchant vessel is to fire across the bows, and if that is not sufficient to shell the ship, aiming for the rudder or engine room, as was done, for instance, in the case of the I'm Alone. I cannot recollect any previous instance, either in war or in peace, where a government or naval vessel, when a merchant ship failed to stop on signal, adopted the plan of running alongside and sweeping its deck with a machine gun. Has the Coast Guard been instructed to adopt that method whenever a boat fails to respond to a hail, whether heard or not? It is well known that at sea on a motor boat a shout may not be heard, especially if the wind is contrary. If the regulations do not authorize this strange and deadly course, why the approval of it?

A Word for Silent Films.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Times editorial on the cinema's requiem sung by Bernard Fay in a European review once more emphasizes as the deepest charm in the old movie the very detachment of the spectator from reality. The great trouble with the talkies is that they leave nothing to the imagination, omit none of the sights and sounds of life.

The old movies, lamented now as dear, dead and gone, were stimulating in romance and imagination. They were able to quicken and cultivate brain power educationally to a far greater degree than the raucous, roaring talkies. Some fans for the "silents" took their greatest pleasure in constructing what they conceived to be the unreported conversations of the actors. There was even the fan who read the captions aloud, approving or disapproving them audibly, too. Now the ugly, distorted speech that runs with the picture destroys all this joy and many others.

Mr. Fay's quotation of President Hoover, "I do not like the talking films because they compel me to pay attention," fails to prove that the old films were soporific. Wasn't the President complaining more of a robbery of his imagination than of a lost opportunity to sleep?

WILL SPONSOR MOVE TO ADD TO PARK LAND

Association Backs in Principle Proposals Being Drawn by Metropolitan Conference.

MEMBERSHIP UP TO 4,000

Plans to enlarge the city's park areas and improve the existing areas were discussed yesterday morning at the annual meeting of the Park Association at its offices, 71 West Twenty-third Street. In a resolution the association pledged itself to support in principle the recommendations for increases in the city park land now being worked out by the Metropolitan Park Conference.

As soon as the recommendations have been completed the association will sponsor the suggestions made for this city, it was announced. It is hoped that the plan of the conference will be completed so that it can be made public at the association's dinner at the Commodore on Feb. 25.

This dinner will be given in honor of Controller Berry, selected in accordance with an annual custom as the man who has done the most during the past year for parks in the city. A special scroll honoring the Controller for his work in acquiring park and playground sites and the general work for parks he has done during the past four years will be presented to him.

To improve the present park areas and keep them in the best condition possible the Park Association decided yesterday to continue its plan started during the past year of having regional supervisors under borough chairmen visit each of the 229 parks in the city regularly and report any undesirable conditions. The association places these reports before the park authorities so that they can be remedied.

Nathan Straus Jr., president of the Park Association, announced yesterday that the association now had 4,000 members. During the past year 2,400 new members were enrolled and the campaign for more members will be continued this year, he said.

In 1929, he said, the association prevented several encroachments upon the city parks, and he cited the addition of 2,700 acres to the park area of the city during the year as an outstanding achievement. Among the encroachments that the organization had prevented he mentioned the plan to build a wide roadway through Van Cortlandt Park proposed last March and the holding of a circus on the grounds of that park.

Logan Billingsley, president of the Bronx Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. William G. Wilcox of Staten Island were elected as directors of the association for two years to succeed D. R. James and Mrs. W. D. Simkhovitch, who retired to take positions on the advisory board. Other directors who were re-elected to serve two years included Benjamin N. Namm, Frank L. Polk, William Jay Schieffelin and Matthew S. Sloan.

HOWITZER UNITS SHIFTED.

New Tables of Organization for National Guard Announced.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Several National Guard regiments of 155-millimeter howitzers have been transferred from corps artillery to the artillery brigades of infantry divisions under the new table of organization of National Guard regiments, announced by the War Department today.

These include assignment of the 106th Field Artillery, with headquarters at Buffalo, N. Y., to the Fifty-second Field Artillery Brigade of the Twenty-seventh Division; transfer of the 192d Field Artillery, with headquarters at New London, Conn., to the Sixty-eighth Field Artillery Brigade of the Forty-third Division, and assignment of the 108th Field Artillery, with headquarters at Philadelphia, to the Fifty-third Field Artillery Brigade of the Twenty-eighth Division.

Assignment of a howitzer regiment to the Forty-fourth Division will be made later. This division is made up of troops from New York, New Jersey and Delaware.

Major Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commanding the Second Corps Area, with headquarters at Governors Island, N. Y., was informed by the War Department today that a new airplane now at the Middletown Depot, Pennsylvania, has been allotted to the New York National Guard and is ready to be ferried to Miller Field, New York, for the use of the New York Squadron.

YALE TO SHOW SILVER.

Garvan Early American Collection Goes on Exhibit Friday.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 7.—A collection of early American silver made by Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan of New York City will be placed on exhibition in the Yale Gallery of Fine Arts on Friday. An address under the auspices of the Connecticut Society of Colonial Dames by E. Alfred Jones of London, an authority on English and American silver, will mark the opening of the exhibition.

The Garvan collection of early American furniture at the Yale Art Museum has been one of its outstanding features.

The collection to be shown Friday will more than double the Garvan collection of silver on exhibition since the gallery was opened a year ago. The complete group is said to be one of the great collections of its kind.

The bulk of the silver is of Boston origin. The silversmiths Benjamin Hiller, Jacob Hurd, John Edwards, Paul Revere and John Dixwell are represented. Pieces are included from Marblehead, Salem, Concord, Worcester, Deerfield, Newport and New Haven. There is also a large group from New York and Philadelphia.

TO RUN AGAIN FOR SENATE.

Keyes of New Hampshire Says He Will Seek Renomination.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 7 (AP).—The Concord Monitor-Patriot today announced receipt of a telegram from United States Senator Henry W. Keyes of New Hampshire, in which he said he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination in the September primaries.

The Senator added that he would continue the policy he established when he entered politics of devoting himself wholly to his own candidacy.

LUKE DILLON DIES; TRIED TO AID IRISH

Bombed Welland Canal Lock and Gallery in British House of Commons.

ALSO THE CARLTON CLUB

Hoped to Establish Irish Republic—Served 14 Years in Canadian Prison—Fought Indians.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—Luke Dillon, best known for his attempt to blow up the Welland Canal in Canada, and who through other acts of daring during a lifetime of 80 years championed the cause of Irish freedom, died at his home here this afternoon.

Mr. Dillon had fought Indians on the Western frontier of the United States, planted bombs in the Carlton Club and the House of Commons in London and served time in a Canadian prison, besides broadcasting appeals in the hope of establishing an "Irish Republic." Never in his lifetime, however, did he set foot in Ireland.

Only last Sunday Eamonn de Valera visited Mr. Dillon at his home and talked with him of Irish affairs. Yesterday the Rev. Edward A. Devine of the Church of the Transfiguration administered last rites. Surviving are a widow, four sons and a daughter.

Native of England.

Mr. Dillon was born in Leeds, England, the son of Irish parents who came to Philadelphia when he was a child. In 1867 he enlisted in the United States Army and for the next three years served in several Indian campaigns.

The "land war" was causing widespread disorder in Ireland at that time and Mr. Dillon joined the Clan-Na-Gael, the American branch of the Fenian organization, which sought to establish a republic in Ireland.

His first bold stroke against England carried him and a companion, James Cunningham of this city, to London, as Dillon wished to attract world-wide attention for his cause.

Dillon planted a bomb which blew up the Carlton Club, a Tory gathering place, on the night after the Derby of 1883, and escaped detection. Cunningham dynamited a wing of the residence of Sir Watkins Wynne, was captured and sentenced to prison.

Escapes When Trapped.

A year later Dillon blew up a gallery in the House of Commons, only to find himself trapped in the building by the arrival of police. Stepping up boldly, he demanded to know why they had permitted the explosion to take place. Mistaken for an official, he departed without being suspected.

In 1900 he vanished from his post as cashier in the old Dime Savings Bank in this city. A few days later a bomb slightly damaged one of the locks of the Welland Canal, which parallels the Niagara River between Lakes Erie and Ontario, and shortly thereafter Dillon and two other conspirators were sentenced to life imprisonment. The attempt to blow up the canal was made because grain on vessels going through the waterway was destined for England and her army, which was then fighting the Boers.

Dillon, upon his arrest, posed as a German, and his identity was unknown for more than a year. He was released from prison at Kingston, Ont., on July 12, 1914, after serving fourteen years. Returning here he became prominent in the affairs of the Irish-American Club.

In 1922 he appealed to de Valera and Michael Collins, leaders of the Irish factions in Dublin, to end their strife.

A first edition of "A Sentimental Journey through France and Italy," by Laurence Sterne, was bought by E. N. Hickman for $750, the high price of the evening. A first issue of the first edition of Dickens's "A Christmas Carol" went to L. A. Hird for $600. Charles Sessler gave $525 for a first edition of Boswell's "The Life of Samuel Johnson."

O. NUSSBAUMER DIES; WIRELESS PIONEER

Austrian Research Worker of Graz University Said to Have Discovered Possibilities of Crystal.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Jan. 7.—Otto Nussbaumer, 54 years old, who, the Austrians say, is the inventor of wireless telephony as well as the first person to discover the possibilities of crystal for use in a wireless detector set, died yesterday at Salzburg.

Twenty-five years ago Nussbaumer was a research worker at Graz University. He is said to have discovered a method of transmitting voices and music by electric waves over a short distance without connecting wires. Both voices and music were quite audible though not clear. The typical Austrian indifference which has rendered nugatory the work of so many Austrian inventors caused his invention to be lost to the world. The university authorities decided that he had performed an amusing scientific trick of no practical value and the experiments had to be suspended for lack of funds.

Two years before the first detector crystal set for broadcasting reception was constructed Nussbaumer had discovered the properties of iron oxide crystals as a receptive medium for wireless. It is said that he himself did not believe it was of any interest except to his own circle of friends.

Nussbaumer's system of wireless telephony bears little relation to the system invented later and now used throughout the world, but the unassuming scholar who died a poor man might have made a fortune had the Austrians encouraged him in the development of his discovery. As it was, nothing was known of his pioneer work until on the occasion of the Austrian broadcasting jubilee last year Professor Ettenreich of Graz gave to the world the story which the inventor himself had been too modest even to allow to become known.

EDWARD R. CARHART, RETIRED BANKER, DIES

Former President of New York Produce Exchange—Interested in Church Work.

Edward R. Carhart, former president of the New York Produce Exchange and retired banker, died yesterday of heart disease at his home, 104-12 207th Street, Bellaire, L. I. He was 65 years old.

F. C. FROEST DIES; FAMOUS DETECTIVE

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—F. C. Froest, for many years Superintendent of Scotland Yard, died today at the age of 73 at Weston-super-Mare after an operation. In his day he was known as one of the world's greatest detectives. He arrested the notorious swindler, Jabez Balfour, in Argentina, tracked criminals into nearly every country and had many adventures in the United States.

Speaking of Froest in 1912, William Pinkerton said: "I have known every superintendent of the criminal investigation department of Scotland Yard in recent years, and there has been no one to approach him in ability. He is as game a man and as clever a one as I ever have known in the detective business."

In bringing about the arrest of Dr. Crippen of London, wife murderer, who was executed in 1910, Froest made use of radio when the fugitive was on a liner bound for Canada. This is said to have been the first time radio aided a criminal pursuit.

When Balfour was captured the lack of extradition facilities presented a problem, but Froest got his man on a car attached to a locomotive, which traveled at full speed to Buenos Aires, where, despite efforts to stop him, he managed to put the swindler on a ship bound for England.

Froest received the Distinguished Service Order on Jan. 12, 1912.

SPENT $805,000,000 IN YEAR ON RADIOS

Public Paid More Than Half for Sets and Rest for Tubes and Accessories.

SEPARATE UNIT SALES DROP

Growing Demand for Fully Equipped Consoles—Homes Wired for Electricity Now Total 19,700,000.

The American public spent $805,000,000 for radio sets, vacuum tubes and other accessories in 1929, making the year a record one for the radio industry, according to a survey made by Radio Retailing. The total for 1929 compares with $690,550,000 in 1928, which far surpassed 1927, because the national political campaign broadcasts stimulated interest in listening in. Despite the stock market slump, 1929 exceeded 1928 in radio sales by 16 per cent.

"Progress of the electric set is indicated by the figures of the survey," said a representative of Radio Retailing yesterday. "In all, about 19,700,000 homes are wired for electricity. Since the advent of the alternating current tubes in 1928 and 1929 socket power sets numbering 7,100,000 have been sold. The number of electrified homes to which alternating current sets may still be sold is 13,500,000."

Sales in 1929 show, when broken down into their various elements, that of the $805,000,000 expended last year radio users paid $487,500,000 for receivers, $177,500,000 for tubes and $141,000,000 for accessories. Counting sale of modern equipment, electric and battery sets in 1928 and 1929, America's radio market is only 38 per cent saturated.

A study of buying trends is said to verify the theory that the separate unit speaker and the separate unit cabinet are bowing before the march of the self-contained, fully equipped console. The year 1926 witnessed the peak of demand for the detached reproducer, and sales of occasional furniture pieces for radio chassis were greater in 1928 than last year.

Sales for sets, tubes and accessories in 1928 totaled $690,550,000. Of this total, $350,000,000 went for sets. Comparison of last year's totals brings out the information that 100,000 sets were sold in 1922 for $5,000,000; 250,000 in 1923 for $15,000,000; 1,500,000 in 1924 for $100,000,000; 2,000,000 in 1925 for $165,000,000, 1,750,000 in 1926 for $200,000,000 and 1,350,000 sets in 1927 for $168,750,000.

Residents of the United States spent $6,000,000 for 1,000,000 tubes in 1922, $17,000,000 for 4,000,000 tubes in 1923, $36,000,000 for 12,000,000 in 1924, $48,000,000 for 20,000,000 tubes in 1925, $58,000,000 for 30,000,000 in 1926, $67,300,000 for 41,200,000 tubes in 1927. The 1928 record shows the following expenditures:

For 81,000 radio phonograph combinations, $38,000,000; for 2,460,000 reproducers, excluding 841,000 in consoles and combinations, $66,400,000; for 50,200,000 tubes, $110,250,000; for A-B-C (dry) batteries, $50,400,000; for A-B power units, storage batteries and chargers, $17,500,000; for other accessories, $46,000,000; for parts, not including sales to manufacturers, $12,000,000.

NEW AUTOGIRO SHOWN AS 'OLD MANS' IDEAL'

British Civil Aviation Head Tries and Lands Latest Model of Spanish Craft.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Hailed as the ideal airplane for elderly men, a new type of Señor Juan de la Cierva's "autogiro" or windmill plane was shown today to be capable of taking off within a ring of thirty yards and landing within its own length.

Horizontal rotors above the fuselage provide the lift instead of the fixed wings of the conventional airplane and big strides have been made in its development since it was first demonstrated here in 1926.

Sir Sefton Brancker, Director of Civil Aviation, flew the machine himself today and said he found it impossible to stall it in the air, while the slow landing gave the pilot ample time to select a landing place, even in congested surroundings.

The autogiro planes, he said, should be a valuable link between the business man's office and airdromes from whence air liners are operated.

Air force pilots considered it a fine machine for night flying.

F. G. BROCKWAY, M. P., HERE

Will Confer With "War Resisters"—Also Will Speak in Debate.

Fenner G. Brockway, Labor M. P., who defeated Winston Churchill in Westminster four years ago, formerly secretary of the Independent Labor party and editor of The New Leader, arrived yesterday from England on the Cunarder Aundania. He said he had come to confer with "war resisters" and "conscientious objectors."

He is chairman of the War Resisters' International and was one of the 6,000 in England who resisted being drafted and preferred prison to war. He said the organization had several branches in America and 130,000 members in England.

Mr. Brockway will debate at Mecca Temple on Feb. 2, defending socialism, while Dr. Scott Nearing will argue for communism and Professor Edwin B. Seligman of Columbia University will talk for capitalism. He will lecture also under the auspices of The World Tomorrow and will return to England on Feb. 8.

CAPSHAW ASSUMES BENCH.

Hulon Capshaw, who was appointed a magistrate on Dec. 19 to fill the place vacated by Magistrate Abraham Rosenbluth, was inducted into office in West Side Court yesterday.

Magistrate Capshaw, who lives at 90 Morningside Drive, is 38 years old and unmarried. His term expires July 1, 1933. He was graduated from Columbia Law School in 1916 and formerly was in private practice with his brother, Coran, at 36 West Forty-fourth Street.

Attending the ceremonies were Municipal Court Justice John J. Sullivan, who defended the magistrates' courts from recent criticisms, and Magistrate William A. Farrell, who presented a gavel to Mr. Capshaw.

Andrew B. Keating, leader of the Thirteenth Assembly District Democratic Organization; Mrs. Elizabeth Dunford, an assistant corporation counsel, and Frank Carstarphen, former Assistant District Attorney, also were present.

Duke of Richmond to Sell Art Owing to Heavy Taxation Cost

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Because of the heavy succession duties and increasing taxation, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon has been forced to sell a considerable number of pictures and books from Goodwood House and Gordon Castle, his Scottish seat near Fochabers. This is yet another example of the way in which many members of the nobility have been forced to part with rare possessions in order to keep their estate.

The collection of pictures at Goodwood includes fine examples of Vandyck and Romney. It is not known which pieces will be put up for sale, but art experts have already been consulted about the prices the paintings are likely to bring.

The books will be sold at Sotheby's, where several thousand have already been sent.

TOBACCO RETAILERS ASK LAW FIXING PRICES

Also Want Licensed Clerk in Every Shop as part of Plan to Stop Price-Cutting.

Proposals intended to provide remedies for certain evils in the retail tobacco industry, so far as the small dealer is concerned, and to cobat the menace to him of the large chain store merchants, who have been waging a cigarette price war, were outlined last night before the Independent Retail Tobacconists' Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania by Benjamin Gorlitzer, president.

The first remedy suggested would be an amendment of the Federal law, under which various brands of cigars are now classified only broadly, to group all manufactured tobacco products according to a strict price scale at which they should be sold. This would stabilizethe industry, according to Mr. Gorlitzer, and prevent cut-rate selling.

The second remedy would be to require every retail merchant of tobaccos to employ as a clerk in each of his shops at least one man, licensed by a commission to be formed by the retailers after passing an examination in the quality of tobacco products. This, it was urged, would compel every shop to pay the salary of an experienced employe, which, it was alleged, many of the chain organizations are not doing now.

It was also proposed that some plan be devised whereby the minority stockholders in chain tobacco stores or tobacco manufacturing concerns might sue their corporations when the latter are not paying dividends as a result of selling at non-profit-making prices. This plan, it was suggested, would directly affect the large merchants who operate on a scant margin basis.

In framing the proposals, Mr. Gorlitzer was assisted by Joseph H. San and Joseph Schottland, legal counsel. It was said that immediate steps would be taken in an effort to obtain legislative action on the suggestions.

PLANS A CANCER CENTRE.

Philadelphia Oncologic Hospital to Treat 2,500 Patients.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—A cancer control centre, the equal of any other in the world, is to be established here in connection with the American Oncologic Hospital, it was announced today by George E. Nitzsche, president of the hospital. Several new buildings will be erected at the West Philadelphia site, and the entire medical staff of the hospital is being reorganized to include well-known specialists in the field of cancer, he said.

A new pathological laboratory already has been added and is conducted by the cancer research of the University of Pennsylvania. A diagnostic clinic also has been built and the hospital is about to construct a building for X-ray and radium treatment.

"The Oncologic Hospital and cancer control centre will be a real clearing house for Philadelphia and vicinity for all facts in regard to cancer, for the study of new facts and for the application of present modern methods of treatment as well as for the discovery and application of new ones to the cancer patient," declared Mr. Nitzsche.

He said preparations would be made for at least 2,500 new patients a year, besides 15,000 clinic visits.

TO HONOR RETIRING SOLDIER

Sixteenth Infantry Will Salute Veteran of 26 Years' Service.

Master Sergeant Milton T. Smith, oldest man in point of service in the Sixteenth United States Infantry and a veteran of the Philippine Insurrection, Pershing's Expedition into Mexico and the World War, will be retired today with formal ceremonies on the parade ground of Governors Island at 11 A. M. He has completed twenty-six years of active service. He is the last remaining soldier in the regiment who was with Company F when it lost the first three Americans to fall in France fighting under their own flag.

The battle flag of his regiment which he has followed during half his lifetime, will be lowered in salute to Sergeant Smith as he stands beside his regimental commander, Colonel Albert S. Williams, in the reviewing stand and watches the Sixteenth pass in review. The parading troops will turn out "eyes right" and dip their colors and guidons in tribute.

Milton T. Smith enlisted in January, 1904, and was assigned to the Sixteenth Infantry. Except for a short period with the A. E. F. in Germany after his regiment returned to the United States, he has served his entire time with the Sixteenth. In France he took part in every engagement with the First Division and escaped without a scratch.

Police Radio Unites Four Countries.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—A private radio telephone police net which includes Austria, Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia has been inaugurated, according to a report transmitted to the Department of Commerce today. Hungary, Switzerland and Danzig, it was stated, are expected to join shortly, and Rumania is cooperating.

WCDA ASKS PERMIT TO DOUBLE POWER

CIVIC SERVICE STRESSED

License for Portable Experimental Station Is Granted to Columbia Company.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—John D. Flynn, Oliver A. Amaducci and Fortune Gallo of Station WCDA, New York City, today appeared before the Federal Radio Commission and asked that the station's power be increased from 250 to 500 watts.

They informed the commission that Stations WKBQ, WMSG and WBNY, all sharing time on 1,350 kilocycles with WCDA, will give up their own transmitters and use the new one of WCDA if the commission grants the power increase and if they can also retain their own call letters. This, it was pointed out, would do away with three separate transmitters.

The representatives of WCDA asked to be allowed to use the 500-watt power experimentally. WCDA, it was stated, serves some 900,000 Italians in and around New York and the additional power would allow the station to reach some 100,000 more in Flatbush and Brooklyn. The station incurs a deficit, it was stated, but this is made up by those interested in Americanization and civic work carried on by it.

The commission today granted a portable experimental station license to the Columbia Broadcasting Company, "to be used to determine field strength pattern for the proposed location of WABC's 50,000-watt transmitter."

A license was issued to Experimental Station W2XAN of the Atlantic Broadcasting Corporation for a portable near Northfield, N. J., to use 500 watts power.

The Columbia company is reported to be looking for a new location which will be further away from its present location than that decided upon a week ago.

Statements made here indicate that the company is satisfied that it would not be advisable to locate the new transmitter near its present location owing to the fact that it would not be able to develop the full 50,000 watts power without seriously interfering with radio reception in the vicinity.

TALKED OF FOR OTTAWA.

Leland Harrison, Minister to Uruguay, Mentioned for New Post.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Leland Harrison of New York, who was recently appointed Minister to Uruguay, has been mentioned unofficially as the possible successor to William Phillips, resigned, as Minister to Canada. It was said at the White House tonight that no name for the Ottawa post had been taken up actively with the State Department.

Mr. Harrison is a career diplomat of about twenty years' service who has served as Assistant Secretary of State. Three years ago he was appointed Minister to Sweden and is now in this country on his way to Montevideo.

Official associates of Mr. Harrison said they had received no intimation that he would be named to Ottawa although they recognized that the choice might eventually fall upon him.

DRESS CONTRACTORS ARE URGED TO UNITE

Asked to Join Manufacturers Association to Prepare for Threatened Strike.

A call to dress contractors in New York and vicinity to join the Association of Dress Manufacturers in preparation for the dress strike of 45,000 workers threatened by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union was voted by several hundred contractors who attended a meeting of the association at the Hotel Pennsylvania last night.

A resolution declaring that a large organization was necessary in the industry was adopted unanimously.

Speakers painted the jobber as the "bad boy" of the industry from the point of view of the contractor. It was charged that the jobbers played the contractors against one another, obtaining such low prices that it was impossible either to pay fair wages to dressmakers or to make a profit in manufacturing. J. Sylbert, president of the association, urged the contractors to rally around the association immediately so that they might present a united front in the negotiations with the other factors of the industry which will be carried on to settle the strike.

Many of the 2,000 contractors in and around New York are still out of the organization, and it is hoped that before the strike is called a large proportion of them will have joined. Other speakers at the meeting were J. Berg and I. Siegel, general manager of the association.

BEGINS PHILADELPHIA HALL

Mayor Mackey Breaks Ground for Convention Building.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—Ground for the city's new $5,000,000 convention hall was broken in West Philadelphia today by Mayor Mackey, who described the present age as one of advertising, and added that "nothing advertises a city more, in my opinion, than a building in which the largest conventions may be held."

The main auditorium of the hall will accommodate more than 14,000 persons, and in addition to the auditorium feature will have an exhibition department containing about 70,000 square feet of space.

The architecture will be Italian Renaissance.

Princeton Five Loses to C. C. N. Y. by 37 to 25—St. John's Beats Columbia, 28-19

C. C. N. Y. TURNS BACK PRINCETON, 37 TO 25

SEVEN IN ROW FOR VICTORS

Undefeated Record Is Kept Intact—Spindell Opens Tallying for City College.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 7.—Princeton's basketball team suffered its second defeat of the season here tonight when it lost to the fast C. C. N. Y. quintet, 37 to 25. The visitors captured an early lead, scoring 14 points to the Tigers' 2 in the first few minutes of play. It was the seventh straight victory for the undefeated New York team.

Spindell opened the tallying with a free shot from the foul line, which was followed by a field goal by De Phillips. Nicholson, Tiger forward, retaliated with a long shot for the only two points the Nassau men were able to garner before the C. C. N. Y. courtmen ran up their lead of 12 points.

A rally in the last part of the first period by the Orange and Black men brought the score at half time to 22 to 11 in favor of C. C. N. Y. At no time during the game did Princeton gain the lead.

Nicholson and Lord began working at the opening of the second period and brought the Tigers' total to 15. Frank De Phillips, fast C. C. N. Y. centre, accounted for 15 points, gaining high scoring honors of the game. Spindel and Trupin tallied 8 and 7 points respectively.

A few minutes before the end of the game, with the score 37 to 18 in favor of the visitors, Coach Holman sent the whole second team in to battle with the Princeton team. The newcomers were not equal to the task, however, allowing Wittmer and Carey two baskets each before the final whistle.

LAFAYETTE QUINTET BEATS CORNELL, 41-25

Victors Rally in Second Half After Trailing, 14 to 13, at End of First Half.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Cornell resumed its home stand by losing to Lafayette, 41-25, on the basketball court tonight. The visitors ran up a 13-2 lead with five minutes of the first half left to play, but Cornell's spurt scored 12 straight points from the field and gave the Red and White a 14-13 lead at the half.

The Lafayette team opened up in the second half, and with Sullivan shooting six field goals, all of them the one-hand overhead variety, the Eastonians went into the lead, never to be headed. Cornell could not stop the visitors, and Lafayette had Lipitz and Demmerling to halt Cornell's sallies.

YALE SIX CRUSHES MICHIGAN TECH, 15-0

Elis Play a Whirlwind Game, Using First, Second and Third Teams.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 7.—The Yale hockey team defeated Michigan Tech, 15 to 0, in the New Haven Arena tonight.

After scoring seven goals in the first period, three of which came within twenty-seven seconds of each other, the Elis began sending in reserves, using a total of seventeen players.

Win Palmer took scoring honors with four goals, while Chick McLennan drove three and Bostwick and Luce each secured two.

Yale played whirlwind hockey from start to finish, sending the first, second and third teams upon the ice in rapid-fire rotation, although Farrell remained at goal for the Elis during the entire game.

The line-up:

PRINCETON ELEVEN WILL PLAY 7 GAMES

1930 Opponents to Be Same as Last Fall—To Meet Yale on Nov. 15.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 7.—Seven games have been arranged for Princeton's 1930 football team, it was announced today by the university athletic association. They will be played with the same opponents which the Tigers met during the past Fall.

The annual Yale-Princeton classic will be staged on Nov. 15, continuing the oldest football rivalry in existence. The Bulldogs and Tigers have met on the gridiron fifty-three times. Yale has won twenty-eight times and Princeton sixteen, while nine games have been ties. Since the World War Princeton has won six games from Yale and has lost five.

The 1930 schedule follows:

Oct. 4—Amherst; 11, Brown; 18, Cornell; 25, Navy.

Nov. 1, Chicago at Chicago; 8, Lehigh; 15, Yale.

MAZURKI NAMED CAPTAIN.

Manhattan College Centre to Lead Basketball Team.

Mike Mazurki, veteran centre of the Manhattan College basketball team, who has been a member of the varsity quintet for the past three years, was elected captain of the 1929-30 five at a meeting of the players, held after the Yale game Monday night, it was announced yesterday.

Mazurki is 24 years old and comes from Cohoes, N. Y., where he starred as a player on the Cohoes High School basketball team.

Matsuyama Triumphs Twice.

Kinrey Matsuyama won two 18.2 balkline matches, both in five innings, at Lawler Brothers' Manhattan Billiard Academy yesterday. In the afternoon, with a high run of 150, he defeated Jim Lewis, 250 to 10, and at night, aided by a cluster of 142, he vanquished Valentine Brennan, 250 to 7. Lewis had a high run of 4 and Brennan's best effort was 6.

Kupchik Wins Chess Tourney.

Another first prize fell to Abraham Kupchik in the weekly rapid transit tournament at the Isaac L. Rice Progressive Chess Club yesterday, when he came through with a score of 7—1. Charles Jaffe, 6—2, took the second prize, H. Liebenstein, 5½—2½, third, and S. Bernstein, 5—3, the fourth.

ST. JOHN'S CHECKS COLUMBIA QUINTET

WINNERS ALWAYS IN FRONT

The Columbia basketball team was defeated, 28-19, last night in the Columbia gymnasium by St. John's College of Brooklyn. Two thousand persons witnessed the hard-fought encounter which was the seventh straight victory of the season for St. John's. St. John's combined a fast offense with a stern defense and this combination toppled the Lions.

The visitors got off to a slim lead and were in front all the way, although the Blue and White proved a much more dangerous foe in the second half than in the first.

Rip Gerson starred for St. John's, scoring eight points. Sammy Schoenfeld lead the Lion offense with seven points.

The early part of the first half saw both teams guarding closely and playing a slow and waiting type of offense. Kinsbrunner put St. John's in the lead with a foul and Gerson added two more fouls to make the score 3-0. Jones and Joyce scored fouls for Columbia to draw up to 3-2.

The visitors then went on a scoring rampage and jumped far ahead. 11-2. In their drive Kinsbrunner scored two floor goals and Gerson got two fouls and a field goal. Schoenfeld scored a foul and then Gregory sent in Columbia's first field goal, making the score 11-5.

Schuckman tallied from the floor, making the score 13-5. A foul by Jones and a long field goal by Tys gave the Lions hope, the score going to 13-8. Schuckman scored a foul and Begovich tallied from under the haap to make the score 16-8.

Second Half Exciting.

The second half turned out to be the most exciting period of the encounter. Both teams played fast and the passing was speedy and accurate, with St. oJhn's having a slight advantage.

Schoenfeld scored a field goal, to make the score 16-10. Gerson tallied from the floor and Begovich scored a foul, putting the count at 19-10. Schoenfeld dropped in a long one and Jones put one through from under the hoop, to make the score 19-14. Begovich scored again and Posnack was successful twice from the foul mark, sending St. John's further out in front, 23-14. Schuckman scored for the Brooklyn team, but Joyce made one from the 15-foot mark and Schoenfeld scored from the corner, making the score 25-17.

Magurk Makes Long Shot.

Jones was replaced by Gregory at centre and Magurk went in at forward. Hinchcliffe scored a foul and Magurk put a long shot through the hoop, making the score 26-19. Begovich ended the game with a field goal.

PENN STATE FIVE LOSES.

Bows to Montana State Quintet by 51-42 Score.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 7.—Montana State defeated Penn State at basketball tonight, 51 to 42, showing brilliant pass work and accurate shooting throughout the game. Although Penn State came within 3 points of the Westerners twice during the game, the visitors were never seriously threatened after the first few minutes. Montana led at half time 26 to 19.

Von Hindenburg Offers Cup for Yacht Series With Corinthian Y. C. at Kiel Next Summer

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Word has been received by Commodore Charles A. Welch of the Corinthian Yacht Club of Marblehead from the governing board for German yacht racing that a cup has been offered by President von Hindenburg of the German Republic for an international match at Kiel next Summer with boats of the thirty square meter class.

This would be a return match in the series held off Marblehead last Summer for the President Hoover Cup, between teams of three boats of the same class, Germany against the Corinthian Yacht Club. In that series the visiting yachts made a clean sweep, but in turn were defeated later for the Marblehead Cup by the Swedish boat Bacchant.

It is understood by the Corinthian Yacht Club that the conditions governing the 1930 Kiel international match will be similar to those of the 1929 series at Marblehead. That is, the competition would be in the form of a team match.

However, it is too early to determine whether the local yachtsmen will accept the challenge for the international match. Plans already have been made by Commodore Welch and his brother, E. Sohier Welch, to take one of the American thirty square meter boats to the jubilee racing of the Royal Swedish Yacht Club off Stockholm next July.

TEXTILE AND LANE REACH CITY FINAL

Manhattan Championship Quintet Beats Clinton, 21-20, in P. S. A. L. Semi-Finals.

BROOKLYN FIVE WINS, 23-19

Turns Back Bryant, Titleholder in Queens—Title Contest to Be Played on Saturday.

The usual desperate second-half rally which has earned De Witt Clinton most of its victories this season fell short by one point and as a result the Textile High School quintet triumphed, 21-20, in a hard-fought Bronx-Manhattan semi-final contest of the P. S. A. L. championship tournament on the James Monroe court yesterday.

It was the sixteenth consecutive victory for Textile and its eleventh in league competition. A capacity throng of about 1,000 saw Textile lead, 10-8, at half-time. Textile increased its lead to 21-12, then Clinton made a great rally with two minutes to play, bringing the score to 21-20. Just as time was called, Art Schectman caged a long shot from the right corner of the court, but it was disallowed. Griffin played a brilliant game for Clinton.

Lane Beats Queens Champions.

Franklin K. Lane High School's basketball team, winner of the Brooklyn P. S. A. L. court title, won its way into the final for the P. S. A. L. city championship by defeating the Queens victor, Bryant High, 23 to 19, in the Jamaica High School gymnasium yesterday. A crowd of 1,000 saw Lane earn the right to play Textile, Manhattan champion and conqueror of De Witt Clinton, Bronx titleholder, for the city crown Saturday afternoon.

There was little to choose between the teams. Bryant led, 11-10, at half-time, and the lead alternated three times in the second half before field goals by Finger and Carus decided the contest.

FRESHMEN REPORT FOR COLUMBIA CREW

Fifty Candidates Hold Practice Session—Three Varsity Eights Also Work Out.

Columbia took up its first rowing activities of the year yesterday when fifty freshmen reported to Coach Richard J. Glendon for practice on the machines. While this turnout does not come up to that of past years in regard to number, Glendon believes that there are more promising men in the present group.

Glendon, who was assisted by his brother Hubert, sent the candidates through a brief workout on the machines. No definite attempts were made at selecting special crews, the men just filling in at vacant seats. Within the next week, however, Glendon will have an opportunity to observe the capabilities of his aspirants, and it is expected that definite boatings then will be made.

So anxious are the varsity men to get down to actual practice that three eights worked out on the machines following the freshman session. Captain John Murphy, Bill Sanford, Bill Blesse and Hank Walters, men remaining from last season's undefeated and champion varsity crew, were on hand. Several members of last year's junior varsity, freshman and lightweight crews also worked out.

HAGEN WINS MAT BOUT.

Disposes of Romano at Ridgewood Grove Before 2,500 Fans.

George Hagen of the U. S. Marines threw Mike Romano of Corona in 39 minutes and 30 seconds of the main finish wrestling match at the New Ridgewood Grove last night. A crowd of about 2,500 witnessed the show. It was a return match between Hagen and Romano, Hagen having scored a victory a week ago. Hagen weighed 215 pounds and Romano 203.

In another finish match Gino Garibaldi, 218, Italy, pinned Joe Komar, 230, Lithuania, in 45 minutes. Jack Washburn, 225, California, received the decision over Wanka Zelezniak, 214, Russia, at the end of their 30-minute clash.

Nino Donaldi, 216, Italy, threw Dimitri Dimitroff, 205, Russia, in 6 minutes and 30 seconds of a 30-minute bout. Paul Maliaros, 175, Greece, tossed Mike Chaplin, 200, New York, in 8 minutes and 30 seconds. They were also scheduled for a 30-minute bout.

CASS SCORES CHESS UPSET.

Defeats Santasiere, the Leader in Marshall Club's Tourney.

Another upset in the annual tournament for the championship of the Marshall Chess Club occurred yesterday when A. E. Santasiere, the leader, experienced his second defeat in the tenth round, bowing to Alvin C. Cass, champion of the Crescent A. C., in a queen's gambit declined, lasting thirty-nine moves.

Cass had the black pieces and succeeded in bringing about lively complications in the middle game. Santasiere, who had refrained from castling, was unable to withstand the attack and was eventually checkmated. Santasiere was tied in first place by Fred Reinfeld, whose game with Harry Fajans was postponed. Other results were: Towsen, ½; Hanauer, ½; Fish, 0; Croney, 1; Bernstein, 1; Morrell, 0; Dunst, 1; Smirka, 0; Eigelow, a bye.

BOSTON CUP YACHT IS NAMED YANKEE

Work Now Under Way on Craft Which Will Be a Candidate for America's Cup Defense.

ITS FRAMES ALREADY BENT

Type Will Be Centreboard Knockabout—Selection of the Name Brings Surprise Here.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—The Boston candidate for the America's Cup defense will be known as Yankee, according to a statement made tonight at the annual meeting of the Eastern Yacht Club by former Vice Commodore John S. Lawrence, one of the managing owners of the syndicate of Boston yachtsmen which has financed the cost of the new craft.

It was also announced that the yacht, which is to be a centreboard knockabout, is being laid down at the yard of George Lawley & Son Corporation at Neponset and that many of her frames have been bent. Much of the bronze plating has been received and is being punched for the rivets.

The most noteworthy Massachusetts Bay racing yacht to be called Yankee was the twenty-rater, or Class R knockabout, owned by Commodore Charles A. Welch of the Corinthian Yacht Club, which won the Greenwich and Manhasset Bay Cups one year and the New York Yacht Club Cup off Newport the next season, besides numerous club races at Marblehead.

At the Eastern Y. C. meeting Commodore Charles P. Curtis was reelected, as well as Vice Commodore Seth M. Milliken of New York, Rear Commodore Robert A. Leeson, Secretary Caleb Loring and Treasurer Stephen W. Sleeper. The only change in the regatta committee was the substitution of Isaac B. Edmands of Niagara Falls and Marblehead for Frank W. Belknap, the latter being unable to serve, as he is assisting his partner, Frank C. Paine, in getting out the plans for the Yankee and superintending her construction.

Name Causes Surprise Here.

The announcement that the Lawrence-Paine-Hovey syndicate's yacht would be officially named Yankee came as somewhat of a surprise to local yachtsmen, for although it was expected that Boston's first bid for America's Cup defense since 1901 would bear a distinctive New England name, nevertheless it was generally understood that the boat would bear the name Arabella.

The Yankee will be 125 feet over all, 84 feet on the water line, 22 feet 4 inches in breadth and 15 feet draft, with 7,500 square feet of sail carried by a 165-foot mast built up of wood and glue. According to her half model, which recently was on exhibition, she is characterized by a rather full bow. Yankee will be tuned up off Marblehead and then run down to Newport.

The Boston representative is the third of the four contenders for the honor of defending the historic trophy to have an official name. The George Nichols-J. P. Morgan syndicate recently designated its yacht as Weetamoe, an old Indian name coming from the Narraganset tribe. She is to be 83 feet on the water line, with a beam of 20 feet, and her designer is Clinton H. Crane.

Named After Navy Schooner.

The Winthrop W. Aldrich-Harold S. Vanderbilt group's boat is Enterprise, the name being that of a famous schooner in the American Navy, which distinguished itself in action against the Barbary pirates. Work on this yacht has progressed very rapidly and it is expected that the sloop will be the first of the four contenders to be off the ways.

The Paul Hammond-George Pynchon-Landon K. Thorne yacht is tentatively called Whirlwind. She is a double-ended craft designed by L. Francis Herreshoff and is the largest of the prospective defenders, being 87 feet on the water line.

Weetamoe is the only one of the four American yachts which contains eight letters, the traditional number marking the names of all the cup defenders since 1887.

The Racquet and Tennis Club and the Staten Island Club were both winners in the Class B matches of the Metropolitan Squash Racquets League last night as the University Club divided four matches with the Harvard Club.

Playing on their own courts, the Racquet and Tennis Club players turned back the Heights Casino of Brooklyn, 3 to 2, and that was the margin by which Staten Island prevailed over the visiting Nassau Country Club. University and Harvard each won two matches on the former's courts and the fifth and deciding engagement will be contested tonight. The match between Rockaway and Montclair was postponed until Saturday.

Led by Steve Philbin, former Yale football star, the University Club Class A squash racquets team completed its schedule in the Metropolitan League championship last night by vanquishing the visiting Rockaway Hunting Club, 4 matches to 1.

This victory assured the University players of finishing in second place and it is still possible for them to earn a tie for first position should the Harvard Club lose its concluding match with Rockaway, scheduled for Feb. 4. The Crimson representatives, who were idle last night, have won all four of their engagements, including the one with the University Club.

In the other match last night the Racquet and Tennis Club lost on its own courts to the Nassau Country Club, 4 to 1, in spite of the fact that Herbert N. Rawlins, the metropolitan and Canadian champion, played in the Racquet Club line-up for the first time this season. Rawlins defeated Van H. Cartmell in the lead-off match at 15—11, 15—7, 15—10.

Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia took another step toward regaining the title he once held when he defeated Allen Hall, Western cue star, in their match in the world's three-cushion billiard championship tournament at the Palm Garden last night.

After almost three hours' effort Johnny Layton, the defending champion, also scored a victory, his being at the expense of Gus Copulos of Detroit. But Reiselt's victory kept his slate clean with five victories and no defeats while Layton has won four matches and lost one.

Reiselt defeated Hall in the first evening match by 50 to 42 in forty-five innings. Layton, coming from behind in the late inning with a wizardry that displayed his real skill, downed Copulos by 50 to 34 in forty-nine innings.

Layton in Second Place.

Layton's triumph put him in undisputed possession of second place and broke a triple tie which he shared with Hall and Augie Kieckhefer. The victory, too, brought Layton back into the race and again gave his supporters renewed hope that he would be successful in the defense of his crown.

Both of the evening matches had their moments of sensationalism and yet both were marked by much safety play. In this respect Layton seemed to have a considerable advantage, though Reiselt in his match saved several situations by his skill at this defensive strategy. Reiselt, winning the bank, took a lead with two in his first inning and then played a safe, conservative game.

At the end of the first eighteen innings Hall had a lead of 24 to 17, but in the twenty-fifth Reiselt put more daring into his play, making runs of four and three and later adding two streaks of six to triumph.

Spurts in 30th Inning.

Layton, winning the bank, got off to a fast lead with singlet tallies in his first two innings and a four in hid third. Adding a two in the fourth, he topped Copulos, but the latter ran three in his fourth to give him five and then got four to take he lead. Copulos continued to set the pace until Layton suddenly spurted with a five in his thirtieth inning.

Then Layton showed his skillful safety play and for nine innings Copulos did not score. In five more innings he got only one. In the last twenty-four innings Layton scored 35 to Copulo's 9 and in the last eleven innings Layton collected 23 points.

In the afternoon matches Tiff Denton of Kansas City and Kieckhefer were the victors. Denton took the measure of Charley Jordan, 50 to 31, while Kieckhefer, the Chicago left-hander, won from Harry Schuler of Brooklyn, 50 to 25.

In his contest with Denton, Jordan appeared nervous and uncertain in his play, making one miscue and at another time fouling the red ball while endeavoring to line up his next shot, thus losing his scoring chance in that inning.

Yanks Refuse Ruth $85,000 a Year for 3 Years; Offer $75,000 and 2-Year Term

RUTH ASKS $85,000, BUT YANKS REFUSE

Babe Also Demands Three-Year Contract—Club Offers One for Two Years at $75,000.

SALARY COMPROMISE SEEN

Barrow Insists After Meeting, However, That Three-Year Contract Is Out of Question.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Babe Ruth, home run monarch extraordinary and outstanding figure in baseball for more than a decade, yesterday became the first holdout of the year when it was announced by Yankee officials that their initial attempt to have the Babe sign a new contract had met with failure.

Ruth, whose expiring contract of $70,000 for each of three years already had made him the highest paid man in baseball, now wants another three-year contract at $85,000 a year. The Yankees best offer is a two-year contract at $75,000 per annum.

The conference was held in the offices of Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, and was attended by the Colonel, Business Manager Ed Barrow and Ruth. The meeting, official report of which was made later by Barrow, was said to have moved along amicably enough with the parties to the transaction losing very little time in laying their cards on the table.

The negotiations opened with Ruppert offering Ruth a one-year contract at $70,000, which the Babe is said to have greeted with a broad smile. So, immediately after this gesture, Colonel Ruppert made his offer of $75,000 for each of the next two seasons, which, later amplified by Barrow, is absolutely to stand as the Yankees' best terms.

Babe Goes Into Action.

Then the Babe swung into action. He demanded another three-year contract at $85,000 a season, and when the Colonel as flatly refused to meet this figure the meeting adjourned, with both sides stoutly asserting they meant not to recede an inch.

Later, when Barrow disclosed what had transpired at the session, he stated that Colonel Ruppert would not yield to a three-year contract for any sum. This seemed to leave the impression that efforts at reaching a compromise doubtless would succeed later so far as the question of salary is concerned.

"But a three-year contract is positively out," said Barrow.

On returning home, Ruth was equally insistent that he would sign for nothing less than three years and for the amount he had demanded.

"I have given sixteen years of what I think has been pretty fair service to baseball," said Ruth, "and I think I am entitled to a break. Every time the signing of a new contract has come up I have asked for more money and signed for less than I asked for. But this is one time I am going to get what I want or there will be no signing."

Will Leave on Saturday.

Ruth is to leave on Saturday with his wife for St. Petersburg, where he will remain for a few days prior to going to Miami, where he is expected to stay until his salary differences are adjusted. The Yankees are scheduled to commence their Spring training at St. Petersburg on Feb. 23.

The meeting yesterday marked ten years to a day when Barrow signed Ruth to his first Yankee contract following the deal which had brought the Babe to the Yanks from the Red Sox for a sum reported to have been $137,500. At the time Ruth held a hold-over contract at $10,000 a season which still had a year to run with the Yankees.

In 1920, his first season with the Yanks, Ruth startled the baseball world by hitting 54 home runs to set a new Major League record. This boosted his salary to $20,000 for the following year, in which he raised his home-run mark to 59.

At the close of that season he signed a five-year contract at $52,000 a year, but failed in any of these seasons to excel his mark of 1921. He fell off to 35 homers in 1922, due partially to a suspension inflicted upon him by Commissioner Landis, and in 1925, when he suffered a physical collapse in the Spring, he made only 25.

Demands $100,000 Salary.

But the Babe came back with 47 in 1926, and with the expiration of his five-year contract he demanded a salary of $100,000 for the following season, but compromised on a $70,000-a-year salary with a three-year contract. This made him the highest-paid man in baseball, exceeding by $5,000 the salary paid Commissioner Landis.

In his first year under this new contract Ruth smashed his 1921 home-run record with a total of 60 circuit clouts. He made 54 in 1928 and last season, despite a lay-off in midseason because of illness, produced 46 to give him a grand total of 516 for his Major League career to date.

Those 516 homers the Babe thinks are worth the sum he is now demanding.

AMERICANS IN TIE WITH TORONTO, 1-1

EACH SCORES IN 2D PERIOD

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

After three straight victories at Madison Square Garden the Americans last night were held to a 1-1 tie by the Toronto Maple Leafs, the team just above them on the International group ladder.

The 6,000 spectators could have gone home five minutes after the second period started without missing any scoring. Both goals were sunk in the early stages of the middle period after which the teams vied on even terms and with about an equal degree of power for the rest of that period, the entire third and the ten-minute extra period.

Forwards came and went with great frequency, each front line taking the ice, skating at high speed as long as they could stand it, then retiring in favor of fresh forces. The Maple Leafs had something of an edge in the battling in that their attacks necessitated more fireworks in front of the local nets than the Americans could stage at Toronto's goal.

The goalie shortage locally was met by the Americans' personnel department with the recall of Jake Forbes from New Haven, the Americans' farm, where Forbes was sent three years ago. Forbes was the hero of the star spangled squadron according to the meed of applause dealt out to him for some of his goal line acrobatics.

The scoring began in 2:54 of the second period and ended less than two minutes later. Charlie Conacher, brother of the Americans' manager, a flashy wing for the Leafs this season, caged Toronto's goal by a long swing from just inside the Americans' blue line. The puck skimmed past Forbes waist high.

The ticing goal was featured by a wild scramble behind the Toronto goal during which Bill Boyd managed to knock the puck out in front of the goal, but too far away for Chabot to reach. George Massecar, locked in a tangle with a Toronto defense man near the blue line, wrestled free, skated up to the motionless puck and whisked it past Chabot for the evening's final tally.

Penalties were almost as scarce as goals. The whistle tooted for a foul only once in each of the regulation three periods. Sheppard and Day went out together for roughing in number one. Brydge and Lionel Conacher drew the rest intervals prescribed by the referee in the other two periods.

New Yorkers Hold Pace-Setting Rivals Scoreless in the First Period, but Fail to Last.

CARSON FIRST TO SCORE

BOSTON, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Boston Bruins ran their string of victories to thirteen tonight when they defeated the New York Rangers, 3 to 0, in a National Hockey League match.

Though the Garden was warm and the ice too soft for fast play, the Bruins and Rangers were off to a furious start, and in the first three minutes both Barry and Boucher, rival centres, were belting the opposing goalies with hard, straight shots. Thompson and Roach, however, performed miracles, keeping the rubber outside their nets during the entire period. Each goalie had nine saves.

After a scuffle in mid-ice, just after the second period opened, Thompson swept by the Boston forwards and rushed with Keeling and Murdock and swept in for a close shot, but the Bruin goalie blocked nicely. Carson, Burins' centre, finally caged the rubber with Mackay assisting. Thompson had eight stops and Roach six. The play was fast on both sides throughout the session.

The Rangers pressed hard for the tying tally during the first half of the third period, Paul Thompson making several great sorties, but his brother, Tiny, was able to handle every shot he fired at the Boston net. Oliver caged the Bruins' second goal when he hooked Barry's rebound and Weiland gave Boston its third goal by shooting Clapper's assist into the New York cage on an angle shot. Thompson had seven stops and Roach eleven at the end of the session.

Yachts Lucie and Saleema Off Today For French Races

Two international six-meter yachts, Briggs Cunningham's Lucie and Henry B. Plant's Saleema, will be on board the Cosulich liner Saturnia when she sails from New York today. Both yachts are destined for Cannes on the French Riviera, where they will be entered in the various competitions. It is also planned to sail Saleema and Lucie in several of the important regattas at San Remo and Genoa, and both owners have hopes of bringing back the Prince of Piedmont Cup and other famous foreign yachting trophies.

MAROONS TOP CANADIENS.

Score 2-1 Victory as Benedict Is Struck and Badly Hurt.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7 (Canadian Press). — The Montreal Maroons threw their superior weight and numbers at the Montreal Canadiens, weakened by the loss of Martin Burke, and came from behind to win, 2 to 1, tonight. It was the third straight victory this season for the Maroons over their local rivals.

Clint Benedict for the second time in two games was struck by a terrific shot and sustained a broken nose and a cut that required seven stitches to close. Flat Walsh, although he was in bed suffering from a cold, taxied to the rink and did not allow a goal for the rest of the game, approximately two and a half periods.

The line-up:

SHIRES WINS BY KNOCKOUT.

Stops Faeth in First Round of St. Paul Bout.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 7 (AP).—Arthur Shires added another one-round knockout to his record by disposing of Tony Faeth after two minutes of fighting in their scheduled six-round bout tonight.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Illinois State Athletic Commission, investigating the Arthur Shires-Dan Daly bout, in which the White Sox first baseman scored a twenty-one-second victory in his professional fist fight debut here a month ago, reached the conclusion today that the knockk-out was on the level.

Frederick Gardiner, a member of the Illinois commission, and Walter George, secretary, both of whom were at the ringside, expressed the opinion that the knock-out was an honest one. A report from Eddie Purdy, the referee, rated as one of the ablest in the country, said the knock-out was genuine.

SMITH KNOCKS OUT SILVERS IN FIFTH

FINISH IS SPECTACULAR

Powerful Blows Drop Silvers Before He Has Chance to Leave His Corner, Responding to Bell.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

The finish came when Referee Jack Dorman waved Smith aside, victorious, as Silvers was about to collapse under terrific lefts and rights to the jaw, driven home by Smith before Silvers had a chance to get out of his own corner responding to the bell which started the fifth round.

Referee Dorman's intervention was timely and justified. Silvers was floored for a count of nine and almost finished in the fourth round.

Smith entered the ring the favorite to win at odds of 2½ to 1, and he scored his victory in a manner which justified these odds. He fought Silvers all over the ring in the first and second rounds and battered Silvers throughout the third. In the fourth Smith kept up his merciless attack, finally flooring Silvers and forecasting the knockout. Each boxer weighed 157 pounds.

Winning every round, Lew Feldman, east side featherweight, defeated Nick De Salvo, Corona veteran, in the semi-final of ten rounds. De Salvo substituted for Benny Tell and was outfought from first bell to to last. Feldman weighed 125¾ pounds and De Salvo 124 pounds.

Johnny Krieger, Bay Ridge light-heavyweight, scored a popular victory over Leo (One Punch) Williams of Harlem in their ten-round bout. Krieger floored his rival in the ninth round. Williams claimed a foul but Referee Dorman ignored the protest. Krieger weighed 171 pounds and Williams 175.

Cecil (Kid) Como, east side lad, won the decision over Connie Holmes of Boston in the opening ten-round bout. Como weighed 129½ pounds and Holmes 128½.

SHARKEY, SCOTT SIGNED.

Garden Announces They Will Meet in Miami Feb. 27.

Announcement was made last night by Frank J. Bruen, vice president of Madison Square Garden, that the proposed ten-round bout between Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, and Phil Scott, English heavyweight, had been signed for Miami on Feb. 27. No announcement was made of the terms agreed upon.

BOXING COMMISSION BANS CARNERA BOUT

FIGHTS AT GARDEN JAN. 24

Match Will Be First for Italian in America—Von Porat Among Boxers Reinstated.

Primo Carnera will not be permitted to box Carl Carter, Cuban, in his first American ring appearance, the State Athletic Commission decided yesterday. The match was ruled an uneven contest. The request for permision to stage the bout came from Jess McMahon, who planned the contest as a feature for the Coliseum on Jan. 15. The ruling of the commission will make Carnera's proposed battle in Madison Square Garden on Jan. 24 the Italian giant's American ring début.

Carnera visited the commission with his entourage and created quite a stir. The giant was accompanied by Leon See, his French manager; Bill Duffy, American adviser, and Walter Friedman, associated in the Italian's management. See filed a contract as manager of Carnera, and, as the document conformed to commission requirements it was accepted by Commissioners James A. Farley and William Muldoon.

The contract covers a period of three years, and by its terms Manager See guarantees Carnera an income of $5,000 a year for the life of the contract, while the earnings of the boxer are to be divided 66 2-3 per cent to Carnera and 33 1-3 per cent to See.

Art Shires, Chicago White Sox ball player-fighter, was suspended, pending an investigation by the commission. Secretary Stand was instructed to communicate with the National Boxing Association and some of its State affiliations for information on Shires and his boxing activities.

Johnny Keyes resigned as matchmaker of the Olympic A. C. Joe Barlow, Otto Von Porat and Allentown Joe Gans were among the boxers reinstated. Canada Lee, José Nieves and Floyd Hybert were suspended.

MET. A. A. U. BOUTS TONIGHT

With one of the strongest as well as largest entry lists in recent years, the Metropolitan A. A. U. championship boxing tournament will get under way tonight in Madison Square Garden. The bouts this evening will be in the preliminary round, as also will those of Monday night, while the semi-finals and finals will be staged on Wednesday night, Jan. 15.

Primo Carnera, the Italian heavyweight, will referee one of the bouts tonight. Contests will be held in eight divisions.

HORSE SHOW BODY AWARDS 1930 DATES

MACLAY RE-ELECTED HEAD

Rest of American Association Board Also Holds Places—Report Shows Record Membership.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Officers and directors were elected, tentative horse show dates for 1930 were awarded and other business transacted at the thirteenth annual meeting of the Association of American Horse Shows held yesterday at the Biltmore Hotel. It was the largest gathering of delegates and others interested in equine exhibitions in the history of the organization and over 100 enthusiasts were present at the luncheon tendered by President Alfred B. Maclay, which followed the business session.

The schedule for the season cannot be adopted until a number of conflicts in dates have been settled. The National Horse Show, greatest of all in this country, however, is a fixture for Nov. 6 to 12, in Madison Square Garden. The Boston Horse Show, which was revived last Autumn, will continue, the date probably to be Oct. 28 to Nov. 1. This, however, conflicts with Cincinnati's show, and the Boston exhibition may be moved forward to Oct. 21-25.

Many Dates Unsettled.

The dates listed by no means included all of the shows to be given during the 1930 season. Many of the organizations members of the national association have not been able to complete their arrangements in time to claim dates just now and will have to make their plans later and accept such dates as will be available. There is no objection, of course, to dates overlapping when shows are held remote from each other and are not of national prominence.

Alfred B. Maclay was re-elected president of the association, William H. Wanamaker Jr. vice president and J. Macy Willetts secretary and treasurer. The same board of directors will serve during this year, with the addition of Carl H. Hanna of Cleveland.

The annual report of the directors shows that the association is larger and more influential than at any time in its history, numbering 104 members, a net gain of eight over last year. Thirteen new members were elected, two were dropped and three resigned.

Several rules have been changed, one of the most important being Rule 1, Section 4, to which is added: "No substitutions of individuals or changes in combinations entered shall be permitted." In the past considerable confusion has been caused when exhibitors have juggled their combinations in tandems, pairs and fours.

Smith Resolution Adopted.

"Whereas, it is understood that under legislative enactment of Congress that becomes effective on June 30, 1930, the authorized mounts that an officer may have maintained at government expense will be reduced to one, which action will be a serious blow to all horse activities, including horse shows, polo, breeding and horse markets;

"Be it resolved, that the Association of American Horse Shows, Inc., representing 104 horse shows, in annual meeting assembled, enters a solemn protest against this enactment and urges that officers of the army who are on a mounted status be allowed, as in the past, to have two mounts maintained at government expense; and be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be furnished each member of the Military Committees of the Senate and House of Representatives and the General Staff."

Following the business meeting horses and horse shows were informally discussed, and during President Maclay's luncheon addresses were made by representatives of the army and of the leading exhibitions throughout the country. It was the consensus that there will be more shows during 1930 than ever before and that it will be the most successful season on record.

Bids to Five German Stars To Ran in U. S. Are Declined

The hope that five of the leading German athletes would be able to accept invitations to compete in this country during the Winter was dispelled yesterday upon the receipt by the Amateur Athletic Union in this city of a letter of regret from the Deutsche Sportbehorde fur Leichtathletik, controlling body of amateur sports in Germany.

The athletes invited, Buchner, Muller, Storrs, Englehart and Eldracher—have just returned from a tour of Japan and China, which forces their declination. The letter said, however, that Dr. Otto Pelzer contemplates a visit but probably would not come until late in March or early April.

DWYER WILL TRAIN SALMON'S HORSES

Tom Healey, who is to train the Harry Payne Whitney string of thoroughbreds, will take over his duties on April 1, it was learned yesterday following the announcement that Healey would leave for Miami on Saturday. The veteran trainer recently was named as the successor to the elder James Rowe, who died at Saratoga last August.

Healey will have two successors in the position he gives up as trainer for Walter J. Salmon and the late Richard T. Wilson. Bill Hogan, longtime friend of Healey, will train for Mrs. R. T. Wilson, who plans to continue the gold silks with green chevrons made famous by her husband, while Patsy Dwyer, Healey's associate for many years, will take over the Salmon horses.

The thoroughbred holdings of Mr. Wilson will be disposed of shortly by the executors and at that time Mrs. Wilson is expected to buy in a dozen of the best of the horses and campaign them at Belmont, Saratoga and perhaps on other tracks.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

PRESIDENT A. LAWRENCE LOWELL of Harvard, in his annual report to the Board of Overseers, tackled the problem of intercollegiate sports and made a few classical allusions in the light-hearted way of deep scholars. He pointed to the glory that was Greece, but looked askance on the grandeur that was Rome, all in a strictly sporting way.

It seems that the Greeks were amateurs in the real sense, and the Romans favored the professional attitude. In ancient Attica all played and a few were crowned with bay leaves, wild olive, laurel or other shrubbery indigenous to a given area. In Rome a few performed and the great majority (Senatus Populusque Romanorum) sat perched above the blood and sand of the arena and clapped hands.

President Lowell also cast a light allusion to the building of the Harvard Stadium and, by inference, hooked that incident up with the famous stadia of Rome and those that, following the lead of the ruling city, were built in Verona, Capua, Syracuse, Nimes, Arles, Bordeaux and even in ancient Britain under the Roman rule. The ominous part of the allusion is that Rome fell. It was a famous fall, and a book was written about it by a fellow named Gibbon.

For that matter, though possibly, out of respect for the great spirit of amateurism among the Greeks, President Lowell didn't mention it, Greece fell, too. There was a slight difference. Rome was knocked down. Greece merely fell apart.

A Historical Answer.

"Are we not slipping into the Roman attitude of mind?" wrote President Lowell, asking himself a neat rhetorical question. It deserves a historical answer.

The query led to the sending of an emissary, wearing a borrowed cap and gown, to the nearest research room in a public library. The scout reported back with tidings of good cheer. He was waving his "mortarboard" in highly unscholarly fashion and, except that he was forcibly restrained, would have gone out dancing in the streets.

"The country is safe for centuries," he cried. "The reference to the stadium at Harvard and the Roman amphitheatre, obviously the Flavian amphitheatre, holds no worry for our generation. So, vogue la galere! After us, the deluge! What has posterity ever done for us?"

He was finally calmed down to the point where he began to explain so that an ordinary taxpayer could get a glimmering of what he meant.

The Resurrected Reference.

It seems that the Roman amphitheatre President Lowell had in mind was the Coliseum (or Colosseum) started by Titus Flavius Vespasian in A. D. 75 and completed and dedicated by his son and successor as Roman Emperor, Titus Flavius Sabinus Vespasian, in A. D. 80. For short, the first was called Vespasian and the second Titus.

It's true that Rome fell after the ominous event of the dedication of the huge stadium, but how long after? All is well. Rome managed to hang on for more than three centuries. The first knockdown occurred in 410 and was scored by Battling Alaric. After that Rome was somewhat like Phil Scott in his match with Knute Hansen. It fell half a dozen times within the next century or so and was given up for dead.

But, sticking to the first horrible fall and accepting the Lowell reference and parallel at its full value, the fall of Cambridge should occur at the hands of the barbarians circa A. D. 2235.

Why Worry?

It is well for the president of a large university to peer into the future and endeavor in some measure to build for higher and better things. But who else with any interest in intercollegiate sport can be expected to worry over trouble that, according to the calendar, is not scheduled to arrive until A. D. 2235?

The alumni? They are too busy worrying about next year's football team. The students? Most of them refuse to worry over anything. The athletes? They can play only three years of varsity football at most, and most certainly would express no burning interest in the interruption of reverse plays three centuries from now.

President Lowell reached too far back. If he had hooked up some ominous indication in intercollegiate sports with the Chicago fire, the Johnstown flood or the San Francisco earthquake, he might have brought the danger home to the modern proletariat. But he went back to Greece and Rome and gave a parallel in which the building of the great stadium led to no great public catastrophe for 330 years, and even then the full blame was never placed squarely on the columns of the Coliseum.

Falling in Turn.

Harvard had the first college stadium in this country, as President Lowell pointed out. It wasn't constructed to hold as many spectators as the Coliseum of old, which had a seating capacity of 87,000 if ancient chroniclers can be trusted. The dedicatory games at Harvard were not at all like the dedicatory games in the Flavian amphitheatre, where unhappy victims were slaughtered to make a Roman holiday. Considering the difference in the games and the smaller capacity of the Harvard Stadium, perhaps the result at Harvard will not be as mournful as it was in Rome, or at least the fall of Cambridge may be put off for a longer period.

If everything goes off on schedule, Yale will fall under the onslaught of the barbarians after Harvard, since the Yale Bowl was built after the Harvard Stadium set the fashion. Illinois will then have its turn, and South Bend, where the Notre Dame Stadium is now in course of construction, will have a few added years in which to turn out championship football teams before the walls crash down as the city is sacked by night.

Harvard set the fashion and, three and a half centuries from now, Harvard may have to stand the blame. Princeton papers please copy. In the meanwhile those who are worrying over the impending catastrophe based on Roman precedent can retreat to Greece for a philosophy with which to face the situation. Imitate Zeno. Be a stoic.

WELLET IS VICTOR OVER BY PRODUCT

MOLE HILL, FAVORITE, THIRD

Jockey Steffen Scores Double, Riding Portsur in Second Race and Count Palatine in Fifth.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7.—W. L. Brodie's old horse Wellet won his first race of the new year when he came home first in the Oldtown Purse at the Fair Grounds today.

Going rather easily, Wellet did not have to hurry much to beat By Product by a length, while the favorite, Mole Hill, was a distant third. Sanford and Old Slip were the only other starters and they finished in the order named.

Now 5 years old, Wellet has been campaigned over many tracks, but there is none on which he feels more at home than the oval here, which was fast and in good condition this afternoon despite the threat of rain. Wellet had started here last week without getting in the money, and that effort must have acclimated him, for he was a strong horse in the Oldtown.

By Product was the first to break and dashed away in great style, with Jockey Phillips rating Wellet a short distance behind. On the turn Wellet was sent up on the inside, and in coming through he forced By Product a bit wide.

But the interference was not serious, and By Product had his chance when both were straightened out in the stretch. Wellet, however, continued to draw away and won without having to do his best. He returned $7.70 for $2 and was timed in 1:47 2-5 for the mile and a sixteenth.

Jockey Eddie Steffen, who was regarded as a young apprentice only a short time ago, scored a double with Portsur and Count Palatine, winning the second and fifth events.

Portsur is a faint-hearted youngster which usually is ready to cry quits at the end of half a mile, but Steffen managed to hold him together for the six furlongs of the second race and he won by a narrow margin from Thomas Seth, with Ring True third.

Over Sixty Years of Investment Service

1868-1930

OUR EXPERIENCE in the investment business covers a period of over sixty years, dating from the formation of the firm of Trask & Stone in 1868.

Numbered among our clients are institutions, executors, trustees and private investors the world over and each account, large or small, receives the same careful attention and supervision.

The experience that has been accumulated and the facilities that have been developed during these many years of investment service are available to all investors.

Advantageous Investments

We are recommending the purchase of several Bonds and Preferred Stocks of public utility companies, yielding a somewhat more liberal return than many others, and which in our opinion, are well protected by a stable earning power and a business which has shown steady progress over a period of years.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Call money fell to 4 per cent on the Stock Exchange; the lowest since February, 1928, shortly after the New York Reserve Bank had made its first advance from the 3½ per cent rediscount rate of August, 1927. The date suggests both reminiscences and contrasts; it was in February of 1928 that the fierce attack of Wall Street's speculative celebrities on the "Reserve board policies" began. Events sometimes seem to move very slowly in such matters, but there are times when they move with all but incredible swiftness. The atmosphere and mental attitude of the Wall Street of that not so very distant date seems as remote a recollection as Wall Street's threat of November, 1919, to haul the Federal Reserve authorities before Congress for raising the New York rate to 4¾.

Despite the lower New York call-money rate and a slight reduction in time money, foreign exchange declined still further. Both sterling and francs went to the lowest rate since Oct. 18, and sterling sold very close to par of exchange. The Bank of England took in the bulk of the day's gold arrivals at London from South Africa, thus adding $2,600,000 more to its gold reserves. It has apparently increased its holdings $12,000,000 or $13,000,000 since its last weekly report.

With the smallest transactions in more than a year, except for the day before Christmas, prices on the Stock Exchange went generally lower. A few stocks declined as much as 7 points, those being shares like General Electric and Western Union; but the losses did not as a rule run beyond 2 or 3 points, and there were some net advances. The day's trading seemed again to be entirely of professional origin.

Yesterday's complete report on railway earnings in November reflects the recent abrupt reaction of industry. A movement of that sort is best measured by the course of gross earnings rather than net. They are always less in November than in October, the decrease from the preceding month having been $86,695,000 even in November, 1928. Last November the decrease was $119,451,000. Again taking gross receipts, and comparing with November of other years, the rather surprising result is that last November falls short of any other corresponding month but one since 1919; the exception, naturally, being 1921. This showing is somewhat worse than that of the monthly car-loadings; their total for November was slightly in excess of 1927.

Net operating income earned in the same reactionary month makes better comparison. Even that, as a matter of fact, is the smallest reported in any November since 1922, and about 24 per cent below either 1928 or 1926; but the difference between these final operating results last November and those of November in 1927 or 1923 is trifling. In 1922 and 1920, with a much larger gross revenue for the month, net operating earnings were smaller than last November's by 4 per cent and 41 per cent respectively. Results for the full eleven months of 1929 naturally make a very different comparison. In gross receipts, the period has never been exceeded except by 1926; they were nearly $200,000,000 greater than in any other year. The net operating income of the eleven months exceeds by nearly $50,000,000 any other corresponding period. Nothing could better illustrate the economic lights and shades of 1929 than these highly contrasting comparisons of the month and of the year.

FOX, RKO SHARES UP ON STOCK DEAL RUMOR

Report of Acquisition of Part of Film Co.'s Holding in Loew's, Inc., Denied by Brown.

Rumors that Radio-Keith-Orpheum had acquired a part of the shares of Loew's, Inc., held by the Fox Film Corporation caused unusual activities yesterday in the R K O securities on the New York Stock Exchange and were held partly responsible for the strength exhibited by the class A shares of the Fox company. More than 129,000 shares of the R K O stock were traded, and at the close of the market the stock showed an advance of 2⅛ points to 23¾. Fox stock had a turn-over of 49,000 shares and an advance of ½ point to 22¾.

The rumor was that shares of Loew's reported to be held by the Chase National Bank as collateral for a loan to the Fox Film Corporation had been sold by the bank to Joseph Kennedy, who was acting for Radio-Keith-Orpheum. Mr. Kennedy, who is adviser to Pathé Exchanges, Inc., sold the present motion-picture properties of Radio-Keith-Orpheum to that company.

Hiram Brown, president of R K O called the rumor absurd. "Never heard of such a transaction, and it couldn't possibly take place," he said.

At the Chase National Bank, officials said it would be against the policy of the bank to make any announcement.

Another rumor in connection with the Fox company also was denied. Lewis D. Jones, vice president of the Eastman Kodak Company, said his company was in no way interested in the financing of the Fox Film Corporation. A rumor that the Kodak company would become interested in the management of Fox Film had been current since Saturday in Wall Street.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Conflicting influences were at work in yesterday's dealings on the Stock Exchange. The bear faction was aggressive at times and succeeded in forcing occasional reactions. The selling centred in issues that have been targets for the shorts over a considerable period. The pressure met what Wall Street considered good resistance, however, and there was a tendency for the selling to dry up on reactions. Only a few active issues lost ground on the day. On the other hand, there were spirited advances in several groups. The final quotations disclosed sizable gains in a dozen or so trading favorites. Sentiment in the financial district was mixed. The hesitant attitude of trading interests was reflected in the slender volume of business, which was only slightly in excess of 2,000,000 shares.

Stalemate in the Bond Market.

The old adage that it is an ill wind that blows no good can hardly be said to fit the bond market in its relationship to stocks. While trading in stocks has simmered down appreciably, there has been little evidence of stimulated interest so far as the listed bond market is concerned. Outside of trading in the legal rails, bonds have not made much headway, so that the gains in the bond averages one day have been usually nullified the next. So far as new issues have been concerned, the demand is only for the high-grade securities, and while sales for the new year to date have been considered satisfactory it is quite unlikely that any new high records for January will be established. Banking houses have been cautiously avoiding the heavy new financing this month so that the bonds brought out in December can be digested.

Money Goes Lower.

The relaxation of the money market incident to the return of holiday currency and of funds taken out of the market to meet payments at Jan. 1 forced the call rate at the money desk of the Stock Exchange yesterday down to 4 per cent, the lowest figure posted since Feb. 21, 1928. Outside the Exchange funds went at 3½ per cent and some loans were reported at 3 per cent. An easier tone was manifest in time money, but there was no change in the rates. While there is little disposition on the part of bankers to look for extremely cheap money to prevail over the next few months, the outlook is definitely on the side of ease and present rates may be further reduced before long.

Stock Trading and Congress.

This session of Congress is not expected to pass without some critical comment on the stock market and on the methods of members of the New York Stock Exchange. In fact, officials of the Exchange are rather braced for the criticism which they expect to come. After all the red fire has been burned and the smoke cleared away, it is expected to leave a bill which will prohibit the selling of a customer's account without two weeks' warning. Some instances of horrible examples are now being collected in the financial district of men who were sold out at the low prices when they did not immediately respond to those fateful October-November telegrams, usually received at 2 A. M. These will be recounted with all their details. There may be some attacks on short selling, too, but these are expected to be eliminated in the legislation which will follow. Proper notification, however, and ample time for a customer to assemble his resources before his property is disposed of will be insisted on, it is reported. From the brokers' standpoint it was a case of self-preservation, although suits are piling up in which many of the difficulties will be thrashed out.

Bill Volume Slackening.

The volume of acceptances being made is slackening from the pace of the past few months, according to bill dealers, and the figures to be given out shortly by the American Acceptance Council as of the close of December are expected probably to show the peak total for the year. With volume lessening and money rates becoming increasingly easy in this market, the next general move in bill rates is likely to be downward, in the opinion of money market experts. Some confusion was caused yesterday by the publication of reports of an advance in rates. The error arose from the action of one leading bank which lifted its rates ⅛ of 1 per cent for reasons dictated by its own portfolio position.

The Wabash Decision.

The decision of the Supreme Court in the Wabash dividend litigation was said yesterday to be more important for what it did not contain than what it did contain. It upheld present methods of railroad management, and, by inference, industrial management, in that it held that it lay with directors to decide when dividends should be paid. Had the decision taken in any respect from the power of judgment which corporate directors now exercise, its results would have been of a most important nature. The Interstate Commerce Commission recently held that it may overrule the judgment of a railroad management in the question of whether it should build additions to its line. The high court's decision is that the power of declaring dividends still lies with the management.

New Year's Results.

It is no secret that Wall Street is disappointed with the action of the stock market since the first of the year. Promises of lively advances in various groups have not been fulfilled. There has been, on the contrary, a complete lack of decision on the part of the most important market interests. This, it was emphasized yesterday, has been apparent in operations on both sides of the market. Brokerage interests made a point yesterday of stressing the curtailed activity of professional traders who are depended upon to keep the market going in dull times.

Lopping Off a Pyramid.

The action taken yesterday by the so-called allied group of utility companies in planning the elimination of four holding companies through their merger into a fifth, is the first operation of this kind that has ever been undertaken in a system of that size. It is predicted in utility circles that like measures are to be expected in other systems from time to time, preventing a dilution of earnings as well as effecting a concentration and simplification of management and financing.

MONEY.

Tuesday, Jan. 7, 1930.

Stock Exchange call money dropped to the lowest in nearly two years when a heavy supply of funds against a relatively poor demand sent rate to 4 per cent, unmatched since Feb. 21, 1928. Renewals were arranged at 4½, followed at noon by decline to 4, while street funds were done at 3@3½. An easier tone was also noticed in time money where offerings were more liberal. Business was small, however, a few 30-day loans going at 4½@4¾, and the distant maturities at 4¾@5. Both business money markets—commercial paper and acceptances—were moderately active at prevailing discounts.

The many geographical areas served by the Associated System provide a stable source of growth. With diversified types of population and industries, active areas offset less active ones. Associated Gas and Electric System electric output, gas output and earnings have shown a steady growth for many years.

What Happens to the Large Estates?

Twenty-Five percent of the net assets of large estates is depleted during the settlement period. This is the average shrinkage in estates of $300,000 and over probated in New York County in recent years. What causes this shrinkage? How can it be minimized?

We have made a comprehensive survey of the court records and this matter of shrinkage is fully discussed in our booklet "What Happens to the Large Estates" a copy of which will be sent you on request.

$1,200,000,000 DEAL TO MERGE UTILITIES

LEVELS HOLDING PYRAMID

Stock and Warrants of Four Companies to Be Exchanged—Cash Dividend Announced.

The directors of five companies in the so-called "allied" public utility group took action yesterday that will reduce considerably the pyramid of holding companies in the $1,200,000,000 system, placing the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, formed last Spring, directly at the head of the numerous operating concerns in the system.

To carry out this measure directors of the Allied Power and Light Corporation, the Commonwealth Power Corporation, the Penn-Ohio Edison Company, the Southeastern Power and Light Company and the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation approved a plan of merger and consolidation. This will result, when completed, in the acquisition by the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation of all assets and its assumption of all liabilities of the four other companies.

Following the merger, the principal stockholders in the reorganized Commonwealth and Southern Corporation will be, in the order of holdings, the American Superpower Corporation, the Electric Bond and Share Company, the United Corporation and the United Gas Improvement Company. Together the four holders will own approximately 50 per cent of all Commonwealth and Southern stock and warrants to be outstanding.

Announcement of the action was made by Bernard C. Cobb, chairman, and Thomas W. Martin, president of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation. The company owns more than 96 per cent of the common stocks of Commonwealth Power, Southeastern Power and Light, and Penn-Ohio Edison, while none of the stock of Allied Power and Light had hitherto been owned by Commonwealth and Southern.

Bases of Exchange of Stocks.

All outstanding common stock and warrants of the four companies to be acquired will be exchanged for common stock and warrants for Commonwealth and Southern, while all preferred stocks outstanding will be exchanged for $6 series preferred stock of Commonwealth and Southern, as follows:

For each share or warrant of:	There will be received from Commonw'lth and South'n: Pfd. shs.	Com. shs.	Opt. war.

Upon acquisition of all common and preferred stocks and warrants of the other companies by Commonwealth and Southern, it is proposed to liquidate them, leaving a single holding company with the following principal subsidiaries:

Consumers Power.
Tennessee Electric Power.
Central Illinois Light.
Southern Indiana G. and El.
Illinois Power.
Ohio Edison.
Illinois Electric Power.
Southern Michigan L. & P.
Alabama Power.
Georgia Power.

Ohio River Edison.
Pennsylvania-Ohio P. S.
Northern Ohio P. & L.
Stevens & Wood, Inc. (engineers).

Commonwealth Statement for Year.

The statement of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation for twelve months ended on Nov. 30, giving effect to the proposed merger, shows gross earnings of $151,404,677 and gross income, after operating expenses and taxes, of $77,722,130. Net income after fixed charges was $42,182,719 before depreciation. After depreciation of $8,885,167, net income was equal to more than four times annual dividend requirements on the 1,355,937 1-6 shares of $6 series preferred stock to be outstanding. The balance to common, after reserves and dividends paid or accrued on present preferred stocks, amounted to $25,455,673 for the period, or almost 75 cents a share on 33,973,561 common shares to be outstanding.

A quarterly cash dividend of 15 cents a share was declared yesterday by the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, placing the stock on a 60-cent annual basis, against a previous annual dividend basis of 5 per cent in stock on the common.

The $6 series preferred stock will be cumulative from April 1, 1930, and be redeemable at $110 plus accrued dividends. It is entitled to one vote a share at all meetings.

Stockholders' meetings of the various companies have been called to approve the plan. Because the merger companies were incorporated in different States, there will be a series of partial mergers to simplify the legal procedure.

Trans-America Corporation Shows $90,000,000 Profit

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Trans-America Corporation tonight revealed in its annual statement assets in excess of more than $1,175,000,000, showing a gain for 1929 of more than $83,000,000. Profits were estimated at more than $90,000,000 by A. P. Giannini, president of the corporation, which controls banks on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

Investments of Trans-America have grown to $1,135,000,000, compared with $1,091,000,000 at the end of 1928, while cash and dividends receivable amount to more than $20,000,000, compared to $1,941,000 a year previously.

The ratio of surplus and undivided profits to capital is shown by the statement to be more than 100 per cent. The corporation was entirely clear of debts at the start of 1930.

GAIN IN RESOURCES FOR COUNTY TRUST

Total of $38,042,814 on Dec. 31, Against $35,016,283 on Nov. 9, Same Year.

BIG INCREASE IN DEPOSITS

The statement of condition of the County Trust Company of New York as of Dec. 31, to be made public today, reveals increases of deposits and resources which have taken place since former Governor Alfred E. Smith took charge of the institution, following the death of James J. Riordan, president of the bank, on Nov. 8. Deposits of the institution increased nearly $2,500,000 between Nov. 9, 1929, and the end of the year and an additional increase of $1,220,000 took place during the first four days of the present year, the bank reports, making a gain of $3,644,939 from Nov. 9, 1929, to Jan. 4, 1930. As of Jan. 4, deposits totaled $30,159,915, compared with $26,514,976 on Nov. 9, 1929, the day following Mr. Riordan's death.

As of Dec. 31, 1929, the bank showed total resources of $38,042,814, compared with $35,016,283 on Nov. 9, 1929. Cash on hand and in banks totaled $5,647,456 at the end of the year, compared with $7,730,751 on Nov. 9. Call loans held by the bank as of Dec. 31 amounted to $16,900,509 against $12,706,788 on Nov. 9. Holdings of State and municipal bonds increased during the period from $2,735,411 to $3,180,248, while investments in other types of readily marketable securities advanced slightly from $2,588,972 to $2,680,174. The volume of immediately liquidable resources was advanced from $25,761,923 on Nov. 9 to $28,408,388 at the close of the year.

Undivided profits of the institution were increased by more than one-half during the period, advancing $490,365 from $875,609 on Nov. 9 to $1,365,974 on Dec. 31. Reserves and unearned discount went up from $125,697 to $156,924 during the period.

Treasury Calls $2,318,400 Here.

The United States Treasury has called for payment of $2,318,400 on Jan. 10 from depositary institutions in the New York Federal Reserve District. The amount represents 12½ per cent of the combined accounts remaining on deposit for the account of certificates of indebtedness dated Dec. 15, 1929. The call for the entire country announced yesterday amounted to $10,900,700. After this withdrawal $16,228,300 will remain on deposit in this district.

INVESTMENT TRUSTS CUT CAPITAL STOCK

Shenandoah and Blue Ridge Reduce Total by Millions by Retiring Blocks of Preferred.

VALUE OF COMMON RAISED

Net Assets Available Up $29,000,000 and $1,250,000—Operation Held Part of General Movement.

Through the retirement of 899,780 shares of the outstanding preferred stock of the Shenandoah Corporation and of 74,200 shares of the outstanding preferred stock of the Blue Ridge Corporation the capital stocks of the two investment companies have been reduced by millions of dollars and the net assets available for the common stock issues of the companies have been substantially increased, it was learned yesterday. Part of the retired preferred stock was acquired in the open market and 765,200 shares of Shenandoah preferred stock were acquired from the sponsors of the company.

Certificates authorizing the retirement of the 899,780 shares of Shenandoah preferred and 74,200 shares of Blue Ridge preferred were issued to each corporation by the State of Delaware in Wilmington last month, it was learned. Authorization for the retirement of more than 700,000 shares of Shenandoah was granted on Dec. 5, while authorization for the retirement of 74,200 shares of Blue Ridge preferred and of more than 100,000 additional shares of Shenandoah preferred was given on Dec. 31. Since all of the retired stock was acquired at lower figures than the present market prices, $37⅛ for Blue Ridge preferred and 36 for Shenandoah preferred, and therefore much less than the callable price of $55 a share for each issue, the net asset value of the common stock issues of the companies was materially increased.

Common Stock Asset Values Gain.

In the case of Shenandoah, the net asset value of the outstanding 5,891,000 shares of common stock was increased approximately $5 a share, or a total of more than $29,000,000, through the retirement of the block of preferred stock. Through the retirement of the block of Blue Ridge preferred stock the net assets available for the common stock of the company were increased approximately $1,250,000, equivalent to 16 cents a share on the 7,483,000 shares of common outstanding.

The purchase in the open market and subsequent retirement of preferred stock of Blue Ridge and Shenandoah is the second step to be taken by sponsors of the companies toward the restoration of the asset value of the common stock to levels prevailing before the October bear market. On Dec. 4 it was announced that a large block of Central States Electric Corporation stock had been donated to the Blue Ridge Corporation by one of the sponsors of the company, with a view to offsetting the depreciation in the value of the company's holdings which resulted from the stock market slump. It was reported at that time that Harrison Williams, a director of the company and one of its chief sponsors, had made the donation, which was valued at $28,000,000. Since the Shenandoah Corporation is the largest stockholder in Blue Ridge, having subscribed to 6,250,000 shares of the latter's common stock, Mr. Williams's donation also resulted in an increase in the asset value of the Shenandoah stock.

Big Cut in Outstanding Preferred.

With the retirement of 899,780 shares of Shenandoah preferred, the number of shares outstanding has been cut in half. Before the retirement of the stock the number of shares outstanding totaled 1,749,900, whereas the total as of Dec. 31, 1929, was 850,120. In the case of the Blue Ridge Corporation the outstanding preferred was reduced from 1,228,301 to 1,154,101, as of Dec. 31.

The Shenandoah preferred stock was offered at $50 a share at the time of the formation of the company on July 26, 1929. The company had a paid-in capital of $164,000,000. The stock is convertible into common on the basis of one and one-half shares of common for each share of preferred. The Blue Ridge preferred stock was offered at $51.50 a share when the corporation was formed by Shenandoah Corporation last August. The Blue Ridge Corporation had net assets of $131,481,557 as of Nov. 30. Each preferred issue is on a $3 annual dividend basis.

Retirement of the Blue Ridge and Shenandoah preferred shares is held by Wall Street to be part of a general movement toward the reduction in the amount of investment trust stock outstanding. Owing to the fact that many trust issues are selling at figures substantially below their liquidating value, it is possible for the trusts to purchase and to retire blocks of their own shares and thus to increase the net asset value of the remaining stock. Such an operation is generally considered the safest and easiest method by which an investment trust can increase the net asset value of its stock.

UNITED STATES TRUST A $100,000,000 BANK

Total resources of the United States Trust Company exceeded $100,000,000 for the first time in any published statement of the bank, according to figures announced yesterday showing the condition of the bank as of Jan. 1, 1930. Total resources were reported as $100,429,902, compared with $99,185,152 a year ago. It was said yesterday, however, that on numerous occasions during the last two years between bank calls total resources had exceeded the $100,000,000 figure.

The bank, unlike most other institutions, announced a detailed list of its security holdings, which include United States Government, municipal, railroad, industrial and public utility bonds. The par value of the investments as of Jan. 1, 1930, amounted to $19,637,000, against $18,028,000 on Jan. 1, 1929, and the book value $18,580,760, against $17,277,000 a year ago.

The Seward National Bank and Trust Company, in its latest statement of condition, reports total assets of $9,999,487. Its deposits now exceed $5,600,000.

Laud Stock Clearing Employes.

Resolutions commending the employes of the night clearing branch and the day branch of the Stock Clearing Corporation were adopted yesterday by the executive committee of the corporation. The resolution cited the managers and employes for their "unselfish loyalty and efficiency" and for the "magnificent results" they obtained in handling the record volume of clearances during the October-November stock market break. S. F. Streit, E. H. H. Simmons, William A. Greer, R. R. Atterbury and Richard Whitney comprise the executive committee of the corporation.

ARMOUR & CO. REPORT $9,810,518 NET INCOME

Forty Cents a Share Earned for Class A Common Stock—Sales $900,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The annual report of Armour & Co., issued tonight, showed that last year the company paid to producers of live stock $287,000,000 for cattle, $199,000,000 for hogs, $54,000,000 for sheep, $26,000,000 for calves and $77,000,000 for poultry and dairy products.

After giving these figures, the president, F. Edson White, said:

Net earnings for the fiscal year ended on Nov. 2, 1929, were $9,810,518 after all charges, which was equivalent after preferred dividends to 40 cents a share on the 2,000,000 shares of Class A common stock. No dividends were paid on this issue, and $468,269 in charges not applicable to 1929 operations was placed against surplus. Total surplus thereafter shows an increase of $350,553 to $47,138,668. The company reduced its funded debt by $2,208,100 and retired $648,700 of preferred stock of Armour & Co. of Delaware.

$337,598 Net for Zenith Radio.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Zenith Radio Corporation today reported net profits of $337,598 for the twelve months ended on Oct. 30, equal after all charges to 84 cents a share on 400,000 shares of no-par common stock outstanding. No comparison with the preceding period is available.

OFFERS STOCK TO WORKERS

The annual offering of debenture stock to employes was made yesterday by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. Employes of the parent company or subsidiaries with at least one year's continuous service and not earning more than $6,000 a year, received the right to subscribe at $114 a share. The stock yields an income of $3 a share in addition to the regular 6 per cent dividend.

Subscriptions may be made to the amount of not more than 20 per cent of the employe's annual salary, but in no event can the subscription be for more than ten shares. The company reserves the right to limit the offering to 10,000 shares, and if this right is exercised subscriptions will be filled in ascending order of the employes' rate of salary.

German and Hungarian Bonds

The proposals of the Young Plan extinguish all priority in German government, industrial, and public utility obligations, with the exception of the railways. The present Hague Conference's approval of the Young Plan necessitates settlement of the Eastern Reparations question.

In our opinion the "trial period" of 1929 has demonstrated the intrinsic merit of German and Hungarian bonds listed on the Stock Exchange. We believe certain of these issues at the present time present a real investment opportunity.

6% Street Improvement Bonds
Due October 1, 1931 to 1938

These improvement bonds were issued by the City of Oklahoma City, Okla., to defray the cost of paving certain districts of the City. The districts are approximately 90% improved with residential and business property costing from $7,500 to $50,000 each. Cost of improvement figures approximately $6 per front foot while the ground value plus the improvement is valued at approximately $300, or a ratio of approximately $50 to $1 loaned.

City of Corpus Christi, Texas

Water Plant Revenue 6% Refunding Bonds

Dated September 2, 1929 Due August 1, 1931 to 1960 inclusive

Principal and semi-annual interest (February 1 and August 1) payable in New York City. Coupon bonds in the denomination of $1,000.

CITY OF CORPUS CHRISTI: Corpus Christi, the County Seat of Nueces County, chartered as a city in 1876, is situated at the mouth of the Nueces River overlooking Corpus Christi Bay at the highest point on the entire Texas Gulf Coast. It is the natural distributing center for a rich surrounding agricultural region, and has excellent rail and water transportation facilities. Rail service is furnished by the Southern Pacific and Missouri Pacific Systems. The establishment of the Port of Corpus Christi by the U. S. Government, at a cost of well over $12,500,000, brought over sixty thousand square miles of Texas closer to harbor facilities than previously. The estimated assessed valuation of taxable property in the City is $40,000,000 with an actual assessed value of $22,318,600, and a net bonded debt of $1,888,150. Population, 1920 (U. S. Census), 10,552; present estimate, 28,500. The City owns property, exclusive of its water plant, valued at $1,718,000. Tax collections for the past seventeen years have averaged 93%.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The sale of $2,725,000 Water Plant Revenue bonds provided the City with funds for the purchase of an additional water supply and the lands and riparian rights incidental thereto, and to the improvement and extension of the water system of the City, which entire project has been completed and is now in operation by the City.

SECURITY: These bonds are an obligation of the City of Corpus Christi and are payable both principal and interest solely from the revenue derived from the operation of the entire municipal water system. Under the terms of the Trust Indenture the City is irrevocably pledged to set aside monthly a sufficient amount of this revenue to take care of bond service charges and to establish and maintain such rates for water service as will always provide for a sufficient amount of revenue to pay the principal and interest on all outstanding revenue bonds and all operating charges and depreciation of the plant. The Trust Indenture further provides that this issue of $725,000 is secured by a mortgage on the entire waterworks system of the city (the value of which has been estimated to be $5,381,392.75), subject only to $2,000,000 underlying bonds.

EARNINGS: The total amount of revenue bonds outstanding, including this issue, is $2,725,000, on which the annual interest charge is $163,500. Net earnings for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1929, were $195,935.49 and, based upon the revenues for the first seven months, estimated net earnings for the current year will be over $245,000, or 1½ times interest charges on all bonds outstanding, including this issue.

Legality to be approved by Messrs. Chapman & Cutler.

Price to yield 5.25%

ELDREDGE & CO.

The information given above is based on official statements and statistics upon which we have relied in the purchase of these bonds. While we do not guarantee it, we believe it to be correct.

Do you want safety, based on actual solid values, as the foundation of your investments?

The FRENCH PLAN of investing in large income-producing real estate in choice locations in New York is safe.

Do you want a preferred investment ranking ahead of common stock, with a prior claim on earnings? The FRENCH PLAN provides it.

Do you want a steady 6 per cent income? The FRENCH PLAN pays 6 per cent, cumulative, on your money.

BUT do you feel that your financial progress is too slow if you get nothing more than 6 percent—in other words—are you seeking profits as well as income?

Here is where The FRENCH PLAN serves you best, for it provides not only safety—not only 6 per cent income—but devotes all the profits distributed to complete repayment of your investment and thereafter gives you a permanent share in the ownership and profits of choice income earning Manhattan property erected, financed and managed under The FRENCH PLAN.

More than 30,000 investors have put millions of dollars into French securities. You can invest any convenient amount from $100 up. The results will please you—investigate! Mail the coupon today for the booklet which thousands of investors have read. It is "THE FRENCH PLAN" and gives full particulars about this method of investing. Act promptly!

BID OF 102.82 WINS TRENTON BOND SALE

NINE GROUPS IN CONTEST

Offering to Be Made Today of $2,432,000 of the Securities at Yields of 4.20 to 4.25%.

The city of Trenton, N. J., awarded yesterday an issue of $2,500,000 school funding bonds as 4½s, due on Feb. 1, 1932 to 1966, to a syndicate comprising the First National Bank of New York, the First National Old Colony Corporation, B. J. Van Ingen & Co. and Wallace & Co. The price paid was 102.82. The bankers will offer $2,432,000 of the bonds today at prices to yield 4.20 to 4.25 per cent.

Nine bids were submitted. The second highest tender was 102.67, by a group headed by George B. Gibbons & Co., Inc. A syndicate headed by Lehman Brothers was third with a tender of 102.669. The fourth bid was 102.403 by a syndicate headed by the Guaranty Company of New York. The fifth bid, 102.159, was by a group headed by the Bankers Company of New York. White, Weld & Co. and associates bid 102.158, the Bancamerica-Blair Corporation and associates, 102.14, and a syndicate headed by Graham, Parsons & Co., 102.126. A group represented by Estabrook & Co. bid 101.47.

Just a year ago Trenton was in the market with $2,335,000 of bonds, which were sold to two groups, one taking the bulk of the issue as 4¼s and the other the remainder as 4¼s. The bonds were issued for improvement, school, street assessment and assessment-funding purposes. Under the terms of sale, yesterday's issue was to be bid for as not exceeding 4¾s.

DEMAND IMPROVES FOR LISTED BONDS

Although trading in the listed bond market was slightly more active yesterday, due to several individual transactioins involving some fairly large blocks of bonds, prices failed to make any headway on the average. Railroad bonds continued fairly active, particularly legal rails. United States Government and foreign bonds finished irregular.

A few changes worthy of note in the industrial group included a 5¼-point gain by Pathe Exchange 7s, representing a further recovery from the recent low, and a 4-point advance in Colon Oil 6s. Penn Dixie Cement 6s dropped 4½ points to 77½, and Sugar Estates of Oriente 7s receded a point to a new low at 45. New York Dock 4s moved up 2½ points.

Heavy dealings in Chicago & North Western 4¾s, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific 5s of 1975 and Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific 4½s of 1952 resulted in fractional gains. The active St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s of 1978 moved up half a point. Cuba Railroad 5s fell 3 points to a new low at 78.

Convertible bonds were irregular and net changes for the day were of little importance. American Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s sold off a point, while International Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s moved up a trifle. Erie convertible 4s closed ¾ of a point higher and Commercial Investment Trust convertible 5½s lost half a point.

Foreign loans moved within rather narrow ranges and most of the net changes for the day were fractional. One feature of the group was the appearance of a few issues which have not been traded in heretofore this year.

The Liberty loans and the Treasury issues finished irregular. Closing prices were up 8-32 to off 1-32.

BOND FLOTATION.

Province of Buenos Aires.

Offering of a new issue of $4,000,000 Province of Buenos Aires (Argentina) 6½ per cent external notes will be made today in the form of certificates of participation by a syndicate headed by the First National Old Colony Corporation and including Harris, Forbes & Co. and the Continental Illinois Company, Inc. The notes are dated Jan. 1, 1930, and will mature on June 30, 1930, and will be callable at par on fifteen days' notice. The province showed a gain in revenues from $43,000,000 in 1926 to $54,500,000 in 1928. Revenues for the first nine months of the present fiscal year, which ended on Feb. 28, are $49,800,000, indicating about $66,000,000 for the whole year.

This financing will be the first done by the Argentine Government or any of its political subdivisions in this market since July, 1928, when an issue of $3,396,000 city of Tucuman (Argentina) 7s was brought out. The last financing done here by the Province of Buenos Aires was in March, 1928, when an issue of $41,101,000 long-term 6s was marketed by a group headed by the First National Corporation of Boston.

CORAL GABLES' PAYMENTS.

Director of Finance Reports Interest and Principal of Bonds Met.

The city of Coral Gables, Fla., made interest payments on Jan. 1 totaling $180,570, chiefly on municipal improvement bonds, according to word received here yesterday from George N. Shaw, director of finance. In addition, it paid $9,600 principal due on Jan. 1 on the $4,532,000 improvement bonds which were issued on Jan. 1, 1927. This brings its payments of interest and principal during the present fiscal year to date.

While certain communities in Florida which bonded themselves heavily at the time of their real estate boom have allowed payments of interest and principal due to go in default, Mr. Shaw called attention to the fact that Coral Gables never had defaulted on payments of either interest or principal. He reported that tax collections for the first half of the fiscal year totaled $249,124, against $206,044 during the same period in the previous year.

UTILITY RATE CASE TO TOUCH CARRIERS

Supreme Court's Decision on Baltimore Litigation Viewed as Affecting Valuations.

NOT APPLICABLE TO I. R. T.

Untermyer Points Out That City Has Contract With Company—H. E. Hale's Opinion.

While it was said yesterday that the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of the United Railways and Electric Company of Baltimore, announced on Monday, would not affect the litigation over fares between this city and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, it was agreed that it would have an important effect in the valuation of public utilities and railroads. In respect to railroads it amplifies the opinions of the Supreme Court expressed in the St. Louis & O'Fallon decision.

The chief significance of the United Railways decision is its determination of a method for computing depreciation. The decision upholds the methods which the railroads are using in their preparation of valuations to be used in the Interstate Commerce Commission's valuations to be made in the light of the O'Fallon decision.

The Supreme Court held in the United Railways case that a return of 6.26 per cent on valuation was "clearly inadequate" and that it was not certain whether a return of 7½ or 8 per cent might not be justified. This was a continuation of reasoning followed in numerous rate cases involving public utilities and brought to the high court. However, in the United Railways decision the court held that local conditions entered into the consideration of what was a fair return and that "What will constitute a fair return in a given case is not capable of exact mathematical demonstration."

This summary of the local quality of fair rate of return was said to be another outstanding clause of the decision.

Untermyer's Comments.

When he was asked to comment on the United Railways decision, Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the Transit Commission in its fare litigation with the Interborough, said that it had no bearing whatever on the Interborough case. He held that the sole question at issue in the United Railways case was what would be a reasonable rate of return on a public utility investment in the absence of an agreement on a rate of fare. He pointed out that in the Interborough case there was a definite agreement for a five-cent fare regardless of every other consideration, and he asserted that on the faith of such an agreement the city had contributed hundreds of millions of dollars and had subordinated its claims to the advances made by the company.

Mr. Untermyer said the validity of the contract betwee the city and the Interborough was the point at issue in that case and that the question of a fair return, about which the United Railways case centred, did not enter the former.

Officials of the Interborough made no comment on the decision.

Railway Methods Upheld.

H. E. Hale, vice chairman of the Eastern group of the Presidents' Conference Committee on Federal Valuation of the Railroads, said the United Railways decision upheld the railroads' methods of estimating depreciation and that in its bearing on reproduction value the United Railways decision continued and amplified the O'Fallon decision.

"The United Railways decision is another step in a general unification of legal aspects bearing on valuation," said Mr. Hale. "When rent laws were passed after the war it was found necessary to determine present costs of construction in order to establish rents which would attract capital. This principle of present value, rather than previous cost, was extended to rate litigation affecting water works, gas and electric plants, telephone systems and street railways. It was applied to railroads by the Supreme Court in the O'Fallon decision.

"The railroads have contended that depreciation does not enter into the determination of the value of a railroad, that a property maintained railroad increases in value with years. No one would contend, for example, that a newly constructed line was worth more than one that had been down for fifty years and on which numerous repairs and improvements had been made. Now in the United Railways decision, the Supreme Court holds that this depreciation must be estimated on present or reproduction costs rather than original costs.

"The decision extends to depreciation estimates the method of giving weight to present value indicated in the O'Fallon decision and in decisions affecting electric, gas and water companies.

"This method gives effect to rising prices. The corollary would be that in a period of declining prices the value of a public utility and hence the rates based on that value would decline."

At the offices of the Public Service Commission it also was said that the method of estimating depreciation outlined in the United Railways decision wolud have an important effect on estimating the values of public utilities. The point made by Mr. Hale as to the effect on value and rates of declining prices also was made. It was said the commission might discuss the decision at its meeting today.

Copper and Tin Futures React.

Copper futures closed yesterday 25 points lower at 16.50 cents for April delivery, the only month traded, on the National Metal Exchange. The market closed steady. In the tin market, March, the only traded month, closed at 39.75, 20 points lower. The market closed firm.

WABASH STOCKS REACT TO DECISION

Class A Preferred Shares Drop, While B and Common Issues Rise in the Market.

B STOCK TO GET DIVIDENDS

Court's Ruling Upholds Principle That Roads Can Use Earnings for Improvements.

A decision of the United States Supreme Court announced Monday in favor of the Wabash Railway management against a group of stockholders that had sought the payment of back dividends on non-cumulative Class A preferred stock caused an immediate reaction in the stock market yesterday. The Class A preferred declined while the Class B preferred and common advanced sharply. After the close of the market, William H. Williams, chairman of the Wabash, said the decision would permit a resumption of dividends on the Class B preferred stock.

The decision was said yesterday to be one of the most important rendered by the Supreme Court in recent years in respect to the powers of corporate management. The decision upheld the power of the Wabash board in determining whether earnings should be spent on dividends or devoted to improving the property. The decision, written by Justice Holmes, reaffirms principles long followed in determining the relative rights of stock and bond holders.

Had the decision been in favor of the Wabash stockholders, it apparently would have paved the way for many similar actions, and it was said a situation was possible in which stockholders might have successfully pitted their judgment against that of their directors and forced the payment of dividends where otherwise they would not have been made. This would have created conditions and risks unknown now in corporate conduct.

Suit Is Brought for Payments.

The Wabash Railway, which was then paying the full rate of 5 per cent on Class A preferred stock, declared dividends at the same and full rate on the Class B preferred for 1927 and 1928. Then John C. Barclay and the Willoughby Company, representing Class A stockholders, brought suit to prevent payment of dividends on Class B preferred or common until back payments had been made on their stock for years when these payments were earned but expended on improvements. Both Class A and B were non-cumulative. About $16,000,000 was involved.

On Jan. 7, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in favor of the stockholders in a decision by Judge M. T. Manton and concurred in by Judge A. N. Hand, with Judge Learned Hand dissenting. This reversed a decision by the District Court, which had denied injunction proceedings brought to enjoin the company from paying dividends on the preferred B and common stocks.

Decision by Justice Holmes.

In the decision of the Supreme Court, Justice Holmes said:

"From 1915 to 1916 there were net earnings [by the Wabash Railway] on most of the years, but for a number of years no dividend, or less than 5 per cent, was paid on Class A, while $16,000,000 net earnings that could have been used for the payment were expended upon improvements and additions to the property and equipment of the road. It is not denied that the latter expenditures were proper and were made in good faith or that the money could not have been applied to dividends consistently with the duties of the road.

"The company now is more prosperous and proposes to pay dividends not only upon A but also on B and the common stock, but the plaintiffs say that it is not entitled to do so until it has paid to them unpaid preferential dividends for prior fiscal years in which it had net earnings that might have been applied to them but were not.

"The obligations assumed by the company appear in its instrument of incorporation and in the certificates of preferred stock A in substantially the same words: 'The holders of the 5 per cent profit-sharing preferred stock A of the company shall be entitled to receive preferential dividends in each fiscal year up to the amount of 5 per cent before any dividends shall be paid upon any other stock of the company, but such preferential dividends shall be non-cumulative.'

"In the event of a liquidation the holders 'shall be entitled to be paid in full out of the assets of the company the par amount of their stock and all dividends thereon declared and unpaid before any amount shall be paid out of said assets to the holders of any other stock of the company.'

Meaning of Words Analyzed.

"By the plain meaning of the words the holders 'are not entitled, of right, to dividends, payable out of the net profits accruing in any particular year, unless the directors of the company formally declare, or ought to declare, a dividend payable out of such profits'; in the first instance at least is a matter for the directors to determine. New York, Lake Erie & Western R. R. Co. v. Nickals, 119 U. S. 296, 307.

"We believe that it has been the common understanding of lawyers and business men that in the case of non-cumulative stock entitled only to a dividend if declared out of annual profits, if those profits are justifiably applied by the directors to capital improvements and no dividend is declared within the year the claim for that year is gone and cannot be asserted at a later date. But recently doubts have been raised that seem to have affected the minds of the majority below.

"We suppose the ground for the doubts is the probability that the directors will be tempted to abuse their power, in the usual case of a corporation controlled by the holders of the common stock. Their interest would lead them to apply earnings to improvement of the capital rather than to make avoidable payments of dividends which they do not share.

"But whether the remedies available in case of such a breach of duty are adequate or not, and apart from the fact that the control of the Wabash seems to have been in Class A, the class to which the plaintiffs belong, the law, as remarked by the dissenting judge below, 'has long advised them that their rights depend upon the judgment of men subject to just that possible bias.'

"When a man buys stock instead of bonds, he takes a greater risk in the business. No one suggests that he has a right to dividends if there are no net earnings. But the investment presupposes that the business is to go on, and therefore, even if there are net earnings, the holder of stock, preferred as well as common, is entitled to have a dividend declared only out of such part of them as can be applied to dividends consistently with a wise administration of a going concern.

"When, as was the case here, the dividends in each fiscal year were declared to be non-cumulative and no net income could be so applied within the fiscal year referred to in the certificate, the right for that year was gone. If the right is extended further upon some conception of policy, it is enlarged beyond the meaning of the contract and the common and reasonable understanding of men."

Wabash Common Stock Rises.

Wabash Class A preferred and common moved normally on Monday and the Class B did not appear. Yesterday a block of 1,000 shares of common opened at 58. It reacted later to 55 and it closed at 56½, up 5 from the previous close. The Class B preferred opened at 80¼. Its closing and high price was 82½, up 7½ points. Class A preferred opened at 83 and it closed at 84 for a loss of 3¾ points.

Mr. Williams made his statement after the close of yesterday's market. The next meeting of Wabash directors is scheduled for tomorrow. Both Class A and Class B preferreds are callable at 110 on twelve weeks' notice. There are only 24,211 shares of Class B outstanding, most of it having been exchanged for one share of Class A and one share of common.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, which owns or controls 362,999 shares of Wabash common, would gain by the payment of Wabash common dividends. A similar case affecting dividends of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad has been held up pending the Supreme Court decision in the Wabash case.

Dividends on Class B preferred were interrupted after 1928 by the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The United Railways case arose from an order of the Maryland Public Service Commission limiting the fare of the railways. The court held justified the railway's appeal for a rate of return of 7.44 per cent. The decision gave the railways the right to charge a 10-cent flat rate instead of 10 cents cash or four tokens for 35 cents.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Holders of Class A preferred non-cumulative stock are not entitled to restrain the payment of dividends to holders of Class B and common stock until unpaid dividends alleged to have accrued on Class A stock are paid, the Supreme Court held in a decision yesterday involving the Wabash Railway Company.

Class A stockholders claimed that they were entitled to dividends from 1915 to 1926 on the ground that $16,000,000, which, in their opinion, should have been paid to them, was expended on improvements.

Their contention was overruled by the court in an opinion by Associate Justice Holmes, who held that in the case of non-cumulative stock entitled only to a dividend if declared out of annual profits, if these profits are justifiably applied to capital improvements and no dividend is declared within the year, the claim for that year is gone and cannot be asserted at a later date. Justice Holmes said this was "the common understanding of lawyers and business men."

A bill seeking to enjoin the Wabash from paying dividends to other classes of stockholders until a dividend of 5 per cent had been paid to Class A stockholders was dismissed by the district court, which was reversed by the Court of Appeals for the second circuit. The latter tribunal is reversed by the decision of the Supreme Court.

New Bond Issues Announced for Offering to Bankers and the Public.

State of Kentucky.

Early decision is expected by the State Highway Commission of Kentucky on the two bids received on Monday on its issue of $11,667,000 toll bridge bonds. One syndicate, comprising Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. of St. Louis, C. W. McNear & Co. and Stranahan, Harris & Oatis, Inc., submitted tenders on the individual toll bridge issues ranging from 90.01 to 90.31. The only other bidder was Caldwell & Co. of Nashville, who bid 89.00 for all the bonds except the bridge over the Ohio River at Henderson, totaling $1,807,000, on which a price of 90 was named.

Navarro County, Texas.

Navarro County (Texas) Road District No. 1 plans to open bids on Jan. 7 on a new issue of $1,366,000 5 per cent bonds, maturing serially on April 1, 1940 to 1957. The district has an assessed valuation of $22,000,000 and a total bonded debt, including this issue, of $2,538,000.

Oklahoma City, Okla.

Award of an issue of $2,150,000 Oklahoma City (Okla.) School District bonds has been made to the Continental Illinois Company, Inc., at a price of par. The bankers bid for $1,302,000 of the bonds, due from 1933 to 1946, as 5s, and $848,000, due 1947 to 1957, as 4½s.

Corpus Christi, Texas.

Offering of a new issue of $725,000 city of Corpus Christi (Texas) 6 per cent water plant revenue refunding bonds, due on Aug. 1, 1931, to 1960, will be made today by Eldredge & Co. The bonds will be priced to yield 5.25 per cent. The total amount of revenue bonds outstanding, including this issue, is $2,725,000, on which the annual interest charge is $163,500. Net earnings for the fiscal year ended on March 31, 1929, were $195,935, and for the current year, based on the revenues for the first seven months, $245,000.

Rockford, Ill.

Rockford (Ill.) Sanitary District has issued a call for sealed bids on a new issue of $500,000 4½ per cent sewer bonds, due on Jan. 1, 1931 to 1950. The district reports an assessed valuation of $88,512,116 and total bonded debt, including this issue, $1,500,000.

State of California.

The State of California will be in the market on Jan. 23 with a new issue of $250,000 4½ per cent bonds, maturing on Jan. 2, 1934. The proceeds of this financing will be used for park purposes.

Bridgeport, Conn.

A new issue of $150,000 city of Bridgeport (Conn.) 4¾ per cent bonds, Series G, due Jan. 15, 1931 to 1970, will be placed on the market today by R. L. Day & Co. The bonds will be priced to yield 4.35 to 4.40 per cent. The assessed valuation of the city is reported as $306,409,692 and the total debt, including this issue, $15,223,000.

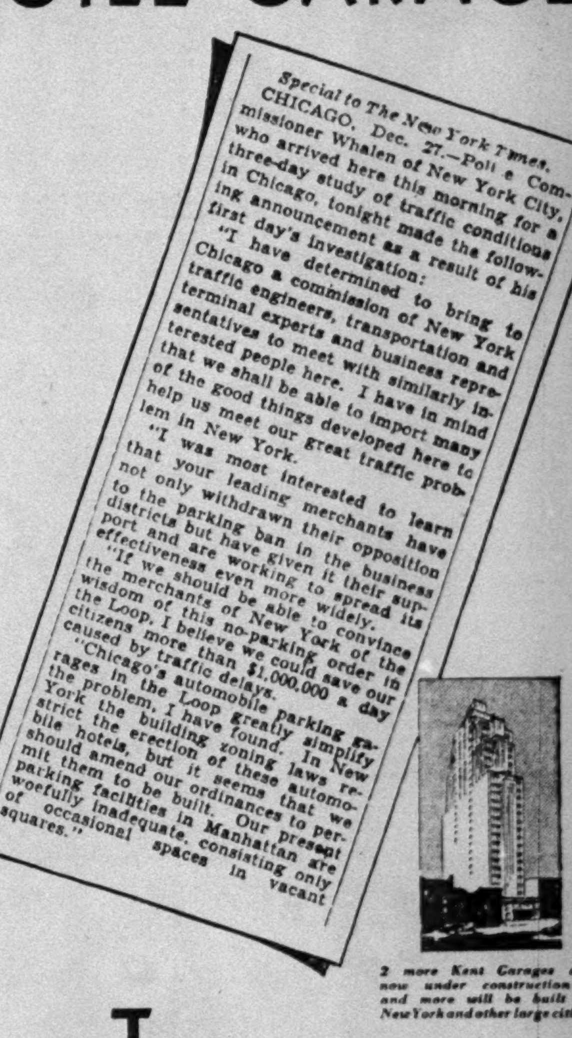
INVEST IN A CHAIN of HOTEL GARAGES



Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—Police Commissioner Whalen of New York City, who arrived here this morning for a three-day study of traffic conditions in Chicago, tonight made the following announcement as a result of his first day's investigation:

"I have determined to bring to Chicago a commission of New York traffic engineers, transportation and terminal experts and business representatives to meet with similarly interested people here. I have in mind that we shall be able to import many of the good things developed here to help us meet our great traffic problem in New York.

"I was most interested to learn that your leading merchants have not only withdrawn their opposition to the parking ban in the business districts but have given it their support and are working to spread its effectiveness even more widely.

"If we should be able to convince the merchants of New York of the wisdom of this no-parking order in the Loop, I believe we could save our citizens more than $1,000,000 a day caused by traffic delays.

"Chicago's automobile parking garages in the Loop greatly simplify the problem, I have found. In New York the building zoning laws restrict the erection of these automobile hotels, but it seems that we should amend our ordinances to permit them to be built. Our present parking facilities in Manhattan are woefully inadequate, consisting only of occasional spaces in vacant squares."

2 more Kent Garages are now under construction — and more will be built in New York and other large cities.

Traffic congestion grows worse—it must be relieved. How? Sky-scraper parking garages. A virgin field for investment—yet proven profitable and practical by our successful operation of the Kent Automatic Garage at 210 East 44th Street—New York's first Hotel Parking Garage. Read the clipping from this paper's news columns to see why you should send for our Booklet, "Building Incomes on Traffic Congestion." Mail the coupon for your copy today.

FRENCH TRADING IS QUIET

Prices, However, Show Small Changes—Quotations Uneven on the German Boerse.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The strong upward swing continued today on the Stock Exchange, with most issues rising to higher levels. A contributory factor was the expectation that the bank rate would be reduced still further to 4½ per cent on Thursday.

Gilt-edge securities were buoyant, notably the war loan, which rose ⅛ to £100 7-16, and the funding loan, which likewise was ⅛ higher at £85⅞. The phonograph stocks led the way among the internationals, with Columbia up ⅛ to £6 5-16 and His Master's Voice rising 3-32 to £4 21-32.

Hydroelectric advanced ½ to 40¼. Associated Electric was firm at 26s 9d and General Electric sold at 45s 9d. International Nickel rose ⅝ to $33½, but Brazilian Traction declined ⅞ to 38¼ and International holdings fell ⅛ to $5¼. Courtaulds at £2¾ was strong among the rayons, while Imperial chemicals rose 4½d to 28s 3d. Rolls Royce advanced 9d to 45s 9d, but Ford was sluggish at £2⅞.

Both the margarine shares, now known as Unilever in place of Margarine Union, and Unilever N. V. in place of Margarine Unie, made fractional gains. Oils were strong, with Royal Dutch at £33½ and Shell at £4⅞. Kaffirs were still active, especially Rand Mines at £3 3-16, while among the Rhodesians Bwana gained 9d to 22s 3d on New York and Montreal buying.

Money was easy in Lombard Street at 3¼ per cent for overnight loans. Discounts declined to 4⅛ per cent for three-month bills. Sterling was dull at $4.87 3-16. The Bank of England reported the purchase of £535,500 of bar gold from South Africa.

Trading Dull in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The Bourse generally was dull today. There was some trading, centring mostly on coppers, South African mines and Mexican stocks, but otherwise there was almost complete inactivity. Quotations did not suffer because the market was almost deserted during the greater part of the session. Financial circles remain optimistic both because of the favorable prospects at The Hague and improvement in other European markets.

Rentes were unchanged and closed as follows: The 3 per cents, 85; 1918 4s, 98.80; 1920 amortizable 5s, 132.55; 1928 5s, 105.50; 1920 6s, 105; 1927 amortizable 6s, 112.55.

Fluctuations in Berlin.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—The Boerse, which opened with a firm tendency today, was subject to fluctuations during the course of the session, although most issues were able to maintain yesterday's closing prices. The only exception was A. K. U., which declined 8 points to 106, thereby touching a new low level. A. K. U. weakness influenced the rest of the market and many stocks lost today's previous slight gains. The close was more toward weakness. The money market continued easier. Call loans were offered at 5½ to 7½ and monthly loans at 8½ to 10 per cent.

SPANISH PESETA TOUCHES NEW LOW

Bankers Have Difficulty in Following Fluctuations—Living Costs Unaffected.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Jan. 7.—The peseta today touched 7.71, the lowest in many years, fluctuating up and down so rapidly that bankers had to telephone constantly to follow its movements. Some bankers attributed the fall to lack of confidence in Finance Minister Sotelo and to the political situation. Others denied these factors were responsible.

Living prices have not been affected by the decline during the last two weeks, but importers complain of a slowing up of trade. La Nacion, regarded as the government newspaper, says the newspaper Informacione's poll to determine who can succeed Primo de Rivera as dictator shows so far only the names of the old politicians, who made necessary the dictatorship, and predicts ironically "the old politicians will have to dissolve the nation or import leaders."

RATIFY BIG CHANGES IN STANDARD POWER

TO BE MANAGING CONCERN

Byllesby and United States Electric Will Control $1,100,000,000 Utility System.

Louis H. Seagrave, chairman of the board of the United States Electric Power Corporation, was elected chairman of the board of the Standard Power and Light Corporation at a special meeting yesterday in Dover, Del., where the stockholders approved the reorganization of the company, which will own control of the Standard Gas and Electric Company.

Victor Emanuel, president of United States Electric Power, was elected president of Standard Power and Light. John J. O'Brien was continued as president of Standard Gas and Electric. No changes will be made in the officers of the latter company, whose stockholders also approved the reorganization plan announced at the end of last year.

The action taken at the two meetings ratifies the arrangement whereby H. M. Byllesby & Co. and the United States Electric Power Corporation will jointly share control of the $1,100,000,000 Standard public utility system under what is virtually a partnership agreement, with active management of the properties retained by the Byllesby interests.

Voting Is Almost Unanimous.

Standard Power and Light stockholders voted unanimously in favor of the reorganization, while less than 1 per cent of Standard Gas and Electric stock was voted against the plan, making ratification virtually unanimous for both companies. Under the plan, Standard Gas and Electric will be the holding and management company for an extensive group of public utility properties, and will take over the assets of Standard Power and Light, including its control in the Philadelphia Company system, which provides the Pittsburgh territory with all forms of utility service.

United States Electric Power, through its large ownership of stock of Standard Power and Light Corporation, becomes one of the largest public utility holding companies in the United States, with assets estimated in excess of $100,000,000.

It was organized last September by investment and utility groups, including United Founders Corporation, American Founders Group, Hydro-Electric Securities Corporation, Harris, Forbes & Co., W. C. Langley & Co., A. C. Allyn & Co., Albert Emanuel Company, Inc., the J. Henry Schroder Banking Corporation and Seaboard National Corporation, while J. Henry Schroder & Co., London, and the Société Générale de Belgique, Brussels, are also represented on its board.

Seven of the fifteen directors of each company elected yesterday are directors of H. M. Byllesby & Co., while Moritz Rosenthal of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. was elected a director of Standard Gas and Electric. The remaining seven directors of Standard Gas and eight directors of Standard Power represent the United States Electric Power group. The boards of the two companies are now constituted as follows:

SALES AND ADMINISTRATIVE EXECUTIVE

The advertiser has successfully managed large sales organizations and now desires a similar position in the security field—With a stock exchange firm, a seasoned investment trust or an originating house.

This man has been earning in excess of $100,000 a year—any activity that will interest him must be of major scope. He is not interested in retailing securities or in any project that does not give him the opportunity to exercise his talent for sales organization. He would only effect a connection with an established house, a leader in its field.

His services have included such duties as re-financing, mergers, consolidations and re-organizations. He is thoroughly capable of exercising any administrative function in a large organization. At one time he was President of a New York house of issue. His subsequent broad experience in the supervision of corporate financing, administration marketing and general business operation is the basis of his business ability.

This man is 46 years of age, a gentile and in excellent health. He has the poise of the matured executive, capable of meeting and dealing with business leaders on their own grounds.

STEEL INGOT OUTPUT HAS A RECORD YEAR

OPERATION PERCENTAGE UP

All previous records for steel ingot production in the United States were surpassed in 1929 when the calculated annual output of all companies was 54,164,348 tons, according to figures compiled by the American Iron and Steel Institute. This compares with the previous peak of 49,865,185 tons, established in 1928. The ingot producing capacity of all mills in the United States is estimated at about 64,000,000 tons, so that last year's total was within about 14,000,000 tons of the present plant limit.

December ingot production amounted to 2,896,269 tons, comparing with 3,513,025 tons in November and with 4,018,208 tons in December, 1928. Last month's total output was the lowest of any month in 1929, the next smallest month being November. The approximate daily output of all companies in December was 115,851 tons, against 135,116 tons in November and 160,728 tons in December, 1928. The percentage of operation last month was 59.07, comparing with 68.90 in November and 85.26 in December of 1928.

The aproximate daily output of all companies in 1929 was 174,162 tons and the percentage of operation throughout the full year was 88.81. The daily output in 1928 was 160,338 tons and the percentage of operation 85.05. The number of working days in 1929 was 311, the same as in 1928.

December	2,896,269	4,018,208	3,175,484

Brooklyn City Trust Cases Put Off.

The first of the Brooklyn trials of the City Trust Company officials, which were scheduled to begin in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday, were postponed until Monday when Supreme Court Justice Tompkins, presiding in the extraordinary term, sent word from Westchester that he was detained in a court proceeding there. J. Vincent Labate and Louis Tavormina, former officials of the Atlantic State Bank, which was merged with the City Trust Company, were to go to trial on charges of grand larceny, involving the theft of the specific sum of $11,545 on Oct. 25, 1926.

Owl Drug Merged With Drug, Inc.

Consummation of the merger of the Owl Drug Company with Drug, Inc., was announced yesterday by George M. Gales, vice chairman of Drug, Inc. The Owl company has 100 drug stores on the Pacific Coast and it was announced that they would continue to operate under the Owl name. Mr. Gales said the acquisition would bring an important new outlet to the manufacturing plants of Drug, Inc., which includes the United Drug Company of Boston, and Bristol-Myers.

Standard Oil Forms New Unit.

What happens to the large estates?

What Happens to the Large Estates

Average shrinkage in net assets over 25%

THE Equitable has just completed a thorough analysis of estates recorded in the final accounting and transfer tax proceedings in New York County from January, 1926, to August, 1929. These estates ranged in size from $300,000 to over $10,000,000.

We found that the average shrinkage in net assets was over 25%.

We found that hundreds of well-to-do and wealthy New Yorkers had sacrificed from $75,000 to over $2,500,000 by failing to properly arrange for the conservation and distribution of their property.

The primary cause of this shrinkage was forced liquidation of valuable securities ... forced liquidation because the estates did not include sufficient cash to meet administrative expenses.

"Administrative Expenses" include Federal Estate Taxes, New York State Transfer and Estate Taxes, unpaid Income Taxes, outstanding debts and general administrative costs.

Cash to cover these expenses could have been provided by our plan, which enables the estate owner to transfer his estate 100% intact to his beneficiaries.

No estate owner wants to have the gains of his last few years gobbled up by Administrative Expenses when a simple, satisfactory solution of a problem almost as inevitable as the taxes themselves can be had through The Equitable's plan.

Our new booklet, "What Happens to the Large Estates," points out many interesting findings which any estate owner will be glad to know. Send for your copy today.

NASH HOLDINGS GAIN $766,669 IN YEAR

Cash and Securities on Nov. 30 Totaled $42,011,403, Annual Balance Sheet Shows.

BIG OUTLAY FOR EQUIPMENT

Motors Company Stresses 50 Per Cent Decline in Number of Cars in Dealers' Hands.

Total holdings of $42,011,403 in cash and government securities are disclosed in the balance sheet of the Nash Motors Company giving the position of that company on Nov. 30 a gain of $766,669 from the previous fiscal year. Of the total $17,214,333 is in cash and $24,797,072 in government securities. Total holdings of cash and government securities at the end of November, 1928, were $41,244,734.

Net income in the fiscal year ended on Nov. 30 was $18,013,781 after expenses, depreciation and Federal taxes. This is equivalent to $6.59 a share on 2,730,000 no par shares of stock, and compares with $20,820,085, or $7.63 a share, in the previous fiscal year. Dividend payments in the last fiscal year totaled $16,380,000.

Inventories at the close of the 1929 fiscal year were carried at $5,246,094, against $5,809,040 at the end of the previous fiscal year.

"The fiscal year which closed on Nov. 30 is considered satisfactory," says a letter by President C. W. Nash to stockholders, "in view of the fact that there was absorbed during the year a large amount of expense for equipment, incident to bringing into production during the last quarter of the year the new 1930 models in three separate lines of cars which are produced in the company's three plants.

"Durin gthe year more than $2,000,000 was spent in reconditioning the plants of the company for accurate and economical production.

"The Nash balance sheets shows current assets of $53,141,007 and current liabilities of $2,900,691, net working capital being $50,240,316. Current liabilities are made up entirely of accounts payable. The company has no preferred stock or bonded indebtedness.

"Stocks of new cars in the hands of dealers and distributers," according to President Nash, "are little more than half that of a year ago and both distributers and dealers are in splendid shape to take advantage of the business which we believe will come to us throughout the year."

CAR LOADINGS NEAR 12-MONTH RECORD

Total for Last Year Was 52,789,789, Exceeding All Except That of 1926.

RECENT DECREASE SHOWN

Figures for Last Week Were Under Those for the Same Period in 1928.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Complete reports for the year show that 52,789,789 cars were loaded with revenue freight in 1929, the American Railway Association announced today, the largest number of cars loaded with revenue freight on record, except for the year 1926, when there were 53,098,819 cars, or 0.6 per cent above the total for 1929.

Freight traffic during 1929, as measured by the number of cars loaded was an increase of 1,199,902 cars, or 2.3 per cent above 1928, and an increase of 1,153,983 cars or 2.2 per cent above 1927.

"The heavy movement of freight in 1929," the association declared, "was handled with the greatest efficiency ever reported by the railroad systems of this country.

"Not only were fewer trains and locomotives required in proportion to the amount of traffic handled, but the average load per train was higher and freight shipments were moved over the rails with the greatest promptness ever attained by the railroads."

The loading of revenue freight exceeded 1,000,000 cars in twenty-eight separate weeks in 1929, compared with twenty-four weeks in 1928. In 1927 there were also twenty-eight weeks in which loading exceeded 1,000,000 cars.

The total loadings by commodities for 1929 compared with 1928 were as follows:

Grain and grain products	2,394,459	2,512,937
Livestock	1,418,949	1,520,915
Coal	9,232,429	8,768,487
Coke	627,546	533,716
Forest products	3,250,794	3,327,270
Ore	2,281,288	1,909,766
Miscellaneous freight	20,383,884	19,851,222

Loading of revenue freight in 1929 compared with the two previous years was as follows:

Weeks	1929	1928	1927
4 in January	3,570,978	3,448,895	3,756,660
4 in February	3,767,758	3,590,742	3,801,918

4 in December	3,340,993	3,517,035	3,256,790

Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended Dec. 28, 1929, totaled 638,445 cars, a decrease, due to the Christmas holidays, of 204,038 cars under the previous week. Decreases were reported in the loading of all commodities. The week's loadings also represented a decrease of 29,529 cars compared with the corresponding week in 1928 and a decrease of 42,109 cars under the same week in 1927.

The car loadings in detail were:

	Week Ended Dec. 28.	Change from Prev. Week.	Change from Same Week, 1928.

TO HOLD ANNUITY HEARING.

Conway Sets Jan. 21 for Consideration of Standard.

Albert Conway, State Superintendent of Insurance, will hold a hearing at the New York office of the department at 10 A. M. on Jan. 21 to consider the advisability of adopting the combined group annuity table as a legal minimum valuation standard for both individual and group annuities. The table is based on Cammack's clerical mortality table for the younger ages and on the American annuitantes ultimate table for the older ages.

The New York State Insurance Department has had under consideration for some time the advisability of proposing a change in the legal minimum valuation standard for annuities. James A. Beha, then Superintendent of Insurance, addressed a letter in 1927 to the Actuarial Society of America requesting that the mortality experiences under annuities be brought up to date. A supplementary report was also made at the meeting of the society in May, 1929.

PERSIAN RAIL LINK OPENED

Shah Makes First Passenger Trip Over Southern Section.

The southern section of the Persian Railroad which is being constructed from the Caspian Sea to the Persian Gulf was opened and dedicated yesterday by Reza Khan, Shah of Persia, when he boarded the imperial train at Dizfoul and made the first passenger journey over the rails to Bandar Shahpour, according to cable advices received here yesterday by Ulen & Co., international engineers, who built the section of road.

The road, which is standard gauge, is the only trunk road in Persia. When completed, it will be about 1,000 miles long and will cut the journey from six weeks by caravan to twenty-four hours by rail. The Shah also inspected the port built by Ulen & Co. at Bandar Shahpour.

TRIAL OF FOUR BEGUN FOR UTAH LEAD SALES

Charles Beadon and four other men went on trial yesterday before Federal Judge Woolsey on a charge of mail fraud in connection with the sale of stock of the Utah Lead Corporation. This corporation, the Stock Market Reporter, Inc., and Trend of the Market, Inc., also were named as defendants. The individual defendants with Beadon are Joseph Morris, William R. Rankin, Harry M. Phillips and Michael Barnett.

Rankin, it is alleged, held a seat on the Salt Lake Stock and Mining Exchange. Phillips is a broker with an office in Broadway. Barnett, a lawyer, is president of the Utah corporation. Beadon, it is charged, edited the Stock Market Reporter under the name Horace Brown, and Trend of the Market using the name George Wright. Morris is said to have been assistant editor. Offices of the defendants were at 220 West Forty-second Street. The indictment was filed on Dec. 3, 1928.

Elaborate preparations have been made by the Federal prosecutors for the trial. More than 100 witnesses have been summoned from Utah, Colorado, California, Ohio, Kansas, Virginia and Texas and from various sections of this State. Federal investigators reported that about $1,000,000 was received from investors in four months as a result of the defendants' sales campaign, and that the use of telephones during this period cost $135,000.

The jury was completed late yesterday and the taking of testimony will begin this morning. It was expected that the trial would last three weeks.

The defense, it was learned, will contend that the value of the Utah Lead Corporation was not misrepresented and that its property, according to preliminary estimates, is worth $4,500,000.

Walgreen Drug Company's Sales.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 (AP).—Sales of the Walgreen Drug Company for the twelve months ended on Dec. 31 were $46,545,462, compared with $31,389,313 for the previous year, it was announced today.

MONEY MARKET EASES; CALL LOANS AT 4%

Official Rate Lowest in Almost Two Years—Time Funds in Little Demand.

As the process of readjustment following the year-end money market strain continued yesterday, the call rate was dropped from a renewal figure of 4½ per cent to 4 per cent, the lowest rate posted at the money desk of the Stock Exchange since February, 1928. Although the official call rate was the lowest in almost two years, it was above the level at which funds could be obtained in the outside market. Demand loans outside the Exchange went generally for 3½ per cent and some loans were reported at 3 per cent.

Time money has been in little demand for some time, and while the tone of the market is soft the rates have held persistently at 4¾ to 5 per cent. Some thirty-day money is quoted at 4½ to 4¾ per cent. The outlook for credit, bankers are agreed, is one of ease, but whether money is to become extremely cheap is regarded as questionable. It is pointed out that there remains a large volume of security loans, held by banks throughout the country, despite the heavy decline in brokers' borrowings in New York, and the large losses of gold which this country has sustained during recent months may be followed by further substantial exports.

Dealers in bankers' acceptances report a satisfactory condition in that market, with the volume of paper being drawn declining. Reports were circulated yesterday of an advance in bill rates, based on the action of one large dealer who raised his quotations. Dealers say, however, that the next general revision of bill rates is more likely to be downward than up, in view of the slackening of money rates and the declining volume of bills being drawn.

To Start New Curb Building Soon.

Work on the fourteen-story addition to the building of the New York Curb Exchange will be begun on Feb. 1. It will be done by the Thompson-Starrett Company, which erected the present building in 1921, and will be finished this year. It will increase the present market floor area about one half without interrupting trading, and will provide for offices for the board of governors and other executives of the Exchange.

Dutch Diamond Exports Drop.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 7.—Holland exported to the United States during 1929 cut diamonds worth $18,500,000, or $9,500,000 less than in 1928. Raw diamonds worth $974,000, or $25,000 less than in 1928, and industrial diamonds worth $106,000 were exported.

Imports of petroleum, crude and refined oils at the principal United States ports in December totaled 8,187,000 barrels, a daily average of 264,097 barrels, against 7,829,000 barrels, a daily average of 260,966 barrels, in November. Imports for the week ended on Jan. 4 totaled 1,438,000 barrels, a daily average of 205,429 barrels, against 2,060,000 barrels, a daily average of 294,286 barrels, for the week ended on Dec. 28.

Dr. Klein Tells Shoe Convention Efficiency Is Imperative—New Women's Styles Colorful.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7 (AP).—Retail business was advised today by Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, to study its affairs during 1930, with a view to locating items of preventable waste and to keeping better records.

Speaking before the National Shoe Retailers' Association, Dr. Klein urged a closer ta bupon the costs and functional details of selling.

"It has been reliably estimated that an average of nearly 1,000,000 merchants—wholesalers, jobbers and retailers—no not make adequate systematic analyses of their business problems," he said, giving this to mean that business heads "are so preoccupied with the immediate necessities of selling goods that they cannot study carefully the fundamental factors which determine the success or failure of every business establishment."

Pointing to problems of hand-to-mouth buying and "the larger, far graver issue of actual hand-to-mouth existence," Dr. Klein cited a recent experimental distribution census of eleven representative cities which developed that approximately 28 per cent of the independent retailers were doing a gross business averaging less than $7 a day for this group. One can appreciate, he said, why the storekeeper operating on such a precarious margin could give no thought to the study of secondary problems.

"And this particular juncture in our business history makes such analysis of our selling problems of imperative importance," Dr. Klein continued.

Longer skirts have demanded daintier and dressier footwear for women this year, with high heels returning to popularity, shoe stylists at the shoe retailers' convention say. Shoes are to be more colorful than ever before.

The footwear fashion show reveals that shoes are more feminine and that the silhouette gowns require shoes of a design that avoids the more utilitarian effect created by the short skirt era.

New tones of beige and green to compliment the shades of Spring dresses are seen, with brown, white and combinations in the background. Shoes also are in demand to match dress accessories. Snakeskin shoes are popular, with lizard and python skins in demand in the higher grades. Black footwear will be worn in the early Spring.

Men's shoes are virtually the same as for the last several years, with conservative models predominating.

Investing Corporation Reports.

Railway and Utilities Investing Corporation reports that the market value of its investments as of Dec. 31 was $4,401,629, against a cost of $4,100,248, indicating an unrealized appreciation of $301,381. Its net income for the six months to Dec. 31 was $129,005, and its surplus on that date was $341,404. Its portfolio contains public utility stocks valued at $1,688,942, railroad stocks valued at $2,165,687, railroad bonds valued at $505,000 and miscellaneous holdings of $42,000.

Oil Company Changes Name.

The name of the Venezuela Maxudian Oil Company has been changed to Venezuela Syndicate, Inc., and the authorized number of shares was changed to 2,000,000 of $2 par value each. The Guaranty Trust Company has been authorized to register certificates under the new name in exchange for the old certificates on a share-for-share basis.

Little Retired by Metropolitan.

Luther B. Little has retired as manager of the publicity division of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company after serving twenty years. His retirement is in accordance with the company's service regulations.

OVER-COUNTER STOCKS NARROW IN MOVEMENT

Bank Shares Lose Early Rise, Then Become Dull—Insurance Issues Firm and Quiet.

Over-the-counter securies were quiet yesterday, with no trend to prices. After opening strong, bank stocks weakened and then remained dull. Among those that scored gains were Corn Exchange, County Trust, Lawyers Title, Title Guarantee, Chatham Phenix and Public. On the other hand, Bank of America, Empire new, New York new, Bank of United States and City were lower.

Insurance issues held firm in quiet trading. Aetna Casualty, Aetna Life, Franklin Fire, Globe & Rutgers and National Liberty were slightly higher, while Camden Fire and Providence Washington were fractionally lower.

Industrials closed strong after a weak and dull day. Smith-Corona, West Virginia Pulp and Paper, White Rock Mineral Springs first preferred and Technicolor rallied to close higher. Columbia Baking first preferred, however, and Bancroft preferred and Petroleum Derivatives were lower.

Chain stores followed the general trend. United States Stores preferred and Nedick's were higher. In the utilities group Kings County Lighting and Utilities Power and Light were slightly higher. No definite trend was discernible among bonds and communication stocks.

I. R. T. Express Traffic Delayed.

Northbound express service on the west side line of the I. R. T. was halted for fourteen minutes at the height of the rush hour late yesterday afternoon while workmen made necessary repairs on a northbound express train stalled in the Chambers Street station because of brake trouble. Change agents at the subway stations in lower Manhattan limited the number of persons admitted to the platforms and closed several entirely until the trains were moving again.

LARGE INSURANCE DIVIDEND

New York Life, After Banner Year, to Pay $71,500,000 to Policy Holders

Dividends to be apportioned to policy holders by the New York Life Insurance Company this year will aggregate $71,500,000, according to Darwin P. Kingsley, president. This is $4,400,000 in excess of the dividends voted for 1929. The amount paid to policy holders since organization, including the sum to be apportioned in 1930, is approximately $850,000,000.

Last year the company's new paid-for insurance exceeded $950,000,000. This was the greatest volume for a year in the company's history and $41,000,000 over the 1928 production. The company paid $62,000,000 in death claims in 1929 on the lives of 14,600 policy holders, including $2,444,000 double indemnity for accidental deaths. In maturing policies and other cash benefits, including dividends, the company paid to living policy holders in 1929 $116,000,000, or $54,000,000 above the death claims.

FARM BOARD THREAT HALTS COTTON DROP

DECLINE IN WHEAT IS FELT

A warning by the Farm Board to Southern cotton producers against planting too heavily next Spring had a steadying influence on yesterday's cotton market. Professional covering and trade price-fixing around 17 cents for the March delivery caused a greater degree of resistance.

After a recovery of 10 points or more, the decline in wheat, reports that mill curtailment during the holidays had aggregated 70 per cent, compared with about 25 per cent last season and selling by Japanese interests, attributed to the break in silver, wiped out much of the early improvement. Closing quotations were 2 points off to 4 points up on the day.

The statement by the Farm Board was that growers must not expect a lending figure of 16 cents for the next crop if the yield is large.

After cutting down the record area planted in 1926 of 48,730,000 to about 42,000,000 acres in 1927, growers increased the acreage to 47,000,000 in 1928 and to 48,569,000 last year. The average price of middling at the ten Southern markets was 19.72 cents for 1927-28 and 18.67 cents last season, compared with an average of 16.51 cents yesterday.

The Cotton Exchange Service estimated the total supply of American cotton this year, inclusive of carry-over, at 19,338,000 bales, or 90,000 under the previous season, of which 14,481,000 were left on Dec. 1, or 136,000 more than last year. Of this 11,478,000 bales were in this country, or about 600,000 more than a year ago, with about 3,000,000 abroad, or almost 500,000 below the quantity held on Dec. 1, 1928.

Yesterday's quotations here follow:

REACTION IN WHEAT FOLLOWS EARLY DIP

CORN IS DULL AND EASIER

Quotations on Oats Point Down—Rye Declines, Partly in Sympathy With Wheat.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Liquidation of a line of long wheat, variously attributed to a local and a Winnipeg professional, combined with reports of further offerings and sales of Russian wheat abroad and a slow export demand, carried prices today off 2½ to 2¾ cents from Monday's finish to a new low since Dec. 23. While a fair rally occurred from the inside, the close was at net losses of 1½ to 1¾ cents, with July showing the most strength, due to buying induced by a cold wave over the Winter wheat belt, which caught most of the grain without snow protection.

The rally was on buying against bids, short covering and a little support from commission houses, but most operators expressed bearish opinions after the close. The lack of export business counts heavily against the bulls, as No. 2 hard Winter in the sample market is selling at about a full carrying charge under May.

Winnipeg was weak and 2 to 2⅜ cents lower, with Liverpool off 1⅞ to 2⅛d. Argentine markets, which were closed yesterday, finished 1⅞ cents lower at Buenos Aires and 1⅞ to 3 cents lower at Rosario compared with Saturday. The trade continues mystified by the Russian sales, with 37,000 bushels reported taken by the United Kingdom at equal to $1.44½ a bushel. While export bids from abroad were reported slightly under the market, no sales were reported at the seaboard. January wheat here closed at $1.23, or only ¾ cent over February in Buenos Aires. Primary arrivals were 7,702,000 bushels; a week ago, 681,000, and a year ago, 733,000. Shipments were 487,000 bushels; a week ago, 519,000, and a year ago, 650,000.

Corn was dull and easier with some scattered liquidation. Prices at the inside were off a cent, but buying against bids by a local operator brought a rally from the inside, with the finish ⅜ to ½ cent lower. There were 50,000 bushels of May sold by a local professional, against the purchase of a like amount at Buenos Aires at a difference said to have been 27 cents. The spot basis was ½ to 1½ cents higher, with country offerings to arrive small.

Primary corn receipts were 982,000 bushels; a week ago, 1,288,000, and a year ago, 1,516,000. Shipments were 710,000 bushels; a week ago, 777,000, and a year ago, 815,000.

March oats were easy early because of scattered liquidation, but rallied quickly toward the last and closed unchanged, while the deferred futures were off ¼ to ½ cent, with July leading.

Rye closed ½ to 1⅜ cents lower, the former on March, which received good support from a house with Eastern connections. Locals sold the deferred futures on the weakness in wheat.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

COMMODITY PRICES OFF 3% IN THREE MONTHS

Lowest Average at the Beginning of Any Year Since 1923, Index Shows.

Dun's index of commodity prices published yesterday shows a decrease of 1 1-3 per cent for the month of December, nearly 3 per cent since the beginning of October and exactly 3 per cent since the beginning of 1929. It is the lowest average computed for Jan. 1 by the Dun compilation since 1923. Compared with the lowest post-war average, that of July, 1921, it shows an increase of 16⅔ per cent; compared with the highest, that of May, 1920, it shows a decrease of 27 per cent. The present average is 54⅓ per cent above that of Aug. 1, 1914.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

The sugar futures market was irregular yesterday. The near positions were steady, influenced by buying by leading interests with Cuban connections. Distant positions were slightly easier, as the same interests who were buying near months were credited with selling the distant positions. Near positions closed 2 to 4 points higher, while other months were unchanged to 2 points lower.

The raw market was very steady, with sales reported yesterday of 25,000 bags of Cubas ex-store at the 2 1-16 c. i. f. basis and also 2,500 tons of Philippines, late February arrival, at 3.83, equal to 2 1-16 c. i. f. for Cubas. Rumors were current that the single seller at Cuba had sold January shipment Cubas at 2 1-16 and February shipment at 2 3-32. Official report and confirmation were lacking. On Monday sales were made and reported yesterday of 3,500 tons of Cubas uncontrolled at 2 1-16 c. i. f. and 2,000 tons of Philippines for January-February shipment at 3.83 c. i. f.

New business in refined showed fair improvement as a result of refiners' announcement Monday night that they would advance the price to 5.20 on the opening Wednesday morning. Lamborn's statistical department's preliminary estimate of sugar consumption in the United States during 1929 indicates a total of 6,086,000 long tons raw value. This compares with 5,945,000 long tons consumed in 1928, an increase of 141,000 tons for 1929, or 2.37 per cent. The per capita average during 1929 amounted to 112.6 pounds, as compared with 110.9 pounds in 1928. The five-year average per capita consumption is 113 pounds.

HARDWARE TRADE NORMAL.

Business Now on Par With the Same Period Last Year.

A normal condition has been resumed by the hardware trade, now that inventory taking is practically completed, and reports from principal markets indicate that business is about on a par with the same period last year, according to The Hardware Age.

Healthy specifications for Spring delivery are now being placed by retailers. The demand for snow tools has been accelerated by the snow storms of the past week. Price revisions have been of minor character, and, although collections are slow in some districts, the credit situation is considered generally satisfactory.

Insull to Vote a Stock Increase.

Stockholders of the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., have been called to vote in Chicago on Jan. 15 on increasing the authorized capital stock by adding 3,000,000 no par common shares. The company has just sold $60,000,000 ten-year 6 per cent gold debentures, convertible into common stock and with stock purchase warrants, which if exercised in full will require the issuance of 1,500,000 additional common shares.

UNION TO SEEK CURE FOR FUR TRADE ILLS

Montreal Convention Will Try to Devise Plan to Stabilize Raw Materials Market.

DEALERS IN SKINS ACCUSED

Labor Leaders Assert Small Group Forced Up Prices and Caused Widespread Unemployment.

The ninth convention of the International Fur Workers' Union, which will open at Montreal on Monday, will be asked to work out plans to stabilize the raw fur market, whose disorganized condition was declared by union officials yesterday to be responsible for the present depression of the industry. Charles Stetsky, manager of the New York Furriers' Joint Council, said that the high cost of raw materials has "restricted production in general throughout the industry and created a state of unemployment and demoralization that borders on ruin."

Union officials charged that a group of fur dealers artificially had increased prices of skins far beyond levels justified by real values or the operations of supply and demand. As a result manufacturers have been unable to manufacture in large quantities and many union workers have been unemployed, the labor leaders asserted. Another result has been that the production of low-priced fur garments has been considerably curtailed.

It was added that the workers have been compelled to accept wage cuts and a general lowering of standards, while manufacturers have had to cut their profits, overhead and business operations. Unemployment in the fur industry has been as high as 30 per cent in the season and 60 per cent in the dull period, figures which represent a considerable increase over past years.

"The high cost of raw materials is totally unjustified and is due primarily to reckless manipulation on the part of most raw skin dealers, who in their eagerness to accumulate large quantities of stocks, pay all sorts of fancy prices to trappers," Mr. Stetsky said. "Lack of outward competition, especially from the Russian market, to which only a few dealers have access, makes the situation still more precarious.

"These dealers, on the strength of their position, are indifferent to the consequences created by their attitude toward the industry.

"Workers and manufacturing groups have shared and are sharing in the burdens of the industry, while the raw-skin dealers merely insist on getting the highest prices and obtaining thereby what amounts almost to a monopoly.

"Because of this situation, producers of garments are working on the smallest margins of profit, curtailing their output and avoiding even the most reasonable risks, without which there can be no great industrial activity, and workers are suffering from unemployment and a lowering of standards; all because there is no way apparently to force down the prices of raw materials.

"The union is vitally interested in this situation, which makes it impossible to produce popular garments within the reach of consumers of modest means. The vast army of unemployed fur workers would be considerably reduced—perhaps there would be only normal unemployment in the fur industry—if moderate-priced garments were produced."

The convention is expected to consider various plans to revive the fur business. One suggestion involves the establishment of a trade body, representing the various interested factors and another is that the manufacturers be invited to cooperate with the union in an effort to bring down prices and encourage production.

SUGAR CONFERENCES HERE.

Representatives of Cuban Refiners and Cooperatives on Way.

Representatives of Cuban sugar refining interests and members of the executive committee of the Cuban Cooperative Selling Agency will arrive here tomorrow. Several conferences will probably be held in the next few days with New York sugar brokers and buyers of Cuba sugars.

Grinding is expected to begin in fifteen days and financing of the new crop is said to be one prime consideration of the meetings. It is reported that the Czarnikow-Rionda Company, large importer, will be host to the group.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Butter.

Receipts, 19,568 packages. With comparatively little buying support, liberal supplies and mild weather, there was strong pressure to sell which resulted in a further decline of about 1c and at the lower rates, the market was weak with considerable surplus to be carried over. This applies to practically all grades of butter.

SAYS HOLLAND TUBE IS RUN WASTEFULLY

Investigator Tells Committee Salaries Are Too High and Many Jobs Unnecessary.

PUTS EXCESS AT $250,000

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, Jan. 7.—Appearing as a witness before the Abell Legislative Investigation Committee, by whom he was retained to make a study of the Holland Vehicular Tunnel operating force, Major Mark C. Kimberling charged that an annual waste of $250,000 to $300,000 results from exorbitant salaries, unnecessary employes and duplication of effort. Major Kimberling is Superintendent of the Rahway State Reformatory and formerly was Deputy Superintendent of the State Police.

Recommendation was made that the salary of Ole Singstad, chief engineer and superintendent of the tunnel, be cut from $25,000 a year to $15,000. It was pointed out that the salary of Ralph Mojeski, designer and builder of the Camden Bridge, had been cut from $30,000 during construction to $3,000 at the present time. Singstad was engaged after the tunnel was built to organize the operating forces. He had previously been engaged in its construction. Mr. Kimberling pointed out that the tunnel has been in operation for more than two years and that the organization of the forces has been completed.

"When the salary of $25,000 for the superintendent of the tunnel," said Major Kimberling, "is compared with the salary of $18,000 for the chief engineer of the Highway Department of New Jersey, it would seem that this chief engineer and superintendent is overpaid for the responsibilities connected with a complete and functioning organization."

Would Cut Force.

Other recommendations were the elimination of two jobs as captains of police and replacement by two lieutenants; cutting of the salary of chief of the tunnel police from $10,000 to $6,000; abolition of fifteen positions in the tunnel financial department at a saving of $33,000 a year; elimination of ten positions in the tolls collection department, saving $23,000 a year; abolition of twenty-six jobs in the Police Department at a saving of $62,000 annually.

Major Kimberling thought also that the tunnel commissions of New York and New Jersey ought to function as a joint body and that one secretary-treasurer at $9,000 a year ought to be discharged. Another job which Mayor Kimberling thought unnecessary is that of consulting physician at $4,800 a year.

"The attention of the committee," said Major Kimberling, "is also directed to the high salaries that are paid to common laborers. For instance, it will be noted that there are two laborers employed at $2,200, and eleven at $2,000 per year.

"It will be noted that the salaries paid all classes of employes, where there is a comparison with the civil service of the State of New Jersey, are very exorbitant."

For Collection Reforms.

He also recommended that the system of tolls collection on the Camden Bridge be put into operation in the Holland Tunnel. At the bridge this is accomplished by means of an automatic money meter, which cannot be tampered with. It also saves a great deal of time. At the Holland Tunnel toll tickets and money are handled at each end manually.

Regarding the engineering force, Major Kimberling said that he was not well versed enough in technical subjects to be able positively to say that the members of this division were not necessary. However, he added: "It is recommended that the joint legislative committee subpoena the chief engineer and superintendent, Mr. Ole Singstad, and the assistant superintendent, Mr. Arthur C. Davis, to furnish proof for the necessity of the employment of so many engineers, assistant engineers and technical men at such high salaries."

Senator Richards pointed out at the close of Major Kimberling's report that the present system of deducting operating expenses from the receipts was contrary to the agreement between New Jersey and New York. The act provided, he said, that the gross income of the tunnel should be divided between the States and the operating expenses budgeted and appropriated by the Legislature. Departure from the prescribed procedure will be a matter of inquiry at a later session.

It was proposed by Speaker Gabrielson of the House that copies of the report be sent to the New York Legislature and commission of that State.

The investigation of the Port Authority affairs was deferred until next week.

Denounces the Report.

George R. Dyer, chairman of the Bridge and Tunnel Commission which controls and operates the Holland Tunnel, characterized Major Kimberling's report charging waste in tunnel expenditures as a "damned outrage." The efficiency with which the tunnel has been operated justifies its management, he said.

It represents, he added, the one outstanding example in the nation of efficient public management. He pointed out that the revenue to New York and New Jersey from the operation of the tunnel in the past year would be about $4,000,000. There had been, he continued, no loss of life, no serious accidents, no extensive repairs or no delays in the operation.

It might be possible, he said, to operate the tunnel with a reduced staff; but one serious accident caused by a reduction in staff which left the tunnel improperly policed would immediately prove the folly of such a procedure.

Regarding the recommendation that Chief Engineer Ole Singstad's salary be reduced from $25,000 a year to $15,000, Mr. Dyer said that Engineer Singstad had been largely responsible for the efficient management of the tunnel. It would be poor economy, he added, to reduce the salary of the chief engineer, forcing the commission to accept a less efficient man than Mr. Singstad and expose the users of the tunnel to inconvenience and accidents merely to save $10,000 a year.

Robert Carey of 75 Montgomery Street, Newark, New Jersey counsel for the Bridge and Tunnel Commission, said that a detailed reply to the report would be made today through the New York offices of the commission, after a study had been made. He added that the report appeared "ridiculous on the face of it."

STOP ALL AUTOS IN TUNNEL.

But Police Seek Only Traffic Data —Similar Poll Today.

A detachment of policemen attached to the Holland Tunnel yesterday alarmed drivers by stopping every automobile. The drivers soon learned, however, that the policemen were gathering information rather than handing out tickets.

Each driver immediately was assured that he had committed no infraction of rules, and then was asked where he was from, where he was going and the routes he was using to and from the tunnel.

The information thus gathered, which was given willingly by about 85 per cent of the drivers, the others being waved along if they questioned or objected, was said to be for the purpose of gathering information about locating new tunnels and bridges.

If today is fair, a similar poll will be taken at the New Jersey entrance, T. B. Kilian, office engineer, said yesterday.

WIDER USE OF 'SATIN' ALLOWED BY COURT

Federal Trade Commission's Ban on Application to Non-Silk Products Is Modified.

RAYON GOODS AFFECTED

'Satinized' or Similar Names May Now Be Used if Nature of the Fabric Is Also Set Forth.

A decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in a suit of N. Fluegelman & Co., Inc., to review a decision of the Federal Trade Commission, made known yesterday, was regarded as of importance in textile trade circles because of its effect upon the advertising and sale of rayon products and merchandise not made of silk with which the name "satin" has become identified.

The decision modified an order of the Federal Trade Commission directing the Fluegelman company, which is in the business of converting cotton, silk and cotton, and rayon fabrics, and combinations of cotton and artificial silk fabrics, to "cease and desist directly or indirectly from using the word 'Satinmaid' or any word or words or combination of words embracing the word 'satin' as the trade name for or to describe or designate a cotton fabric offered for sale or sold in interstate commerce."

Court Reviews Controversy.

The opinion, written by Judge Manton, said the product complained of "is a cotton fabric made in a satin weave, and has been advertised under the trade name of 'Satinmaid' and 'Satinized' and has been referred to on the labels and tags as a 'satinized' product." The court said the plaintiff had a trade-mark of these names and that in advertising since Dec. 7, 1925, it had used the word "Satinmaid," and in almost equally large type or letters had added "a cotton fabric," and made the same use in connection with the word "satinized."

Judge Manton said the Federal Trade Commission had found that the word "satin" described a fabric composed wholly of silk, woven in a peculiar manner so as to impart a high lustre to the surface of the fabric, and that the word "Satinmaid," composed of two words, "satin" and "maid," had the same phonetic significance as if it were used with the word "made," and "has a capacity and tendency to mislead and deceive buyers into the belief that this cotton fabric consisted wholly or in part of silk and thus induced purchasers to the same belief."

The court remarked that "if the word 'satin' is not alone used, and there be a qualifying phrase which is descriptive of the material, there can be no deception of the public." The fact that the Fluegelman company had trade-marked the words "Satinmaid" and "Satinized" gave it "no unlimited sanction to use it when it would deceive." The opinion continues:

"The petitioner has a satin weave and there can be no deception by the use of the word 'Satinmaid' or 'Satinized' if it is sufficiently made known that all of the material used is not silk.

Order Is Modified.

"Accordingly, the order to cease and desist will be modified so as to require the petitioner to cease and desist, directly or indirectly, from using the words 'Satinmaid' or 'Satinized' or any word or words or combination of words embracing the word 'satin' as a trade name for or to describe or designate a cotton fabric offered for sale or sold in interstate commerce unless there be added in letters equally conspicuous and on the same side as the label, advertising matter, wrapper, stationery or board ends on which the words 'Satinmaid' or 'Satinized' appear the words 'a cotton fabric,' 'a cotton satin,' 'no silk' or equivalent modifying terms."

Because the Federal Trade Commission had issued advice to rayon manufacturers, at the time the order in the Fluegelman case was made, that they were violating the law in advertising "rayon satin," the Rayon Institute of America, composed of the leading rayon manufacturers, became a party to the Fluegelman appeal and was represented by Covington, Burling & Rublee, and Hays, Hershfield, Kaufman & Schwabacher. Commenting on the decision and its effect on the rayon industry, Wolfgang S. Schwabacher said yesterday:

"The ruling of the Circuit Court of Appeals definitely establishes the utter propriety of the advertising practices heretofore indulged in by the rayon industry in offering for sale and calling its fabrics woven in the satin weave 'rayon satins,' and in cases where part cotton is used, 'cotton-back rayon satins.'"

MACHINERY SHOWS GAINS.

Increased Volume of Inquiries Reported in Last Week.

Satisfactory sales levels and a general increasing volume of inquiries have characterized the markets for machinery and machine tools during the past week, according to the American Machinist. In general, the orders were mostly for replacement purposes.

It is predicted in New York that 1930 will equal 1928 in volume of sales, and in some quarters it is even hoped that 1929 will be equaled. Detroit and New England are now in dull periods, but an expansion of activity is expected, while Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Chicago report a satisfactory level of sales and good inquiries.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Elaborate plans for advertising rayon direct to the consumer this year were adopted yesterday by the board of directors of the Rayon Institute. L. H. Ryan, representing the Delaware Rayon Corporation and the New Bedford Rayon Corporation, and C. M. Carr of the American Enka Corporation, were elected to the board.

Herbert L. Goldberg has resigned from Jaffee, Cohen & Lang, Inc., and has become associated with Sonneborn Brothers, Inc., boys' clothing manufacturers. In addition to sales promotion, Mr. Goldberg's duties will include styling and the selection of woolens.

Twenty-eight new accounts have been added by the Beldner-Landres Company, resident buyers, 101 West Thirty-first Street.

Two meetings of the recently organized Hosiery Guild, Inc., will be held next Tuesday at 366 Broadway, Managing Director Harry L. Kinne announced yesterday. The executive committee will meet in the morning and the board of directors in the afternoon. Specifications of hose to be sold under the guild mark will be among the matters taken up.

A special meeting of the board of directors of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, called to consider two recent court decisions affecting exporters, adjourned yesterday without acting on the questions. Another meeting will be held next week.

EMERICK HEIRS LOSE ASTOR SUIT APPEAL

1787 PARTNERSHIP CITED

Litigants Asserted This Entitled Them to Two-thirds of Estate of First John Jacob Astor.

The litigation begun several years ago by representatives of about 900 heirs of John Nicholas Emerick for two-thirds of the proceeds of the estate of the first John Jacob Astor has reached an end in this jurisdiction by a decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals affirming Judge Thacher's dismissal of the suit. The representatives of the multitude of Emerick heirs who appeared as the plaintiffs were Edna Carnahan of Eau Claire, Wis.; Christina Campbell of Appleton, Wis., and John Thomas Emerick of Waukegan, Ill.

The first complaint alleged that Emerick, furrier and merchant, made Astor a one-third partner in his business in 1787 and later made him trustees of his estate for ninety years, when it was to be divided among the descendants of Emerick's brothers, Christopher and Valentine. It was alleged that this was not done and that no accounting ever had been made. Emerick died in 1816 and Astor in 1848.

It was alleged that the Astor descendants had not fulfilled the terms of the trust and had "concealed the assets of said partnership and fraudulently converted and conveyed the same along with their property."

The amount claimed by the plaintiffs as the share of the Emerick heirs was $39,000,000. One of the points made by counsel for the plaintiffs was that in 1902 a legal representative of the estate of John Jacob Astor Sr. had admitted that there was a trust fund and estate arising out of the partnership between Mr. Astor and Mr. Emerick and that it amounted to $39,000,000.

In December, 1928, Judge Thacher dismissed the action in a decision that said that the alleged trust was void under the laws of this State and Pennsylvania in force prior to the death of Mr. Emerick on Dec. 16, 1816, and that therefore neither the defendants nor any of the hundreds of other alleged heirs and descendants of Emerick were entitled to sue.

An amended complaint was filed by the plaintiffs, which was also dismissed by Judge Thacher. In this decision the court said that it was alleged that Emerick and Astor, as partners, from 1787 to 1816 accumulated what was then considered an amazing fortune, existence of which could not have been unknown to Emerick's heirs and next of kin at the time of his death.

The defendants named in the action were Charles A. Peabody Jr., trustee of the estate of John Jacob Astor Sr.; the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, trustee of the estate of the second John Jacob Astor, who died in the Titanic disaster, and William Vincent Astor, his legatee and trustee.

Canada Lowers Postage Rates.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The rate of postage on letters mailed in Canada addressed to any place in South America has been reduced to 2 cents for each ounce or fraction thereof, and on postcards to 2 cents each, according to a report received by the Department of Commerce today from Commercial Attaché Lynn W. Meekins at Ottawa. The previous rate on letters to all countries in South America, except British Guiana, which was 2 cents, was 8 cents for the first ounce and 4 cents for each additional ounce, and the postcard rate was 4 cents each. The countries to which the new rates apply are Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Dutch Guiana, Ecuador, French Guiana, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela.

Silver Fox Again Off at Sale.

The decline of 25 per cent from last January's sale prices that was seen on Monday at the opening session of the specialy silver fox auction of Frederick Huth & Co., here was apparent again yesterday. Bidding was active, however, and about 80 per cent of the skins put up actually changed hands. Sales for the two days totaled $950,000. These were yesterday's top prices: Full silver, $350; three-quarter silver, $650; half silver, $265; one-quarter silver, $140; one-eighth silver, $75, and black, $55. The sale will continue today.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday 5 to 5¼ per cent for the best names.
Monday 5 to 5¼ per cent for the best names.
The quotations are for 4 to 6 month's paper.

Sharp Gain in Buyers Here.

A heavy increase was registered in the number of buyers in the market during the past week. The total was 1,088, the largest since the week of Sept. 18, and compares with 356 listed in the preceding week, according to the lists published in THE TIMES. However, in the corresponding week a year ago 1,299 were registered. Yesterday's arrivals were 648, the largest for any Tuesday since Aug. 13.

B. V. D. Merger Announced.

Announcement was made yesterday of the incorporation of a new company in which three well-known underwear manufacturers are united. This company, to be known as B. V. D., Inc., will hold the stock of the Atlas Underwear Company, Piqua, Ohio; the Regatta Manufacturing Company, Baltimore, Md., and the B. V. D. Company, Inc., of this city, and its subsidiaries. The subsidiaries include spinning and weaving mills and finishing plants. Each of the manufacturing companies will continue to operate under its present management and policies. The merger brings together for the first time complete units of all types of men's underwear manufacturing with ownership control and supervision of raw materials.

Pepperell Crib Blankets Priced.

A reduction of approximately 5 per cent in prices on the Baby Pepperell crib blanket line for 1930 was announced yesterday by the Pepperell Manufacturing Company. The new prices ar effective as of Monday last. In an accompanying statement the company said that a large volume of business was placed immediately upon announcement. The company's other blanket lines have not yet been priced, nor have been the staple lines of other leading producers. Indications yesterday were that the principal lines would not be priced in full before the middle of next week at the earliest. Jacquard lines opened so far are about 5 per cent under those of the corresponding 1929 opening figures.

Spring Hardware Orders Earlier.

The last few days have been active ones for the hardware jobbing trade because retailers are covering their Spring needs earlier than usual this year. Orders for lawn mowers, garden hose and similar equipment have been placed in good volume for March and April delivery. Although retail sales of current Winter goods are reported as normal, there have been few orders for such merchandise placed with jobbers. This is attributed to the fact that retailers are well stocked with goods now in demand and can carry through the season with only small reorders.

Plan Sewing Contests for Spring.

The Spring campaign to stimulate piece goods will be marked by National Sewing Week from April 7 to 12, it was announced yesterday by Hubert M. Greist, director of the National Costume Art Association, Inc. An outstanding feature of the campaign, he said, will be contests to determine the home-sewing champion in each State. These in turn will compete for the title of national champion. Trips to London and Paris will be awarded the winning contestants, who will be presented to the leading fashion authorities. It is also planned, Mr. Greist added, to have American champions compete with the Parisian ones in a dual meet.

Viscose Rayon Output Sets Record.

Production of rayon in 1929 by the Viscose Company reached the record figure of 62,000,000 pounds, which compares with 54,000,000 in 1928, according to figures issued yesterday by President S. A. Salvage. The output was slightly more than 50 per cent of the entire estimated 1929 domestic rayon production. Sales were 61,000,000 pounds, against 49,000,000 in the preceding year. The underwear trade was the largest consumer, absorbing 32 per cent of the company's production. The percentages of use by other trades were: Cotton goods, 22; hosiery, 15; silk goods, 12, and braid and elastics, 7. Of the output 76 per cent was of 150 deniers. Production for 1930 is estimated at 70,000,000 pounds.

Retailers Here for Rug Buying.

The local floor coverings market has taken on a more active tone this week with the arrival of the first of the retail store buyers in search of Spring merchandise. Orders for axminster and wilton rugs were placed in normal volume yesterday. While manufacturers admit that the amount of business placed so far is not sufficient to give a definite indication of either price or pattern preferences, they report that there has been no indication of a trading down tendency.

Urges New Profit Views on Mills.

Profits for Fall in men's wear woolens and worsteds will depend largely upon the mental attitude of the mills in preparing for the new season, A. D. Whiteside, president of the Wool Institute, told the men's wear group yesterday. A fresh viewpoint on the need of adequate profits, he said, will do much to lift the industry out of the rut of restricted earnings. The group at its afternoon meeting devoted attention to conditions in the raw wool market, the trend of which was considered uncertain. Opening dates for Fall will be selected at another meeting to be held in about two weeks.

Burlap Shipments Set Record.

A new high record for the burlap trade was set by December shipments from Calcutta to North American ports, according to a cable received here yesterday by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc. They totaled 146,000,000 yards, of which 130,000,000 were consigned to East Coast ports. Twelve million yards were shipped to the Pacific Coast and 4,000,000 yards to Canada. The 146,000,000-yard total compared with 125,000,000 yards shipped in November last and 130,000,000 in December, 1928. The grand total of shipments from Calcutta to North America last year was 1,131,000,000 yards, a monthly average of 94,300,000, against a total of 1,059,000,000 yards for 1928.

Gray Goods Continue Dull.

Trading in gray goods continued dull here yesterday. Printcloths again were sold on the bases of 7 cents for 38½-inch 64-60s and 8 cents for 39-inch 68-72s. For 37-inch 48-square four-yard sheetings 7¼ cents again was paid, and there was further trading in 40-inch 2.85s at 10 cents. Nine cents was asked for 90-60 carded broadcloths, and this price was the key to activities in that part of the market, which were limited. The fine-yarn goods were featureless, and little of importance was done in the specialties.

REPORTS OF THE LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

DOMINICANS SELL CORNER

Gains in all departments of real estate activity were noted yesterday, maintaining the improvement in trading which was made on Monday. An increased volume of sales was reported from the suburban sections, as well as from widely scattered areas of Manhattan.

Two good deals were closed on Lexington Avenue, and the recording of numerous leaseholds revealed details of rentals to be paid under new control of several Manhattan properties.

One of the largest of recent financing arrangements was made on a Central Park West block front, where the Prudence-Bonds Corporation placed a $4,000,000 mortgage.

One of the two Lexington Avenue deals announced yesterday involved the southwest corner of Sixty-sixth Street, which was sold by the Dominican Fathers Province of St. Joseph to Irving I. Lewine, Inc., operator. The property consists of a four-story and store building, 40 by 70 feet, which is occupied by the Dominicans for their executive offices.

The property was held at $400,000, and possession is not to be given to the new owner for some time, according to Mr. Lewine. Frederick Fox & Co. and the Herbert Hecht Company were the brokers who negotiated the transaction.

Lexington Avenue Leasehold Sold.

A few blocks to the north on Lexington Avenue a deal was announced by Potter, Hamilton & Butler, brokers, who sold for George Zauderer & Sons the eighty-four-year leasehold at 965. The site is twenty feet north of the northeast corner of Lexington Avenue and Seventieth Street. The improvement consists of a five-story building, which the purchaser, L. J. Goodwin, intends to alter into stores and apartments. The lessee has the right to exercise a purchase option in ten years and has the privilege of borrowing on the fee.

After an ownership of sixty years the five-story house at 511 Third Avenue was sold by Louis J. Pooler. The house is on a lot 24 by 100 feet and adjoins the northeast corner of Thirty-fourth Street. It was bought by the Saldor Holding Company, Inc., A. S. Roberts, president. The buying corporation owns the abutting five-story house, 25 by 100 feet, at 207 East Thirty-fourth Street, and now has an "ell" around the corner. The Saldor Holding Company recently sold 222-228 East Thirty-fourth Street. Pease & Elliman, Inc., acted as brokers in yesterday's sale.

Frank J. Russell of Iron Mountain, Mich., has bought the property at 47 West Eighth Street from Albert B. Brushaber and has taken title to the property. The sale was arranged by R. Telfair Smith, Inc., as broker, and negotiations were conducted by cable to France, Germany and Austria and by telephone to Iron Mountain, the broker said.

Upper West Side Transactions.

The upper west side was also affected by yesterday's increased trading. May E. Curry and others sold through Ernest T. Bower, broker, the three-story dwelling at 115 West Eighty-third Street, 16 by 100 feet. The property has been in the seller's family for thirty years and has now been acquired by the Midway Electric Supply Company, which plans to alter the structure for its own business.

Aaron Weiss, operator, bought from Dr. George W. Blakeslee the three-story dwelling at 157 West Ninety-third Street, adjoining the Nippon Club. The house is on a lot 15 by 103 feet and has been occupied by Dr. Blakeslee for twenty-five years. The Houghton Company, broker in the deal, has pending a resale of the property.

The Gleno Realty Corporation, Ewen McIntyre, president, sold the five-story apartment house at 543 West 123d Street to Henry H. Jackson. The building has a frontage of fifty feet and was sold through the Wood, Dolson Company, which acted as broker in the original sale to the Gleno Realty Corporation.

BRONXVILLE PERMITS DROP.

Building Projects in 1929 Far Below Those in Two Previous Years.

Rudolph N. Miller, superintendent of the building department of Bronxville, in his annual report of building permits says 1929 was a very poor year for the village, permits for December amounting to only $18,901. The year's total was placed at $979,317, of which $844,542 represented new construction and $134,775 was for alteration work.

In 1928 the year's total was $3,600,675. In 1927 the total was $2,753,700. The big decline for 1929 was due to the fact that in the two previous years numerous large apartment houses and dwellings were built, while last year only thirty-three buildings were erected.

Savings Bank Lends $36,769,930.

The Bowery Savings Bank last year made 288 real estate loans amounting to $36,769,930, divided as follows: Apartments and dwellings, $17,225,930; commercial buildings, $13,125,000, and combination business and apartment buildings, $6,419,000. Yonkers Houses to Be Auctioned.

Six two-family stucco houses in Clark Street, near Central Avenue, Yonkers, will be auctioned on the property next Saturday at 3 P. M. by George W. Coughlan.

Warner Brothers to Improve West 54th St. Site Near River

Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., intends to erect a ten-story building for its music publishing subsidiaries on a plot of 25,000 square feet running from West Fifty-fourth to Fifty-fifth Street, between Eleventh and Twelfth Avenues, the company announced yesterday.

The site, which is west of the Packard service station, was acquired from the Apperson Realty Corporation, representing William R. Hearst. The parcel, now vacant, was formerly part of the New York Hospital property.

The proposed structure will front 150 feet on Fifty-fourth Street, facing DeWitt Clinton Park. The Fifty-fifth Street frontage is 100 feet.

BRONX PROPERTY DEALS

Deals involving four properties on Morris Avenue were announced yesterday by Thoens & Flaunlacher, brokers. These brokers, in conjunction with Hosinger & Bode and R. M. Little & Co., sold to the S. H. Kress Company the lease of 953-955 Morris Avenue, 100 by 115 feet. The site is on the west side of the avenue between 163d and 164th Streets and the lease is for sixty-three years. The lease had been held by William E. Deller for many years before being sold to the Ardeer Realty Corporation, which sold it to the Kress company. The latter is a chain store organization and plans to improve the site with a two-story building for its own occupancy.

Thoens & Flaunlacher leased to the Bando Realty Corporation the northwest corner of Morris Avenue and 164th Street, 50 by 100 feet, for the Ardeer Realty Corporation, and immediately re-leased the property to the 985 Morris Avenue Corporation.

The same brokers sold the three-story house at 947 Morris Avenue to the Bando Realty Corporation for Mary Concetta Manghisi. The property, which adjoins that to be occupied by the Kress company, was resold the same day by Thoens & Flaunlacher to the 947 Morris Avenue Corporation.

Gaetano De Figlio sold to the Bando Realty Corporation the four-story apartment house at 951 Morris Avenue through Thoens & Flaunlacher, who then resold it to the 951 Morris Avenue Corporation. This site is to be improved with a business building.

The blockfront of taxpayers containing thirteen stores on the west side of Third Avenue, 158th to 159th Streets, has been sold by the Taxpayers Builders, Inc., to the S. A. & J. Building Corporation, Samuel Roseff, president. Included in the sale was a plot on 159th Street, immediately adjoining the taxpayers on the west, which is to be improved with a six-story elevator apartment house.

Activity in John St. Section.

Frederick Brown, operator, has taken title to a plot of 38,000 feet covering the block front on John Street from Gold to Cliff Street. The Charles F. Loges Company has also sold to Mr. Brown 27 and 34 Cliff Street, near by, and in addition announces sales of 26-32 Cliff Street for various owners. Mr. Brown has also purchased 221 Pearl Street and 2-6 Platt Street. The John Street sector is one of the most active in the area. A deal is pending for the resale of Mr. Brown's 38,000-foot plot to one of the large construction companies.

1929 BUILDING PLANS TOTAL $860,338,687

23,436 Construction Projects Were Filed in Five Boroughs During Past Year.

MANHATTAN ALONE GAINED

Increase Due to Change in Dwelling Law—Overbuilding and Money Market Factors in Decline.

Building plans filed in New York City during 1929 numbered 23,436 and the aggregate estimated cost was $860,338,687, according to final figures for the year announced yesterday by the building departments of the five boroughs. The estimated cost of plans filed during 1928 was $836,990,105, or $23,348,582 less than the total for the past twelve months.

The aggregate increase was achieved despite declines in the totals for the four boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens, the Bronx and Richmond, which were more than offset by a gain of $219,968,845 in Manhattan, where the 1929 figure was $543,882,265, as compared with $323,913,420 for the previous year, the annual report of Charles Brady, Superintendent of Buildings, showed.

Figures on construction work in the metropolitan area during the past year are reported to have been lower than in 1928, despite the apparent increase in the total of estimated building cost. The cause for the apparent discrepancy is found in the fact that scores of apartment plans running into millions of dollars were filed in Manhattan just prior to the passage of the multiple dwelling law last Spring. Many of these plans have been withdrawn or are yet to materialize. Others in this category on which work had not started at the time the law became effective in April were held up by court order.

The number of plans filed in Manhattan declined from 910 in 1928 to 837 in 1929, but the amount involved was greater last year than in the previous year. Brooklyn's total was about one-third less than in 1928, when the figure was $202,223,346, although alterations added $19,248,096 this year. The Bronx total was down 50 per cent from 1928, and in Queens and Richmond also a sharp drop was registered. Overbuilding in some types of construction in some sections and a shortage of mortgage money were given by real estate men as the chief causes of the slump.

The 1929 figures for the five boroughs were announced as follows:

Borough.	Buildings.	Estimated Cost.
Manhattan	837	$543,882,665
Brooklyn	4,516	130,095,210
Bronx	2,133	89,356,707
Queens	13,941	87,478,012
Richmond	2,019	9,526,093
Totals	23,436	$860,338,687

To Build in Yonkers Developments.

The Elmer Building Company of this city has bought for speculative building two plots on Virginia Place, Homecrest, Yonkers, from the Homeland Company, which also sold a plot in its Homefield development at Yonkers to John Batstone of Yonkers for the same purpose. A business site on Nepperhan Avenue, Yonkers, was sold by the Homeland Company to H. M. Holton of this city.

To Improve Plot in the Bronx.

A plot 115 by 55 feet on the north side of Lydig Avenue, fifty feet west of Haight Avenue, has been sold by L. Rosenblum to a builder for improvement with one-family brick houses. This is the first sale of the parcel in seventeen years, according to Walter C. Clark, who arranged the deal in conjunction with Max. Donner.

Tankoos, Smith & Co. were the brokers.

U. S. Renovating Company, Inc., and Harry Kraus of Corona, fruits, stores in new Central Terminal Building, Flushing; Quinlan, Terry & Johnson, brokers.

CONSTRUCTION OFF 21% IN THIS CITY LAST YEAR

Contracts awarded for new building and engineering work in the metropolitan area of New York during 1929 totaled $1,233,173,100, which is 21 per cent under the unusually high total for 1928 and 11 per cent less than the aggregate for 1927, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation.

Analysis of last year's construction total shows that the commercial, industrial and educational classes of work were well ahead of both their 1928 and 1927 totals. Public works and utilities were below 1928 and a little ahead of 1927, but residential building was considered less than the 1928 and 1927 records. The table below gives the direct comparison:

Commercial	$262,600	$232,895	$247,704
Industrial	54,232	35,017	33,295
Educational	73,816	71,784	52,361
Residential	547,333	863,276	760,537
Pub. Wks. & Ut.	205,639	250,395	190,515
All Other Classes	89,553	102,309	108,207
Total	$1,233,173	$1,555,676	$1,392,619

New construction work started in the metropolitan district during December last reached a total of $105,728,500, as compared with $149,884,000 for November, 1929, and $123,015,600 for December, 1928.

While contracts kept falling off, contemplated new work reported continued at a high level. The year's total was $2,400,389,800, against $2,409,582,900 for 1928.

During the last few months of 1929 there were several large projected improvements upon which work is likely to start some time this year. These include the Rockefeller development in midtown, to contain hotels, apartments, stores, offices, &c., and to cost about $98,000,000. The Triboro Bridge linking Queens, Manhattan and the Bronx and costing in the neighborhood of $25,000,000, is also a project of the year. A small contract has already been awarded on this item and more contracts will be let all through the twelve months. Another important linking project reported is the $60,000,000 Liberty Bridge to be erected across the Narrows and connecting Kings and Richmond.

In addition to the above-mentioned jobs, several large subway and other public work contracts are likely to be awarded.

SALES IN NEW JERSEY.

Bergen County Apartment and Lots Are Exchanged.

John Sarubbi and others of West New York have bought from Walter Alm of North Bergen the four-story Beaumont Apartments at 35-39 Seventh Street, North Bergen, taking in part payment a plot 100 feet square on the west side of Bergenline Avenue, opposite North Hudson County Park, North Bergen, and a plot 75 by 100 feet at the northwest corner of Kearny and Greenmont Avenues, in the Borough of Cliffside Park, Bergen County. The aggregate value of the realty involved was $160,000, according to J. I. Kislak, Inc., the broker. The apartment house is on a plot 75 by 100 feet, 100 feet east of Park Avenue.

Mr. Sarubbi is building inspector of West New York in addition to being a builder and an operator in North Hudson realty. Last month he acquired through the same broker an apartment house for twenty-five families at the northwest corner of Park Avenue and Thirty-first Street, North Bergen.

The City Investment Company sold to Louis Greenbaum a two-family dwelling at 229 Weequahic Avenue, Newark, and leased to Joseph Meyers, for a long term, a vacant plot at 288-92 Washington Street, near Branford Place, Newark, for a parking station. Krasner, Herman & Stavitsky, Inc., arranged the deals.

Sabina A. Stein sold through the same brokers a twelve-family house at 515-17 South Seventeenth Street, Newark, to Sydney A. Resh, a local resident.

ROCKLAND ACREAGE BOUGHT

A tract of 120 acres in Palisades, Rockland County, N. Y., has been assembled by the Perness Corporation for investment. The property fronts for about 10,000 feet on Piermont and Rappan Roads and Sylvan Boulevard. It was acquired in parcels of from two to thirty-nine acres from John Nichols Brown, Sophia Augusta Sherman and Robert H. I. Goddard of Newport, R. I., and Madeleine Marquise d'Andigne, Chateau de Monte, France, who had owned the property since 1874. Borg, Rusch & Boyd, Inc., represented the buyer and Brown & Post acted for the sellers.

Palisades, which overlooks the Hudson River and adjoins the New Jersey State line, is said to be one of the wealthiest villages per capita in the country. Among those who have established estates there recently are Thomas W. Lamont, Charles Nessler, John M. Perry, Richard Fox and Robert Hill.

A residence on the opposite side of the river, in Garrison, Putnam County, was sold by the Olcott estate to a buyer represented by Hamilton, Iselin & Co. and J. Pierre Schenck of Beacon. The house, which contains sixteen rooms and five baths, is on a plot of fourteen acres.

$4,000,000 WEST SIDE LOAN.

Prudence-Bonds Finance Central Park West Project—Other Loans.

A first mortgage of $4,000,000 has been made by the Prudence-Bonds Corporation to 1,081 Central Park West, Inc., Abraham Bricken, president, on the new twenty-story apartment house in course of construction on the blockfront of Central Park West, Seventieth to Seventy-first Streets. The loan was negotiated by the R. F. Brooks Company, as broker.

The new building will replace the Lorington and Barnard apartments, which were recently demolished. The architects for the project are Schwartz & Gross. Suites of six to fourteen rooms are to be included in the lay-out.

Other financing was as follows:

Manhattan.

Four and five story buildings at the northeast corner of East Eighty-eight Street and York Avenue, 141 by 125 feet, $300,000 first mortgage for the Glendon Realty Company, representing Alexander M. Bing and others; advanced by the New York Title and Mortgage Company; Hewson & Cottrell, brokers. It was said plans are being considered for improving the site with a large apartment house.

Four-story apartment house at 29 West Eighth Street, $52,000 first mortgage for the 29 West Eighth Street Corporation; Quinlan & Leland, brokers.

Westchester.

New three-story store and office building at northeast corner of New York Post Road and Mamaroneck Avenue, White Plains, $300,000; Richart & Haigh, brokers.

LEASEHOLDS LISTED.

Manhattan Properties Recorded Under New Control.

Rentals to be paid under leases recently arranged were revealed in the recording of the leases yesterday in the Register's Office.

The property at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-second Street, 50 feet on the avenue and 115 feet on the street, was leased by the Barclay-Arrow Holding Corporation, Frederick Brown, president, to William H. Minton for the term from June 1, 1928, to Feb. 28, 1949, the annual rental to be $167,500 in addition to all taxes and assessments. The lessee is entitled to two renewals of twenty-one years each, for which the annual rent is to be 5½ per cent of the value of the land plus $8,250, but never less than $167,500 net annually. This lease is subject to mortgages to the extent of $1,500,000 on the fee. On March 2, 1929, Mr. Minton sold this lease to the Plaza Investing Corporation, of which Michael H. Cahill is president, and on Dec. 30 the latter corporation assigned the lease to the Plaza Trust Company, of which Mr. Cahill is also president, with the consent of the owner, who also agrees to reduce the rent for the years 1930 and 1931 to $120,000.

The premises at 98 and 100 John Street, running through the block to 15 and 17 Platt Street, four four-story buildings, were leased by Frances L. Glover to the Pentaboro Realty Corporation, Samuel Friedenberg, president, for sixty-nine years and three months from Feb. 1, 1930. The net annual rental will be $25,000 until April 30, 1957, after which it will be 5¾ per cent of the appraised value of the land, plus taxes and assessments. Mr. Friedenberg intends to erect a twenty-two story building for insurance interests on the site. Brett & Wyckoff and the Charles F. Noyes Company arranged the lease.

It has been agreed by the Rhinelander Real Estate Company, T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, president, that the ten-year lease given to the 20 Fifth Avenue Hotel Company, Inc., David H. Knott, president, which was due to expire on Sept. 30, 1935, be abbreviated so that it ends on April 30, 1930. This lease covers the Berkeley House at 20 Fifth Avenue.

The lease of 240 East Forty-eighth Street, held by the Statewide Security Corporation, Stephen Yates, president, has been sold by this corporation to the 240 East Forty-eighth Street Corporation.

The Ninety-seventh Street Garage, Inc., Franz Tobias, president, sold its lease of 301-305 East Ninety-seventh Street to Charles I. Boxer and Louis W. Brandt.

Loretta V. McGeehan leased to Bertha and Hugo Gerish the building at 471 West 142d Street for five years from March 1, 1930, at $2,400 a year.

Rose Moscovici leased from the Paulane Realty Company, Inc., the building at 130 West 118th Street for six years from Oct. 1, 1929, at $2,100 a year. Mrs. Moscovici also leased 243 West 112th Street from Angelina Falchero for six years from April 1, 1930, the rent to be $2,000 per annum.

Suzanne E. Bartlett leased to Jean Macdonald and Mario Melerba the house at 140 West Thirteenth Street for ten years from the first of October last at a yearly rental of $3,600, with the option to purchase the property during this lease, or at its expiration, at a price to be agreed upon.

The Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation has assigned its lease of 8 and 10 Liberty Place to the Sinclair Building Company, Inc.

The four-story dwelling at 36 East Sixty-fourth Street was leased by M. M. Hayward & Co. for the Edgar A. Levy Leasing Company.

The lease covering the building at 1,518 Madison Avenue has been canceled and title is again in the name of Ludwig Traube.

ENLARGES 103D ST. SITE.

New York Academy of Medicine Buys Two More Houses.

The New York Academy of Medicine is enlarging its holdings at Fifth Avenue and 103d Street to provide for its program of future expansion, it was learned yesterday, when Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co., brokers, announced that they had sold to the academy the two five-story apartment houses at 12 and 14 East 103d Street.

A deed recorded on Monday showed that the academy had bought from Minnie P. Woodborough the five-story house at 10 East 103d Street. This parcel was also acquired through Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. All three structures occupy a plot 75 by 100 feet.

The plot controlled by the academy at this point now fronts 100 feet on Fifth Avenue and 275 feet on 103d Street. The adjoining realty on 102d Street is owned by Arthur Brisbane. Opposite the academy's site on 103d Street are the New York Museum and the Patrick Henry High School. Davis, Polk, Wardwell, Gardner & Reed, attorneys, represented the academy in its acquisition of the plot.

Investors Buy Brooklyn Houses.

The three-story double brick tenement house at 521 Lexington Avenue was sold by Charles Wulff to an investor. The building accommodates six families and was sold through Friday & Lehman, brokers, who also sold the three-story house at 23 Eldert Street for Olga Gonzaga to an investor.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. sold to Dr. Irving H. Pardee an apartment of nine rooms and four baths in the 100 per cent cooperative building being erected at 133 East Eightieth Street, northwest corner of Lexington Avenue, by the Calvin-Morris Corporation, from plans by Rosario Candela.

H. Christian Sonne of Amsinck Sonne & Co. leased through Beatrice Ecclesine the house of Mrs. Abby Morrison Ricker at 236 East Seventy-second Street for a term of months.

Assembles Pearl St. Plot.

J. S. and D. L. Reardon sold to a client of Joshua Bernstein 225 and 227 Pearl Street. Mr. Bernstein also obtained 231 to 235 Pearl Street and 118 and 120 John Street, which gives Mr. Bernstein's client a total plot of 9,000 square feet at the west end of this block, with frontages of 106 feet on John Street, 107 feet on Pearl Street and 59 feet on Platt. The Charles F. Noyes Company in conjunction with E. H. Ludlow & Co. negotiated the transaction.

Sells Staten Island Plots.

The Harmon National Real Estate Corporation has sold home sites in its Southgate development at Huguenot, S. I., to Edith R. Scofield, Margaret F. Warren, John J. Cordes, James F. Edwards, George H. Faber, Thomas J. Corcoran, Theodore J. Sherman, Alice T. McLaughlin, Florence B. Morrison, Richard M. Lyman, Emil R. King, John F. Haines, Peter F. Drummond and Charles F. Benson.

JOINED BY SUBWAYS
to Four Boroughs of Greater New York

For tenants of the new Lincoln Building, the City of Greater New York is virtually under one roof.

A direct entrance to the subway system gives swift and convenient access to all parts of the city. Regardless of weather conditions, tenants and their clients can come and go wherever the subways reach, without stepping out of doors.

No location gives more accessibility to more people within the city and without.

Excellent suites varying in size to suit your requirements, even to whole floors, are still available. Have your secretary write today for information and floor plans.

You are invited to visit the building. Elevators now running.

PERSHING SQUARE BUILDING

100 EAST 42nd STREET

From 580 to 18,000 sq. ft.—
A single office or an entire floor

A present tenant's need for more space than we have available and the necessity of moving to larger quarters early in 1930—places at your disposal five entire floors as well as several smaller offices in the Pershing Square Building.

This is an exceptional opportunity to secure some choice office space at the front door of Grand Central Terminal, in a building 100% rented practically from completion—possessing advantages of location, layout, light and service which have made it the first choice of leaders in many lines of business.

SALESMEN.
Let's Talk It Over.

YOU want 1930 to be a happy, prosperous year. To achieve this, you MUST have the RIGHT opportunity. If you are SERIOUS, and will follow our SUCCESSFUL Sales Plans EARNESTLY, we believe we have such opportunity.

CONSIDER THESE FACTS.

We are the LARGEST institution of our kind; starting our FIFTH successful year. Over 150 Salesmen (who have been with us for years) enjoy STEADY PROSPERITY and are advanced as rapidly as their ability warrants. This can be YOUR luck, too, IF you are EARNEST, AMBITIOUS and WILLING.

GROW WITH UNITED.

A position as an account executive in our Sales department is the stepping stone to big things. If selected, you will receive the RIGHT OPPORTUNITY to make good in a BIG way. A STEADY weekly commission income is assured in this, the most pleasant of all sales positions.
For a frank interview, call today between 10 and 12 A. M. at United Thrift Plan, 122 East 42d (7th floor, Chanin Bldg.).

MEN 50 YEARS OF AGE OR OVER.
I HAVE A GOOD JOB FOR YOU.

I do not care how much over 50 years of age you are, so long as you have a good reputation, are active and want to make money. I believe that the contacts men make with others over a long period of years, either in business or professional life, are an asset to them in the selling field which a younger man or a beginner would lack.

The years that you have lived coming into contact with human nature are golden—if you will only turn them to account. This is a salesman's most valuable asset. I'll give you an opportunity to capitalize it and teach you the fundamentals of selling in the worth-while field of real estate. The commissions are large enough for you to sustain yourself as a man of 50 or over should. You can now turn your lifetime's work in other fields to good advantage. I'll give a job to every man who qualifies, regardless of his age, and his income will be limited only by the hours he devotes to this pleasing and pleasant profession. Come and see me, no matter what your experience or past employment has been. I will interview you personally at 10 A. M. and 2:30 P. M. only.

HARRY LEVEY,
1,457 Broadway, New York, 10th floor.

SHIPBUILDING GAINS $70,000,000 IN 1930

CONGRESS ASKED TO AID

Says Legislation May Be Necessary to Award Mail Contracts to Speed New Construction.

The shipyards of the United States started the new year with unfinished business at hand worth $70,000,000 more than the total work at hand at the start of 1929, according to a bulletin issued yesterday to its members by the National Council of American Shipbuilders.

The value of unfinished business on hand Jan. 1, 1929, said the council, was $20,000,000 for the construction of merchant vessels and $30,000,000 for naval vessels. The year 1929 showed a marked improvement in orders for merchant vessels but contracts for only two naval vessels.

In contrast with the figures for the start of 1929, the unfinished business was approximately $90,000,000 for merchant vessels and $30,000,000 again for naval vessels as 1930 got under way, according to the survey of the council. This study covers the ocean-going field without an attempt to analyze, and does not consider the yards of the Great Lakes district.

Eight Built in 1929.

Only eight seagoing vessels of 1,000 gross tons or more were delivered in 1929 by American yards. They were the scout cruiser Salt Lake City, with geared turbines; the passenger vessel Pennsylvania, with turbo-electric drive; the colliers Berwindvale and Berwindglen, with reciprocating engines and pulverized coal equipment; the inter-island vessels Hualalai and Humuula, with geared turbine drive, and the tankers Blue Sunoco, with Diesel drive, and Tidewater, with Diesel electric drive. The other vessels were yachts, ferryboats, barges, car floats and other small craft.

Contracts awarded during the year for seagoing vessels of 1,000 or more gross tons and their approximate value were: Two scout cruisers, $21,000,000; six passenger vessels, $37,600,000; six combination vessels, $13,800,000; fourteen tankers, $23,455,000. Explaining the expansion of growth of certain types of vessels, the survey says that a 30 per cent ad valorem duty added in 1928 to the cost of yachts built abroad for Americans resulted in the construction of some of these at home.

The National Council calls upon Congress to make possible the further development of shipbuilding by legislation if necessary. It says:

"In his endeavor to carry out the spirit of the merchant marine act of 1928 the Postmaster General has encountered difficulties in applying the test of the act to contracts for the carriage of mails. It is hoped that these difficulties will be overcome without further legislation, but if legislation be necessary it is essential that it be enacted during the present session of Congress to facilitate the awarding of future contracts for ship construction."

Discussing the present situation and the immediate future the survey points out that the present volume of unfinished contracts is not sufficient to maintain the American yards at normal capacity. Even to maintain the present volume will involve an expenditure of at least $75,000,000 annually, it estimates.

Look to Mail Contracts.

"The probable award of new contracts for the transportation of mail," it says, "and the anticipated future order for oil tankers reasonably assure the yards of a substantial volume of new construction during the next two or three years. Beyond this period the principal volume of new construction will be contingent upon the replacement of the present cargo vessels employed in both the foreign and the coastwise trade.

"The necessity of providing cargo vessels for the direct foreign trade of the United States is so great that there is little likelihood of any demand for the construction of cargo vessels for what is generally known as the 'tramp trade.' Their future use appears to be possible only under joint ownership and operation with passenger and combination vessels.

"Therefore the future demand for cargo vessels for the foreign trade will come from owners operating passenger and combination vessels on established routes and to whom the shipbuilders will necessarily look for contracts for the construction of such vessels."

BAY WRECK INQUIRY ENDS.

Three Describe Sinking of Fort Victoria in Dense Fog Here.

The United States Steamship Inspection Service concluded the hearing of witnesses yesterday in its investigation to fix responsibility for the collision of the Clyde-Mallory steamship Algonquin and the Furness Bermuda Liner Fort Victoria which sunk the Fort Victoria near Ambrose Lightship in the outer harbor on Dec. 18.

The three witnesses questioned briefly by Captain G. T. Charlton, inspector of hulls, and William H. Powers, inspector of boilers, in the custom house, were Frederick W. Fendt of Ridgewood, N. J., harbor pilot of the Fort Victoria; James E. McCarthy, captain of the pilot boat New York, and Frederick Seeth, captain of the pilot boat Sandy Hook.

Mr. Fendt, who was leaving the Fort Victoria at the time of the crash, told of the dense fog in the lower bay which prevented sight of the Algonquin until a few moments before the collision, and Captains McCarthy and Seeth, on whose craft most of the passengers were taken from the sinking ship, also described the poor visibility. No date was set for a decision.

Liner Ends World Voyages.

The Dollar liner President Monroe arrived yesterday completing her last voyage around the world after operating in the service since 1924. The President Monroe will sail late this month for San Francisco for the California-Singapore service. The President Fillmore, now in Newport News undergoing repairs and renovation, will be put into the Dollar Line around-the-world service, sailing on the first voyage Jan. 15.

Holland America Line Cuts Fares.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 7.—In consequence of decisions of the North Atlantic Conference, passenger fares of the Holland-America Line since Jan. 7 have been somewhat lower. Return tickets are 12 per cent cheaper than on smaller ships.

AIRPORT BIDS ARE OPENED.

Dock Commissioner Michael Cosgrove, under the direction of Mayor Walker, opened bids at noon yesterday for eight hangars to be built at Floyd Bennett Field, the municipal airport at the foot of Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn. The estimated cost of the work, according to Commissioner Cosgrove, was $1,051,000. None of the bids opened yesterday was that low, however. Following are the bidders and the amounts:

James McWilliams, Inc.	$1,162,689
B. Turecamo Contracting Co.	$1,247,000
H. B. Greene, Inc.	$1,359,700
Welsh Brothers Contracting Co., Inc.	$1,297,000
P. T. Cox Contracting Co., Inc.	$1,146,500
Anthony Cianciulli	$1,171,300
Frederick Snare Corporation	$1,319,307
George F. Driscoll Company	$1,250,472
Lane Ogle, Inc.	$1,116,900
Johnson, Drake and Piper, Inc.	$1,208,354
Thompson-Leopold-Hewitt Engineering Co.	$1,406,000
William E. Anderson, Inc.	$1,298,081
P. J. Carlin Construction Company	$1,321,000
Northport Sand and Gravel Company	$1,141,108
Psaty and Fuhrman, Inc.	$1,286,435
J. F. Murphy Contracting Company, Inc.	$1,227,000
Del-Balso Construction Corporation	$1,278,843
Goldberg-Raabin Co., Inc.	$1,349,000
Rosoff Brothers, Inc.	$1,145,960
Woodcrest Construction Co., Inc.	$1,083,000
N. Shapiro & Sons	$1,243,620
De Riso Brothers	$1,643,280

The hangars will extend for a half mile along the Flatbush Avenue side of the airport. They will be built of steel and concrete and are to be fronted with a 200-foot concrete apron. Concrete will be laid between each hangar, it was said. Construction of the hangars is expected to be completed some time next Fall.

At yesterday's meeting of the Committee of the Whole of the Board of Estimate, Commissioner Cosgrove received approval of a supplementary request for $170,554.23 for top-soil and rolling and seeding the field.

ARMY FLIERS WANT SNOW.

Planes With Skis Start 3,500-Mile Flight in Northwest Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—For the first time in its history the Army Air Corps is waiting for bad weather. Major Ralph Royce and the pilots of the First Pursuit Group, who tomorrow will start the "Arctic Patrol," are craning their necks for signs indicating snow and low temperature.

Owing to the unusually mild Winter there is a noticeable absence of snow along the 3,500-mile line from Selfridge Filed, Mich., to Spokane, Wash., and return. Snow and ice are necessary in the flight as the planes are equipped with skis instead of wheels on landing gears.

"According to present indications," said Major Royce, commander of the flight, "twenty-one planes will take off tomorrow morning at 7:30 as scheduled. Absence of snow along the route, while a handicap, does not offer any great abstacle, because there will be ice for us to land on at nearly every place we will visit."

SHIP WRECKED OFF AFRICA.

Three of Limpopo's Crew Tramp 90 Miles to Get Aid.

LUEDERITZ, Southwest Africa, Jan 7. (AP).—Exhausted after a ninety-mile tramp along the coast north of here, the third engineer and two deckhands of the steamer Limpopo, 680 tons, have reached here, bringing news that the ship was wrecked on Jan. 1. Her crew numbered fourteen men.

The eleven remaining members of the crew were on the shore near the scene of the wreck but were reported by their companions as without water and in great difficulties. A harbor tug left this afternoon to take aid to the stranded men.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 7.—The disturbance that was central over California Monday night is advancing slowly eastward, with centre over Northern Arizona, and pressure remains low over the Rio Grande Valley and relatively low from Eastern Texas northeastward to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Another disturbance is moving quite rapidly southeastward over Alberta, Calgary, and still another is approaching Western Alaska. Pressure remains low from Hudson Straits eastward and northeastward over the Greenland-Iceland area. It is high elsewhere over North America and the Western Atlantic Ocean.

Precipitation will occur quite generally over the Washington forecast district, except the Florida Peninsula, within the next thirty-six hours. It will be in the form of rain in the Atlantic States and rain possibly mixed with sleet or snow in the Ohio Valley, the lower lake region, Tennessee and Northern New York and Northern New England.

The temperature will fall in the Ohio Valley, the lower lake region, Western Tennessee, Northern New York and Northern New England Wednesday and probably in the Appalachian region and the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States during Thursday.

FLEES FROM PARTY, IS KILLED IN FALL

SHE AND TWO OTHERS HELD

Two women and a man were held last night as material witnesses following the death of John Joseph McDuff, a civilian employed in the telegraph bureau of the New York Fire Department, whose body was found earlier in the day in the court yard of the Suburban Apartments at 430 East Sixty-fifth Street. He had been killed by a fall from the sixth floor fire-escape.

Those held were:

MISS ANNA BRADA, employed in the diet kitchen of Flower Hospital, who has an apartment at 430 East Sixty-fifth Street.

MATTHEW McCARTHY, a truck driver, of 429 East Sixty-seventh Street.

MRS. AGNES McCARTHY, his wife.

According to the police, Miss Brada gave a party in her apartment yesterday which was attended by Mrs. McCarthy, McDuff and a friend, known only as "Jack." In the afternoon McCarthy, who has not been working since New Year's, returned to his home. Finding his wife out, he went to Miss Brada's apartment seeking her.

He arrived at th eBrada apartment while the party was in full swing, but no one answered the doorbell when he rang. Hearing the sound of a phonograph, he decided to investigate, so he climbed to the roof of the apartment house and started to descend the ladder of the fire-escape outside the apartment.

Two Men Warned to Leave Party.

Meanwhile, Mrs. McCarthy had warned McDuff and the other man to leave. They climbed out upon the fire-escape and started up the ladder to the roof. Half way up they met McCarthy coming down. Both McDuff and his companion turned and started down again, but in his excitement, the police say, McDuff lost his footing and fell into the courtyard. His skull was fractured and he died instantly.

When the man known as Jack saw what had happened to McDuff he fled down the fire-escape and disappeared. McCarthy, the police say, climbed into the Brada apartment, got his wife and hurried home. Miss Brada, after straightening up the apartment, hurried off to work.

Meanwhile, other residents in the house who had seen the body telephoned the police. From Miss Anna Williams, another tenant, they learned that three men had been seen on the fire-escape. They questioned Miss Brada. She declared she had met McDuff last Summer while on vacation and that he was known to her as Joseph Burke.

First Story Related by Nurse.

She said he had telephoned to her yesterday afternoon and asked permission to visit her. She consented, she said, and a half hour later he arrived. Soon after, she said, she rebuked him for some of his actions. Then, she said, she heard the door bell ring and went to answer it. When she returned she found him gone and the window leading to the fire-escape open. Miss Braa said she thought McDuff had chosen that means of exit and paid no further heed to the matter.

When confronted with Miss Williams's story, however, Miss Brada admitted that her first story was false and told about the party. Detectives were sent to look for McCarthy and his wife. They did not find them. But later McCarthy walked into the police station and gave himself up.

McCarthy corroborated the revised version of Miss Brada's story and exhibited a swollen finger, which he said had been injured when he struck Miss Brada for not opening the door of her apartment when he rang the bell. An ambulance surgeon was called to dress the injured finger.

Detectives said they were satisfied that McDuff's death was accidental. However, they held Miss Brada and the McCarthys as material witnesses.

Get $1,500 in Indiana Bank Hold-Up

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Jan. 7 (AP).—Three unmasked men held up the Fairland National Bank, ten miles northwest of here, shortly after it had opened for business today and escaped with about $1,500. D. G. Gordon, bank cashier, and Robert Smith, owner of a store near the bank, exchanged shots with the men as they fled after the robbery and, it is believed, wounded one.

JAPANESE STUDENT DIES BY GAS IN ROOM

The Body of Kino Noda Found in Greenwich Village Apartment With 2 Jets Wide Open.

Kino Noda, 37 years old, who came here from Japan about ten years ago to become a student at Columbia, was found dead yesterday morning on the bed in his Greenwich Village apartment at 15 Minetta Street. Two gas jets in the tiny kitchenette were wide open.

Patrolman Alexander Malley, when told that the odor of gas could be detected in the corridor outside Noda's rooms, broke open the door. One wall of the room was lined with books. Opposite, on a table, stood an elaborate radio set. Otherwise the room was bare, except for a few odd pieces of old furniture.

At the Colonial Radio Corporation laboratory in Long Island City, where he had been employed as a development engineer in the radio frequency amplification field, Noda was described as a "skilled mathematician" and "one of our most valuable employes." He had apparently been contented in his work. There was speculation as to whether his remark, made on the afternoon before, that he would not report to work the next morning had any significance. Noda spent eight years at Columbia.

The body was taken to the morgue, but it will be claimed today by the Japanese Association, Inc., 1,775 Broadway. The body will be cremated and the ashes sent to Japan.

WOMAN TEACHER THWARTS KIDNAPPING

Telephones Mother of Boy for Whom Man Calls at School and Finds He Is a Stranger.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 7.—One of the teachers at the Smith College Day School foiled a would-be kidnapper yesterday and Robert McConnell, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McConnell, is happily unconscious of the fate he so narrowly escaped.

When a man who looked like a taxi driver called at the school and asked Miss Helen Burke, assistant teacher, for Robert, saying that Mrs. McConnell had sent for him, Miss Burke became suspicious, as the school had not been notified that the child was to be called for.

She told the man to wait while she telephoned Robert's mother, who answered she had not sent for the boy. During the telephone conversation the man disappeared and the police and detectives in Northampton are searching for him. His description has been sent to all near-by towns and cities.

The day school is an experimental school conducted by Smith College. There are about fifty pupils ranging in age from 5 years to high school age.

Thomas McConnell, grandfather of little Robert, and the boy's father have large mill interests in East Hampton. The parents live in the old George W. Cable home. They have offered a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the man.

THE MAGISTRATE RACKET

How far have the magistrate courts of New York City been undermined by politics, graft and underworld influence?

Spurred by the unsavory disclosures of the Vitale "hold-up" and the subsequent police revelations, the Evening Post has obtained through staff investigation a great deal of illuminating material on the conditions in these courts. Political influences, the "bail-bond rackets," the appointive selection of magistrates, the frustration of crime detection and the obstruction of honest officials present a picture of the sorry state of municipal justice.

* * *

The mass of information gathered has been woven into a number of interesting, elucidative articles by Milton MacKaye of the Evening Post staff. Under the title "The Magistrate Racket," these articles will be published beginning in tonight's Post.

Read this clear-cut revelation of the startling conditions under which these courts operate. Written without attempt either to disguise or over-emphasize.
